14017/B

Digitized by the Internet Archive in 2018 with funding from Wellcome Library

https://archive.org/details/b3052569x

25.253

THE Physical Dictionary.

WHEREIN

The Terms of ANATOMY, the Names and Causes of DISEASES, Chyrurgical INSTRUMENTS, and their Use, are accurately describ'd.

ALSO

The Names and Vertues of Medicinal Plants, Minerals, Stones, Gums, Salts, Earths, &c. and the Method of chusing the best Druggs: The Terms of Chymistry, and of the Apothecary's Art: The various Forms of Medicines, and the ways of Compounding them.

By STEPHEN BLANCARD, M. D.
Physick-Professor at Middleburgh in Zealand.

The Sixth Edition:

With the Addition of many Thousand Terms of Art, and their Explanation, (from the last and best Edition of Castellus's Lexicon Medicum) more than in any former Impression. Also a Catalogue of the Characters us'd in Physick, both in Latin and English, curiously Engrav'd on Copper.

LONDON,

Printed by R. B. for Sam. Crouch, at the Corner of Popes-Head-Alley, near the Royal Exchange in Cornhill, and John & Benj. Sprint, at the Bell in Little Britain. 1715.

WELLCOME HISTORICAL MEDICAL LIBRARY

THE PREFACE.

'TIS undoubtedly needleſs to trouble the Reader with a long Recommendation of a Treatiſe of this kind, the Uſefulneſs and Neceſſity of Dictionaries being very obvious to every one that is in the leaſt converſant with Books, or ſtudious to improve in any Art or Science; ſo that it would be altogether as pertinent to waſte Time in proving the Uſe of WORDS or SPEECH, without which Commerce betwixt Man and Man would in a manner ceaſe; and the Beaſts might as well converſe with one-another, and be full as ſociable as Men.

Nay, cou'd we as readily underſtand Men by their Words, as the Terms of Phyſick, Chirurgery, Chymiſtry, and Pharmacy by this Excellent and Faithful Interpreter, it were well for us: For, alas! ſome Men have ſo far deviated from the Primitive Inſtitution of Speech, that they may be better underſtood by any thing than their Words.

In ſhort, I count there are only Two things neceſſary to be mention'd, viz. the Condition of the Author, and the Uſefulneſs of the preſent Undertaking,

The Worthy Author is Physick-Professor at Middleburgh in Zealand, and is there, and every where else, Admir'd for his great Proficiency in Learning, and his assiduous Reading; and indeed, the perusal of so many Voluminous Authors as were used in compiling this one Treatise, would methinks tire any one but the Indefatigable BLANCARD.

As to the Usefulness of it; 'tis plentifully stored with all things us'd in the Commonwealth of Physick. Here Physicians may find the various Names of Diseases, and their Causes, the Terms of Anatomy, and the Vertues of Drugs and Medicinal Plants. Here Chirurgeons may learn the Name of Ulcers, and their Causes; the Names of their Instruments, and their Use. Apothecaries may here find the various Forms of Medicines, the Names of 'em, and the Method of compounding 'em; as also how to chuse the best Minerals, Plants, and Drugs. The Chymist may find the Terms of his Art; and the Druggist, the Names of the Countries from whence the best Drugs come.

To conclude, I must acquaint the Reader, That the Words are more orderly dispos'd, (the Capital Letters at the top of each Page rendring the Search for any Word much more easie) than in some of the preceding Editions. Many Thousand Terms of Art, with their Explication, are added to this Edition in particular, which has considerably swell'd the bulk of it; so that, upon the whole, it may be modestly affirm'd to be, The most Compleat Medicinal Dictionary now extant.

THE

These Characters following are frequently used by Physical Authors.

Acetum Vinegar ☥
Acetum Distillatum Distilld Vinegar ⚹
Aer Air △
Æs Cuprum venus, Brass Copper ♀
Æs ustum, Burnt Brass ♀
Alcohol Vini, Spirit of Wine Rectifyed ℥A
Alembicum, an Alembick XX
Alumen, Alum ○
Amalgama, a mixture of some metall with Mercury āāā
Ana, Each an, ā, āā
Antimonium, or Glass of Antimony ♁
Aqua Distillata, Distilld water ▽
Aqua Fortis ▽F
Aqua pluvialis, Rain water ▽P
Aqua Regia ▽R
Aqua vitæ ☿☿
Arena Sand ∴
Argentum luna, Silver ☾
Argentum viuum Quicksilver ☿
Arsenicum Arsnick ☍
Auripigmentū, Yellow Arsenick ☍
Aurum, or Sol, Gold ☉
Balneum arenosum a sand Bath AB
Balneum Mariæ vel Maris MB
A Distillation in Water BM
Balneum Vaporosum VB
A Vaporous Bath
Borax 𝒯
Calx, is a Chymical term for any Powder reduced to very fine parts by taking away its moisture C
Calx Viva, Quick Lime ♆
Caneer, one of the twelve Signs ♋ 69
Caput Mortuum, that which remains after Distillation ☠
Chalybs vel Ferrum et Mars Steel, Iron ♂

Cineres, Ashes ♇
Cineres, clarellati, Ashes of Vine Twiggs ♄
Cinnaberis, Cinaber ☥
Cornu cervi ustum, burnt Harts horn CCV. Cornu Cervi CC
Crocus Martis Safforn of Iron ♂
Crocus Veneris, Safforn of Copper ♁♀
Cucurbita, a Cucurbite ♁
Crucibulum, a Crucible ☥
Cuprum æs vel Venus Copper ♀
Destillare, to Distill ♋
Dies, a Day ☉
Dies et Nox a Day and Night ☉☾
Drachma, a Dram ʒ
Ferrum, Chalybs, Mars Iron, Steel ♂
Fiat, let it be done F.
Granum, a Grain gr
Gutta, a Drop gutt
Hora, an hour ♃
Ignis, Fire △
Ignis, Rotæ Sive Reverbrīs a reverberating Fire
Iupiter vel Stannum Tinne ♃
Libra, Ponda, a Pound ℔
Libra, Semis, half a Pound ℔ ss
Luna, Argentum, Silver ☽
Mars Chalibis, Ferrum Iron, Steel, ♂
Martis, Limatura filings of Steel ♂
Mercurius Argentum viuum, Quicksilver ☿
Mercurius præcipitatus Mercury precipitate ☿
Mercurius Sublimatus Sublimate ☿

Mensis, a month ♅
Mise, Mingle M
Nitrum, Nitre ☉
Nox, Night ☽
Obolus, half a Scruple ʒ
Oleum, Oyl ♁
Phiala, a Voial ℓ
Plumbum, Saturnus / Lead ♄
Præparare, to prepare PP℞
Præcipitare to precipitate ♎
Pulvis, powder ♃
Quantum, placet as much as you please q p
Quantum vis, as much as you will q V
Quinta Essentia Quintessence QE
Recipe, take ℞ 4
Regulus, Stellatus, Stared Regulus ✸
Regulus Antimonium Stellatus, Stared Regulus of Antimony ℟✸
Retorta, a Retort
Sal Alcali, An Alcali Salt ☈
Sal Armoniacum, Sal Armoniac ✳
Sal Commune, Common Salt ⊖
Sal Gemmæ ☈
Sal Nitre, vel Petre, Nitre or Salt Peter ☉
Sal Volatile, Volatile Salt ☋
Saturnus, Lead ♄
Scrupulus, A Scruple ℈
Secundum, Artem / according to Art s a
Semis, half ß
Sol, Aurum, Gold ☉
Spiritus, Spirit ☽ sp
Sp: vini Spirit of Wine ☿ sv

Sp: vini Rectificatus, Spirit / Spirit of wine Rectified sVR
Sp: vini rects Alchol / Spirit of Wine Alcolized sVA
Stella reguli Antimonii / Starry Regulus of Antimony ✸
Stratum Super, Stratum one vpon Another sss
Sublimatum, Sublimate ☿~
Sulphur, Brimstone ♆ ♆
Talcum, Talk X
Tartarum, Tartar ♆
Terra, Earth ♁
Tinctura, a Tincture ℟
Tutia, Tuttie ☉
Venus, Cuprum, æs / Copper, Brass ♀ V
Vinum, Wine
Viride æris Green Brass ⊕
Vitriolum, Vitriol ⊕
Vitrum, Glass ○
Vncia, an Ounce ♃
Volatile, Valatile ☋
Urina, Vrine ⊡

LONDON
Printed for Samuel Crouch
at the Corner of Popes Head Ally in Cornhill
and John Sprint
at the Bell in Little Brittain

THE

Physical Dictionary

Jupe's OF Book

Dr. BLANCARD.

A

A, or āa, see Ana.

A, āa, see Ana.

AABAM, by some Chymists signifies Lead.

Abaptiston, see Modiolus: It is deriv'd from the Privativ. Part. α and βαπτίζω, to dip.

Abaptiston, is properly understood for an Instrument to trepan with, call'd a Terebella.

Abalienatus, the same with Corruption, or a total waste of the Part.

Abarnabas, a Spagyrical term, us'd chiefly in the business of the transmutation of Metals.

Abarticulatio, or Dearticulation, see Diarthrosis; that is, that natural Union or Conjunction of the Bones by Jointing.

Abas, the same with Deafness.

Abbreviatio, or a way of Short-hand Writing us'd by Physical, and chiefly Chymical Authors.

Abditus, a hidden or secret Cause from whence it is difficult, or almost impossible, to understand a Disease.

Abdomen, the lowermost Belly, containing the Liver, Spleen, Reins, Stomach, Intestines, Bladder, &c. It is begirt with the Peritonæum on the inside; the foremost part is divided into the Epigastrium, the right and left Hypochondres, and the Navel; and the lowermost Region is call'd the Hypogastrium.

Abductio, a sort of Fracture, which makes the Bones thicker near the Joint.

Abductores Musculi, those Muscles which pull back the Arms, Legs, Eyes, &c. whose Opposites are call'd Adductores.

Abevacuatio, that is, a partial Evacuation.

Abies, call'd also Sapinus, the Fir-tree; the Branches and Tops are infused in Diet-drinks for the Scurvy, with very good success.

Abiga Herba, its Leaves are like those of the Fir-tree, whence it is also called Chamæpitys: It hastens Delivery.

Ablactatio, the Weaning of a Child.

Ablatio; this hath a threefold signification in Physick; the first is by an addition of what is wanting, the second is the time of Remission from a Paroxism, or Fit of Sickneſs ; the third is Chymical, and ſignifies an Abſtraction.

Abluentia, ſee Abſtergentia.

Ablutio, the waſhing of Chymical Medicines with Water, to cleanſe 'em from their Impurities; as likewiſe the Lye of Aſhes, and the waſhing off of the acrimonious or ſaline parts from calcin'd or diſſolv'd Matters, by Water.

Abomaſus, one of the Ventricies of Animals that chew the Cud, in which there are reckon'd four, Venter, Reticulum, Omaſus, and Abomaſus.

Abominatio, denotes a loathing of Food.

Abortus, Aborſus, Abortios, & Abortivum, ſignifie one and the ſame thing, an untimely Birth or Miſcarriage, which happens thro' divers Cauſes, inward and outward, by defect, ſuperfluity, or depravation of the nutritious Juice, by a Fall, Blow, Fright, ſudden Joy, diuretick Medicines.

Abrabax, a magical Word.

Abracadabra, a cabaliſtical word.

Abraſio, is a ſuperficial Exulceration of the Membranous parts, ſo that ſome Fragments follow it.

Abrotanum, Southern-wood, it is ſomewhat aſtringent and diſcutient ; reſiſts Putrifaction, cures the biting of venomous Creatures, kills Worms, and is good for the Jaundice and Mother-fits.

Abſceſſio, Ἀπόστασις, which is taken for a ſolution of Continuity that happens frequently in an imperfect Criſis, from the morbifick matter that moves to another part.

Abſceſſus, ſee Apoſtema.

Abſciſſio, or Abſciſſion ; this has a fourfold ſignification ; 1ſt, the exit or termination of a Diſeaſe by reaſon of the weakneſs of the Patient, or violence of the morbifick Cauſe when it exceeds the ſtrength of the Sick, which is properly mortal. 2dly, It ſignifies a kind of Fracture of the Bone, when one part is ſeparated from the other. 3dly, 'Tis call'd Abſciſſio from an interruption or ſuppreſſion of the Voice. 4thly, It is taken for a Chirurgical Operation when any Part is cut off.

Abſinthium, Wormwood : It ſtrengthens the Stomach, excites Appetite, and opens Obſtructions. Some derive its Name from the Abſinthii, a Nation of Pontus, others from the Greek.

Abſorbentia, all Alcalic Medicines, which qualifie and as it were drink up the acid Humors.

Abſtemius, he who abſtains from whatever Meats and Drinks his Phyſician has forbid him. Its Derivation is from Abs and temetum.

Abſtergentia, ſuch Medicines as conſiſting of rugged, hard, ſharp and pointed Particles, do as 'twere ſhave and ſcour off all filth from the Superficies, and the Pores and Paſſages of Bodies, according to their different motions. They are alſo call'd Abluentia, abſterſive Medicines.

Abſtinentia, a faſting from Meat and Drink.

Acacia, according to Dioſcorides, a Woody and Thorny Shrub, from the ripe Seed of which is expreſt a blackiſh Juice of the ſame Name, and a reddiſh or deep yellow when 'tis not ripe : But our Acacia, or Prunis Sylveſtris, is the Sloe-tree or Thorn-tree, the inſpiſſated Juice of whoſe Fruit is call'd Rob. Acacia.

Aca-

Acamatos, the beſt Conſtitution and Shape of human Body; alſo unwearied: He that performs any thing without Labour or Pain. From the priv. part. α and κάμνω, I work.

Acanaceæ, all Thiſtles that are prickly, and have Heads, are ſo call'd.

Acanos, is a Herb or Shrub with Prickles.

Acantabolus, or Acanthabolos, a Chirurgeon's Inſtrument, call'd alſo Volſella, like a pair of Pincers wherewith to take out any prickly Subſtance that ſhall chance to ſtick to the Oeſophagus or Gullet; alſo the Fragments of corrupted Bones, Bullets, Hair, or any thing that by chance remains in a Wound. 'Tis alſo us'd for that Inſtrument wherewith People pull out the Hairs from their Eyebrows.

Acantha, the moſt backward Protuberance of the Vertebres, call'd Spina Dorſi; as alſo the Thorn of Trees or Plants.

Acanthium, the ſame with Acanthus, a Thorn, Tree, or prickly Herb. Acanthium and Acantha ſignifie the ſame thing.

Acanthus, Bears-breech, ſo called from the reſemblance of its Leaves to the Bear's Paws.

Acarna, and Acorna, a prickly Plant. Theſe two words are confounded by ſome; for Acarna is properly the Laurel-tree, but Acorna a prickly Plant from ἀκὴ & ὄρνυμι a ſharp point.

Acaron, Butchers-broom; the Root is one of the five opening Roots; it's chiefly us'd for Obſtructions of the Liver, the Urine and the Courſes.

Acarus, an Animal very ſmall.

Acatalis is a Greek Word, ſignifying Juniper-berries.

Acathæſia, an Impurity of Humours not diſcharg'd by Purgation.

Acceleratores, the Muſcles of the Penis, from the upper part of the Urethra till it aſcends under the Os Pubis, which bind or conſtringe the Corpora Cavernoſa of the Urethra.

Acceſſio, ſee Paroxyſmus.

Accidens, ſee Symptoma.

Accipitrina, the Hawk-herb; ſee Hieracium.

Accipiter, a Hawk.

Accyſetum, is a Species of Alyſſon; ſee Alyſſon.

Acephalos, a Monſter without a Head.

Aceratos, a pure incorruptible Body.

Acerides, ſuch Plaiſters as are without Wax.

Acer, the Maple-tree: At the beginning of Spring, when the Buds grow big, but before they unfold themſelves into Leaves, this Tree being cut in the Trunk, Branches, or Root, yields plentifully, like the Birch-tree, a ſweet Liquor fit to be drank. 'Tis call'd Aceris by Solinus.

Acerbus, ſower.

Acervus, an heap.

Acerus, the ſame with Acer.

Acetabulum, Navelwort, the ſame with Umbilicus Veneris, having a round Leaf, but ſomewhat turn'd towards the end. It's cold and moiſt, and ſomewhat aſtringent; 'tis good for Inflammations and St. Anthony's Fire.

Acetabulum, that Cavity in the Hucklebone which is appointed to receive the head of the Thighbone within it. Alſo certain Glandules in the Chorion are call'd Acetabula, concerning which see Cotyledones.

Acetabulum was also call'd by the Ancients a certain Measure containing two ounces and half of Wine, and two ounces and two drachms of Oil.

Acetaria, Sallad-herbs, which are eat with Oil, Salt, or Vinegar.

Acetosa, Sorrel, an Herb of a sourish taste, whence it got its Name. 'Tis cold and dry, provokes Appetite, suppresses Choler and quenches Thirst; wherefore 'tis frequently us'd in Fevers.

Acetosella, a lesser sort of Sorrel, but of the same nature and kind.

Acetum, in general may signifie any acid Liquor, whence some call the Spirit of Salt, Nitre, Vitriol, &c. Acetum; but in Shops, and where 'tis mention'd simply, it only signifies Vinegar of Wine or Grapes. It is either natural, distill'd, or compounded with other Ingredients, as Vinegar of Roses, Elder, &c.

Acetum Alcalictum, is distil'd Vinegar, which is saturated and sharpned with its proper Alcali, Salt.

Acetum Philosophicum, is an Acid distill'd from Honey.

Acetum Radicatum, the sharpest part of the Vinegar, which has its Phlegm drawn off, and afterward strengthen'd with its own Salt; whence by some it is also call'd the Alcaliz'd Vinegar.

Achamenis, is a sort of Polium, see Polium.

Achariſtum, a Confection against Catarrhs from a cold Cause and difficulty of breathing.

Achatites Lapis, 'tis said that it expels Trouble of the mind. Some derive its Name from Achates, a River in Sicily, where it was found at first.

Achalais, a sort of Barley.

Achillea & Achilleus, see Millefolium.

Achlys, a certain dark Distemper of the Eye, which is reckon'd amongst the Species of Amblyopia or Dimness of Sight.

Achmadium, Achman, or Achiman, signifies Antimony.

Achne denotes Lint, or the gumminess of the Eye, or sometimes 'tis taken for the Spume of the Sea, or the subtile Froth of Water.

Achor seu Cerea, a Species of the Herpes; a sort of crusted Scab, which makes an itching and stink on the surface of the Head, occasion'd by a serous, salt, and sharp matter. The difference between an Achor and Favus consists in this, that in Achors the Holes or Cavities are small, and sometimes not visible, but in a Favus they are more large and conspicuous.

Achoriſtos, that is inseparable, call'd so from the Accidents, Symptoms, and Signs which always attend a Disposition agreeable to, or against Nature; so softness to a humid Body, or hardness to a dry one, are said to be inseparable.

Achroi, Men that have lost their natural Colour, as melancholy Persons, Men of an ill habit of Body, and such as are troubled with the Jaundice, &c.

Acia Celsi, the same with Fibula Chirurgorum.

Acida Dyspepsia, see Despepsia.

Acidulæ, see Balanæum.

Acidulæ, medicinal Springs, or mineral Waters, from Nitre, Allum, Allum, Sulphur, &c.

Acidus, ſharp.

Acies, Iron or Steel, as uſed in Medicine.

Acineſia, the Immobility of the whole Body, or any part thereof, as in a Palſy, Apoplexy, Swooning, &c.

Acini, ſmall Grains; whether they grow by themſelves as Elderberries, or be ſhut up in a Husk as Grapeſtones; nay, ſometimes they are taken for the Grapes themſelves. It is call'd Acinus by Columella; the ſmall Kernels, which are ſcarce viſible, as well in the Liver as in the Skin, &c. are alſo call'd Acini glanduloſi.

Aciniformis Tunica, the ſame with the Tunica Uvea of the Eye.

Acinus vel Aconos, ſee Ocimaſtrum.

Acipenſer, a ſort of Fiſh.

Acmaſtica Febris, the ſame with Synochus, from ἀκμάζω, I encreaſe.

Acmaſticos, which is the ſame with Homotonos, is a Species of a Synoch Fever, which preſerves the ſame Effervеſcence or Heat to the end: It is call'd Epacmaſtica. It continually encreaſes; and on the contrary, Paracmaſtica when it decreaſes.

Acme, the height of a Diſeaſe; many Diſtempers have four Periods, the firſt is call'd ἀρχὴ, or the Beginning, when the matter is but yet raw, as it were unripe; the 2d is ἀνάβασις, the growth or encreaſe, when the morbifick matter becomes a little digeſted and ripened; the third is ἀκμὴ, when 'tis fully and compleatly ſo; and then it is that the Patient, for want of ſufficient ſtrength, dies. The fourth is παρακμὴ, or the Declenſion of a Diſtemper, when its Rage is abated, and the Patient judg'd beyond Danger, for none die in the declenſion of a Diſeaſe. Acme ſignifies likewiſe the utmoſt Vigour and Strength of a Man.

Aconitum, Wolf bane or Monkshood, commonly grows on barren Rocks, where there is no Earth.

Acopon, or Acopum, every thing whereof is call'd ſo that removes Wearineſs.

Acopum, a Fomentation or Ointment of warming and mollifying Ingredients, which allays the ſenſe of Wearineſs, contracted by a too violent motion of the Body.

Acorna, ſee Acarna.

Acorum, and Acorus, a ſort of Flag; it is ſaid to be a good Remedy againſt the dimneſs of the Eyes. In the Apothecaries Shops the Calamus Aromaticus goes by that Name alſo.

Acoſmia, an ill ſtate of Health, accompanied with the loſs of Colour in the Face.

Acouſtica, Medicines which help hearing, or againſt Deafneſs.

Acrai, an Arabick Word denoting a Titillation of the Genitals in both Sexes, more frequently in Women, with a ſpaſmodick tenſion of the Spermatick Veſſels, an Inflation of the Belly, alſo cold Sweats.

Acraſia, the Intemperature or predominancy of one Quality above another in their mixture. It alſo ſignifies Incontinency about Eating and Drinking, as alſo about other things that are Non-Naturals: In ſome places it ſignifies a Debility or Impotency, and there it falls in with the Word

Acratia, which ſignifies Impotency, Weakneſs, and Inability; and ſometimes it is taken for an Exceſs, and there falls in with Acraſia, Incontinence; as when too inordinate a Deſire overcomes the Man.

Acratiſma, a kind of Breakfaſt among the ancient Grecians of dry'd Bread.

Acriſia, when a Diſtemper is in ſo uncertain a condition that a Phyſician can hardly paſs a right Judgment upon it.

Acrochordum, a ſort of Warts very painful, round, and ſmall at the bottom, call'd Verruca penſilis, or a hanging Wart. It ſignifies alſo a Wart under, and of the ſame colour with the Skin.

Acromium, the upper Proceſs or encreaſe of the Shoulder-blade or the top of the Shoulder, where the Neck-bones are join'd with the Shoulder-blades.

Acromphalum, the middle of the Navel, whereunto is faſtned the Navel-ſtring of the Child whilſt in its Mothers Womb. 'Tis call'd alſo Acromphalium.

Acros, the height and vigour of Diſeaſes, and of Men. It ſignifies alſo the Prominency of Bones, the tops of Fingers, and of Plants.

Acroteriaſmos, a cutting off by a Saw any of the extream parts of the Body that are corrupted, of which the Bones are periſh'd; a Chirurgical Operation in the Gangrene and Sphacelus.

Acte, Elder; ſee Sambucus.

Actio, an Operation or Function, which Men perform either by the Body alone, or by both Body and Mind; and it is either Voluntary or Spontaneous; Voluntary, is that which depends upon the Will, as Seeing, Walking, Running, &c. Spontaneous, which depends not upon the Will, as the circulation of the Blood, the beating of the Heart and Arteries, &c.

Actualis Ignis, ſee Ignis actualis.

Aculei, Thorns or Prickles, the pointed Extremities of Vegetables, which if touch'd, occaſion a Pain.

Acuere is us'd by the Chymiſts in this ſenſe, viz. when a weak Liquor is made more penetrating and fit for diſſolution by a ſtronger; for inſtance, Spirit of Salt quickens Juice of Citron, and Spirit of Nitre diſtill'd Vinegar, for the diſſolution and preparation of Magiſteries; and Suppoſitories are quickned by Scammony and ſuchlike things.

Acula, is a diminutive from Acus

Acumen, hath various Significations, but when us'd in Anatomy, the Acumen of the Os Sacrum is taken to be the Os Coccyx itſelf, according to Deventer.

Acus, Chaff.

Acus, ſo call'd from the figure of a Needle, which the Sheath of ſome Seeds repreſent.

Acus, this alſo belongs to a Chirurgical Inſtrument, and hath various Uſes, as the Couching Needle, which is us'd to remove Suffuſions or Cataracts in the Eyes; the Interpunctory ones, which pierce the Skin in Dropſical Humours, &c. call'd Anaſarca.

Acutella, that is Ononis.

Acutus Morbus, an Acute Diſeaſe, is that which is over in little time, but not without imminent danger; and it is either very acute or moſt acute; the latter is meant when the Diſtemper is over in 3 or 4 days; but the former is that which continues till the 7th day.

Or

Or elſe a Diſeaſe is call'd ſimply acute when it laſts 14, or it may be 20 days; or laſtly, acute ex decidentia, which laſts 40 days at moſt. Livius calls it Percelaris, becauſe it either kills or cures.

Adamas, a Stone ſo call'd from its hardneſs, or a Diamond.

Adarce, Adarcion, Adarcus; as to its ſubſtance, 'tis like the concreted Froth of ſalt Water ſticking to Sticks and Straws. It is very acrid and hot, and by reaſon of its venomous quality, is impoſſible to be taken inwardly; it may be us'd outwardly mixt with other things. At this day it is call'd Balla Marinum.

Additamentum, Epiphyſis, the Proceſs of the Ulna, or the inferior Cubit-bone.

Additio, the ſame with Appoſitio, or the adding any thing by Art which is deficient.

Adductores Muſculi, the contracting Muſcles; ſee Abductores Muſculi.

Aden, a Glandule, which is either conglobated, as the Glandules of the Meſentery, or of the Groin, and the Pinealis, whoſe Office is to diſpenſe the ſeparated Humours to the Veins; or conglomerated like a Cluſter, as the Salival Glandules, the Pancreas, or Sweetbread, &c. which convey their Juice by their own proper Channels, into ſome notable Cavities of the Body. They are made up of ſeveral little Bladders and Fibres, or little hollow Conduits, diſpos'd in a confus'd manner. Aden ſometimes alſo ſignifies the ſame with Bubo.

Adephagia, the Greedineſs of Children, who e'ry now and then fall to freſh feeding, before their former Victuals are digeſted.

Adeps, or Pinguedo, Fat, is a ſimilar part, made of earthy and ſulphureous Blood, white, ſoft, inſenſible, apt to preſerve natural heat and nouriſh the Body in time of need. Adeps and Pinguedo differ in this, that Adeps is a thicker, harder, and more earthy Subſtance than Pinguedo. The Fat which is particularly meant by Adeps, flows from the Blood thro' peculiar Veſſels, into little Bags or Bladders appropriate thereunto; as is plain from the Obſervation of Malpighius.

Adepti, Chymical Philoſophers, ſuch as actually have, or pretend to have the Philoſopher's Stone.

Adianthium, Maidenhair; it removes the tartareous and viſcous Mucilage that is contain'd in the Lungs; and therefore 'tis good for thoſe that have Coughs and ſhort Breath, and for thoſe that have Pain in the Sides, Kidneys or Bladder.

Adiapneuſtia, is when the natural perſpiration thro' the inſenſible Pores of the Body is ſtopt, impair'd or aboliſh'd. It is alſo the primary cauſe of Fevers, when the fuliginous Effluvia cannot exhale thro' the habit of the Body by the cutaneous, but are forc'd to return to the maſs of Humors, producing unnatural Heat and Diſorders in the Blood.

Adib is the name of an Animal whoſe Liver is commended by Avicen in all Weakneſſes of the Liver.

Adipoſi Ductus, ſee Sacculi adipoſi.

Adipſi, things that quench thirſt.

Adjutorium Os, ſee Humerus; ſo called, becauſe it is very inſtrumental in lifting up of the Arm.

Adnata Tunica, the common Membrane of the Eye, called Conjunctive. It ſprings from the Scull, grows to the exterior part of the Tunica Cornea; and that the viſible Species may paſs there, leaves a round Cavity forward, to which is annexed another Tunic, without any particular Name, made up of the Tendons of thoſe Muſcles which move the Eye. By reaſon of its Whiteneſs, it's called Albuginea.

Adnata, or Adnaſcentia, ſive Appendices. Branches which ſometimes ſprout out of the Stalk.

Adonis Flos, Adoni's Flower.

Ador, ſemen Adoreum, ſee Zea.

Ad pondus omnium, ſignifies that the laſt preſcrib'd Medicine ought to weigh as much as all the other Medicines preſcrib'd before; as for inſtance, Crabs-Eyes and Antimony, Diaphoretick, of each half a dram; of Sugar, as much as the Weight of the whole, i. e. one dram.

Adra, Rhiza, 'tis a hard and thick Root, commonly underſtood of the Ariſtolochia.

Adrachine, ſee Andrachne.

Adrop is a Spagyrical term, denoting either the very Body, or that Lead out of which Mercury ought to be choſe for the Philoſopher's Stone.

Adſtrictoria, ſee Aſtringentia.

Ægagropilus, a Ball of Hair or Wool made or form'd in the Stomach of the Rock Goats, of an Oblong, rarely of a round Figure, conſiſting of a double Subſtance, the interior of which looks like Fibres of Roots, or the Filaments or Threads from the concreted Juice of Plants; the outward part, like a Leather Skin, reſembling ſometimes a woody Bark, ſometimes a ſtony Cruſt, of an Aſh or black Colour, and of various Sizes; and this Experience hath prov'd to be Medicinal in various Caſes.

Æger, the Sick.

Ægilops, Angilops, and Anchylops, is a little Swelling about the Glandule of the Eye, called Caruncula major, for the moſt part accompanied with an Inflammation. Anchylops and Ægilops are often uſed indifferently; yet ſome for diſtinction's ſake ſay, that Anchylops is a Swelling betwixt the greater corner of the Eye and the Noſe, not yet open; but that Ægilops is a Swelling betwixt the Noſe and Angle of the Eye, which if it be not ſeaſonably open'd, the Bone underneath grows putrified. Ægilops is often taken for the Fiſtula Lachrymalis.

Ægilops, an Herb which is ſaid to cure the Diſeaſe of the Eyes, called Ægilops.

Ægoceros, Fœnum Græcum.

Ægolethron, a certain Crowfoot, called Flammula.

Ægyptiacum Unguentum, is a very cleanſing Medicine for Ulcers. It is improperly call'd an Ointment, ſince there is neither Oil or any other fat Subſtance in its Compoſition.

Æipathia, a Paſſion of long Continuance.

Æigleuces, a ſort of ſweet Wine like Muſt, which is made from Muſt, by Fermentation in ſtone Bottles in the heat of the Sun.

Æquilibrium, a Mechanical term, ſignifying Equality of Proportion in ſolid or fluid Bodies, whether in Motion or Reſt.

Aer Ingenitus or Innatus, is that which is contain'd betwixt the Membrane of the Tympanum, and the the Tympanum it ſelf.

Æreolus, a Greek Weight, equal to two of our Grains.

Aeromeli, Manna, or Aerial Honey, ſee Manna.

Æroſis, is an Attenuation of the Blood, and reſolution or ſubtilizations of it into a Vapour, for the continuation of the vital Spirits, and the Nutrition of the vital Flame.

Æruginoſa Bilis, ſee Bilis.

Ærugo ſive Viride Æris, is when Copper is reduc'd into a green and friable Subſtance by Acids; Verdigriſe.

Æs, Copper is a Metal harder than Lead, ſofter than Iron, conſiſting of Sulphurous, Mercurial, and Saline Parts.

Æſchos, ſignifies Deformity, eſpecially of the Body, or any particular Limb.

Æſchynomene, the Herb called Noli me tangere.

Æſculus, or rather Eſculus, a Tree that bears Maſt.

Æſtuarium, the ſame that Vaporarium.

Ætas, part of the Duration of Life, wherein humane Bodies undergo a conſiderable and ſenſible Change. And it is Sixfold. 1. Pueritia, Childhood, which is reckoned to the Fifth Year of our Age, is diſtinguiſh'd into the time before, at, and after breeding of Teeth. 2. Adoleſcentia, Youth, reckon'd to the Eighteenth, and Youth properly ſo call'd to the Twenty-fifth Year. 3. Juventus, reckon'd from the Twenty-fifth to the Thirty-fifth. 4. Virilis Ætas, Manhood, from the Thirty-fifth to the Fiftieth. 5. Senectus, Old-age, from Fifty to Sixty. 6. Decripita Ætas, Decripit Age, which at laſt is all ſwallow'd up in Death.

Æthales, the Herb Semper Vivum, ſo called, becauſe 'tis always Green.

Æthiopis, an Herb with very downy Leaves, brought into Europe out of Æthiopia.

Æthiops, Mineral, is a Preparation with one part of Quickſilver, and two parts of Flower of Sulphur, well mix'd together; and the Sulphur being burnt from the Quickſilver, there remains a black Powder, which ſome make uſe of in the Venereal Diſeaſe, from two to eight Grains.

Ætiologica, is a part of Medicine, explaining the Cauſes of Diſtempers.

Ætiologia, the Cauſe or Reaſon which is given of Natural and Preternatural Contingencies in Humane Bodies; whence Pars Ætiologica is that part of Phyſick which explains the Cauſes of Diſeaſes and Health.

Ætites, a Stone which, when ſhaken, is as it were pregnant, another ratling within it; of which there are four ſorts. The Firſt is ragged on the outſide, of divers Colours, but inclining to black; it has within it the Stone call'd Collimus. The Second is of an Aſh-colour, containing a kind of Clayiſh Subſtance. The Third has Earth within it: To theſe Three Pliny adds the Fourth, called Taphuſius, unknown to us in our Days. The Firſt grows in the Eaſtern Countries, ſeldom exceeding the bigneſs of a common Plumb: The Second and Third are found likewiſe near Sweinfurt in Germany, being of the bigneſs of a Fiſt. It is call'd alſo Lapis Aquilæ, becauſe it is often found in the Eagle's Neſt.

Affectio

Affectio Nephritica, see Nephritis.

Affectio Colica, see Colicus dolor.

Affectio Hysterica, see Hysterica Passio.

Affectio Cœliaca, see Cœliaca Passio.

Affectio Hypochondriaca, see Hypochondriacus affectus.

Affectus, the same with Pathema.

Affeos for Aphros, that is, Froth.

Affidra, that is, Ceruse.

Affion, the same with Opium.

Affusio, signifies the Infusion of any Liquor into another thing, or concretively is taken for, and answers to the Parenchyma, sometimes for a Suffusion or Cataract of the Eye.

Affricanus Flos. See Tunetanus Flos.

Agalactia, want of Milk.

Agallochum, Wood of Aloes. It is commonly brought to us in small pieces. If burnt, it yields an Aromatick and sweet Fume. It is reckon'd very good if it swims upon the Water, notwithstanding its Ponderosity. It grows in the Isle of Sumatra, and divers parts of China. See Rhodium Lignum.

Agar, Calx, Lime, or Chalk.

Agaricus, or Agaricum, Agaric; a whitish Fungus, growing upon the Trunk of the Larch-Tree. There is a Male and a Female; but the last is only made use of. It ought to be white, light, and easily crumbled. It comes from Italy, and grows in Sarmatia, especially in that part call'd Agaria.

Agathon, commonly signifies Good, Excellent, or Useful; in a stricter sense it stands for Firm, Stable, Certain, and Perpetual.

Ageratum, is an Herb called Maudlin, it agrees in Virtue and Temperament with Costmary.

Agerasia, a vigorous Old-age.

Agglutinatio, hath a double Signification, one proper, and signifies the same with Glutination, when one Body is join'd to another by Glew; the orher improper, when Addition of new Flesh is made by the Benefit of a nutritious Juice, as in Ulcers: Hence an Agglutinating Medicine is that which is requir'd to the healing of an Ulcer, and ought to be drying and astringent.

Aglossostomographia, that is, a Description of a Mouth without a Tongue that speaks perfectly.

Agme, see Fractura.

Aggregativæ Pilulæ Mesue, the Inventer of these Pills thought they work'd on all Humours.

Agnata Tunica, the same with Adnata.

Agnus Castus, the Chaste-Tree, from ἁγνός, i. e. without Seed; because they believ'd it to suppress the Imaginations of Venery. It is good for those that are troubled with the Spleen and Dropsy; it increases Milk, and provokes Urine.

Agoge, hath a double Signification, General and Special, it denotes the Order, Way, Reason, whole Course, State, and Condition of any thing.

Agompiasis, see Gomphiasis.

Agonia, Fear and Sadness of Mind, an Agony.

Agonia, Barrenness or Impotence, either in the Seed, Womb, or Genital Parts of both Sexes.

Agrestа, see Omphacium.

Agria sive Agrifolium, Holly; the Berries are useful in Cholick, for they purge gross and pituitous Humours by Stool, ten or twelve being taken at a time; the Prickles kles of the Leaves boil'd in Posset-drink, wonderfully ease the Cholick, and Pains in the Bowels.

Agriacantha, a sort of wild Carduus.

Agrielæa, wild Olives.

Agrifolium, the Holly-Tree with prickled Leaves.

Agrimonia, Aggrimony, it cleanses and strengthens the Blood, and opens Obstructions of the Liver; wherefore 'tis good in Dropsies, for an ill habit of Body, and the Jaundice, the Leaves being infused in ordinary Beer or Ale.

Agrimonoides, a sort of Agrimony.

Agriocardamum, a sort of Water-Cresses.

Agriocastanum, Earth-Nut, our Country People eat the Root raw, but when it is peal'd and boil'd in fresh Broth, with a little Pepper, it is pleasant Food, and very nourishing; it helps those that spit Blood, and void a bloody Urine.

Agriocinara, wild Artichoke.

Agriococcimelea, wild Prunes.

Agriomelea, a sort of wild Quinces.

Agrion, see Peucedanum.

Agriopastinaca, Saxifrage of Candia.

Agriophyllon, Peucedanum.

Agrioriganum, wild Origanum.

Agrioselinum, a sort of Crowfoot

Agriostari, a sort of wild Wheat.

Agrostis, a sort of Grass.

Agrippa, one who is born with his Feet foremost.

Agrypnia, five Pervigilium, aut Vigiliæ Nimiæ, & Coma Vigil, is when People live without Sleep for a considerable time, or frequent Watching, or dreaming Slumber; which proceeds from some disorder in the Brain; and is frequently observ'd in Fevers.

Agrypnocoma, disorderly sleeping is most properly the same that Coma Vigil.

Agynos, Agnus Castus.

Agyrta, Circulator, Circumforaneus, a Mountebank; one who vends his Empyrical Receipts to the Rabble.

Ahenum, a Copper or Brass Kettle, for boiling, preparing, and distilling of Medicines: It is also call'd Cucuma.

Aipathia, or Æipathia, perpetual Patience.

Aigine, the same with Caprifolium.

Aigipyrus Ononis.

Aigiros, the Poplar-Tree.

Aisthesis, or Sense, is either External, as Seeing, Hearing, Smelling, Taste, and Touch, unto which some add, Hunger, Thirst, and Venereal Appetite; or Internal, as the Common Sensory (as 'tis usually call'd) the Fancy, the Estimative Faculty, and the Memory; but two of them will serve the turn, the Fancy and the Memory. Aisthesis, or Sense, is a Reception whereby Motion from External Objects being impressed upon the slender Strings or Fibres of the Nerves, is communicated to the common Sensory, or to the beginning of the Medulla Oblongata in the Brain, by the Mediation or continued Motion of the Animal Spirits in the same Nerves.

Aisteterium, the common Sensory; which Des-Cartes places in the Glandula Pinealis, but Willis about the beginning of the Medulla Oblongata (or Top of the spinal Marrow) in the Corpus striatum.

Ajuga, see Iva, and Abiga.

Aizoon, a sort of House-Leek.

Al, is an Arabic Particle, which is often put to Words, to exalt the Thing, as in Alcali, Alchymy, Alchandal, Alkekengi, and the like.

is

Alæ, the sides of the Nose, the little Fins as it were of the Nymphæ, or the Lips of a Woman's Genitals; the upper part of the Ear, the Armpits, and the process of the Bone Sphenoides.

Alabandicus lapis, is a brown yellow Stone, shining as it were with Segments, and distinguish'd by breaks and cracks: Hence it is called by some an Alabandic Carbuncle.

Alabari, signifies Lead.

Alabastri, the green Leaves of Herbs, which enclose the Flowers before they are spread. Alabaster, or Alabastrites, is also a certain sort of Marble Stone, but much softer, from whence it is call'd undigested or imperfect Marble. If it be so soft as to be cut with a Knife, it is call'd Gypse. It is one of the Ingredients in the Unguentum Alabastrinum.

Alacab, Sal-Armoniac.

Alacuoth, he is call'd in Arabick who in the Venereal Coition excerns by Siege from a Resolution or Weakness of the Spirits.

Alasi, that is, Sal Alkali.

Alantoides, see Allantoides.

Alarea Ossa, are the Pterygoid processes of the Sphænoid Bone.

Alares Musculi, see Pterygoides.

Alastar, or Æs ustum, burnt Copper.

Alaternus, a small Tree that is always Green.

Alatus Pterygodes, call'd so from such as have their Scapula's prominent backwards, and stick out like Birds Wings; which is a dangerous Sign of a Consumption, by reason of the narrow and vicious Conformation of the Breast.

Albadara, an Arabian Word, and signifies the largest Bone of the Great Toe, at the top of the Metatarsus.

Alba Pituita, the same with Leucophlegmatia.

Albaras Nigra, see Lepra Græcorum. Albaras alba, see Leuce.

Albatio, the same with Albificatio, a Spagyrical term, relating to the Transmutation of Metals, especially of Copper into Silver.

Albinum, see Cudweed.

Albuginea oculi, a white Tunic of the Eye, which proceeds from the Pericranium, grows to the Tunica Cornea, and leaves a hole forward for the opening of the Apple of the Eye. See Tunica adnata. The Skin which immediately contains the Testicle is also call'd Albuginea, from its white Colour.

Albugo oculi, the same with Album oculi, the White of the Eye. It signifies also a white Speck in the Tunica Cornea, which proceeds either from Humours, a Scar, or Ulceration.

Album Canis, white Dog's-turd.

Album oculi, that part of the Eye where the Tunica adnata, and the Albuginea grows to the Tunica Sclerotes, the White of the Eye.

Album Rhasis, an Ointment called by the Author's Name, and from its white Colour.

Albumen oculi, or Albugo, the same with Album oculi.

Alburnum, the soft and worst part of the Wood next the Bark.

Alcahest, or Alkahest, 'tis said to be the general Resolvent, Everlasting, and Immutable, which reduces every visible Body into a Liquor of its own Concrete, preserving the Power of its Seeds, and its its natural Essential Form whole. This is very great, if the Effect be answerable, and yet every one attributes the same to his own Process. Some take it for Mercury prepar'd, others for Tartar; but whether there were ever such a Liquor, or such an universal Menstruum, I much doubt.

Alcali, all such Salt, without an Acid, as is extracted from the Ashes of any Substances by a boiled Lixivium or Lie. 'Tis said to borrow its Name from the Herb Kali, with whose Salt the Egyptians, as well as we, make Glass. Our Glass-makers call it Souda: It soon ferments, if mix'd with an Acid. Alcali is of three sorts: The Volatile Alcali, such as is drawn out of living Creatures, as that of Harts-horn, Urine, &c. The fix'd Alcali is that extracted from the Ashes of Vegetables, as the Salt of Worm-wood, Tartar, &c. The Metallick and Rocky Alcali, because Metals and Stones will ferment with, and be dissolv'd by Acids. Unto these some add mix'd Alcali's, as Nitre, Allom, all sorts of Vitriols, &c.

Alcalisatio, is when, for instance, Spirit of Wine is impregnated with some Alcali, so that the Menstruum may become more dissolvent.

Alcaol, is Lac acetosum, or Quicksilver.

Alce alces, that is, Force and Strength, from a Creature of excellent Strength of that Name.

Alcea Vervain, Mallow, 'tis reckon'd amongst Emplastick and Emollient Medicines; and as it is like, so it agrees in Virtue with the Mallow. It is deriv'd from ἀλκὴ, Strength, Vigour; because it is judg'd a most powerful Remedy in the Dysenterie and Ruptures.

Alcedo, a sort of Bird that breeds in the Sea.

Alchitrum, is Oyl of Juniper, liquid Pitch; and also signifies Arsenick prepar'd by washing.

Alchytram, is call'd the Fæces of Distillation.

Alchymia, or Alchemia, relates chiefly to Transmutation of Metals, for the rest is the same with Chymia.

Alchymilla, Ladies Mantle, 'tis an excellent Wound-herb, 'tis hot and dry, and astringent; it stops bleeding; the Leaves, the Tops, and the Roots are used in vulnerary Potions, Powders, Plasters, and Ointments: 'Tis also call'd Pes Leonis, from its round and broad Leaves, like the Lion's Paw.

Alcibiadium and Alcibium, Vipers, Bugloss, so call'd, because Alcibius first found out the Vertue of it for the biting of Vipers.

Alcocalum, see Cinera.

Alcohol, the purer Substance of any thing separated from the impurer. It signifies also most subtil and refin'd Dust or Powder; and sometimes a most highly rectified Spirit, which when set on fire, burns quite away, without leaving any Phlegm behind it. It is an Arabian Word. It likewise denotes two different things, first, a subtil or palpable Powder, or else a Spirit rectified by various Distillations, but the modern Chymists apply the Word Alcool chiefly to what they call an Ætherial subtil Spirit.

Alcola, the same as Aphtha, it is call'd by Paracelsus the Tartar of Urine, which hath three forms; First, Resolved, and that is white or red; Secondly, Sandy, white or red; thirdly, Mucilaginous or

or Viſcous.

Alcome, is Aurichalcum, or Braſs.

Alcol, the ſame with alcohol.

Alcool, the ſame as alcohol.

Alectorolophos, ſee Criſta galli.

Alembicus, or Alembicum, vel Capitellum, vel Galea, a Chymical Inſtrument us'd in Diſtilling; it has the ſhape of a Helmet, Concave within, and Convex without, and towards the bottom is plac'd a Beak or Noſe about a cubit long by which the Vapours deſcend: If they be made without a Noſe, they are rather us'd in circulatory Veſſels.

Alephanginæ, or Aloephanginæ Pilulæ, they are compounded of Aloes and ſeveral Spices.

Alercum, a venomous Herb; ſee Hypoſyamus.

Alexicacon, is an Amnlet, reſiſting Poiſon.

Alexipharmacum, a Medicine which expels Poiſon, ſo that it ſhall not be hurtful to the Body. They are moſt commonly ſuch things as attenuate the Blood, that it can't be coagulated with Poiſon in the Air, as all manner of Volatiles reſiſting the coagulation of the Acids. Antidotes againſt Poiſon.

Alexipyreticum, Alexipyretum, and Antipyretum, the ſame with antipyretum. This is a Febrifuge, or Antidote againſt Fevers.

Alexir, a Medicine of a Chymical form that takes the Eſſence out of any Vegetable, Animal or Mineral.

Alexiterium, a Preſervative againſt Poiſon.

Alga, a Sea Vegetable, in Engliſh Seaweed.

Αλθησὸν, a certain Fraction of the Bones.

Algema & Algematodes, Pain, a troubleſom Senſation impreſs'd upon the Brain from a ſmart vexatious irritation of the Nerves.

Algeroth is Mercurius vitæ, ſo call'd from the Preparation of Antimony and Mercury ſublim'd together.

Alhandal, ſee Colocynthis.

Alhaſef, the ſame with Hydroa.

Alica, a Nutritive Potion.

Aliformes Muſculi, or Alares, and Pærygoides, they riſe from the Pterygoid Bones and Proceſſes, partly with a nervous Beginning, and partly fleſhy; they end in the Neck of the lower Jaw, and alſo in the internal Seat of the Head.

Aliformes Proceſſus, ſee Pterygoides, the Prominences of the Os Cuneiformi, from the fore part.

Alimentum, Nouriſhment which is either Meat or Drink, compos'd of ſuch a Subſtance, the moſt minute Particles whereof may paſs thro' the ſmaller paſſages of our Body, and ſo afford nouriſhment. Upon the account of its different degrees 'tis taken three ways by Hypocrates; one is for future Nouriſhment, which paſſes from the Mouth into the Ventricle or Stomach; another is for that which is as it were for Nouriſhment, and that is the Arterious Blood and Animal Spirits; the third is true or proper Nouriſhment, that which faſtens to the parts, and at laſt is aſſimilated into their Nature.

Alindeſis, an Exercitation of the Body, wherein People firſt anointing with Oil, us'd afterward to roll themſelves in the Duſt.

Alipænos, Leanneſs, or a deprivation of Fat by dry external Medicines, ſuch as are apply'd to raw raw Wounds to suppress Inflammation, and quicken Conglutition.

Alipasma, a small Dust, which mixt with Oil, is used to be soak'd into the Body to hinder sweating.

Alisma is the Water Plantane, as some will have it. See Saponaria.

Alites, Birds.

Alitura, the Action of a live Body, whereby the perpetual waste of Blood, Spirits, and Substance is continually repair'd by the accession of new Nutritious Juice, rightly prepar'd and fermented, and then stuck upon the parts that are to be nourish'd.

Alkahest, see Alcahest.

Alkali, see Alcali.

Alkanzi, an Electuary or Confection.

Alkara, a Cucurbite.

Alkermes, a Juice or Confection of that Name.

Alkiam is call'd the nourishing Spirit that governs Man, by which the conversion of the Nutrition and the generation of the Animal is made; and by this the Man subsists, for 'tis the Substance that mixeth all the rest.

Alkibric is Sulphur vivum, or incombustible Sulphur.

Alkin, Pot-ashes.

Allantoides, the Urinary Tunic placed betwixt the Amnion and the Chorion, which by the Navel and Urachus receives the Urine that comes out of the Bladder. 'Tis call'd likewise Farciminalis, because that in many Brutes 'tis of the shape of a Gut-pudding; but in Man and some other few Animals 'tis round, and like the thin soft Skin which wrappeth the Child in the Womb.

Alleluja, five Oxytriphyllum, five Trifolium acetosum, Woodsorrel.

Alliaræris, a Spagyrical Term in the business of the Philopher's Stone, signifying the Philosophical Brass, the white Brass, the Water of Mercury, and the Lilly strip't from the Thorns.

Alliaria, and Alliaris, Jack by the Hedge; Country People use it in Sauces; when 'tis green it provokes Urine, when 'tis dry it expels Poison; being boil'd in Wine, or mix'd with Honey, it cures old Coughs; if rubb'd betwixt your Fingers, it smells like Garlick.

Allium, Garlick being beat up with Lard and apply'd to the Soles of the Feet, it opens the stoppages of the Lungs.

Allioticum, a Galenical Medicine, which by fermentation and cleansing alters and purifies the Blood, boil'd up for the most part of the root of Sowthistle, Cichory, Fennel, Endive, Lettice, Currans, Sorrel, &c.

Allogotrophia, a disproportionate Nutrition, when one part of the Body is nourish'd more or less than another, as in the Rickets.

Almagra is a red Earth, or Laton.

Almarkasita, Mercury.

Almene, Sal Gem.

Almizadir, Verdegrise.

Alnes, Tin.

Alnus, the Alder-tree, the green Leaves of this Tree apply'd to Tumours, discusses them, and takes off Inflamations. The wood of this Tree is stubborn, and very apt to break.

Aloë, Aloes, the Juice of a certain Plant, of which there are divers kinds, as the Indian, the Arabian, American, Egyptian. It has has thick and long Leaves, and white Flowers; its Juice is very bitter, which being inſpiſſated, is brought to us out of Arabia and Egypt. You meet now with four ſorts in the Shops, which differ only in being more or leſs refin'd: For the groſſeſt and blackeſt is call'd Aloës Cabalina: The purer ſort Hepatica, being of a Liver Colour: The more purer ſort Succotrina, from its Colour, reſembling to that of a Citron, or rather from the Iſle of Socotoria, where it grows in abundance; and the pureſt of all Lucida, being tranſparent. It purges gently.

Aloetica, are Medicines which chiefly conſiſt of Aloes.

Alopechia, according to Pliny, Capillorum defluvium, a ſhedding of the Hair, ſo call'd from a Fox, ἀλώπηξ, whoſe Urine is ſaid to make places bald and barren for a Year; or from a Diſeaſe peculiar to a Fox. It is call'd likewiſe, ὀφίασις, from the figure, becauſe that the parts ſmooth and deſtitute of Hair, look winding like a Serpent, in Greek ὄφις. It is common to both theſe Diſtempers, that the Hairs fall off areatim, i.e. by ſhedding; whence in general, this Diſeaſe is call'd Area.

Alopecuroides Gramen, Fox-Tail Graſs.

Aloſa piſcis, or Alauſa, a little Fiſh, call'd Clupea by the Latins.

Alphenic, an Arabick Word, ſignifying Hordeated or Barley-ſugar.

Alphitidon is a Fracture, when the Bones are broken into a great many pieces.

Alphus, or Vitiligo, is thus deſcrib'd by Celſus; a Diſtemper wherein the white Colour of the Skin is ſomewhat rough, not continued, but rather like ſo many ſeveral Drops: Sometimes it diſperſes it ſelf wider, but with ſome Interſtices. Alphus is likewiſe call'd Morphæa. It differs from Leuce, in that it penetrates not ſo deep.

Alratica, is when the Womb of the Woman is not perforate, or that the Orifice is very ſmall, and it may be either naturally or accidentally.

Alſide, Chickweed, call'd likewiſe Auricula Muris, and Morſus Gallinæ, from the ſhape of its Leaves, and becauſe Birds are fond of it. It cools and moiſtens moderately; upon which account it is good for Inflammations, and againſt heat, either taken inwardly, or outwardly applied: It is good for ſuch as are in waſting Conditions.

Alſiracoſtum, is the Name of a compound Medicine in Fevers, of great Warmth, and much commended by Meſme.

Alterantia, the ſame with Alliotica.

Alteratio hath various ſignifications; generally it denotes a contradiſtinct change of Qualities, that is, into another Nature and a different Tranſition from the preſent; in which ſignification are alſo underſtood the Evacuations, &c. Fallopius eſtabliſheth a threefold Alteration; one which hurts not, as the blackneſs of the Skin; another which is entirely beyond Nature, and doth miſchief; and a third which is in a middle way, and hath relation to the Condition, how far it exceeds or acts agreeable to Nature.

Alteratio Sanguinis, an altering and purifying of the Blood.

Althanaca, i. e. Auripigmentum.

Althæa, Eliſcus, vel Ibiſcus, by the Apothecaries Biſmalva, Malvaviſcus, and Eviſcus, Marſh-Mallows. It ſoftens, diſcuſſes, eaſes Pain, brings Tumours to Suppuration, and corrects ſharp Humours; the Herb, the Root, and the Seeds are all good for the ſame purpoſe. 'Tis chiefly uſed for Diſeaſes of the Bladder, the Stone of the Kidneys, and for an Aſthma and Pluriſy, 'tis alſo uſed in Gliſters and Cataplaſms.

Altolizoim, call'd by Helmont Paracelſus's Lute.

Aludel, or Aludelli, ſublimatory Glaſſes without Bottoms, put one upon the top of another, and fitted to the Pot that is under them, us'd in Chymical Sublimations.

Alveearium, the Cavity of the inward Ear, near the paſſage which conveys the Sound where that yellow and bitter excrementitious ſtuff is bred.

Alveoli Dentium, ſeu Boeſia, the Cavities of the Jaws wherein the Teeth are placed.

Alvi fluxus, the ſame with Diarrhæa.

Alviduca, Laxative Medicines.

Alvus, the Cavities of the Belly, containing the Liver, Spleen, Inteſtines, Reins, Bladder, &c.

Alumen, Allom, of which there are commonly found in the Shops. Firſt, the Alumen Repeum, or Roch-allom; Second, the Plumeum, or Plumoſum; concerning which, ſee Alumianthus; Third, the Sciſſile; Fourth, the Saccharinum, prepared of Roch-allom, the Whites of Eggs, and Roſe-water; the Fifth is call'd Alumen Catinum, tho' it be no Allom, properly ſpeaking, but only a Salt extracted out of certain Woods, and well reverberated Pot-aſhes: There is alſo another kind, call'd Roman Allom not unlike the Roch-allom, but of a pale red Colour: But that which is common in uſe is Roch-allom.

Aluta, which ſignifies a Skin in general, from whence the Workmen that dreſs them are call'd Alutarii, or Skinners.

Alvus aſtricta, Coſtive.

Alvus Fluida, a Looſneſs.

Alvus is call'd the lower Belly, by which the natural Excretion of the Fletæces is made, this ſometimes in a Latitude of Health, and in a prenatural State exceeds and ſometimes is deficient, which two we call either Coſtiveneſs, when the Belly is bound, or Looſneſs, when it is ſoluble, to the laſt of which belongs Lieutena's and Diarrhæa's.

Alypon, & Alypia, White Turbith.

Alyſſon, an Herb that cures the biting of mad Dogs.

Amalgamatio, ſive Amalgama, the co-mixture of Metals with Mercury, or reducing of Metals into a Paſte by Mercury.

Amaracum, an odoriferous Herb.

Amaranthus, an Herb, the Flower whereof never withers.

Amarella, Milkwort.

Amatorius, or the Ogling Muſcles ſeated in either Eye, according to Bartholine and Bidloo.

Amauroſis, a dimneſs of Sight, whether the Object be plac'd near or at a diſtance; but ſo, that no external Fault appear in the Eye, if you inſpect it ever ſo narrowly: The Defect conſiſts in the Obſtruction of the Optick Nerve. It is call'd alſo Gutta ſerena.

Amauſum, or Smalt; a blew Colour made by burning of Glaſs, by an eaſy Fuſion the Amauſa are of various Colours, according to the Variety of Matter of which they are made.

Ambar vel Ambra, vid. Ambra Gryſen.

Ambarvalis, the Flower of an Herb that flouriſhes at Proceſſioning time.

Ambe, a ſuperficial jutting out of the Bones: Alſo a Chirurgeon's Inſtrument, with which disjointed Bones are ſet again.

Ambloſus, the ſame with Abortus.

Amblotica, Medicines which cauſe Abortion, as are all Diureticks.

Amblyopia, dulneſs of Sight, which is Fourfold, Myopia, Presbytia, Nyctalopia, and Amauroſis; of which in their proper places.

Ambonæ, the ſame with Ambe.

Ambra Gryſea, a kind of Bitumen, caſt up out of the Sea. It is certainly a Vegetable, tho' ſometimes it be alſo found in the Whale, who queſtionleſs ſwallows it. It is found near the Shoar of Japan, the Molucca Iſles, and of Mauritius, on the Weſtern Shoar of the Iſle of Sumatra, of Borneo, and of Cape Cormorant. The Gray is the beſt; which being prick'd with a Needle, diſtils a fat Juice.

Ambroſia, ſee Botrys.

Ambroſia, a ſolid Medicine, but prepar'd as grateful and pleaſant as can be. It ſeems to take its Name from the Meat of the Gods, becauſe they are ſaid to eat Ambroſia, and drink Nectar.

Ambulatio, the ſpreading of a Gangreen or Inflammation.

Ambulo, the Name of a Diſeaſe that is flatulent and furious, call'd the furious Flatus; it is a Wind with various periodical Pains, ariſing from ſubtil Vapours in different parts of the Body.

Ambuſtio, a Solution of the Continuum, cauſed by ſome External Burning, which always offends the Cuticula, very often the Cutis, and ſometimes alſo the Muſcles, Veins, Arteries, Nerves, and Tendons.

Amellus, an Herb ſo call'd from the River Mella, in France, near which it grows plentifully.

Amentum, the ſame with Alumen Plumoſum, ſeu Amianthus.

Amethodicum, that which is done without any Methodical Rational Preſcription, as your Empyricks or Quacks do.

Amethyſtus, the Amethyſt, a precious Stone of a purple Colour; it grows in the Eaſt-Indies, the rocky Arabia, in Armenia, Egypt, Galatia, Tharſus, Cyprus, Bohemia, &c.

Amianthus, a kind of Stone like the Alumen Plumoſum, which two are often taken promiſcuouſly for one another, though they differ in this, that the Amianthus being caſt in the Fire, it will not burn. It is call'd Earthflax, or Salamanders Hairs.

Amminæum Vinum, an Italian Wine, thought by ſome to be the Vinum Phalernum.

Amma, or Bratherium, or Subligaculum, a ſort of Girdle call'd a Truſs, uſed in Ruptures, to hinder the falling out of the Inteſtines. It is alſo call'd Brachile or Brachiale.

Ammi, Biſhopsweed, the Seed of it is one of the four leſſer hot Seeds; it incides, opens, and dries; 'tis good for the Gripes, Difficulty of Urine, and the biting of Venomous Creatures: 'Tis mix'd with Bliſter Plaiſters, to prevent prevent difficulty of Urine, which uſually comes upon the uſe of ſuch Medicines.

Ammion, or Minium.

Ammochoſia, a kind of Remedy ſo call'd that is proper for drying the Body, being laid upon Sand, and cover'd over with Sand; it ought to be Sea, and not River Sand, becauſe the latter's moiſter.

Ammochryſos is a Clay of a Golden Colour, found at the Baths in Swiſſerland.

Ammoniacum Gummi, ſive Hammoniacum, Gum Ammoniack; a Tear dropping from a Tree wnich grows near the Temple of Jupiter Hammon in Africa. It appears like Frankincenſe, of a whitiſh Colour, interſperſed with ſome Seeds like thoſe of the Angelica. It has an Aromatick Taſte, inclining to bitter.

Amnion, ſive Charta Virginea, the Membrane with which the Fœtus in the Womb is moſt immediately clad, which with the reſt of the Secundine, the Chorion and Alantois, is ejected after the Birth; it is whiter and thinner than the Chorion: It contains not only the Fœtus, but the nutritious Humour, whence the Fœtus by the Mouth and Throat ſucks its Nouriſhment. It is outwardly cloath'd with the Urinary Membrane, and the Chorion, which ſometimes ſtick ſo cloſe to one another, that they can ſcarce be ſeparated.

Amolyntum, a Medicine which will not defile the Hands that touch it.

Amomum; What the Amomum of the Ancients was, is uncertain; ſome will have it to be the Roſe of Jericho. The Shops ſhew two ſorts of Seeds, under the Name of Amomum, the firſt of which is black and round like Pepper or Cubebs, but has no ſharp Taſte, which ſeems to be the Siſon or Sinon of the Ancients: The other is a ſmall and pale Seed; either of them is ſeldom uſed. Inſtead of the Amomum of the Ancients, they uſe ſweet Cane. Both the Amomum and the Cardamom enter into the Compoſition of Theriac; and ſome are of Opinion, that they are both the Fruit of a Plant of the ſame ſort; ſince their Leaves are the ſame, and the Fruit differ only in ſhape, one being round, the other triangular.

Amoris dulcedo, the ſame with Clitoris.

Amoris Flos, the ſame with Amaranthus.

Amoris Poma, ſee Mela Inſana.

Ampeloprāſum, a Leek growing about Vines.

Ampelos, ſee Vitis.

Amphemerinus, a Quotidian Diſtemper, creeping ſometimes back, ſometime forwards.

Amphibium, every Animal that lives as well in the Water as upon the Land, as the Caſtor, Crocodile, Frog, and the like.

Amphisbœna, a ſort of Serpent.

Amphibleſtroides, or the Tunica Retina of the Eye, is a ſoft, white, and ſlimy Subſtance; which is ſo nam'd, becauſe that being thrown in the Water, it reſembles a Net. It ſhoots from the very Center of the Optick Nerve; and expanding it ſelf over the Vitreous Humour, is extended as far as the Ligament of the Eyelids. This Tunick, in that it is whitiſh, and of a marrowy Subſtance, ſeems to proceed from the very marrowy and fibrous Subſtance of the Op-tick Nerve; so that it is as it were an Expansion of Nervous Fibres, which are there gather'd into one Bundle, into a Contexture made like a Net.

Amphibranchia, Places about those Glandules in the Jaws, which moisten the Aspera Arteria, Stomach, &c.

Amphicathezome, that is, Circumsedeo, a Word expressing the manner of being senc'd round in a Bath, that a Decoction may water all the parts, and a Woman be throughly emerg'd.

Amphidexios, or an Ambidexter.

Amphidæum, the Top of the Mouth of the Womb, like the Lips of a Cupping Glass.

Amphismela, an Anatomical double-edg'd Instrument, useful in the Dissection of Bodies.

Amphisphals is Circumactio, vel Circumductio, or a Circumduction of the Hip. So that the Bone may return into its proper place.

Amphodonta Animals are so cal'd which have Teeth in both Jaws.

Amphora, a double-handled Vessel, a Measure of Liquids used among the Ancients. The Italian Amphora contain'd about Seventy-two Pounds, but the Athenian about half as much again; according to our modern Computation, it is a Measure about 40 Quarts of Wine, and 35 of Oil.

Ampulla, a round Glass with a Neck to it.

Amputatio, the cutting off a Limb, or part of the Body.

Amuletum, the same with Periamma. A certain external Remedy, worn about the Neck, or in Rings, against Agues, Poisons, and Witchcraft.

Amurca, the Lees of Oil.

Amygdalæ, the same with Antiæ and Paristhmia.

Amygdalus, the Almond-Tree.

Amygdalatum, an artificial Milk, or an Emulsion made of Almonds, and other things. Almond-Milk.

Amylum, white Starch.

Ana, an equal portion of different Ingredients in the same Receipt.

Anabasis, the Encrease of Diseases

Anablyo, that is, Ebullition or Effervescence.

Anabole signifies a rejection of something upwards, or a Vomit.

Anabrochismos, that is, a taking away of Hairs when they are troublesome upon the Eye-lashes, by a Chirurgical Operation.

Anabatica, see Synochus.

Anabrochismus, when any thing superfluous and corrupted is taken up, by the letting down of a Band fit for that purpose: It is likewise a way of drawing out the inverted prickling Hairs of the Eye-lids, by the help of a Thread of fine Silk in the Eye of a Needle; which when you have doubled, you put the Hair thro', and draw it out.

Anabrosis, a Consumption, or waste of any part of the Body by sharp Humours.

Anacardium, the Fruit of an Outlandish Tree, of a darkish Red, or rather of a shining Black, being something like a Man's Heart. It grows in vast plenty at Cananor, Calecut, Cambaya, and other places in the East-Indies.

Anacatharsis, a Medicine that discharges Nature by some of the Upper Parts; as any thing that provokes to Vomit, to Sneezing, to Salivation, &c.

Anacathartica, Medicines that vomit.

Anaceſtos, Incurable.

Anachmus is an incorporeal Spirit.

Anæcinema, a Commotion of the Body.

Anaclaſis, the Reflexion of the Joynt when it is wreſted back, and thrown upon the outward part, as from the internal Extenſion of the Hand.

Anacollema, a ſort of Liniment, or dry Medicine, either applied to the Forehead or Noſtrils, to ſtop Bleeding. It ſignifies likewiſe a Medicine that will breed Fleſh, and conglutinate the Parts.

Anactorion, ſee Gladiolus.

Anadendromalache, the Roſe Mallow-Tree.

Anadendron althæa.

Anadiploſis, a frequent Reduplication of Fevers.

Anadoſis, whatſoever moves upwards in the Body, as the Diſtribution of Chyle, or a Vomit.

Anadoſis is further a Diſtribution of Nouriſhment through the Veſſels, which is the ſame with Digeſtion.

Anagallis, Pimpernel, 'tis moderately hot and dry; 'tis counted vulnerary, and is uſed inwardly and outwardly; it cures the Pin and Web in the Eye. It is good for a Conſumption, and for purulent Spitting. Willis commends the Decoction as a Specifick for Madneſs.

Anagoge is the Reduction of a Receſs of Humours.

Anagraphie is call'd a Preſcription of Medicines, or a Receipt.

Anagyris, a ſmall Tree, ſo call'd from the City of Anagyris, i. e. Athens.

Anarhinon, ſee Antirrhinon.

Anaiſtheſia, a Defect of Senſation, as in Paralytick and Blaſted Perſons.

Analepſia, or Epilepſia, Falling-ſickneſs.

Analepſis is call'd the Rejection or Renutrion, and Analeptica, that part of Dietical Phyſick which is reſtorative: Analepſis is alſo a Method of hanging a broken Member, eſpecially the Hand by a Ribbon or Scarf.

Analeptica, Medicines which cheriſh and renew the Strength; Reſtoratives.

Analgeſia, Indolency, or abſence of Pain and Grief.

Analogia, ſee Analogiſmus.

Analogiſmus, a Compariſon and Perception of Cauſes that help by likeneſs.

Analyſis, the Reduction of a Body into its firſt Principles: Alſo an Anatomical Demonſtration of the Parts of Man's Body, which is perform'd by inſiſting upon the Parts ſeverally.

Anamneſtica, Medicines which reſtore the Memory, as all Spirituous things do.

Anance, a Neceſſitous, Violent, Chirurgical Operation, as Extenſion or Impulſion in a laxated or fractured Member.

Anaphoneſis, Vociferatio is a violent Exclamation, exerciſing the Breaſt, and the Organs of the Voice, raiſing a natural Heat therein, and giving Strength to the ſolid Parts of the Body.

Anaphrodiſia, Impotence, or unaptneſs for conjugal Embraces.

Anaphromeli is Honey that has no Froth; deſpumated Honey.

Anapleroſis, that part of Chyrurgery, whereby what either Nature has denied, or that is by chance defective or decay'd, is reſtor'd by Art.

Anaplerotica, are Medicines that fill Ulcers with Fleſh; and reſtore, as much as poſſible, what is defective.

Anarrhoea is a kind of Defluxion, contrary to a Catarrh, when the Humour is brought upwards from the lower parts.

Anarſarcha, a white, ſoft, yielding Tumour of the whole outward Body, or of ſome of its Parts, which dints in by compreſſing the Fleſh: It is cauſed by ſome Obſtruction in the Lymphatick Veſſels, when the Lympha is too thick, and the Blood Viſcid. But if the Humours are very Clammy and Viſcid, it is call'd Leuco-phlegmatica.

Anaſtiochaſis, a Chymical Reſolution of Bodies.

Anaſtamoſis, an Effluxion of the Blood, the Lympha or Chyle, at the meeting of Veſſels that cloſe not narrowly. It is alſo taken for the mutual opening of Veins and Arteries into one another, as ſome long ago falſly imagin'd; for this were to offer Violence to the Laws of Circulation, yet it is not impoſſible neither, ſince Veins open into Veins, and Arteries into Arteries; as is plain in the Spermatick Veſſels, the Plexus Choroides, Rete mirabile, &c.

Anaſtomotica, Medicines which open the Pores and Paſſages, as Purgatives, Sudoriferous Medicaments, and Diureticks.

Anataſis, the Extention of the Body towards the upper Parts.

Anathymiaſis, a Vapour, Exhalation, Perfume, Fumigation.

Anatica portia, ſee Ana.

Anatomia, a neat Diſſection of an Animal, eſpecially Man, whereby the Parts are ſeverally diſcover'd and explain'd, for the Uſe of Phyſick and Natural Philoſophy; Anatomy.

Anatomicus, a Phyſician that is skilful in Diſſections.

Anatripſis, a bruiſing or Comminution of the Stone, or a Bone.

Anaxyris, a kind of Sorrel, and a good Laxative, it cures the Itch.

Anchois, a ſmall Fiſh.

Anchoralis proceſſus. See Ancyroides.

Anchuſa, Alkanet.

Anctores, they are call'd the Fibulæ or Stitches, whereby the Lips of Wounds that are much divided are join'd together; and this Operation is call'd Inſibulation.

Anchyle, a contraction of a Joint, or the back part of the Knee. See Contractura.

Anchylops, is an Abſceſs betwixt the larger corner of the Eye and the Noſe. It is moſt commonly without pain, but when it breaks is no more call'd Anchylops, but Ægilops. See Ægilops.

Anchyloſis, the ſame that Anchyle.

Auchyroides, ſee Anciroides.

Ancon, or the top of the Elbow, is ſtrictly taken for the backward and greater ſhooting forth of that Bone of the Cubit which is call'd Ulna: Hence Anconæus muſculus, he that extends the Elbow.

Anconæus, ſee Ancon.

Ancoralis, ſee Ancyroides.

Ancyle, the Contraction of the Ham. See Anchyle.

Ancyloblepharum, the growing of the Eyelid to the Tunica Cornea or to the Albuginea, or when (as it ſometimes happens) both the Eyelids grow together. This Concretion happens ſometimes before the delivery of a Child, and then

'tis

'tis the fault of the Birth.

Ancyloglossum, when the little String under the Tongue is too straitly ty'd, which causes difficulty of Utterance.

Ancyloglossus, he that hath a difficulty of Utterance.

Ancylisis, see Ancyloglossum.

Ancylotomus, a little Knife, wherewith to cut the String under the Tongue.

Ancyroides, the shooting forth of the Shoulder-bone like a Beak, which is call'd Coracoides, Anchoralis, and Cornicularis.

Andrachne, Purslain.

Androsace, so call'd because it evacuates Urine in Hydropical Persons.

Androgynus, or an Hermaphrodite, one who hath both Man and Woman's Members; also one who has had his Members cut out; also Effeminate.

Androsæmum, Tutsan, or St. John's Wort; it stops Blood, and is an excellent vulnerary Plant, taken inwardly, or outwardly applied.

Anecestos, incurable.

Anemius Furnus, a Furnace, us'd to make strong Fires to distil or melt things.

Anemone, a Herb so call'd; it signifies as much as a Windflower.

Anethum, Dill; the Herb, but especially the Seed, digests, discusses, and ripens Tumors, encreases Milk, disposes to Sleep, lessens Venery, cures Vomiting and the Hickups: The tender Tops, and the Root when fresh, provoke Urine, and are very good for those that are afflicted with the Stone.

Aneurisma, a dilatation or bursting of the Arteries, always beating, and sometimes swelling to the bigness of an Egg, which yields if you compress it, but recoils presently.

Angeiotomia, a cutting open of the Vessels, as in the opening a Vein or Artery, Phlebotomy or Letting of Blood.

Angelica, in English Angelica, the Herb itself, but especially the Root and Seed are hot and dry: It opens and attenuates, and is Sudorifick and Vulnerary; It moves the Courses, hastens Delivery, is good for Mother-fits and malignant Diseases, and expels Poison. The Root of it is allow'd by all Physicians to be very Cordial and Alexipharmick, for preservation against the Plague; the Root infused in Vinegar is to be held frequently to the Nose, or chew'd in the Mouth. Take one dram of the Powder of the Root alone, or half a dram mix'd with a dram of Venice Treacle, every sixth hour, to provoke Sweat.

Angiglossi, they that with difficulty pronounce L R K, and stutter in their Speech.

Angina, an Inflamation of the Jaws or Throat, attended with a continual Fever, and a difficulty of Respiration and Swallowing. It is twofold, either Spuria or Exquisita, a bastard or a true Squincie. The latter is again fourfold, Synanche, Parasynanche, Cynanche, and Parachynanche; of all which in their proper places.

Angina Lini, Dodder.

Angialogia, a Discourse or Treatise of the Vessels of the human Body.

Anglicus Sudor, Sudor Anglicus, the English sweating Epidemical Fever, a kind of Pestilence attended with fainting, and a colligna-tion of the Humours, with profuſe Sweats, and other Symptoms that betoken a Malignity.

Angor, or Angonia, is a Contraction of the native heat, and a recalling of it to the Centre, upon which follows pain of the Heart, Palpitation, and Sadneſs, the worſt of Signs if it happen in the beginning of Acute Fevers.

Anguilla, an Eel, from its reſemblance to an Anguis or Snake.

Anguis, a Snake.

Angulus, or Canthus, is a point of the upper and lower Eyelid, or the extream Union of both, call'd the Corner of the Eye.

Anguria, Citruls.

Anhaltina, are call'd Remedies which facilitate Reſpiration, as are vulnerary Plants, certain Preparations of Sulphur, and the like.

Anhelatio, ſhortneſs of Breath, happens ſometimes to healthy People, eſpecially if they are not very ſtrong and vigorous, if they uſe too much Exerciſe, run, leap, or go up a ſteep and high place. Fat People are always more or leſs ſubject to it, for their Intrails being very large, they are ſoon extended and preſs'd upon one another, after the uſe of a good quantity of Meats and Drink, eſpecially if they are not of eaſie digeſtion. Fevers, the Dropſie, Pleuriſie, Pain in the Stomach, and the Aſthma, are always attended with a ſhortneſs of breath.

Ani procidientia. See Procidentia ani.

Anima hepatis, Vitriol or Sal Martis; this Name is given it by Chymiſts, becauſe the Diſeaſes of the Liver are cured by it.

Animal, a living Creature.

Animæ Gummi, or Reſina, a tranſparent Gum or Reſin, of a whitiſh Citrine colour almoſt like Frankincenſe, diſtilling out of very tall Trees in New Hiſpanola: 'Tis likewiſe brought from Æthiopia, the Eaſt and Weſt-Indies.

Animalis facultas, the Animal Faculty and Action whereby a Man exerciſes Senſe, Motion, and the principal Functions of the Mind, which are three, Imagination, Ratiocination, and Memory.

Animi defectus vel deliquium. See Lipothymia.

Aniſcalptoris Muſculi Par. It is alſo call'd Latiſſimus Dorſi, from its largeneſs. It draws the Arm backwards and downwards, and has the Name of Ani ſcalptor, or Scratcher of the Arſe, becauſe that Office is perform'd by the help of this Muſcle.

Aniſum, Aniſe, a Plant which produces an Aromatick and Carminative Seed. The Seed is chiefly us'd, the Herb itſelf but rarely, and the Root of it never. It heats, drys, and is cephalick, epatick, pulmonick, and ſtomachick; 'tis uſed for Wind in the Stomach, a Cough, and the like; 'tis more agreeable to the Stomach than any other Medicine that is us'd to expel Wind; it has leſs Acrimony, and is ſweeter; the Ancients extoll'd it wonderfully for a cold and moiſt ſtomach, and cures a ſtinking Breath; a ſcruple of the Seed powder'd, is good for the Gripes in Children.

Annularis Cartilago. See Carocoides Cartilago.

Annularis Digitus, is the Finger betwixt the little and middle. See Digitus.

Annularis Protuberantia, ſo called led from its figure, a certain part of the Brain, between the Cerebellum and the two backward Prominencies.

Annus Climactericus, the Years 63 & 81, in which there is a fooliſh opinion that Men muſt needs die. Theſe Years fall always in the 9th Year, as 7 times 9 make 63, and 9 times 9, 81. But no Reaſon or Experience can perſwade us that Men are more obnoxious to Death in theſe Years than in others; nay, as many die in 60 as in 63 or 81.

Ἄνω Purgare, to diſcharge upwards, as in a Vomit, &c. oppoſite whereunto is Κάτω Purgare, to do it downwards.

Anodynum, a Medicine that allays Pains.

Anœa, Madneſs, or an extinction of the Imagination and Judgment.

Anomalia, ſignifies Inequality, as ſpeaking of a Pulſe, it may be call'd Unequal or Anomalous, and an Abſceſs anomalous, or of many Forms.

Anomeomeres, the ſame with Heterogeneous, or that which conſiſts of ſeveral and different Particles.

Anomphalos, is one that wants a Navel.

Anonymus, that is without Name.

Anonis, or Ononis, Reſtharrow, Cammock, the Bark of the Root and the Root itſelf being infus'd in Wine, and taken inwardly for ſome time, provokes Urine, expels Gravel, eaſes pain of the Teeth, and opens Obſtructions of the Liver.

Anonimus, rather Euonimus. See Evonimous.

Anorexia, a loathing of Meat, ariſing from an ill diſpoſition of the digeſtive Juices of the Stomach.

Anſerina, ſo call'd becauſe the Geeſe delight in it. 'Tis alſo called Pontentilla, Argemone, Agrimonia Sylveſtris, and Tanacetum Sylveſtre; Silver Weed, Wild Tanſey. See Argentina.

Antalgicus, is a Remedy that eaſes Pain in general.

Antiacida, Alcalic or Oleaginous things, as well fix'd as volatile, which deſtroys Acidities.

Antagoniſta, the oppoſite ſituation of Muſcles, as may be ſeen betwixt the Abductor and Adductor, that which contracts and expands the Arm.

Antiphroditica, Medicines for the Pox, as alſo againſt the exceſſive Inclinations to Venery.

Antarthriticum, a Medicine againſt the Gout.

Antaſthmatica, Medicines proper for Aſthmatick People.

Antecedens Cauſa. See Proegumena.

Antecedentia ſigna, Antecedent Signs are ſuch as are obſerv'd before a Diſeaſe; as, an ill diſpoſition of the Pancreatick Juice; or the Bile, or of the maſs of the Blood, is an antecedent Cauſe to infinite Diſeaſes.

Antemetica, ſuch things as hinder and ſtop Vomiting.

Antendeixis, a contrary Indication, or a contradictory Indication, which forbids that to be us'd which the former Indication ſuggeſted as proper; as for inſtance, in the Pleuriſie abundance of ill Juice in Blood requires evacuation; but then again the weakneſs of the Patient may forbid it.

Anteneaſmus, a Species of a dangerous Madneſs, foaming like

Per-

Persons possess'd, and endeavouring to lay violent hands on themselves.

Antepileptica, Medicines against the Falling-sickness.

Anthelix, or Scapha, the Protuberance of the Ear, or the inward brink of the outward Ear.

Anthelmintica, Medicines that destroy Worms in the Intestines.

Anthemis, and Anthemon, is a Name whereby various Flowers are denominated.

Antherum, any thing that's florid in our Bodies. Anthera are also the tops in the middle of Flowers, which lean upon little hairy threads; as also Medicinal Preparations of a florid colour.

Anthereon, call'd Mentum, or Chin, being that part of the Face on which the Beard grows.

Anthophylli, or Antophala, a great sort of Cloves which are come to maturity, with a hard and cleft Kernel within; in taste they are not so sharp as the Common Cloves, unless it be on the outside.

Anthora. See Napellus.

Anthos, signifies a Flower; is chiefly used for the Rosemary-flower.

Anthosmias, a fragrant, florid, pure, noble Wine.

Anthracosis Oculi, a scaley corrosive Ulcer in the Eye, attended with a Tumor of the whole Body, especially about the Eyes. The Cause is now and then an Inflamation of the Eye, from a malignant Fever.

Anthrax, Carbo, Pruna, or Carbunculus, is an Inflamation and Tumor that arises in several places, surrounded with hot, fiery and most sharp Pimples, accompany'd with acute Pain, but without ever being suppurated; and when it spreads itself farther, it burns the Flesh, throws off Lobes of it when 'tis rotten, and leaves an Ulcer behind it, as if it had been burnt in with Iron. There are two sorts of 'em, pestilential and not pestilential. 'Tis also call'd Ignis Persicus.

Anthriscus, is a Herb more known to the Ancients than to us.

Anthropologia, the Description of a Man, or the Doctrin concerning him. Bartholin divides it into two parts, viz. Anatomy, which treats of the Body, and Psychology, which treats of the Soul.

Anthropometria, signifies a description of the human Body, and all its parts, according to these three dimensions, Length, Breadth, and Profundity.

Anthropomorphus, the Mandrake, representing the figure of a Man.

Anthroposophia, that is, the Knowledge that explains the Nature of Man, and his Structure internally and externally.

Anthyllis, 'tis supposed to be Chamomile.

Anthypnotica, Medicines which hinder Sleep.

Anthypocondriaca, Remedies against the Disease of the Hypocondres.

Anthysterica, Medicines good against the Fits of the Mother.

Antiarthritica, Medicines against the Gout.

Antiæ, in the Plural Antiades Tonsillæ, Glandules of the Neck, which Chirurgions commonly call Almonds, which they do not too much resemble neither. They are Two Glandules, which in reality make up but one Body, plac'd at the the sides of the Epiglottis, or Cover of the Wind-pipe. Its Substance is similar, and made like separate Grains, just like Honey or Oil, hardned with Cold, but that they stick closer together, as if they were join'd by a Membrane; 'tis of a somewhat Yellowish Colour, and soft: It has on each side one common large oval hollow passage, which opens into the Mouth within the Skirt, whereof it contains two somewhat big, and several less Cavities. Its use is to collect the snotty Viscous Matter, and to moisten the adjacent Parts therewith. They are commonly call'd the Almonds. It signifies also the Inflammations of these Parts. See Paristhmia.

Antiballomena, or Succedanea, Medicines of like strength, which are now and then used in the defect of one another: Apothecaries call them Quid pro quo & substituta.

Anticachectica, Medicines correcting the ill Disposition of the Blood.

Anticardium, a Cavity in the Breast above the Region or Place of the Heart.

Anticatarrhalis, Medicines directed against Catarrhs.

Anticansoticus, a Form of Medicines against a burning Fever or Inflammation.

Antcheir is the great Finger of the Hand, call'd the Thumb.

Antichemium, the former part of the Leg.

Anticipans, or Anticipatio, this is said of Diseases, the Orders or Periods of whose Paroxysms happen before their time, and prevent what were to come, as the Menstrua coming before Expectation.

Anticolica, Remedies against the Cholick.

Antidinica, Remedies against the Giddiness of the Head.

Antidotum, a Medicine against deadly Poison, such as is taken inwardly.

Antidysenterica, Medicines that cure the Dysentery.

Antifebrile, see Antipyreticum.

Antihectica, Remedies against a Consumption.

Antilepsis, Apprehensio, it either signifies the manner of making a Ligature upon a contrary Part to that affected, or else it is taken for an Indication, whereby the Physician apprehends what is necessary to gain his Ends.

Antilobium, that little part in the Ear is call'd, which is the Lobe seated at the lower part of the Ear.

Antiloimica, Remedies against the Pestilence.

Antilyssus, a Composition against Madness.

Antimonium, a Mineral of a Metallick Nature; consisting, 1*st*, of a Mineral Sulphur, partly very pure and approaching to that of Gold, of a red Colour, and partly of a combustible common Sulphur. 2*dly*, of a great quantity of a fuliginous indigested Metallick Mercury, participating of the Nature of Lead. 3*dly*, of a Terrestial Substance, and a little Salt. That which is to be sold in Shops is melted, and made up commonly in form of a Pyramid; the Mineral it self is seldom to be met with there. It is found in Germany, Hungary, and Transylvania. It is also call'd Stibium in Latin, Antimad by the Arabians; and the Chymists have given it great Variety of Names.

Antinephritica, Medicines that cure the Diſtempers of the Reins, but eſpecially the Stone.

Antiparalyticus, ſuch Medicines as are directed againſt Palſies.

Antipathia, or Antipathy, a Contrariety and Repugnancy in the Body, or in Medicines; alſo a loathing and abhorrence of any thing without a manifeſt Cauſe.

Antiperiſtaſis, the ſurrounding of the Air, as in Hay that is cock'd and made up in Ricks too moiſt. Hipocrates ſays in his Aphoriſms, That Bodies are hotter in Winter, and colder in Summer. Which we interpret thus: That this does not only come from the Antiperiſtaſis of the Air, but from the Nitre with which the Air in Winter-time is impregnated, eſpecially when the North-wind blows; ſo that when we come to breath, the ſulphureous Blood is more fermented and inflam'd in the Lungs.

Antipharmacum, a Remedy againſt Poiſon; or a Remedy againſt any other Diſeaſe.

Antiphthiſica, Medicines againſt a Conſumption.

Antiphora, a ſort of Napellus, or of Thoræ.

Antipleureticum, any Remedy againſt a Pleuriſy.

Antipodagrica, the ſame with Antiarthritica.

Antipraxia ſignifies a contrariety of Functions and Temperaments in divers Members, as heat of the Liver, and coldneſs of the Stomach concurring together to make one Symptom.

Antipyreton, a Febrifuge Medicine.

Antipyreudicum, or Antipureticum, a Medicine that temperates and allays too much heat in Fevers, as Acids do; as alſo a Febrifuge or Specifick againſt an Ague.

Antiquartanarium and Antiquartium, a Medicine againſt a Quartan Fever.

Antiquartium, the ſame with Antiquartanarium.

Antiqui morbi, ſuch Diſeaſes as after the fortieth Day continue often many Years, and therefore they are call'd inveterate or old Diſeaſes.

Antirrhinum, Snap-dragon.

Antirrhizon, the ſame with Antirrhinon.

Antirrhope ſignifies to act contrary to Propenſity or Inclination.

Antiſpaſis, a Revulſion of a Diſeaſe; i. e. when Humours which flow into ſome one Part are turned into another, by the opening of a Vein in a remote Part.

Antiſcolica, Remedies that kill Worms. See Anthelmintica.

Antiſcorbutica, Remedies againſt the Scurvy.

Antiſcorodon, a ſort of Garlick.

Antiſpaſmodicum, a Medicine uſed againſt Convulſions and Contractions.

Antiſpaſticum, a Remedy or Application that diverts Diſtempers to other Parts.

Antitaſis, ſeu Contra Extenſio, an oppoſite placing of parts in the Body, as the Liver and the Spleen. It ſignifies alſo the Extenſion of the two parts of a broken Bone, when it is to be Set again.

Antithenar, one of the Muſcles that extend the Thumb.

Antithora, the ſame with Anthora.

Atitragus, the outward part of the Ear, oppoſite to the Tragus.

Antivenerea, Medicines againſt the French Pox.

Antrum buccinoſum, the ſame with Cochlea.

Anus Podex & Culus, part of the extremity of the Inteſtinum Rectum; it conſiſts of three Muſcles, two call'd Levatores, which diſtend and open it in time of Neceſſity; and one cal'd Sphincter, which ſhuts it and keeps it ſo. It is alſo a Cavity in the Brain, which ariſes from the contact of four Trunks of the Spinal Marrow; alſo the Skin which goes over the Navel, which when wrinkled, is a ſign of Old-age.

Anydria, Cœlum Siccum, a dry Seaſon.

Anydron, a ſort of Herb, which makes thoſe thirſty that taſte it.

Aorta, or the great Artery, is a Veſſel which proceeds from the left Ventricle of the Heart, conſiſting of four Tunicks, a Nervous, Glandulous, Muſcular, and Membranous or internal one. It beats continually, and diſtributes Blood into the whole Body for nouriſhment. The Branches which creep from the Heart to the Brain are call'd Carocides; thoſe which run laterally towards the Arms are call'd Humeraril: As the Trunk of it deſcends, the Branches extend themſelves towards the Bowels; and going further on to the Thighs and Feet, it ends. Its Subſtance is Muſcular.

Apagma, the thruſting of a Bone, or other Part, out of its proper Place.

Apanthropia, ſignifies a ſullen Retirement or Solitude, and is reckon'd among the Symptoms of Melancholy.

Apanthiſmus, the Obliteration of a Part in the Body, ſo that it can be no more found; as it often happens to a little arterious Pipe about the Heart.

Aparaſcenaſia, Things neceſſary for the Bath.

Aparine, Cleavers, or Gooſe-graſs. This Herb beat up with Lard, cures the Kings-Evil. The diſtill'd Water ſtops the Flux of the Belly, and is good in the Jaundice; the diſtill'd Water, or the Herb cut ſmall and boil'd in a ſufficient quantity of Wine and drank, is an excellent Remedy for the Stone and Gravel.

Apathia, an utter want of Paſſions.

Apechema, that which like an Eccho makes an Anſwer, as a ſtroke given one Part ſhall make a Fracture on the contrary.

Apella, or Recutitus, one that is circumciſed.

Apepſia, when the Stomach has no Concoction; an Indigeſtion.

Απεπῆ φύματα, crude Tumors, or Knobs in the Body not come to maturity or ſuppuration.

Aperientia, opening things, are thoſe which, conſiſting of ſharp ſmall Particles, penetrate the Body profoundly, and by attenuating and expelling the more groſs, open the Pores and Paſſages of the Body and its Veſſels; aperitive Medicines.

Aperiſtatos, a hollow Ulcer.

Apes, Bees, ſo call'd becauſe they were thought at firſt to be without Feet.

Aphace, a ſort of Vetch.

Aphæreſis, a part of Chirurgery ſo call'd, which teaches to take away Superfluities.

Aphonia, ſive Loquela abolitio, ſuch as are dumb; as thoſe who are born deaf conſequently remain dumb. 2dly, Children who, tho' tho' not born deaf, yet remain dumb for some time. 3*dly*, Some very decrepit Persons. 4*thly*, Dumbness owes its Cause sometimes also to an Apoplexy, Epilepsie, Swooning, Hypochondriack Suffocation, or Vapours, Inflamations of the Throat, Obstructions of the Nerves, of the Tongue, &c.

Aphorismus, a short determinative Sentence.

Aphrodisa Phrenitis, a mad and violent Love, or a Distemper call'd otherwise Furor Uterinus, or Phrenzy of the Womb.

Aphronitrum, the Scum of Nitre.

Aphrodisius Morbus, the same with Lues Venerea and Aphrodisia.

Aphroditarium, is the Name of a dry Medicine, which consists of Frankincense, Filings of Copper, ceruse Starch, of each an equal weight. This Name is also given to a Collyry.

Aphthæ, are call'd when the Tongue and whole Mouth is cover'd with a viscid, white, and slimy Substance, which sometimes extend to the very Stomach and Guts. Some among the modern Physicians will have them to be certain Wheals or Pimples about the internal parts of the Mouth, as also about the Ventricle and Guts, accompanied with a Fever, a Distemper which Infants are very obnoxious to. These Ulcers begin in the Gums, then by little and little spread over the Palate and the whole Mouth, and then at last descend to the Epiglottis, or Cover of the Windpipe, and the upper part of the Throat, which being once infected, the Child hardly recovers.

Aphylanthes, as if you should say, a Flower without Leaves.

Apiastrum, Balm, so call'd because the Bees much delight in't. See Batrachium and Melissophyllum.

Apices, the same that Anthera.

Apinthion. See Absinthium.

Apionta, a Name for the several Excretions of the Body.

Apios. See Pyrum.

Apios, Horse-radish.

Apium, Smallage: 'tis hot and dry, it incides and opens, upon which account 'tis reckon'd among the five opening Roots. It provokes Urine and the Courses, and expels Gravel. It cures the Jaundice; the Seed is reckon'd among the lesser hot Seeds. The use of this hot Herb certainly injures those that are afflicted with the Falling-sickness; Parsly, Smallage.

Apium Risus. See Risus apium.

Apium Sylvestre, the same with Batrachium.

Aplestia, Insatiable, the worst Vice of Body or Mind.

Apleuros, such as want Ribs.

Apneusti, an Adverb that signifies to do a thing at once, or without taking Breath.

Apnæa, a suppression of Respiration, either wholly, or at least to the outward Sense.

Apobrassomai, signifies to eject or throw out, and is apply'd to the ejaculation of the Virile semen.

Apobregma, dilutum, or Dilution.

Apocaptismos, Fumication.

Apocatastasis, signifies making whole again, or Restitution to a former condition.

Apochylisma, call'd Succago, Robub, Rob, and Rohob, is a boiling and thickening of any Vegetable Juice with Sugar and Honey, into a kind of a hard consistence.

Apo-

Apoclaſma, the breaking off of any part of the Body.

Apocope, the cutting off a Part.

Apocriſis, and Apocriſia, that which, by reaſon of its ſuperfluity, is caſt out of the Body.

Apocruſticum, any thing that helps by vertue of binding and repelling Medicines.

Apocynum, an Herb ſo call'd, becauſe it kills all fourfooted Beaſts that eat it, eſpecially Dogs.

Apodacryticum, a Medicine that provokes Tears; tho' by ſome it is taken for a Collyrium applied to the Eyes to ſtop and dry up the Defluxions and Tears.

Apodes, ſuch as have little Feet, ſo call'd as if they were without Feet.

Apolepſia, or Apolepſis, the Interception of Blood and Animal Spirits, or a medium betwixt an Apoplexy and Palſie; or a Species of the Apoplexy, attended by an Interception of the Speech and a total abolition of Senſe and Motion. 'Tis the ſame with Catalepſis.

Apolexis, declining of ſtrength, or the firſt approach of Old age.

Apollinoſis, a method of curing Fiſtula's by crude Hemp, according to Ægineta.

Apollinaris, ſee Hyoſcyamus.

Apomeli, Oxymel, or a Decoction of Honey and Vinegar.

Aponeuroſis, the End, Tail, or String of Muſcles; 'tis call'd alſo a Tendon. Chirurgeons take it falſly for a Nerve.

Apoſlegmatica, ſee Apophlegmatiſmus.

Apoſlegmatiſmus, Commanſum, ſome Phyſicians call it in barbarous Language, Maſticatorium. It is a Medicine which, being kept in the Mouth, and often alſo chew'd, draws forth pituitous Humours, which are voided at the Mouth: 'Tis made of the Root of baſtard Pellitory, Salt, Holly, Maſtich, Wax, &c. When 'tis us'd in this ſolid form, 'tis call'd Maſticatorium. 'Tis us'd alſo in a liquid form, and is of the nature of a Gargariſm, made up of Cephalicks and attenuating Ingredients, boil'd and prepar'd; a Chaw or Maſticatory.

Apophthora, an Abortion, or the Birth of a Fœtus before its due time.

Apophyſis, Probole, Echphyſis, Proceſſus, Productio, Projectura & Protuberantia, is a part of a Bone that is not contiguous, as an Epiphyſis is, but continuous with the Bone, and ſtretching itſelf beyond a plain ſurface; as the Proceſſus, Pterygoides, Mammiformis, Styloides, &c.

Apopieſma, is an expreſſion of the Humors which is caus'd from the Ligature in Wounds and Fractures.

Apoplecticæ Venæ, the Jugular Vein, which the Ancients falſly call'd the Soporales, or ſleepy Vein.

Apoplectica, Medicines againſt an Apoplexy.

Apoplexia, Attonitus, Stupor, Sideratio, and Morbus attonitus; is a profound Sleep, wherein the Patient being vehemently ſhaken pull'd and prick'd, yet perceives nothing, nor affords any ſign of Action, accompanied with a difficulty of Reſpiration for the moſt part, and ſometimes with none at all, ſnoaring no otherwiſe than if they were faſt aſleep, with their Eyelids ſhut, or at leaſt contracted; but the Pulſe and Colour of the Face remains, unleſs it be in a conſummated Apoplexy; in which, unleſs it changes into a Palſie, nothing but Death is to be expected; the Signs whereof are, when the Pulſe begins to ſlacken by degrees, and the Colour in the Face turns pale. It ariſes frequently from viſcous Blood, which obſtructs the leaſt Pores of the Brain, or from Blood extravaſated about the Baſis of the Brain, which oppreſſes and ſtraitens the Carotidal Arteries, or the Brain.

Apopinxis, a Suffocation.

Apopſopheo, ſignifies the breaking of Wind backwards.

Apoptoſis, is a relaxation or remiſſion of a Ligature.

Aporrhoæ, Vapours and ſulphureous Effluviums, which exhale thro' the Pores of the Body, and other breathing holes. It alſo means morbid and contagious Effluvia.

Apoſcepharniſmus, is one Species of a Fracture of the Cranium.

Apoſchaſis, ſignifies Scarrification, or a ſlight Inciſion in the Skin.

Apoſitia, a loathing of Meat.

Apoſpaſma, when the Unity of Organical compounded Parts is diſſolv'd, and thoſe things which were of a different Nature, yet naturally compacted together, are disjoin'd by the Rupture of thoſe Ligaments, and little fibrous Threads or Filaments which held 'em together; as when the Skin is ſeparated from a Membrane, a Membrane from a Muſcle, one Muſcle from another, which naturally adher'd to it.

Apoſceparniſmus, a ſort of a Fracture of the Scull, when ſome part is plainly elevated.

Apoſphaceliſis is call'd a Mortification of the Fleſh, which is made in Wounds and Fractures, eſpecially by the Bandage.

Apoſphinxis, is a Conſtruction when a Part is tied with Cords.

Apoſtaſis. See Apoſtema.

Apoſtema, which Pliny calls Apoſtaſis, Hippocrates Metaſtaſis, and Celſus Abſceſſus; is an Exulceration left after a Criſis; but Apoſtaſis and Metaſtaſis ſometimes differ in this, That the former is meant of an acurate Criſis, the latter of the Tranſlation of a Diſeaſe from one part to another, an Apoſtume, an Impoſtume.

Apoſtolorum Unguentum, ſo called from the Twelve Ingredients, which anſwers to the Number of the Apoſtles. 'Tis Vulnerary.

Apoſurma, a ſhaving away of the Skin or Bone.

Apotheca, an Apothecary's Shop; as alſo the Veſſels wherein the Medicines are kept in thoſe Shops.

Apothecarius, an Apothecary.

Apotherapia, a Cure or Remedy; alſo an Exercitation, which both purges the Excrements, and ſecures from Wearineſs.

Apothermus, the ſame with Apochilyſma, a boil'd Wine.

Apotheſis is a due poſition or placing a broken Member right again.

Apozema, the Apothecaries call it a Decoction; it is a Decoction of Roots, Woods, Barks, Herbs, Flowers, Fruits, Seeds, &c. which is boil'd down commonly to 12, 15, or 20 Ounces. It is either Purging, Looſning, Altering, or Drying; Cephatick (for the Head) Stomachick, Diuretick, Splenetick, or Hepatick (good for the Liver.)

Apparatus Major & Minor, the greater greater and leſſer Preparation; a form of Speech uſed by Lithotomiſts, or thoſe that cut for the Stone, according to the different Methods they take. They make uſe chiefly of two different ways; one by the help of ſeveral Inſtruments, call'd the Greater Preparation; and the other with a few only.

Appendicula Vermiformis, ſee Cæcum Inteſtinum, or the blind Gut.

Appendix and Appendicula. See Epiphyſis.

Appetitus alimentarius, or Hunger, is a certain Conſtitution of the Fancy, ariſing from the motion of a Nerve of the Par Vagum, and the Intercoſtal, which for want of Nouriſhment is mov'd inordinately in the Stomach; whereby we are impell'd by the Animal Spirits, to thoſe Motions of our Members which are moſt conducive to the procuring of Nouriſhment. It is occaſion'd in as much as the Animal Spirits, being any way excited about the middle of the Brain, ſhoot thence toward the Body of the Nerves: Or it may be thus defin'd, Appetitus alimentarius, is an Incitement to ſeek Nouriſhment, from an acid Humour which ariſes from a Ferment in the Stomach, with which the Nerves being vellicated, they communicate the Senſe of want of Nouriſhment to the Brain; which Want the Brain naturally judges ought to be ſupplied.

Appetitus Caninus, the ſame that Cynodes Orexis.

Approximatio is a kind of tranſplantory Cure by immediate Contact into an Animal or Vegetable Subject.

Apſychia, a Deliquium of the Mind, or the higheſt degree of Swooning.

Aptyſtus, want of Spittle, ſo that a Man cannot ſpit.

Apulotticus, a Medicine that Skins, Heals, or Cicatrizes.

Apyrexia, an Intermiſſion or abating of Fevers. The Cauſe of it is, that all the morbifick Matter is ſpent in one Fit, and it intermits till new come, and begin to ſwell and ferment as the other.

Aporithium, Brimſtone, or Sulphur Vivum.

Aqua, with the Arabians, the ſame that Suffuſio. See Cataracta.

Aqua diſtillata, or Stillatitia, diſtill'd Water, is ſuch as is drawn by diſtilling, conſiſting of Watery and Spirituous Parts, but more of Watery. It is ſometimes ſimple, ſometimes compounded of many Ingredients.

Aquæ-Ductus, the bony Paſſage of the Drum, which reaches from the Ear to the Palate. It is ſo call'd from its ſhape, which reſembles a Conduit-pipe.

Aqua florum omnium, is Water made of Cow-dung, by Diſtillation, when the Cows go to Graſs; becauſe they feed then upon all ſorts of Flowers.

Aqua inter cutim, Water betwixt the Skin; the ſame with Anaſarca.

Aqualiculus, by ſome call'd the Pubes or Groins, is that part of the Body where the Trunk ends, and where the Pudenda of both Sexes are ſeated.

Aqua pericardii, that Humour which is gather'd together about the Heart. It flows from the Glandules which lean upon the Baſis of the Heart, and is ſent back by the Lymphatick Veſſels into the Ductus Chiliferus.

Aquæus humor, the Watery Humour. See Humores Oculi.

Aquila alba, Mercurius Dulcis, is often ſo call'd by the Chymiſts.

Aquilæ lapis. See Ætites.

Aquifolium, the ſame with Agrifolium.

Aquileia, Aquilina, or Aquilegium, Columbine; the Seed candied is commended for Obſtructions of the Bowels, and for Giddineſs. One Dram of the Seed pouder'd, and taken in Wine with Saffron, cures the Jaundice, if the Sick keep in Bed and Sweat. The diſtill'd Water of it diſcuſſes inward Tumours, expels Poiſon, and caſes the Gripes. The Seed finely pouder'd, and taken in Wine, helps Delivery; if the firſt draught does not do the buſineſs, it muſt be repeated; but it is moſt frequently uſed in Gargariſms, to cleanſe the Teeth, and to cure the Scurvey and Ulcers of the Mouth and Jaws.

Aquilina. See Aquilegia.

Aquula, the ſame that Hydatis.

Arabicum Gummi, that which is ſold in the Shops is call'd by Galen, Gummi Thebaicum, and by ſome Babylonicum. Some ſay it is a kind of the Acacia or Sloe-tree, whereof they make two ſorts, the greater and leſſer. The right Gum-arabick is a Tranſparent and Glutinous Gum, eaſily diſſolv'd in Water, round, and looks on the outſide as if it were Worm-eaten. It is brought from Arabia and Senegallia.

Arabicus lapis, is a white Marble, found in Arabia, like ſpotted Ivory; this ground fine into Powder is ſaid to cure the Hemorrhoids, and is an excellent Dentrifice.

Arabis, a ſort of a Water-creſs.

Arachydna, or Arachidna, an Herb.

Arachis, or Aracus, a ſort of Pulſe.

Aracydna, the ſame with Arachidna.

Archnoides Tunica, ſeu Aranea Tunica, vel Amphibleſtroides, is called the third and thinneſt Membrane of the Spinalis Medulla; as alſo the Criſtaline Tunick of the Eye, ſo call'd from its likeneſs to a Spider's Web.

Aræotica. See Rarefacientia.

Aranea. See Paris Herba.

Aranea Tunica, or Cryſtallina, Arachnoides & Amphibleſtroides, that which ſurrounds the Cryſtaline Humour, by reaſon of its light thin Contexture, like the Workmanſhip of a Spider; it has the Name of Aranea.

Aranea, a Spider.

Arantia. See Aurantium.

Arbor, and Arbos, a Tree.

Arbor Vitæ, the Tree of Life, a kind of Cedar or Juniper-tree, ſo call'd perhaps becauſe it revives by its ſmell.

Arbor Maris, Coral.

Arbores is a morbid Foulneſs of the Skin, which at firſt hath no Exulceration, but in Proceſs of Time grows into Blotches. Morphew is the ſame.

Arbutus, the Strawberry-Tree.

Arcanum is call'd a Medicine which has ſome Secret in its Preparation or Adminiſtration. The Arcanum Theophraſti is the Quinteſſence of a thing moſt highly exalted; or, as he ſays, it is the vertue of a thing refin'd by a thouſand Exaltations. He boaſts of 4 Arcana's eſpecially. 1. The Arcanum of the firſt Matter. 2. Of the Philoſopher's Stone. 3. Of the Mercury of Life. 4. Of the Tincture. Others call it an Extract eſpecially ſo call'd.

Arſenicum, a Mineral, Fat, Combuſtible buſtible Soot or Juice. It is White or Cryſtaline; Yellow, which is call'd Orpment, and Rediſh, the Sandaracha of the Greeks. All of them corrode, and are reckon'd among Poiſons.

Arceuthos juniperus.

Archangelica, Water Angelica.

Archè, the beginning of a Diſeaſe. See Acme.

Archeologia, or a Treatiſe of Reaſon and Experience abſtractedly conſider'd and deduc'd according to all the parts of Phyſick, and is an univerſal Norma of Medicine, the firſt Concluſions and Cauſes of all the Dogma's or Opinions of Phyſicians.

Archeus, acccording to the Chymiſts, is the higheſt, and exalted, and inviſible Spirit, which is ſeparated from Bodies, is exalted and aſcends; a hidden Vertue of Nature, common to all things; an Artiſt, a Phyſician. Alſo Archiatros, or the chief Phyſician of Nature, which diſtributes to every thing, and to every Member its peculiar Archeus occultly by the Air. Alſo Archeus the firſt in Nature, is a moſt occult Quality, which produces all things from Iliaſtes, being only immediately ſuſtain'd by the Divine Virtue it ſelf.

Archiater, the Preſident or chief Phyſician. The Phyſicians of Princes are ſtil'd ſo by way of Excellency.

Archidoxis, under this Title were ſeveral of Paracelſus's Writings call'd Magical.

Arcos is Æs uſtum.

Arctatio, or Conſtipatio, is a kind of ſtraitneſs in the Paſſages, and often procures Inflammations in the Guts.

Archigeni morbi, acute Diſeaſes.

Arctoſtaphylos. See Vaccinium.

Arcuatio, the bending of the Bones.

Arcuatus morbus. See Icterus.

Ardea avis, a Bird ſo call'd, becauſe he ſoars high in the Air.

Ardentes Febres, burning Fevers, are thoſe which are accompanied with a great Heat and Thirſt, by reaſon of a too high Exaltation of the Sulphur; as in that call'd Cauſus and Lipria. See Cauſus.

Ardor, ſeu Æſtus, a very intenſe acute Heat, raiſed in our Bodies by a too high Exaltation of Sulphur or Spirits.

Ardor ventriculi, that which we call Heart-burning, is a particular ſort of Pain in the Stomach, which at the ſame time moleſts the whole Gullet. Some call it a fervent Heat of the Stomach: Some an Ebullition, and a boiling bubling Heat of the Stomach, when a certain fiery Pain is felt in the Ventricle, and the Throat, as if it burnt; it happens often to People that are in good Health enough, and that either feeding or faſting, eſpecially when they belch, as if there were a fiery ſort of Blaſt cloſely pent up, and which could not break out. Yet it happens ſometimes alſo in ſeveral Fevers. It is cauſed by a certain Effervеſence of little, ſharp, bileous and ſulphureous Particles, whence proceeds that Ebullition, or bubling Heat of the Stomach.

Ardor Urinæ. See Dyſuria.

Area, the falling off of the Hair. Celſus reckons two ſorts; but this is common to both of them, that the uppermoſt little Skin being decay'd, the Hairs are firſt leſſened, and then quite fall off: And if the place be wounded, it ſends forth a liquid Matter of an ill Savour; both of them ſpread, in ſome ſwiftly, in others ſlowly; that is the worſt that makes the Skin thick, fattiſh, and perfectly bald: That which is call'd ἀλοπεξία dilates it ſelf in any ſhape; it happens both in the Head and Beard; the former is call'd θείασις, from its reſembling a Serpent; it begins at the hinder part of the Head, exceeds not the breadth of two Fingers, ſpreads it ſelf towards the Ears in two Branches, in ſome to the Forehead, till they both join in the fore-part of the Head. The one Diſtemper is incident to any Age; the other common to Infants. The former is ſcarce ever cur'd, the latter often ceaſes of his own accord.

Area, a Space betwixt the Muſcles and Glands.

Aregon, an Ointment that reſolves, relaxes, and attenuates.

Arena, Gravel, is a thing bred in our Body of a great deal of Salt and Earth, which often grows up into a Stone.

Arenaria, a ſort of Coronopus, ſo call'd becauſe it delights in Sandy Grounds. See Coronopus.

Arenatio, a ſort of dry Bath, when the Sick ſit with their Feet upon hot Sand, often made uſe of in the Dropſy. A Sand-bath.

Areola Papillaris, the Circle about the Teat.

Ares, this is a feign'd Word of Paracelſus; and he diſtinguiſh'd Ares into theſe parts; Firſt, that he calls Archeicum which is Natural, and then into the Chymicum which is Artificial. To this belongs his Meloſinicum or Principle of Tranſmutation, which he calls the Salamandrine Eſſence, ſuch as he aſſigns to the Philoſopher's Stone.

Areſta bovis. See Anonis.

Argemon, a little Ulcer of the Eye in that Circle of it which is call'd Iris, comprehending part of the white and black.

Argemone. See Argentina and Anſerina.

Argentina, the ſame with Argemone, ſo call'd from its exceeding white Colour: Silver-weed cools moderately, and is very aſtringent; upon which account it cures ſpitting of Blood, and the immoderate Flux of the Womb and Belly. 'Tis good for the Stone in the Kidneys, and is very uſeful in curing Wounds and Ulcers. 'Tis much commended for eaſing the Pain of the Teeth, and for removing the Putrefaction of the Gums. 'Tis good to aſſwage the Heat of Fevers, which it does very powerfully, being beaten up with Salt and Vinegar, and applied to the Soles of the Feet, and the Arm-wriſts. The Women uſe the diſtill'd Waters to take off Freckles, Spots, and Blotches from the Face. 'Tis affirm'd, that being worn in the Shoes, it will cure the bloody Flux, bleeding at the Noſe, and all immoderate Fluxes of the Belly. See Anſerina.

Argenti Spuma, vel Flos; Lytharge.

Argentum vivum, the ſame with Mercury or Mercurius.

Arges, the Name of a Serpent, which ſtealing into the Mouth of a certain Young Man, he died with Convulſions.

Argentum, Silver.

Argilla, white Earth, or a kind of Chalk that is friable, and void of Fat or Greaſineſs.

Argyrocome, ſo call'd from its white Flowers, a ſort of Cudweed.

See

See Gnaphalium.

Aridura, a particular Consumption, or wasting away of some Member of the Body.

Arilli, the same with Acini.

Arisarum, a small sort of Wake-Robin. See Arum.

Aricymon, a Woman that soon conceives, and is pregnant, or fruitful.

Aridita's Corporis, a Marasmus, or Hectick Dryness.

Aristalthæa, common Marshmallows.

Aristolochia, Birth-wort, the Root is hot and dry, doth discuss, attenuate, open, and cleanse; but the round is of finer parts, the long of grosser; both are Cephalick, Epatick, and Pulmonick. It's said to have got its Name from its Excellency of promoting the Delivery in Women.

Aristophaneion, the Name of an Emollient Plaister, made of Pitch, Wax, Opopanax, and Vinegar.

Armeniaca malus, the Armenian Apple, doubtless so call'd from its Native Soil.

Arista, an Ear of Corn.

Armenus, five Armenius Lapis, a Stone full of green, blue, and black Spots, as Lapis Lazuli is of golden; so that they differ only in Maturity. But Lapis Lazuli is more frequently found in Golden Mines, this in Silver. 'Tis call'd the Armenian Stone, because it was from thence first brought into Europe; but now it is found also in Germany, and especially in Tyrol, under the Name of Melochites. The bleweſt is the best for Use, being a Purgative, to be given from one Dram to four Scruples.

Armerius Flos, an Herb call'd Sweet-William.

Armilla Membranosa, a circular ligament comprehending the manifold Ligaments of the whole Hand in a kind of Circle in the Region of the Carpus.

Armoniacum Sal Nativum; the Native describ'd by the Ancients was to be found among the Lybian Sands; but the Artificial is only known to us, which is nothing but a bitter Salt, made of Urine, Soot, common Salt, Sal Gem, and the like. The best Salt Armoniack is clear and white; but if it be not so, it may be purified. The best is reckon'd to come from Antwerp and Venice. It has a great many Names among the Chymists; and among the rest that of Sal mirabile, and of Clavis metallorum, or the Key of Metals, because it makes them melt quickly.

Armoracia, a sort of Radish.

Arnaldia, is the Name of a Disease formerly common in England, of a malignant, slow, and chronick Nature. Tho' there is no certainty of the Origin of the Name, or the immediate and special Signification of the Disease; yet it is thought to be a Species of the Venereal Disease, tho' of a milder Nature as to its Progress, yet more severe in its Symptoms.

Arnogloſſum, Ribwort, Plantain.

Aroma, an Oderiferous Spice; as Cloves, Cinnamons, Galangal, &c. or any Medicine compos'd of Aromaticks, of a grateful penetrating Taste and Smell, in their own kind Hot, Volatile, and of a Spirituous Nature, giving Motion and Activity to the Blood and Juices of the Body.

Aromatopola, a Seller of Spices.

Aronia, and Aria Mespilus. See Mespilus.

Arquatus Morbus, five Arcuatus, the same with Icterus.

Arrhabom, that is, any Person that wants Sutures in the Scull, whereby the Cause of a Cephalalgia is render'd incurable.

Arrhœa, properly speaking, a Suppression of the Menses.

Arsenicum, Arsenick, is a mineral Fat, inflamable Juice, of a corrosive Quality, and a deadly Poison: There are three sorts of it, White, Red, and Yellow, under three Denominations.

Ars, Art.

Artemisia, Mugwort, 'tis frequently used by Women, inwardly and outwardly, in all the Diseases peculiar to them. Three Drams of the dried Herb taken in Wine, is an excellent Remedy for the Hip Gout. The green Herb, or the Juice of it taken in some convenient Liquor, is of great Use for those that have taken too much Opium.

Arteria trachea, or Aspera, the Windpipe, is a Cartilaginous Vessel implanted in the Lungs, and consisting of various Rings and Parts. The forepart of it is full of Ligaments, and depressed for the better passing of the Gullet; its upper part is call'd Larynx, and the lower Bronchium. Its Use is for the Voice, and taking in Breath.

Arteria Aorta, or Magna, the great Artery is a Vessel that beats continually, fasten'd to the left Ventricle of the Heart. It consists of four Tunicks, and receives the Blood in the Lungs, which is sent from the Heart, and elaborated by the Nitre in the Air, and diffuses it thro' the whole Body for its Nourishment.

Arteria Cæliaca; see Cæliaca Arteria.

Arteria Magna, the same with Arteria Aorta.

Arteriaca Medicamenta, Medicines which help the Voice, and correct the faults of the Windpipe.

Arteria Venosa, the Vein of the Lungs, is the Vessel which conveys the Blood out of the Lungs into the left Ventricle or Concavity of the Heart. It has 2 Valves or Covers, in the shape of a Half-moon.

Arthanita, see Cyclamen, Sowbread.

Arteriotomia, an artificial opening of an Artery, for the Letting of Blood in an inveterate Head-ach, Madness, Falling-sickness, Pain and Inflammation in the Eyes and Ears. The Section is made in the Forehead, Temples, or behind the Ears. The manner of it is thus: After the Ligatures made in the Arms or Neck, the Artery is cut just as a Vein is, and when the Blood is emitted, you apply a very astringent Plaister, with a Leaden Plate, to the Orifice, and then swathe it well. The Cure is perform'd in seven or nine Days time.

Arthetica, or Arthritica, is the Herb call'd Camæpytis. See Chamæpytis.

Arthrembolus, an Instrument so call'd where, by the Assistance of the Joynt, the Luxated Bone is thrown into its proper Place, or natural Situation.

Arthritica. See Arthritis.

Arthritis, or Morbus articularis, the Gout exercises its Tyranny about two or three, or more Joints, and their Interstices, and it is defin'd to be a Pain about the Joints, pro-proceeding from an Effervescence of the Nervous acid Juice with the fix'd saline Particles of the Blood, whence the Nerves, Tendons, Ligaments, the thin Membranes about the Bones are contracted, and miserably tormented; whence proceeds Swellings, Redness, hard sandy Concretions in several Parts of the Body, and other Symptoms that accompany it. It is fourfold, Chiragra, the Gout in the Hands; Ischias, in or about that Bone that is connected to the Os Illium; Gonagra, in the Knees; and Podagra, in the Feet; almost an incurable Distemper. Lucian has writ a whole Tragedy concerning the Varieties of Gouts.

Arthritis Planetica, the same with Arthritis Vaga.

Arthritis Vaga, or Planetica, a wandring Gout, is a Disease in the Joints that creates pain, sometimes in one Limb, sometimes in another. It is call'd Vaga, wandring, because 'tis not constant to one and the same place, as the true Gout is. Its Cause is owing to a Fermatition of the Acid and Alcali; which as it happens in one Joint or other, vellicates the Nervous Fibres, and produces that Pain. The wandring Gout or Rheumatism.

Arthrodia, the joining of Bones, when the Cavity that receives the Bone is in the Surface, and the little Head or Top of the Bone that is receiv'd is depress; as in the lower Jaw-bone, with the Bone of the Temples.

Arthron, a Joint, or connexion of Bones, proper for the performing of Motion. Articuli are sometimes the Knuckles of the Fingers.

Arthrosis, the same with Articulatio.

Articoca and Articocalis, Artichoke.

Articularis Morbus; see Arthritis.

Articulus, Articulatio, Articulamentum. Articulation is a natural connexion or composition of diverse Bones, and differs from the Symphysis, which is a union or coalition of Bones. 'Tis divided into the Diarthrosin the Dearticulation, which is a looser structure of the Bones, the motion of which is evident; and into a Synarthrosin, which is a closer conjunction; and into a Ginglymum, when one Bone receives in its Sinus the Process of another, and on the contrary, the other Bone in its Sinus the Process of the former; as is perform'd in the Thigh-bone and the Tibia, in the Shoulder-bone and the Ulna.

Articuli, the parts of Plants which swell into Knuckles or Joints, from whence Branches often come forth.

Articulus. See Arthron.

Artiscus, in general signifies a Trochy made of the small size of Bread; but more particularly it is that which is made of the Flesh of Vipers mix'd with Bread, and prepar'd purposely for the Composition of Treacle.

Artomeli, a certain Cataplasm made of Honey and Bread.

Artopticius panis, tosted Bread.

Artus, Members growing to Cavities in the Body, and distinguish'd by Joints.

Artyma, that is Condimentum, a Confect.

Aruina, the same with Lard, Fat, &c.

Arum, Wake-robin, Cuckoo-pintle: The Root, especially of that which is ſpotted, green or dry, taken to the quantity of a dram, is an excellent Remedy for Poiſon, and in the Plague; ſome add to it the like quantity of Treacle. The Root boil'd and mix'd with Honey cures all flegmatick Humours of the Breaſt; it cures Ruptures, and provokes Urine. Women uſe the diſtill'd Water of the Root to beautifie their Faces, but the Juice thereof ſet in the Sun, is much better: The dry'd Root is an excellent Medicine for the Scurvy, and is full as effectual in cold Diſeaſes of the Spleen and Stomach, eſpecially for Wind.

Arundo, or Harundo, a Reed, Cane, or Bulruſh.

Aryſter, ſome hollow Veſſel to draw Water with, as a Waterpot, Bucket, &c.

Arytænoides, ſeu Guttales & Gutturniiformes, two Cartilages which with others make up the top of the Larynx. 'Tis taken alſo for certain Muſcles of the Larynx.

Arythmus, ſeu Cacorythmus, a Pulſe loſt to Senſe. See Cacorythmus.

As or Aſſis, a Pound containing 12 Ounces; ſome take it for two drams.

Aſa dulcis, the ſame as Benzoin.

Aſabon, Sapo or Soap.

Aſæſtus, Limeſtone.

Aſagen, Dragons Blood.

Aſagi, Vitriol.

Aſa Fœtida, a Gum preſt out of the Root of a certain Plant which grows in Perſia, betwixt Lura and Gameron.

Aſaphatum. See Saphatum.

Aſs or Aſſis, the leaſt piece of Money that is current, and in weight a Pound.

Aſaphia, a lowneſs of Voice, which proceeds from a looſe or ill Conſtitution, or Contemperature of the Organs.

Aſarcon, ſignifies ſtrictly to be deſtitute of Fleſh.

Aſarum, Aſarabacca, it purges violently upward and downward Flegm and Choler; 'tis diuretick alſo, and forces the Courſes.

Aſcaris, or Aſcarides, little Worms which breed in the Inteſtinum rectum, and then tickle and trouble it. They're bred of ſome Excrements which ſtay longer than they ought, and there putrifie.

Aſcia, a ſort of Bandage.

Aſciticus, a Perſon that hath the Dropſy call'd the Aſcites.

Aſcites, a Dropſy, or ſwelling of the Abdomen, and conſequently of the Scrotum, Thighs, and Feet, proceeding from a Serous, and ſometimes Lymphatick or Chylous Matter like the waſhing of Fleſh, collected in the cavity of thoſe parts.

Aſclepias, ſeu Hirundinaria, ſeu Vincetoxicum, Swallow-wort; the Root of it is very alexipharmick and ſudorifick; 'tis chiefly us'd for the Plague and other contagious Diſeaſes, for Obſtructions of the Courſes, for the Palpitation of the Heart, Fainting, and Dropſy, and for the Stone; the Flowers, the Root, and the Seeds cleanſe ſordid Ulcers.

Aſcos, a Bladder or Skin, the uſe whereof was to nouriſh the Part affected, by filling it with warm Water, Oil, &c. Or fill'd with Wind, it us'd to be apply'd to the Spine, or the reduction of a luxated Joint.

Aſcyrum, St. Peter's Wort.

Aſef, the ſame with Hydora.

Aſellus, beſides the vulgar acceptation, this Word is apply'd to various purpoſes, and ſignifies Milk, the Spleen, Kidnies, Teſtes, Penis, Nails, Urine, Dung, &c. beſides, 'tis often us'd for an Inſect call'd Millepedes.

Aſellus-Piſcis, a Fiſh, ſo call'd from its colour, reſembling the colour of an Aſs.

Aſema, a Criſis, or ſudden change in acute Diſeaſes beyond Hope, happening without any previous Indication by Signs.

Aſitia, ſeu Anorexia & Apoſitia, a loathing of Meat.

Aſodes. See Aſſodes.

Aſpalathum lignum, the ſame as Lignum Rhodum. It bears a vaſt number of ſmall, but very odoriferous Flowers; the ancient Phyſicians being unacquainted with the true Aſpalathum, us'd in its ſtead the yellow Sandal-wood.

Aſparagus & Aſparagos, commonly call'd Sparrowgraſs. The Root is Diuretick and Lithontriptick, and is one of the five opening Roots; it opens the Obſtructions of the Liver and Spleen, eſpecially of the Kidneys, and therefore 'tis frequently uſed in Diuretick Decoctions. The Stalks boil'd gently, according to cuſtom, and eaten, looſen the Belly, and provoke Urine, but they make it ſmell ill. A Decoction of the Roots drank, relieves thoſe that make Water difficultly, and thoſe that have the Jaundice, and others that are afflicted with Nephritick Pains, or the Hip-gout.

Aſpera Arteria, or Trachea, is an oblong Pipe conſiſting of various Cartilages and Membranes, which begin at the Throat, or lower part of the Jaw; it lies upon the Gullet, deſcends into the Lungs, and is diſpers'd by manifold Ramifications or Branches through their whole ſubſtance. The upper part is call'd Larynx, and the lower Bronchus; to which Malpighius adds a third or loweſt, called by him Veſicular. It is ſubſervient to Speech and Reſpiration.

Aſperella, the ſame with Aſprella.

Aſpergula, or Aſpergo, or Aſperula, the ſame with Aparine.

Aſphalatus. See Rhodium.

Aſphaltitis, the firſt Vertebra of the Loins, which from the Kidneys is call'd Nephritis.

Aſphaltos, a ſort of Pitch gather'd from the Lake Aſphaltites, in Paleſtine.

Aſpharagos, the ſame with Aſparagus.

Aſpendamnos, & Sphendamnos, Mountain Maple.

Aſphyxia, that is, a loſs or deprivation of the Pulſe, wherein no motion appears ſenſible to the Touch; it may be call'd an interception of the Spirits, the ſame with the Lipoſychia or Syncope, the Heart not duly dilating or contracting; or elſe a deficiency of Blood and Spirits to ſupply it.

Aſpodelus, the Herb Aſpodill.

Aſpis, a kind of Serpent that is the moſt venomous.

Aſpidon, Alyſſon, of Dioſcorides.

Aſplenium, Spleenwort; 'tis call'd Spleenwort becauſe 'tis effectual in curing Diſeaſes of the Spleen; 'tis chiefly us'd for ſwellings of the Spleen, for ſpitting of Blood, and a Looſneſs; outwardly us'd, it cleanſes Wounds and Ulcers; one dram of the golden Powder on the under ſide of the Leaves, with half a dram of white Amber Amber powder'd, drank in the Juice of Purſlain, relieves thoſe wonderfully that have a Gonorrhœa. See Splenion.

Aſprella, the greater Horſetail.

Aſſa Fœtida, & Dulcis. See Aſa.

Aſſa Dulcis, the ſame with Benzoin.

Aſſarius, a Weight containing two drams.

Aſſatio, ab Aſſare, roaſting, toaſting, or boiling; as we toaſt Rhubarb, or boil or bake the Scilla in an Oven.

Aſſimilatio, this is what's call'd a ſupply of Food or Nutrition when that which nouriſhes is alter'd, and becomes like what is nouriſhed.

Aſſis, the ſame with Opium and Moconion; or 'tis a Powder prepar'd from Leaves of Hemp, which, being mix'd with Water, the Egyptians ſwallow 5 Boles or more of the ſize of a Cheſnut, by which means the Men being made drunk for an hour, perform their mad Frolicks, and becoming ecſtatick, pleaſe themſelves with delightful Viſions or Dreams.

Aſſodes, a continual Fever, wherein the outward Parts are moderately warm, but with a great heat within, and an inſatiable drought, perpetual toſſing, watching, and raving.

Aſtaphis, vel Staphis, a dry'd Grape or Raiſin.

Aſter, Starwort, becauſe the figure of its Flowers are like Stars.

Aſterion & Aſteriſcus. See Aſter.

Aſthma, a frequent, difficult and ſhort Reſpiration, join'd with an hiſſing Sound and a Cough, eſpecially in the Night-time, which continues dry for ſome time. It is often attended with a Fever, Pleuriſie, Cholick, palpitation of the Heart, and divers other Symptoms: The Cauſes therefore are a ſharp and ſcorbutic Blood, which too much vellicates the Organs of Reſpiration, and puts 'em into a meer convulſive motion, whereby the Lungs are puft up, and the circulation of the Blood is hinder'd, whence Suffocations, Swoons and Coughs eaſily proceed.

Aſthmaticus, he that labours under an Aſthma, or difficulty of breathing, or ſhortneſs of Breath.

Aſtragaloides, an Herb like

Aſtragalus, a ſort of Pulſe.

Aſtragalus, ſeu Os Baliſtæ, the firſt and moſt principal Bone, which, together with other little Bones in the Foot, make up that part of the foot which immediately ſucceeds the Leg in Beaſts, called the Paſtern, the Huckle-bone.

Aſtrantia. See Imperatoria.

Aſtricta alvus. See Alvus aſtricta & Coproſia.

Aſtrictoria. See Aſtringentia.

Aſtringentia, binding things, are thoſe which with the thickneſs and figure of their Particles force and bind together the parts of the Body. Aſtringent Medicines.

Aſtrion, ſeu Stellaria & Stella, an Herb like a Star.

Aſtrobles, Apoplecticus.

Aſtroboliſmus, the ſame with Sphacelus, a kind of Gangrene.

Aſtrocynologia, a reaſoning about critical Days, call'd Dog-days.

Aſtroites, or the Star-ſtone, remarkable for having ſeveral ſtains or ſpots in the form of Stars.

Aſtrologia, a reaſoning about the Vertues of the Stars; not ſo neceſſary to Phyſicians as the Ancients imagin'd. Aſtrology.

Aſtronomia, a naming of the Stars,

Stars, or a knowledge of the Laws and Rules of Stars and Conſtellations, or a knowledge concerning or about the Stars. Aſtronomy.

Ataxia, a confounding of critical Days, according to the Method uſed by the Ancients.

Ataxmir, a Cure of the Eye, which is perform'd when Hairs grow preternaturally in the Eyelids, under the natural Hair.

Atecnia, the ſame with Agonia.

Athanaſia, Tanacetum.

Athanatos. See Athanaſia.

Athanor, a Chymical Furnace. Some will have it a Furnace adapted for Sublimation in the great Work of the Philoſopher's Stone. By ſome 'tis alſo call'd the Lazy Henry, and the Chymical Womb.

Atheroma, a Tumor, contain'd within its own Coat, ariſing from a pappy Humour, without Pain, not eaſily yielding to the Fingers, nor leaving any Dint after it is compreſt.

Athleticus, is a hale vigorous Conſtitution of Body, wherein the natural heat gives the greateſt ſtrength and perfection.

Athymia, a defection or anxiety of Mind.

Atinia Ulmus, ſo call'd from the City Atina in Campania.

Atlas, the firſt Vertebre under the Head; ſo call'd becauſe it ſeems to hold up the Head. It has no Marrow.

Atle, an Egyptian Word, is our Domeſtick Tamarisk.

Atocia, or Atecnia. See Agonia.

Atocium. See Lychnis.

Attomon, and Atomos, white Hellebore.

Atomus, a Body ſo ſmall that it is not capable of being divided into leſſer parts, as are the Elementary Particles of Spirit, Salt, Sulphur, Water, and Earth; tho' in effect there be no ſuch thing; for ſince even the leaſt Particle has its threefold dimenſion, it may be divided.

Atonia, a Faintneſs, Infirmity, defect of ſtrength.

Atra Bilis, ſulphureous and ſaline, earthy, aduſt, and black Blood, which is bred in the Body and gather'd in the Spleen; for there 'tis volatiliz'd and exalted into a ferment fit to mix with the Blood. See Melancholia.

Atractylis, a ſort of Carduus.

Atraphraxis, Atriplex; ſee Atriplex.

Atretus, one whoſe Fundament or privy Parts is not perforated.

Atriplex and Atriplexum, Orrach or Arrach: The ſtinking Arrach is good for Mother-fits, and Womens Obſtructions, a Conſerve being made of the Leaves, or a Syrup of the Juice.

Atraphaxis; ſee Atraphraxis.

Atrophia, or Tabes, is when the whole Body, or any one part of it is not nouriſh'd, but gradually withers and decays. Tabes is often taken only for an Ulcer in the Lungs, whereby the whole Body by little and little periſhes and decays. A Conſumption.

Atta, is one who by reaſon of the tenderneſs of, or other defects in his Feet, touches the Ground rather than treads it.

Attenuantia, or Incidentia, are thoſe things which opening the Pores with their acuminate Particles, cut the thick and viſcous Humours in the Body.

Attenuatio, the ſubtiliſation of the Particles of ſome Medicine, that that it may the better and easier pass the Lacteal Veins.

Attonitus Morbus, the same with an Apoplexy. Celsus takes it for a blasting, occasion'd by Thunder and Lightning.

Attractylis, the same with Atractylis.

Attrahentia, drawing things, are those which opening the Pores with their little Particles, and dilating the Humours, and expelling them where their resistance is weaker, not only swell the parts, and make 'em red, but by driving more Vapours and Humours out of the Skin and Flesh than can make their way thro' a thick inner Skin, gather them under it, and swell it into little Bladders; sometimes they draw out little Splinters, and such-like.

Attritio, Attrition; grinding, rubbing, fretting, &c. the superficial solution of the Cuticula and Cutis from the compression of Bodies makes an Attrition; so the Feet and Thighs in travelling are rubb'd and fretted. Attrition makes a kind of Heart-burn, when the Stomach, from the Food receiv'd into it, grinds it by the contraction of its Fibres, and too strict a compression of the Muscles from a difficulty of breathing.

Auctio Corporis, Nutrition, whereby more is restor'd than was lost.

Aucupalis Sorbus, and Aucuparia Sorbus, or Ornus.

Auditorius Meatus, is a round Foramen or Orifice belonging to the Ears, not only reaching to the Membrane of the Brain, but also touches the Auditory Nerve, which descends into it from the Brain.

Auditus, Hearing, is a sense wherein Sounds (from the various motion of the circumambient Air beating the Drum of the Ear) are communicated to the common Sensory by the Auditory Nerve, and are there felt and perceiv'd.

Avella Nux, the Hasel-Nut.

Avena, Oats; they are dry and astringent. The Meal is used outwardly in Cataplasms, for it dries and digests moderately. In the Cholick Oats fry'd with a little Salt and applied hot to the Belly, give great ease, if the Guts are not stuffed with Excrements; if they are, a Clyster must first be given.

Augmentum Febrium, or Incrementum, is a Computation from what time the heat of a continual Fever has seiz'd upon the whole mass of Blood, till it hath arriv'd at the height.

Aviculæ Cypreæ, are Aromatick Lozenges.

Aura, an Airy Exhalation, Spirit, or Vapour.

Aurantium Malum, an Orange. The flowers of Oranges are much esteem'd for a good smell; the distill'd Water of 'em is also very fragrant, and is not only fragrant but useful too against the Plague and contagious Diseases; the bark kills Worms, strengthens the heart and stomach; the juice is cooling and creates Appetite, and extinguishes Thirst, and therefore is of good use in Fevers: Oranges are also good for the Scurvy. Some derive its Name from its Colour resembling Gold.

Aurea Alexandrina, a sort of Opiate or Antidote, so call'd from Alexander, a noted Physician; and because Gold is one of its Ingredients.

Aures Cordis, Auriculæ, or the little little Ears of the Heart.

Aureum Unguentum, the Golden Ointment, so call'd from its Colour

Auremia, see Elichryson.

Aureus Arabum, seu Denarius Romanus, the 7th part of an Ounce, being a sort of Weight amongst the Arabians of a Dram and a 7th part, the same with Denarius.

Auricomum, a sort of Crowfoot.

Auricularis Digitus, the little Finger. See Digitus.

Auricula Judæ, Jews-Ear, a spongy Substance or Excrescence that grows to the Trunk of the Elder-tree; being dried, it will keep good a Year; boil'd in Milk, or infus'd in Vinegar, it is good to gargle the Mouth or Throat in Quinzies, and other Inflammations of the Mouth and Throat; and being infus'd in some proper Water, 'tis good in Diseases of the Eyes.

Auricula Muris, Mouse-Ear; 'tis very astringent and vulnerary, wherefore it is used very successfully in Wound-drinks, Plaisters, and Ointments; it cures the Dissentery, and other Fluxes of the Belly, and stops Vomiting, and cures Childrens Ruptures, and is excellent in the Stone; it is also commended for the Chin-cough.

Auricula Ursi, Bear's Ear.

Auricula Infima, the same with Lobus Auris.

Auricula Cordis, the Ear of the Heart; there are two of them, the Right and the Left, the Right receives the Blood from the Vena Cava, or great Vein, which is carried into the right Ventricle, and then enters the Lungs; the Left is that which receives the Blood rightly prepar'd and fermented by the Nitrous Air from the Lungs, that it may be discharg'd by the left Ventricle into the great Artery, and thence be distributed into every part of the Body.

Auriga, a sort of Bandage, called the Waggoner, because it is often used by Coachmen, to keep their Back and Sides strait, and free from Pain.

Aurigo, the same with Ictterus.

Auripigruentum, see Arcenicum.

Auris, the Ear, is the Organ of the Hearing, which is either External, whose upper part is call'd Pinna, or Ala, and the Under Lobus, the Lobe, or Auricula Infima, the lowest part of the Ear; its External Circumference is call'd Helix; the Internal, Anthelix; or Internal, in which you may consider the Drum, the four little Bones, with the little Muscles, the Concha, or Hollowness, the Foramen Ovale, the Oval Hole, the Labyrinth.

Auriscalpium, an Instrument appointed for purging the Ears, and accommodated to other uses in Cases of the Ear.

Aurium Abscessus, an Abscess or Ulcer of the Ear.

Aurium Dolor, the Ear-ach.

Aurium Inflammatio, is to be understood of the Nature of an Inflammation in general.

Aurium Sonitus, or Tinnitus, a Noise in the Ear.

Aurium Sordes, or Cerumen, Ear-wax.

Aurum, Gold, the noblest of Metals.

Austerus, that which is of an Earthy Quality, mix'd with a saline Tartar, having an astringent, rough, binding Faculty.

Austromantia is a kind of superstitious Imagination, arising from the Observation of Winds.

Authemeron, a Medicine so called, led, becauſe it is ſaid to cure the very Day it is adminiſter'd.

Autogenes, the Narciſſus, with a white Flower.

Automos, that which moves of its own accord, as the Motion of the Heart, the Digeſtions and Fermentations of the Bowels.

Autopſia, the Ocular Inſpection of any thing.

Autopyros, what is made of whole Grains, without any Bran taken from, or added to it. This ſort of Bread is prefer'd before any other, becauſe the Bran is cleanſing.

Autopyros Artos, Bread made of Flower and Bran together.

Autumnus, the Autumn, or Fall.

Auxilium, or Remedium, is whatſoever is good againſt a Diſeaſe by a contrary Vertue; and it is threefold, Diet, Medicine, and Chirurgery.

Auxyris, as alſo Scoparia, becauſe formerly they uſed to make Brooms of it. See Oſyris.

Axilla, the Cavity under the upper part of the Arm, call'd the Armpit, hairy in adult People.

Axillares Venæ & Arteriæ, Veins and Arteries which, from the uppermoſt part of the Venæ Cavæ and Arteria Magna, ſtretch above the Heart to the Arms, and the Armpits.

Axioma, a Propoſition built upon the Authority of Hippocrates or Galen; but of little validity now that Phyſick is built upon Reaſon and Experience.

Axis, the third Vertebre from the Scull.

Axungia, the Fat or Tallow of an Hog.

Axyris. See Auxyris.

Azagor, Viride Æris, Copper.

Azamar, Vermilion, or red Lead

Azanenec, Sal Armoniac.

Azarnet, Auripigmentum.

Azai, Ink.

Azedegrin, Lapis Hæmalites.

Azeg, Vitriol.

Azem, boil'd Butter.

Azemaſor, Cinaber.

Azoth, ſometimes ſignifies the Mercury of any Metallick Body, ſometimes an univerſal Remedy, as 'tis thought, made of Mercury, and prepar'd with gold and ſilver. A few Years ago it was famous among the Vulgar, and Perſons of Quality too, of different colour, according to the diverſity of the Preparation, which proving often too troubleſome, it begun to decreaſe both in Price and Repute.

Azub, Alum.

Azubo, a Chymical Veſſel.

Azuc, red Coral.

Azuric, red Vitriol, or Colcothar.

Azurium, a certain hard Chymical maſs made of two parts of Mercury, a third Sulphur, and a fourth Sal Armoniac.

Azyges, is the Os Cuneiforme. See the Splenoides.

Azygos, a famous Vein towards the left ſide, about the Heart, call'd Sine Pari, or Jugo, which reaches to the Vertebres, and proceeds from the Venæ Cavæ, the Great hollow Vein. The Vein without a fellow.

Azuer, Sky-colour.

Azymus, Unleavened, Unwholſome Bread.

B

Baccæ, Berries; as of Juniper, Bay, &c.

Baccar Baccaris, a ſweet Herb; its Root ſmells like Cinnamon.

Bac-

Bacchica, see Hedera.

Baccinia, and Baccinium; see Vaccinia.

Bacilli, those Medicines which are of a long, round Figure, like a Stick or Pillar; as for instance, a Stick of Liquorice, bruised at one end, for the use of a Linctus, in cases of an Asthma or Cough, according to the Prescription of the ancient Galenical and Arabian Physicians. Bacilli also signify the Sweet-scented Candles, made use of when a corrupted dead Carcase is to be open'd.

Balanæum, or Balneum, is properly a Remedy appropriated to the cure, purifying and sweating of the Body, being a washing of the whole Body; yet it is sometimes taken for a washing of the lower parts only, which they commonly call Insessus, and Semicupia; and it is either dry or moist; the dry are prepar'd of Ashes, common Salt, Sand, filed Steel, &c. The moist are either Vaporous or Watery. The former are made of the Decoctions of Roots, Herbs, Flowers, Seeds, &c. the Vapour whereof is all that is taken. The Watery are either Artificial, which are made of Physical Decoctions; or Natural, which are call'd Thermæ Baths, whose Waters are either Aluminous, Ironish, Copperish, Nitrous, Sulphureous, Bituminous, Vitriolick, &c. all which Waters are call'd Acidulæ.

Balanida, or Valanida, see Esculus.

Balanocastanum, see Bulbocastinianum.

Balanus, or Glans, the Nut of the Yard cover'd with the Foreskin; also the Clitoris of a Woman; also all Fruits and Roots that have round Heads, as a Walnut, also an Acorn, an Earth Chesnut, also a Suppository. See more of each in their proper places.

Balanus Marepsica, five Nux Unguentaria, in the Shops call'd Ben. It comes from Egypt, Ethiopia, Arabia, Syria, and Barbary. Pliny calls it Myrobolanum.

Balatro, or Bambalio, is a defect in the Tongue, proceeding from the relaxation of the Muscles, or its Ligament, accompanied with a superfluity of Spittle. Sometimes 'tis taken for a worthless vain Person. See Balbuties.

Balæna, is a large Fish of the Whale kind, full of hot Blood, having a Pipe or Spout in the Head for the attraction of Air and the throwing out of Water, in this differing from the Fish call'd Musculus.

Balaudina, a factitious Stone, compos'd of the Mercury of Iron, and is of a red colour, and shines much, by reason of its Sulphur.

Balasius Lapis, a Gem of a shining Purple or Rose-colour, call'd by some Placidus. 'Tis a third Species of the Carbuncle.

Balaustium, the Flower of the wild Pomegranate.

Balbis, signifies an oblong Cavity in that part of the Arm towards the swelling of the Cubit that receives it as 'twere into the Sinuous Process of the Cubit which is call'd Corona, or Cornix, when the Hand is extended.

Balbuties, a stuttering or stammering, occasion'd by some fault in the Muscles and other Organs of the Tongue, which is the reason they can't pronounce certain Letters, or at least not without much difficulty.

Baliſtæ Os; ſee Aſtragalus.

Ballote, a ſort of Marrubium.

Balneum, this has various denominations among the Chymiſts, as that of Sand, Aſhes, Iron, of Mary, of the Sea, the Vaporous, &c. according as the diſtilling Veſſel is put, either in Sand, Aſhes, or Filings of Iron, or in Water, or placed ſo high as to receive only the Vapours of the Water underneath it, as is done alſo in ſweating, this laſt being the ſame with Balaneum.

Balſamella, the ſame with

Balſamina and Balſaminum, an Herb whereof a Balſam is made to heal Ulcers.

Balſamitox, an Herb ſo call'd from the balſamick ſmell it hath; ſome apply it to the Mouth.

Balſamus, or Balſamum, the Balſamtree, is a Shrub bearing Leaves like Rue; this is to be underſtood of that in Syria; that of Egypt has Leaves like the Maſticktree. The Fruit is call'd Carpobalſamus, the Twigs Xylobalſamus, and the Juice Opobalſamum. The word Balſam is us'd very differently in Shops: 1. It ſignifies a certain ſort of Perfume, of a ſomewhat thick conſiſtence like an Ointment; and this is its moſt uſual ſignification, as for inſtance, Balſam of Roſes, Apoplectick, and the like. 2. There are a ſort of Liquors diſtill'd from Gums and Reſinous ſubſtances, with Spirit of Wine, which are anointed outwardly, and theſe are call'd Balſams too, as Nervous Balſam, Sciatick, &c. 3. It ſignifies a Liquor that is anointed into the Body, thicker than Oil, and more liquid than an Ointment. 4. Salt things funded and melted are call'd Balſams, as the Balſam of ſalt of Jewels. 5. There are a ſort of particular Preparations call'd Balſams, as the Balſam of Sulphur, &c. 6. and laſtly, ſome Gums of Trees are call'd Balſams.

Balux, alſo Chryſamos, or more properly Chryſammos, call'd formerly by the Spaniards and Latins Gold-ſand, and now Gold-duſt, from which Gold is made.

Bambalio, the ſame with Balatro.

Bambax, the ſame with Bombax.

Bamma, a Tincture or Liquor wherein any thing is tinged or moiſten'd, as Bread ſopt in Broth.

Baptieſcula; ſee Cyanus.

Baras, the ſame with Alphus.

Barba, the hairy part of the Lips and Chin.

Barba Caprina, an Herb ſo called from the Figure of the Flowers, which ſeem to repreſent a Goat's Beard.

Barba Hirci, the ſame with Tragapogum and Ulmaria.

Barba Jovis, is Semper Vivum, ſeu Sedum, or Houſe-Leek.

Barbarea, Rocket, or Winter-Creſs; it is ſharp and hot, and much of the ſame vertue with Creſſes; it is mix'd with Sallets, eſpecially in Winter-time, when Creſſes are ſcarce; wherefore 'tis call'd Winter-Creſs. It is good in the Scurvey, the Juice of it is mix'd with Ointments, to cleanſe ſordid Ulcers: The Seed is Lithontriptick and Diuretick.

Bardana, Burdock, 'tis drying, Pulmonick, Diuretick, Diaphoretick, cleanſing, and ſomewhat aſtringent, 'tis good in an Aſthma, for the Stone, and ſpitting of Blood, for old Sores, and ſwelling of the Spleen, and all other parts, in Gouty Diſeaſes, wherein it is peculiarly proper. The Seed is an

an excellent Lithontriptick, being powder'd and taken in Small-beer or Poſſet-drink. The Leaves are applied outwardly to old ſores and to burns. The Seed powdered, and taken 40 Days together, cures the Hipgout; 'tis the ſame with Lappa; ſee Lappa.

Barometrum, vel Baroſcopium, a certain Inſtrument ſo call'd by the curious Enquirers into Nature, in which, by the Aſſiſtance of Mercury put therein, the Weight and Preſſure of the Air, according to the minuteſt Obſervations, may be obſerv'd and ſeen.

Baros Onus, a certain Weight, Laſſitude, or Wearineſs in the Limbs.

Baryococcalon, is Stramonium.

Barycoja, heavineſs or hardneſs of Hearing.

Baryphonia, difficulty in ſpeaking

Barypicron, Broad-leav'd Wormwood.

Baſilare Os; ſee Baſis.

Baſilica, the inner Vein of the Arm, cal'd Hepatica, or Liver-vein.

Baſilicum, a rich precious Medicine that excels all others.

Baſilicum, the ſame with Oſimum, a very ſweet-ſcented Herb.

Baſiogloſſi, a pair of Muſcles, riſing from the Os Hyodes, and ending in the middle of the Tongue, the uſe of which are to depreſs.

Baſis, the upper part of the Heart, which is oppoſite to the point: It is alſo the Ground or Foundation of the Bone Hyoides, for the uſe of the Tongue; alſo the principal Ingredient in a Preſcription.

Bathmis, a Cavity in the Bone of the Arm or Shoulder, on each ſide one; whereinto, when the whole Hand is ſtretch'd forth and bended, the Proceſs of the undermoſt and leſſer of the two long Bones of the Cubit enters.

Bathypricon, Broad-leav'd Wormwood, noted for its exceſſive bitterneſs.

Batia, the ſame with Retorts, or Cucurbits, Glaſs or Earthen Bodies with crooked Necks.

Batinon Moron, Rasberries; the Berries are very cordial, and taſte very well; the Syrup is very good in Fevers.

Batis, and Batos, a Buſh.

Batrachioides, a ſort of Geranium

Batrachium, Crow-foot; ſee Ranunculus.

Batrachus, Rana & Ranula, ſeu Hypogloſſis, a Tumour under the Tongue, which makes one croak like a Frog when they ſpeak.

Baurac, an Arabian Word for Nitre in general, it ſignifies any kind of Salt.

Baucia, white Parſnip.

Bdellium, a Tear, or Reſinous Gum, dropt from a thorny Tree growing in India, Arabia, and Media, reſembling in Taſte and Colour to Myrrh, ſomewhat bitteriſh, tranſparent, and well ſcented.

Becabunga, Brook-lime, it heats and moiſtens moderately; it is chiefly uſed in the Scurvy, it powerfully expels the Stone of the Kidneys and Bladder, it provokes the Courſes, and expels a dead Child. Outwardly applied, it cures inflamed Tumours, and St. Anthony's Fire; it is much of the ſame Vertue with Water-Creſſes, only not ſo ſtrong.

Bechion, Colts-foot; ſee Tuſſilago.

Bechica, Medicines good againſt a Cough. Expectorating Medicines.

Bedegarim, or Bedeguar; see Spina Alba.

Behen, there is a conſiderable difference among the Authors concerning the Roots of Behen, but moſt probably they are the Roots of white and red Valerian.

Belenites, or Belemnites, from a Dart or Arrow, which figure it reſembles. This is a ſmooth Pyramidal Stone, of various colours, and is ſaid to be good againſt the Stone, yellow Jaundice, Fluxes of the Belly, and is particularly commended in Intermitting Fevers, and hath a power to precipitate the Febrile Ferment.

Belenoides, the Proceſs or ſhooting forth of a Bone, call'd Aliformis, made like a Wing, which is fix'd in the Baſis of the Scull.

Belladonna, ſleeping Nightſhade

Belliculi, a Species of Shell-fiſh, call'd Sea-Cockles, of the Figure of the Navel, being of a white Colour, interſperſed with yellow Spots and black Lines.

Bellis, Bellius flos & Herba Margarita, a Plant bearing Flowers, growing in the Meadows, a Daiſy. There is ſome difference among Writers, about the Temperament of this Plant: Some ſay it is hot and dry; others ſay it is cold and moiſt; but its ſharp Taſte argues Frigidity, and the Effects of its Siccity; both the greater and the leſſer Daiſy are excellent Wound Herbs. Women uſually give the Herb and Flower to Children, to looſen their Bellies. The Roots are uſed outwardly, with very good ſucceſs, in the King's-Evil.

Benedicta Herba, ſee Caryophyllata.

Benedictum, there is a noted Lenitive Electuary under this Name.

Benignus Morbus, a favourable Diſeaſe, is that which has no dreadful Symptoms, but ſuch as are conſonant to its Nature.

Benjamin, or Benzoin, a well-ſcented yellow Roſin, of divers Pieces and Colours, dropt from a tall Tree in China and Sumatra: According to Bontius, it is a Plant or Shrub, like the Salſa Parilla, growing in Java; out of the Rind of which, if cut, diſtils the Gum Benzoin. Mr. Grimm ſays, it is a beautiful Tree of a middle ſize, growing in the Weſt of Sumatra. The Fruit is of the bigneſs of a Haſel-nut, encloſed in a ſhell like Walnuts, ſomewhat Hairy; the Leaves being pale on the upper, and dark-green on the under ſide. The Kernel taſtes bitteriſh. When the Tree is 5 or 6 Years old, they make an Inciſion at length in the Wood, whence iſſues a white, glutinous, and tranſparent Liquor; which being coagulated in the Sun, produces a yellow and white Gum, very well ſcented, and not unlike Frankincenſe.

Berberis, the ſame Tree with the Oxyacantha, the Barberry-tree, the Berries are cool and aſtringent; they provoke Appetite, and ſtrengthen the Stomach, and therefore the Conſerve of them is frequently uſed in Fevers, in a Looſneſs, and the bloody Flux. The inward Bark of the Branches, and Root, infuſed in White-wine, is an excellent Remedy for the Jaundice. The Juice of the Berries, a Decoction of the Bark, or the Juice of the Leaves mix'd with Vinegar, cure the Pain of the Teeth occaſion'd by Fluxion, the Conſerve of it frequently taken, cures Inflamations of the Mouth and Throat, or the Mouth being gargl'd with ſome of the Conſerve diſſolv'd in Vinegar.

Mouth

Berriberi, a ſort of Cow's Lip. As alſo the Name of a Diſeaſe among the Indians, of the Species of our Palſey.

Beryllus, the Beryl-ſtone.

Bes, alias Beſſis, Baſſis, Biſſa, vel Biſe, alias Libra numularia & Octonaria, Eight Ounces.

Beta, Beet, it is hot and dry, looſens the Belly, by reaſon of its Nitroſity; it is an Errhine, eſpecially the Root, for the Juice receiv'd into the Noſtrils, occaſions Neezing. The young Plants, with their Roots, gently boil'd, and eaten with Vinegar, procure an Appetite, extinguiſh Thirſt, and ſuppreſs Choler in the Stomach. The Juice of this Herb drawn up into the Noſtrils, powerfully evacuates Phlegmatick Humours from the Brain, and cures inveterate Head-achs.

Betonica, ſeu Veronica, Betony; many Vertues are attributed to this Plant, taken any way. Scroder deſcribes the Vertues in ſhort thus: It is hot and dry, acid and bitter; it diſcuſſes, attenuates, opens, and cleanſes, 'tis Cephalick, Epatick, Splenetick, Thoracick, Uterine, Vulnerary, and Diuretick; it is us'd frequently inwardly and outwardly, eſpecially in Diſeaſes of the Head. 'Tis obſerv'd, that the Faculties of the Root are quite different from the Vertues of the Leaves and Flowers; for it is very nauſeous in the Mouth and Stomach, and occaſions Belching and Vomiting; the Leaves on the contrary, are Aromatick, and of a pleaſant Taſte, and agreeable to Nature: In Food and Phyſick, Tea made of Sage-betony, ground Pine, ſweetned and drank hot, is very good for the Gout, Head-ach, and Diſeaſes of the Nerves, and eaſes Pain occaſion'd by theſe Diſeaſes.

Betula, and Betulla, the Birch-tree, the Leaves are hot and dry, cleanſing, reſolving, opening, and bitter, for which reaſon they are of no ſmall uſe in a Dropſy, and the like. The Bark is Bituminous, and is therefore mix'd with Perfumes, that are to correct the Air, the Fungus of it has an aſtringent quality, upon which account it ſtops Blood miraculouſly. This Tree, in the beginning of Spring, before the Leaves come forth, being pierced, yields plentifully a ſweet and petulant Juice, which Shepherds, when they are thirſty, often drink in the Woods. Dr. Charleton, and others, commend the Vertue and Efficacy of this Liquor, and not undeſervedly, for the Stone in the Kidneys and Bladder, for bloody Urine, and the Strangury; it is alſo good for the Jaundice, to take off ſpots from the Face, and to cure Scorbutick Conſumptions.

Bezoar is either Chymical or Animal. The Chymical is a Compoſition of Butter of Antimony, and Spirit of Nitre, whereof a white Powder is made, good againſt Poiſon, and to provoke ſweat. The Animal Bezoar is twofold, Oriental or Occidental: The Oriental is found in Perſia, and in an Eaſt-India Beaſt, partly like a Stag, and partly like a Goat, it is found in the Stomach, and other Cavities of this Beaſt; it is of an Oval Figure, hollow within, containing ſometimes Straws, Hairs, and ſuch like things; the ſurface is even and bright, they are generally about the bigneſs of a Walnut, hath no ſmell unleſs when broke, and then ſmells like Musk. Artificial ones are made, in Imitation of them, but are not much eſteem'd. The Occidental comes alſo from the ſame Beaſt, but without Horns, in Peru; 'tis generally bigger than the Oriental, the ſurface rough.

Bezoar Animale, is the Liver and Heart of Vipers, dried and powder'd.

Bezoar Minerale, is a Preparation of a Diaphoretick, or Sudorifick Antimony; to which is attributed the ſame Vertue which Oriental Bezoar hath.

Bezoardicum, an Antidote, or Alexipharmick, expelling Poiſons and Malignities.

Bibenella, and Bipennula, the ſame with Pimpinella.

Bibitorius Muſculus, five Oculum adducens, that Muſcle which draws the Eye down towards the Cup when we drink.

Bibliotheca, a Library of Books, alſo a Plant which is call'd Paper, whereof Paper was formerly made Biceps Muſculus, the Muſcle with two Heads, it is the firſt Muſcle of the Cubit and Thigh.

Bicongius, a Meaſure which contains 12 Sextaries, one of which is juſt our Pint and an half.

Bilis, the Gall, a Sulphureous ſaline Excrement of the Blood, ſeparated in the Liver by little Glandules, and is ſent either into the little Bag that contains the Gall, or into the Gut call'd Duodenum, by the Ductus Hepaticus, that it may farther promote the Fermentation of the Victuals, and carry on the Dregs that are left behind, when the Chyle is ſeparated from the whole Maſs. The Gall conſiſts of Sulphur, aduſt Salt, and a little Serum, 'tis naturally yellow. Preternaturally it is of the Colour of the Yolk of an Egg, green like a Leek, Ruſty, and Sky-colour'd; all which varieties of Colours proceed only from different degrees of Heat and Fermentation: It cannot be call'd the Gall, before it is ſeparated from the Blood, contrary to the Opinion of the Ancients: ſee Humores Sanguinei.

Bilioſus, was call'd, according to the Ancients, he that abounded in Gall, or a bileous Humour; Cholerick.

Billychynion, natural Heat, which is communicated to the Fœtus from the Parents, but when 'tis brought forth, that Heat gradually decays, after that the Blood and Spirits of the Child are alter'd, fermented, and accended by Nouriſhment and Nitrous Air. They do but babble who tell us, that this Heat laſts for ever; for if it be Heat, 'tis in continual Motion, and is therefore diſpel'd as other Heats and Fires are.

Biolychnium, Flamma Vitalis, or the Native Heat.

Bioſvita, Life; and ſometimes it is taken for Victus, a good Diet, or neceſſary Food.

Biothanati, a Name for ſuch as die of a violent Death.

Bipinella; ſee Pimpinella.

Birſen, an Arabian or Perſian Word, denoting an Inflamation or Apoſtem of the Breaſt.

Bis Lingua, is Hypogloſſum.

Biſmuthum, Marcaſita, a Marcaſite or Metallick Recrement in the Generation of any Metal, from ſome parts or portions that were improper and unfit for the Production ction of that Metal; it is a Mineral body, white, hard, and brittle.

Biſtatium; ſee Piſtatium.

Biſtorta, ſeu Serpentaria, Columbrina, Dracunculus, vel Dracontium, Biſtort or Snake-weed, it cools and dries, the Root is very Aſtringent, Alexipharmick, and Sudorifick; 'tis chiefly us'd to ſtop Vomiting, and to prevent Miſcarriage; the Powder of the Root mix'd with Conſerve of Roſes, wonderfully ſtops the ſpitting of Blood, and the bloody Flux, and the Courſes when they are immoderate; the Powder ſprinkled upon Wounds, ſtops the Blood.

Bitumen, is generally taken for all ſorts of fat Earths that eaſily burn; this is ſaid to be the Fuel of all the Fires that are vomited out in burning Mountains. It comprehends ſeveral kinds, but particularly a fat Juice that is found about the Red Sea, ſwimming upon it like a Froth, afterwards dried upon the Shore, it becomes harder than Pitch.

Biventer: ſee Digaſtricus.

Blæſitas, the ſame with Balbuties, a Defect in the Tongue, proceeding either from an ill Conformation or Obſtruction.

Blæſus, one that has an Impediment in his Speech. Alſo a bandi-legg'd Perſon, or one whoſe Backbone is bended either backward or forward. Alſo a Paralitick Perſon.

Blaptiſecula; ſee Cyanus.

Blas, a Word us'd and invented by Helmont, to ſignify the Motion of the Stars, and their Alterations, but without telling really what 'tis Blatta, a little Worm.

Blatta Byzantia, ſive Unguis Odoratus, the Shell of a Fiſh of a very ſweet Scent, brown Colour, and oblong Figure.

Blattaria, Moth-mullein.

Blenna, a thick Snot which diſtills thro' the little Holes of the Palate, and the Noſtrils, and proceeds from the Ventricles of the Brain, by the Proceſſes, call'd Mammiformes, like Teats, or rather thro' the Glands of the Noſe.

Blepharides, the ſame with Cilia.

Blepharon; ſee Palpebra.

Bleparoxyſtum, an Inſtrument uſed for pulling Hairs out of the Eye-brows.

Bletus, Ictus, a Blaſt or Stroke ſpreading by reaſon of an internal malignant Inflamation, as in the Pleuriſy, Peripneumonia; eſpecially juſt after Death, is to be ſeen livid or ſpotted, as from a ſtroke or beating.

Blittum, this Herb cools, and taſtes inſipid.

Blumati, is a Glaſs Veſſel.

Boa, Red cutaneous Pimples, or Puſtules full of Ichorus or morbid Matter.

Bocca, ſignifies the Mouth of a Furnace in the Art of Glaſs-making.

Bochetum, is a Decoction of ſtrong Infuſion of Guaiacum, Salſæ parilla, China Saſafraſs, and other Sudorificks.

Bocia, is a large Glaſs cloſe ſhut, with a great Belly and an oblong Neck, and about half a Foot diameter; it is otherwiſe call'd a Philoſophical Egg, a ſublimatory Urinal, &c.

Bolbiton, Stercus Bubulum, Cows-dung, recommended by Hippocrates, as a Fomentation in Uterine Affections.

Bolbocaſtinum, ſee Bulbocaſtanum.

Bolbonac; ſee Bulbonac.

Boletus Cervi, or Fungus Cervinus, or Tuber Cervinum, a ſort of Muſhroom growing in the Weeds, having a black Skin, and a black Powder within it.

Bolus, a Medicine taken inwardly, of a conſiſtence ſomewhat thicker than Honey, and in quantity for one Doſe as much as may be taken at a Mouthful.

Bolus, a ſort of Pale-red Earth, impregnated with Martial Vapours, 'tis Armenian, Oriental, German, Bohemian, white, and the like. 'Tis call'd Bolus in all Languages.

Bombax, Bambax, and Pambax, are ſynonimous; Cotton growing upon a kind of Shrub: As to its uſe in Phyſick, being burnt, it ſtops bleeding, eſpecially of Wounds, the Marrow of the Seed wonderfully relieves thoſe that are ſubject to Coughs, and difficulty of breathing; the Oil of the Pith of the Seed takes off ſpots from the Skin, the Down fir'd, and put under the Noſtrils, prevents Mother-fits.

Bombus, the ſame as Borborygmus.

Bona, or Boona: ſee Faba.

Bonifacia, the ſame with Laurus Alexandrina.

Bonus Genius, is Peucedanum.

Bonus Henricus, Engliſh Mercury, 'tis excellent for cleanſing and healing ſordid Ulcers; the Leaves boil'd with Pot-herbs, and eaten, renders the Belly looſe; it kills Ulcers of four-footed Beaſts, being bruiſed and applied to the Ulcers; the whole Herb uſed in the form of a Cataplaſm, mitigates the Pain of the Gout; and there is no danger to be fear'd from the uſe of it in this caſe, for it does not repel, but diſcuſſes and digeſts; and beſides, 'tis Anodine, which qualities are rarely found in one ſimple.

Borago, Borrage, this Herb is very cordial, and the Flower is one of the 4 cordial Flowers. The diſtil'd Water, and the Conſerve of the Flowers, comfort the Heart, relieve the faint, chear the melancholy, and purify the Blood. The water of it is good for Inflamations of the Eyes, and for all Fevers, as is alſo the Conſerve of the Flowers.

Borax, in Engliſh Borax, is a Salt made of Sal Armoniac, Nitre, Tartar calcin'd, and common Salt, and Allom, which are diſſolv'd, filtered, and at length evaporated; ſome think it takes its Original from Stables wherein Elephants are kept, it is white as Nitre.

Borborygmus, a murmuring noiſe in the great Inteſtines; grumbling of the Guts.

Borozail, or Zail of the Moors, a Diſeaſe in Æthiopia which affects the Genital Parts chiefly, but quite different from the French Pox, contracted by the promiſcuous uſe of Venery.

Borſella, an Inſtrument belonging to the Glaſſmakers, by which, as they have occaſion, they work the Glaſs, and are in the nature of Plyers.

Boſci Salvia, Sage of Boſcus, the place where it grows.

Boſmores, or Boſporos, a ſort of Bread-corn.

Botanica, the knowledg of herbs; and Botanicus, he that knows herbs.

Bothor, Pimples in the Face, which don't ſpread, but are eaſily ſuppurated, and vaniſh. 'Tis beſides a great appellation for Pimples in the Face, Lungs, or other parts. The Arabians alſo call the Small-pox and Meaſles Bothor.

Bothryon,

Bothryon, signifies the Alveolin or Socket and cavity wherein the Teeth are plac'd in the Maxillæ.

Botin, is Turpentine; also the Balsam thereof.

Botrys, a bunch of Grapes, also the Name of a Herb call'd the Oak of Jerusalem; the Herb powder'd and mix'd with Honey is good for an Ulcer of the Lungs: It provokes the Courses, and expels a dead Child.

Botus, one Vessel set upon another for Fusion, or a Decensory, Crucible, &c.

Bounias, a sort of Napus. See Napus.

Bovina Affectio, a Disease among Oxen, or a Worm running betwixt the Skin and the Flesh, perforating the last, which is observ'd frequent in Oxen, Cows, &c

Bovina Fames, the same with Bulimus.

Brabula, a kind of Prunes that are laxative.

Bracerium, the same with Amma.

Brachia, Branches of Plants or Trees.

Brachiale, the same with Carpus.

Brachiæus; see Lacertus.

Brachium, or Lacertus, a Member that consists of the Arm properly so call'd, the Cubit, and the Hand.

Brachylogia, of the same signification with Brachylogus.

Brachylogus, one who gives his Opinion in few words. Brachylogia is a curt Expression; as for instance, Hippocrates's Aphorisms.

Bradipepsa, a slow Digestion, proceeding from a deprav'd Dispositon of the acid Ferment in the Stomach, and want of sufficient Respiration.

Branca, or Branca Ursina, Bears-breech.

Branchus, a Hoarseness in the Throat, and in the Arteria aspera. See Raucedo.

Brasica, Cabbage, Warts anointed with the Juice of it are taken off in 14 Days; the Leaves boil'd in Wine and apply'd to Ulcers and the Leprosy, do much good; and so great is the Vertue of it, that the Urine of those that feed on it is very useful and proper for curing the Fistula, Cancers, Tetters, and suchlike Diseases.

Brasica Marina, Sea-Cabbage; it is prefer'd before Garden-Cabbage. See Soldanella.

Brassidellica Ars, so call'd from the Herb Brasidella, or Brassatella, which is otherwise call'd Ophioglossum, Vipers Tongue, a Species of curing of a Wound by apposition of the Herb upon a fresh Wound.

Brathus, the same with Sabina.

Bregma, Pregma, the Bone of the Forehead; see Sinciput.

Breve Vas, the shortest Vessel that passes from the Ventricle to the veiny Branch of the Spleen.

Brevis Cubiti Musculus, the short one of the Elbow.

Britannica, is a Herb that cures the bleeding of the Gums in the Scurvy.

Briza, a sort of Bread-corn.

Brochi, blubberlip'd Persons; also a sort of Chirurgeons Cord, or Halter.

Brodium, a Liquor wherein Medicaments are either kept or wash'd; as also the expressed Juice out of any boil'd thing, as out of a Capon, &c.

Bromos, a sort of Bread-corn.

Bronca, are Branches of the Aspera Arteria.

Bronchocele, a Tumor in the top or middle part of the Windpipe.

Bronchotomia, a Section of the Windpipe in a Membranous part betwixt two of the Rings. It is used to prevent Suffocations in People troubled with a Quinzy.

Bronchus, the middle Fistulous part of the Windpipe, whose fore-part is made up of so many little Rings; the upper part is call'd Larynx, and the under Vesicularis. 'Tis useful for the Voice and Respiration.

Bruchus, a certain Worm that eats Herbs and the Leaves of Trees.

Brunella; see Prunella.

Bruscandula; see Lupinus.

Bruscus; see Ruscus.

Brygmus, is the Noise that is made by grinding of the Teeth: This is a kind of convulsive motion of the lower Jaw, proceeding from Nitrous Effluvia that are acrid and vellicating, by that means irritating the Animal Spirits to explosion in these Muscles and Nervous parts.

Bryon; see Muscus.

Bryonia, call'd also Vitis Alba, because 'twill creep up and adhere to any thing, like the Vine, whence it also has got the name Viticella. It is also call'd Psilothrum. White Bryony purges strongly watery and phlegmatick Humours; it is proper for the Diseases of the Spleen, Liver, and Worms, for it opens the Obstructions of those parts; it drains the Water of hydropical People by Vomit & Stool.

Bryopteris, or Dryopteris, Oak, Fern growing upon Oak-moss.

Bryton, Beer.

Bubonium, or Inguinalis, so called because 'tis said to cure Buboes, or Tumors in the Groin.

Bubo, the Groin, or place from the bending of the Thigh to the Privy parts; also a Tumor in the Groin, proceeding from the Pox or Pestilence. A Bubo or Boile.

Bubo, a Tumor in the Groin.

Bubonocele, Hernia sive Ramex Inguinalis, a Rupture, when the Intestines fall into the Groin, or the uttermost Skin of the Cods. Sometimes 'tis taken for a Bubo or Swelling.

Bucca, the inferiour lax part of the Face, that may be swoln or puft up, as appears in Trumpeters.

Buccelaton, is a Medicine made up in form of Bread, and is of a purgative quality: It is prepar'd from Scammony with its Correctives of Opium, Pepper, Aniseed, and Fennel.

Buccinator, the round Muscle of the Cheeks, like a Circle, thin and membranous, interwove with various Fibres, and inseparably girt about with the Tunic of the Mouth. Casserius has observ'd a certain strong Band, that grows outwardly in the Centre of this Muscle, which spreading itself about the Cheek-bone, terminates in a little slender Muscle, directly opposite to the part of the Face call'd Bucca; it rises from the upper Jawbone, and is fastned in the lower, at the Root of the Gums: Its use is to move the Cheeks with the Lips, and serves as a Hand to the Teeth whilst it tosses the Meat to and fro, and throws it upon the Teeth, that it may be more exactly chew'd.

Buccinum, Bucinus, or Bucinum, a Flower, so call'd from its likeness to a Horn.

Buccula, the fleshy part under the Chin.

Bucellatio, or a method of stopping

ping Blood by laying a Pledget on the Vein or Artery.

Buceros, Fœnum Græcum.

Bucranion, is the same with Antirrhinon.

Bufo, a Toad, being an Animal by reason of its uglineſs and venomous quality, odious; and this is either a Land or Water Animal: Its Phyſical Uſe is chiefly external, to ſtop Hemorrhages and other Fluxes of the Blood, beat to powder, or wore as an Amulet.

Bufonites, the Toadſtone, falſly ſuppos'd to be found in the Head of a Toad. This being hung about the Neck, is ſaid to make Teeth breed eaſily, and cure Tooth-ach.

Bugloſſa, Bugloſs; it hath the ſame Vertues with Borrage, and is very near of the ſame kind: The Flowers are of great uſe in Melancholy and Hypochondriac Diſeaſes, and are reckon'd among the four Cordial Flowers.

Bugula, Buglum, and Bugla, Bugule, or the middle Conſolida; the Vertues are much the ſame with thoſe of Self-heal; 'tis vulnerary, either taken inwardly, or outwardly applied; 'tis uſed in the Jaundice, in Obſtructions of the Liver, and for the ſtoppage of Urine; 'tis one of the Ingredients for the Wound-drink of the London Diſpenſatory, commonly called the Traumatick Decoctions.

Bugones, are wild Bees, generated from a putrified Ox, whence they take their Name; a Powder made thereof, mixt with Honey, is ſaid to procure Hair.

Bulapathum, is Lapathum Magnum, vel Bovinum; ſee Lapathum.

Bulbi, are round Roots with Tunicks, as of Onions, Tulips, Hyacinth; and Tuberoſe Roots are alſo call'd Bulbus. Bulbs are any round Root.

Bulbina, and Bulbine, are Diminutives of Bulbus.

Bulbocaſtanum, Earth-nut, or Pignut.

Bulbonac, or Bolbonac, the ſame with the Herb Lunaria, or Viola Latifolia; ſee Lunaria.

Bulbonium; ſee After.

Bulbaſphodelus, is Aſphodellus bulboſus.

Bulbus, is every round Root.

Bulithos, ſignifies the Stone found in Oxen, ſuch as Butchers frequently find in the Gallbladder.

Bulimia, the ſame as Bulimus.

Bulimiaſis, the ſame with Bulimus.

Bulimus, ſive Phagadæna, ſeu Edacitas præter conſuetudinem, an extraordinary Appetite, often accompanied with a defection of Spirits. It proceeds ſometimes from a too ſharp ferment of the Stomach, whence the membranous Tunicks and Nerves being irritated, the Animal ſeeks after Nouriſhment for a Remedy.

Bulla Flatus, or Wind pent up and clos'd on all ſides by a humid body; and this happens the more ſo, as the Humour is more tenacious, for then the Wind is the more fix'd, and cannot be eaſily looſen'd.

Bumelia, is Fraxinus bubula, or Fraxinus magna.

Bunias, the ſame with Napus, a tuberous, thick, and large Root.

Buplenron, a Plant broad-leav'd and narrow-leav'd.

Bupreſtis, an Inſect of the kind of Cantharides, that lives upon the Pine-tree; if an Ox happens to eat it, it cauſes a mortal Inflamation and Tumor in his Bowels.

Bupl-

Buphthalmum, or Cotyla Fœtida, or Oculus bovinus, Mayweed, or Oxeye.

Burſa Paſtoris, Shepherds Purſe. 'Tis aſtringent, and thickens, wherefore 'tis good for bleeding at the Noſe; a Tent made with Cotton and dipt in the Juice of it, being put up the Noſtrils: 'Tis alſo proper for the Bloody Flux, a Looſeneſs, and bloody Urine, and the immoderate flux of the Courſes; it is outwardly uſed by the common People to heal Wounds, with good ſucceſs; 'tis alſo put into Febrifuge Cataplaſms for the Wriſts.

Burſa; ſee Scrotum.

Burſalis Muſculus, a Muſcle on the inſide of the Thigh, ſo call'd from its ſhape.

Buſelinum, is the Daucus vulgaris; ſee Daucus.

Butiga, is an Inflation of the Face, call'd Gutta Roſa, or a red Face.

Butomon, a ſort of red Graſs, commonly call'd Platanaria.

Butyrum, or Butter; 'tis the Subſtance of Milk, the fat or oleaginous part thereof being ſecreted therefrom by much agitation or churning, for the Butter is made from the richeſt part of the Milk, whence ſome call it the Eſſential Oil of Milk. It is moſt plentiful in Cows Milk, tho' it is frequently made from that of Sheep and Goats. It is to be gain'd from Breaſt-milk, but that is thinner, and full of volatile Salts, which dilute it.

Buxus, the Boxtree; the Oil drawn from the Wood is much commended for the Falling-ſickneſs and Tooth-ach. 'Tis ſaid the Decoction of the Wood cures the French Pox as well as Guaiacum.

Byne, Malt.

Byſſum, or Byſſus, the fineſt ſort of Flax.

C

Cabalator, or Cabulator, is Salt of Nitre.

Cacabus, or Lebes, is an earthen or copper Veſſel tinn'd within, for boiling of Medicines in.

Cacatoria febris, an Intermittent Fever, (ſo call'd by the Famous Sylvius de le Boe) accompanied with a violent Purging, and very painful, extreamly afflicting and weakening the Patient when it comes. It may alſo be call'd the Dejectoria, or Purging Fever.

Cachecticus, one that has an ill habit of Body.

Cachexia, an ill habit of Body, proceeding from an ill diſpoſition of the Humours of the Body, whence lingring Fevers, Conſumptions, and Dropſies are contracted. In this Diſeaſe the Face is often pale and diſcolour'd, and the Body big and ſwoln. Cachexia taken in a large ſenſe, is oppoſed to ἐυέξια; and as a good habit of Body is common to all ſound Parts, ſo an ill one is propagated by the ill Parts. Strictly Cachexia is only taken for an ill diſpoſition of the habit of the Body, and Euexia (on the contrary) for a good diſpoſition of the Humours, or Blood, and Body.

Cacalia, or Leontice, is a Plant like Coltsfoot or Butterburr.

Cacoa, the Fruit of a Tree, ſeldom exceeding the bigneſs of an Almond, and of a yellowiſh colour, incloſed in a thin Peel, tho' the whole Body (which ſurrounds it)

it) is near as big as a middlesiz'd Pumpkin. It is transported into Europe out of America, and from Guatimala. The Indians make a sort of Drink out of it, and the Europeans their Chocolate, being a mixture of these Kernels toasted, pouder'd with certain Spices. See Chocolate.

Cacochymia, the abundance of ill Humours in the Blood; and it is either sulphureous, bilious, pituitous, melancholick, acid, salt, or sharp. These terms are now much out of date among Physicians.

Cacochylia, a bad Chylification.

Cacocholia, a bad Disposition of the Gall.

Cacoethes, Chironum ulcus, or Telephium, a Disease or Ulcer beyond cure, which is call'd a Malignant Ulcer. This happens when an Ulcer is callous or sinuous, under which there sometimes lie putrified Bones.

Cacopathia, an Evil Passion.

Cacophonia, an ill Voice, proceeding from an ill constitution of the Organs.

Cacopragia, is a depravation of the Viscera serving to Nutrition.

Cacorythmus, an unequal Pulse. See Arythmus.

Cacosis, a vicious Disposition.

Cacosphyxia, a bad Pulse.

Cacostomachus, such Food or Aliment as offend the Stomach; an ill Digestion.

Cacothanatos, a miserable Death.

Cacothymica, a vicious Affection of the Mind.

Cacotrophia, an ill Nutriment, proceeding from a fault in the Blood, as in a Leprosy, Ringworms, &c.

Cactos, a sort of Carduus.

Cacumina, the same with Summitates.

Caducus Morbus; see Epilepsia.

Cadaver, a Carcase.

Cadmia; see Lapis calaminaris. Sometimes the same Name is given also the Tutia; see Tutia.

Cadus, or Ceranium, a Measure of the Ancients, containing 120 Pints of Wine, and 105 of Oil.

Cæcum Intestinum, the fourth Gut in order from the Pylorus.

Cæleſtus, is Iris.

Cæli Donum, or Gramen Mannæ, is the greater Celandine.

Cæli Ros, a sort of wild Millet.

Cæli Rosa, and Cæli Flos, is Lychnis Coronaria.

Cæmentatio, or Cimentatio, beside the vulgar and genuine Signification belonging to Architects, which denotes the cementing together of wrought Stones in a Building; it has in Chymistry another meaning, for here it is call'd a dry Corrosion, by which any Metallick Body is calcin'd with corroding Salts, which are call'd the Cement.

Cæpa, Cepe, & Cepa; an Onion. Onions are hot and flatulent, they are proper for those that abound with cold Viscid Humours, in whom they procure sleep, help Concoctions, and prevent sour belchings, they open Obstructions, force Urine, and promote insensible Transpiration, but they injure those that are Cholerick, and offend the Eyes. A raw Onion infused in Water, the next Morning given to Children, kills the Worms. A large Onion hollow'd, and fill'd with Venice Treacle, and roasted under hot Ashes, and applied in the manner of a Poultice, mollifies effectually hard Swellings, and opens them. A raw Onion peal'd, and applied presently with a little Salt, cures burns, if the outward

Skin

Skin is not ulcer'd, for it draws out the fire, and prevents blisters.

Cæsarea Sectio, the same with Hysterotomia.

Cæsareus Partus; see Partus Cæsareus.

Calae, Calaem, Calaemum, is a Species of Block Tin, which by means of the Fire is transmuted into a kind of Ceruse, such as is made from Lead, &c.

Calaminaris Lapis, a Stone, dug out of the Mines, of a yellowish colour, and not very hard; which, when burning, gives a yellow fume. Of this Coppersmiths make Bras. Calaminar-stone.

Calamintha, or Calaminthum, Calamint, a kind of Mint; 'tis hot and dry, Stomachick, and Uterine, it provokes Urine, opens the Liver, and cures a Cough; a Decoction of the Leaves is good for those that are shortbreath'd. The Herb us'd in Drink, with Salt and Honey, kills Worms, and cures an Elephantiasis, if it be used frequently.

Calamita, is Styrax.

Calamagratis, and Calamogrostis, the Reed-grass.

Calamus, a Reed.

Calamus Aromaticus, sweet-smelling Reed or Cane. Some will have it to be Galangal, others the Acarus. It grows all over the Indies.

Calamus Scriptorius, a certain Dilatation about the fourth Ventricle of the Brain, which afterwards ends in a point, from which it has its Name.

Calathus, a Basket which the Flowers of Lillies resemble.

Calceneus, the same with Calx.

Calcaris Flos, is Flos Regius.

Calceolus D. Mariæ, Sacerdotis, Marianus, a sort of Alisma.

Calcoides, three little Bones in the Foot, which with others make up that part of the Foot which succeeds the Ancle: and Fallopius calls them Cuneiformia, made like Wedges.

Calcinatio, the Reduction of a mix'd Body into Powder by Fire, or any corroding things; as Mercury, Aquafortis, &c.

Calcinatio Philosophica, or Spagyrica, is when Horns, or Bones, or Hoofs, are hang'd over boiling Water for some Hours, till they, having lost all their Mucilage, can be easily powder'd.

Calculus, the Stone, is an hard præternaturnal Concretion in a Man's Body, which is often bred in the Reins, Testicles, and other Parts, from saline and earthy Particles congeal'd together.

Caldarium, the same with Laconicum.

Calendula, a Marigold, the Flowers are Cordial, Hepatick, and Alexipharmick, and provoke Sweat, and the Courses, and hasten Delivery: The distil'd Water dropt into the Eyes, or Rags wet in it and applied to them, cures the Redness and Inflamation of them.

Calidum Innatum: see Emphitum Thermum, or Byolichnium.

Callicreas, or Pancreas, a conglomerated Glandule, plac'd under the hinder part of the Stomach, about the length of 3 or 4 fingers in a Man. It is encompassed with a thin Membrane from the Peritonæum. It is terminated in a Man near the common Ductus, or Passage of the Bile into the Gut Duodenum, and distils a Volatile insipid sort of Juice: But Sylvius and de Graaf affirm, That they have found an acid and sub-acid Juice there; nay, sometimes an austere auſtere and a ſweet one; and this, they ſay, is the Original of all Diſeaſes: But we muſt know, that this poſſibly was obſerv'd, when ſcarce one in twenty which they diſſected was found exactly ſound. Its Uſe is to temperate the Chyle, which is ſomething acid, and the bitterneſs of the Gall with its volative Juice, that it may at laſt enter into the Lacteals with a ſweet Taſte. The Sweet-bread.

Caliendra, an artificial Congeries, or weaving of Hair, with which the Head is at this Day frequently cloath'd, to prevent the Injuries of the external Cold, uſually known by the Name of a Perriwig.

Calligonum, the ſame with Polygonon.

Calix, and Calices, ſee Alabaſtri.

Callilepharon, a Medicine of a drying Quality, particularly accommodated for the Uſe and Beauty of the Eyelids.

Callyonimus, is Lilium Convallium, Lilly of the Valleys. It is alſo taken for the Name of a Sea-fiſh, call'd Uranſcopus, from the Eyes being plac'd by Nature directly upon the Head, by which it looks upright to Heaven; upon which occaſion it alſo took the Name of Callyonimus, not from the Beauty of its Figure, ſince it is rather diſagreeable and deform'd. It hath the largeſt Gall of any Fiſh, which is recommended in Collyries for Diſeaſes of the Eyes and Ears.

Callitrichum, or Polytricum, is an Herb that finely paints the Hair, ſee Polytricum.

Calloſitas, or Calloſity, call'd ſo in general, from all hardneſs in the Skin, Fleſh, or Bones, which is natural or preternatural, frequently happening upon the Lips of a Wound, Fracture, &c. the hardneſs of the Eyelids from an Acid, Tartarous, or Coagulating Juice in the Womb, the Soles of the Feet, and Palms of the Hands. Calloſities are frequent.

Callus, a kind of Swelling without Pain, like Skin contracted by too much Labour. A hardneſs in the Skin, or a Tumour hardned.

Calomelas, is Mercurius Dulcis, purified by ſeveral Sublimations.

Calor Nativus, ſee Biolychinium.

Caltha, ſeu Calthula, the ſame that is call'd in the Shops the Calendula, or the Flower of every Month.

Calva, call'd Calvaria by Pliny, and Cranium by Celſus, is the Scull; alſo the upper hairy part of the Head, which either by Diſeaſe, or old Age, grows bald firſt.

Calvaria, the ſame with Calva.

Calvitium, & Calvities, that baldneſs which is naturally incident to old Age.

Calx, ſeu Calcaneum, the ſecond Bone in that part of the Foot which is join'd to the Ancle, bigger and ſtronger than the reſt; oblong, and grows backward, that a Man may ſtand more ſtrongly upon it, and not fall ſo eaſily backward.

Calx, is a Chymical term, uſed when any Powder is render'd impalpable, by the taking away of its moiſture; and this is to be underſtood of Metals and Minerals, corroded and calcin'd, as of the Calx of Salt, Antimony, and the like; and ſo ſome Stones are burnt to a Calx, and the Aſhes of Vegetables, the Horns and Bones of Animals, depriv'd of their Volatile Part by the the fire, are call'd a Calx by ſome.

Camarium, ſee Fornix.

Camaroſis, is a Blow on the Scull whereby ſome part of the Bone is left ſuſpended, like an Arch.

Cambium, a ſecundary Humor, according to Avicen, whoſe uſe was ſaid to be to nouriſh the Parts; the firſt was call'd Ros, or Humor Innominatus; the ſecond Gluten; and the third, which was very near converted into Nouriſhment, was call'd Cambium: But theſe Figments are quite exploded, ſince we found out the Circulation of the Blood.

Cameline; ſee Myagrum.

Camelopodium, is Marrubium.

Cameratio, the ſame as Cameroſis.

Camomila; ſee Chamœmelum.

Campana, commonly call'd a Bell, but us'd in Chymical Preparations, to make acid Spirit of Sulphur with, and to concentre the Gas thereof, which is to be kept in a thin aqueous matter.

Campanula, ſo are call'd many Flowers that reſemble a Bell; ſee Cervicaria.

Camphora, or Caphora, Camphire, a Reſinous Gum, unknown to the Ancients. The Tree is ſo big and tall that they uſe it for Building; it has large and pointed Leaves, ſmelling of Camphire; it bears a Fruit the bigneſs of a Haſel-Nut, incloſ'd in a thin and thicker rind like our Haſel-Nuts. When they will gather the Camphire the Tree is ſtript of its Leaves, Bark, and Wood to the very Pitt, which being cut, they find in it the tranſparent coagulated Camphire. It grows likewiſe in China and Borneo; but Japan affords another ſort of Camphire-tree, with a much leſſer Leaf; and I have it from credible Perſons, that they draw Camphire out of the Root of the Cinnamon-tree; I my ſelf have ſeen it drawn out of Sage. 'Tis an odoriferous tranſparent Gum; the beſt grows in Borneo.

Camphorata, ſeu Camphoratum, the ſame with Abrotanum, ſo call'd becauſe it has the Scent of Camphire.

Canales, Paſſages by which the Juices of the Body flow, as thoſe which ſerve for the Spittle, Bile, that in the Liver, Pancreas, &c.

Canaliculus Arterioſus, a Veſſel betwixt the Arterious Vein of the Lungs and the great Artery in Fœtus's, for 'tis obliterated in adult Perſons. Its uſe in Fœtus's is, that the Blood may be diſcharged by this Ductus, out of the Arterious Vein, into the great Artery, becauſe that the Blood is not accended in their Lungs, for want of reſpiration in the Womb.

Cancamum, ſome think 'tis Lacca, ſome think it Gummi Animæ. Dioſcorides ſays, 'tis the Gum of a Tree in Arabia reſembling Myrrh.

Cancer; ſee Carcinoma. The Cancer is a round, livid or blackiſh Tumor, circumſcrib'd with turgid Veins replete with Blood, either with or without Exulceration, ariſing from black, corrupted ſtagnant Bile diverſify'd many ways. The true Cancer is reſtrained to the Breaſts only of Women, and the Scapulæ of Men. There is a white Cancer, which is a certain white Chalky Recrement occupying the inward parts of the Mouth, and the whole Tongue of Infants; and, except deterg'd and cleans'd in time, will exulcerate. This was undoubtedly what they underſtood by

by the Aphthas.

Cancer, a sort of Bandage for the Head.

Candelaria, or Candela regia verbascum; see Verbascum & Phlomos.

Candisatio, the Crystalizing of Sugar after it has been dissolv'd in Water, purified, and somewhat evaporated. Into this Solution they sometimes put certain solid Medicines, which being thus cover'd with the crystaliz'd Sugar, are look'd upon as the best sort of Confections. Sugar-candy, or candied Sugar.

Canella, Cinnamomum.

Canicæ, Bran.

Canicida, a sort of poisonous Aconite.

Canina Brassica, is Mercurialis.

Canina Lingua, the same with Cynoglossum.

Canina Malus, the same with Mandragora.

Canina Sentis, the same with Cynosbaton.

Canina Appetentia; see Cynodes Orexis.

Canina Rabies, the same that Hydrophobia.

Canini Dentes, the same with Cynodentes.

Canirubus, quasi Rubus Caninus, the same with Cynisbatos.

Canis Cerebrum, is Antirrhinum.

Canities, a Hoariness of the Head before the usual time; it is twofold, the one is according to the ordinary course of Nature; the other ill and (as Aristotle calls it) diseased.

Canna major, the same with Tibia.

Canna minor, the same that Fibulæ Os.

Cannabina, the same with Eupatorium.

Canabis, Hemp, the Seed of it boil'd in Milk is good for a Cough, and 5 or 6 ounces of it taken, cures the Jaundice; an Emulsion of the Seeds doth the same. The Juice of the Herb, and of the green Seed, cures Pain and Obstruction of the Ears; the Oil of the Seeds mixt with a little Wax, is excellent to take out the pain and fire in Burns. Galen reckons that the Vertue of Hemlock and Hemp are much the same.

Canon, a Chirurgeons Instrument, which they make use of when they sow up Wounds. It is either strait or bent, according to the condition of the Wound.

Cantabrica Plinii, 'tis suppos'd to be Scorzonera; it was found in Spain by the Cantabrians, from whom it took its Name.

Cantharides, Spanish Flies; these are flying Insects, of which there are various kinds; the best are such as have the golden splendid colour: Those which are us'd in Medicine are produc'd from a kind of Worms, like the Erucæ, bred from the Leaves of some certain Trees, as the Poplar Ash: but those are esteem'd the best which are found in Corn-fields and Meadows, of various colours, long Bodies, and thick. They have essentially a Caustick quality, as plainly appears from their power to raise Blisters externally, and to ulcerate the Parts, especially the Bladder, when given inwardly. Of late they have been frequently administer'd internally for Ulcers of the Womb and Bladder, and in Jaundice and Dropsical Cases.

Canthus, or Hircus, the Angle or Corner of the Eye, which is either the Greater or the internal, nal, or the Leſs or external.

Cantum, or Candum Saccharum, Sugarcandy. See Candum vel Candiſatio.

Canum ſeraſa; ſee Xyloſteum.

Capella, the ſame with Cupella.

Caphora, the ſame with Camphora.

Capillamenta, the fine Threads ariſing in the middle of Flowers, like Hairs.

Capillaria Vaſa, are ſmall Veſſels, call'd Capillary Veſſels, becauſe they are no bigger than Hairs.

Capillaris Herba, vel Capillus Veneris; tho' this Name is not only given to the Capillus Veneris, or Maiden-hair, but alſo to the Capillus Terræ, Capillus Aureus, Muſcus Capillaris, &c.

Capillatio, is a ſort of Fracture of the Scull, which can ſcarce be found, but often occaſions Death.

Capillorum Defluvium, ſee Alopecia.

Capillus, the Hair of the Head.

Capillus Veneris, Maiden-hair.

Capiſtrum, a Swathe for the Head, uſed by Chirurgeons.

Capita, among the Vegetables ſignify the Buds, wherein are contain'd the Seeds and Flowers; ſee Codia.

Capitelium, is Soap-water, or a Lixivium of Soap.

Capitellum: ſee Alembicus.

Capitiluvium, a Liquor wherein the Head is waſh'd.

Capitis Dolor, the ſame with Cephalalgia: ſee Cerebraria.

Capitis Granum, is Staphis Agria.

Capitulum Martis, is Eryngium.

Capnelæum, is a Species of Roſin, which flows naturally, it is hotter, thinner, and more liquid than any other Roſin, ſo that it almoſt approaches an Oil, and being expoſed to the Fire, ſends forth a Fume or Vapour; whence the Name was given it.

Cappites, Capnium, and Capnos, the ſame with the Fumus Terræ, or the Fumaria.

Capparis, the Caper-tree. Capers are brought to us in Pickle, and are frequently us'd for Sauce; they quicken the Appetite, promote Concoction, and open Obſtructions of the Liver and Spleen. It is ſaid, that they who eat Italian Capers daily are not troubl'd with the Palſy, nor pains of the Spleen; and they are alſo good for the Hipgout. The Bark of the Caper-tree boil'd in Vinegar, eſpecially the Bark of the Root, ſoftens the Spleen when it is hard, being taken inwardly, or outwardly applied.

Capreolaria Vaſa, the twining Veſſels, as the Sanguinous Veſſels in the Teſticles.

Capreoli, certain Tendrels or Ligaments, whereby ſome Plants ſtick to others, as the Vine, &c.

Capreolus Auris; ſee Helix.

Caprificus, quaſi diceres Caprificus, the wild Fig-tree.

Caprifolium, Wood-bine, or Honey-ſuckle; it is Splenetick, and very Diuretick; it is chiefly uſed in an Aſthma, and a Cough; it dries moiſt and ſordid Ulcers; it cures Scabs, and other Diſeaſes of the Skin; it helps Difficulty of breathing, haſtens Delivery, and expels Gravel. The diſtil'd Water, and the Juice of it is in Uſe; the Leaves alſo are frequently us'd in Gargariſms, but ſome think they are too hot and acrid for ſuch a uſe Capſicum, of this there are divers ſorts; but it is, for the moſt part, accounted Braſile-pepper.

Capſulæ Artrabilariæ, or Renes Succenturiati, aut Glandulæ Suprarenales, nales, Glandulous Bodies plac'd above the Reins, their use is to receive the watery Substance call'd Lympha into their Cavities, wherewith the Blood in its return from the Reins being thicker, and much destitute of Serum, may be diluted, and circulate much more fluidly.

Capsula Cordis; see Pericardium.

Capsula communis, which Glisson has observ'd in the Liver, is nothing but a Membrane which proceeds from the Peritonæum, and which includes both the Porus, Bilarius, and the Vena Porta, or great Vein in the Liver.

Capsulæ Seminales, the Extream Cavities of the Vessels which convey the Seed, dilated like little Coffers, which by two small Holes emit the Seed receiv'd from the Testicles into the little Seminary Bladders, that it might be either preserv'd there against the time of Coition, or be convey'd back into the Blood by the Lymphatick Vessels.

Capulum, a Distortion of the Eyelids, and other Parts.

Caput, the Head.

Caput, among Vegetables, is that which swells into a Globe.

Caput Gallinaginis, is a Caruncle in the Urethra, through which the Seed is convey'd, from the Seminal Bladders into the Urethra.

Caput Mortuum, that thick dry Matter which remains after the distillation of Minerals especially. But most commonly it denotes that which remains of Vitriol.

Caputpurgium, the same with Errhynum.

Caranna, a hard Rosin, almost like Taccamahaca, but sweeter, brighter, and more liquid. It is brought into Europe from Carthagena, out of the West-Indies.

Carbo: see Anthrax.

Carbunculus, the same with Anthrax.

Carchesius, a sort of Bandage, consisting of two Reins that may be equally extended.

Carcinodes, a Tumour like a Cancer. A corroding Ulcer.

Carcinoma, Carcinus, or Cancer, a Tumour that arises always in the Glands, from saline, sulphureous, sharp, and melancholy thick Humours. It is round, hard, livid, painful, at the beginnning as big as a Pea, but afterwards it is surrounded with great swelling Veins which resemble the Feet of a Crab, tho' not always. A Cancer.

Carcinus; see Carcinoma.

Cardamantice, Cardamina, Cardamine, and Cardamon, it is a sort of Cress, and is good for a hot Scurvy.

Cardimomum, Cardamoms, of which there are two sorts, a greater and a lesser, call'd Grains of Paradise, and Cardamom.

Cardamon, Garden-cresses; see Nasturtium.

Cardia, the Heart, or principal Muscle ordain'd for the circulating of the Blood.

Cardiaca Passio, the same with Cardialgia. It is also call'd Cardiacus, Morbus, Cardiaca & Stomachica exolutio, the Pain of the Heart, or rather of the upper Orifice of the Stomach; a Suffocation of the Heart from a Polypus, or coagulated Blood.

Cardica, Motherwort, 'tis commended by some for Diseases of the Heart, but 'tis peculiarly good for Hypochondriack Diseases, provokes the Courſes and Urine, cleanſes the Breaſt of Phlegm, and kills Worms. A Spoonful of the Powder taken in Wine, haſtens Delivery wonderfully. A Decoction of it, or the Powder mix'd with Sugar, is very good for the Palpitation of the Heart, and for Hyſterick and Hypochondriack Diſeaſes.

Cardiacum, five Cordiale, a Medicine which (as they formerly thought) corroborates the Heart; but it rather only puts the Blood into a fine gentle Fermentation, whereby the Spirits formerly decay'd, are repair'd and invigorated; whereupon the Blood, by conſequence, circulates more eaſily and briskly.

Cardinale, the ſame with Cardiacum.

Cardialgia, and Cardiogmos, a Gnawing or Contraction of the Nerve call'd Par Vagum, and the Intercoſtal implanted in the Stomach, proceeding from a pungent vellicating Matter in the Ventricle, ſo that the Heart being ſtraitned and contracted by conſent with the Stomach, occaſions a ſwooning away.

Cardinalis Flos, five Trachelium Americanum, ſo call'd, becauſe its Flower is very red like a Cardinal's Garment, eſpecially about Noon.

Cardinamentum, the lower part of the Arm, which is articulated with the Cubit; ſo call'd, becauſe it hath a particular concave and others eminently convex parts, of which ſome admit the Prominent, and others enter the Cavities.

Cardonium is a Medicinal Wine made of Herbs, ſo that Muſt is pour'd upon them, and a precipitation or clearing follows.

Carduellis Acanthis, this is a little noted Bird, elegant for its ſweet Song, and commended as excellent Food. The Dung of them, or the Water out of which they drink is commended for the Epilepſy in Children; but Succeſs does not anſwer the Expectation.

Cardopatium: ſee Chamæleon.

Carduus, a prickly Herb.

Carduus Fullonius; ſee Dipſacus.

Carduus Suarius, ſee Chamæleon.

Carduus Varius; ſee Chamæleon.

Carebaria, a Pain, or rather Heavineſs of the Head.

Carena is the 24th part of a drop.

Careum, five Caros & Coros, Caraways, the Seed is Stomachick and Diuretick, it expels Wind, and helps Concoction, 'tis of great uſe in the Cholick, and for Giddineſs of the Head, and the like.

Carex, Burr-Reed.

Carica, the Name of a Fig growing in Caria.

Caricum, a certain Catheretick Medicine that deterges ſordid Ulcers, and incarnates; and is made of hot Acrids, as black Hellebore, Sandarach, burnt Lead, Sulphur, Auripigmentum, and Cantharides, all which being mixt up with Cedar Oil, in form of a Liniment, is to be apply'd.

Caries, Teredo, Teredum, & Pædarthrocace, the Corruption of a Bone, from the continual Afflux of vitious Humours, or from their Acrimony and Malignity, or from a Bruiſe that ſome way affects the Bone, or from ſharp Medicines.

Carlina, or Carolina, ſo call'd from Charles the Great, the Firſt of that Name Emperor of the Romans, whoſe Army was ſav'd and preſerv'd from the Plague by the uſe of this Root; it is Alexipharmick and Sudorifick, 'tis alſo Diuretick, retick, and good in a Dropsy, and also for Hypochondriack Pains.

Carminantia: see Carminativa. Carminative Medicines which disperse Wind, as Anniseed, Fennel, Lovage, &c.

Carminativa, the same with Carminantia.

Carneolus: see Sardius Lapis.

Carnosa Membrana, a Carnous Membrane.

Caro, Flesh, is a similar Fibrous part, bloody, soft, thick, together with the Bones the prop of the Body, and what covers the Spermatick Parts. It is fivefold, Musculous, Fistulous, or Fibrous, as in the Muscles, and the Heart; Parenchymous, as the Lungs, Liver, Spleen; Viscerous, as the Guts; Glandulous, as the Pancreas, the Glandules of the Breasts, those for spitting, &c. Spurious, as the Gums, Lips, the Nut of the Yard, &c.

Caro also signifies that soft pappy substance of succulent Fruits, which we call the Pulp; as the Pulp or Flesh of a Quince, &c.

Carnosa, that which extends the Palm of the Hand.

Caroli, Venereal Pustules in the Virile Member, so call'd from the Caries pudendorum.

Caros, Carus, or Sopor, is a loss of Sense and Motion in the whole Animal Body, yet the Faculty of breathing remains, but the forepart of the Brain, and the Muscles of the Temples are seiz'd, whence profound Sleep succeeds, and the Eyes are perpetually shut. The Carus is a sleepy Affection greater than the Lethargy, much less than the Apoplexy, but so nearly allied, that it frequently ends in the latter.

Carosis is only a sleepiness.

Carota, and Caryota, 'tis Uterine and Diuretick; it is chiefly used in Obstructions of the Courses, in a Suffocation for the Pain of the Matrix, and for a flatulent Cholick, the Hicop, Obstruction of Urine, and an old Cough: The Seed of it infused in Beer, and drank, is much commended by some modern Authors for the Strangury, and the Stone in the Kidneys. Two drams of the Seed infused in Whitewine, and drank, is good for Mother-fits. The little purple Flower of it is counted a certain Remedy for the Falling-sickness.

Caroticus is said of that which affects the Brain vehemently, as Drunkenness from strong generous Wines.

Carotidis Arteria, is either External or Internal; the External which arises near the Heart, and divides it self into two Branches, the outermost whereof is variously distributed to the Jaws, the Face, the top of the Head, and behind the Ears; but the other, with a peculiar sort of Mechanical Preparation for its Reception, passes thro' the Os cuneiforme; for Nature has dug a peculiar Channel in both sides of it, wherein this Artery, for its greater security is cloath'd with a new adventitious and thicker Tunick, and there representing the Figure of an S, it goes double out of its Channel of Bone, puts off its borrow'd Coat, and tends toward the Brain with its charge of Blood; ascending therefore about the Ocular Nerve, it spreads it self towards the sides, then to the foremost part of the Brain, betwixt the Passage of the Olfactory Nerves. Lastly, it tends backward, and taking leave of the Brain near the Medulla Oblongata, and the Spinal Marrow, waters it with its Blood as far down as the Os Sacrum. They are call'd Soporales, or Carotides; inasmuch as, if they be tied, they immediately incline the Person to sleep. But the Ancients mistook when they ascrib'd natural Sleep to them. The Carotick Arteries.

Carpentaria, the same with Nasturtium Hyemale, and the Herba Judaica.

Carpesium, what this Plant is, is disputed among the Learned: Some say it is Cucube, others Ruscus, and others something else.

Carpia, a Tent that is put into a Wound or Ulcer to cleanse it. Linteamentum carptum, vel Linteamentum rasile, is the shavings of Linnencloth, to make Lint of for the Wounds. Delinamentum sanarium, vel Linamentum tortile, is Lints twisted, used for the cleansing of a Wound or Ulcer from its Corruption.

Carpinus, the Hornbeam Tree.

Capobalsamum, is the Fruit of the Balsam Tree: see Balsamus.

Carpus, commonly Brachiale, the first part of the Palm of the Hand. Hesychius calls it that part of the Arm which is betwixt the lowermost part of the Cubit and the Hand, the Wrist: It consists of 8 small Bones, with which the Cubit is join'd to the Hand.

Carthamus, Bastard Saffron, see Cnicus.

Cartilago, a white part, dryer and harder than a Ligament, and softer than a Bone; 'tis said to be similar and spermatick, but falsly, for 'tis no more made of seed than any other Parts; it renders Articulation more easy, and defends several Parts from external Injuries.

Cartilago Ensiformis, Cartilago Mucronata, is the Extremity of the middle Bone of the Breast, which is upon the Mouth of the Stomach, to which it is ty'd. There are some will have it to be the whole figure of the Pectoral Bone, because it represents the likeness of a Sword.

Cartilago Innominata, but by the Moderns call'd Annularis, is the second Cartilage of the Larynx, having its position in the internal Parts which is the Oesophagus, and is thrust into the Theroid Cartilage. This is the Basis of the rest of the Cartilages of the Aspera Arteria.

Cartilago Scutiformis, by Castellus Peltis, a Buckler; for these were round, whereas the figure of this Cartilage is square. The gibbous or bunching part appears in the Throat, and is call'd Adam's Apple, from a vulgar Opinion that part of the fatal Apple stuck in Adam's Gullet from Divine Punishment, and still remains to his Posterity. Besides these, there are other peculiar Cartilages to be consider'd, the Gutturinformes or Arytænoides; also the Glottis and Epiglottis: The other Cartilages of the Aspera Arteria are Semicircular and Sigmoides.

Carum, and Caruum; see Careum.

Caruncul æ Myrtiformes, the wrinkles of the Orifice of a Woman's Vagina, or Membranous Inequalities, not to be reckon'd in any certain number, which in Women with Child, and after Childbirth, are so obliterated that they are altogether imperceptible; there are are for the most part four of 'em.

Caruncul Lachrymales, the same as Caruncul Oculi.

Carus, a Sleep, wherein the Person affected being pull'd, pinched, and call'd, scarce shews any sign of hearing or feeling; it is, without a Fever, greater than a Lithargy, and less than an Apoplexy. It proceeds from an Obstruction or Compression of the Pores and Passages which go towards the middle of the Brain, and are placed at least in the uttermost extremity of the Corpus callosum. A kind of a Lethargy.

Caruncula Oculi, Glandules placed at each greater corner of the Eye, which separate the moisture for moistning the Eyes, generally call'd Tears, which afterwards by the Puncta Lachrymalis placed in the Bone of the Nose are discharged into the Nostrils. The Caruncles in the corner of the Eyes.

Caruncul Papillares, ten little bodies that are in the Reins; they are properly little Bundles which rise from the centring together of a great many small Chanels which the Reins are in a great measure made up of, and these receive the Serum from the little Ductus's, and convey it into the Pelvis.

Caryocostinum, an Electuary so call'd from Cloves and Costos, that are Ingredients of it. 'Tis chiefly us'd for Pains in the Limbs, and the Gout.

Caryon, a Nut of any sort, but chiefly a Walnut.

Caryophillata, Avens, so call'd because its Root has the smell and taste of Cloves. 'Tis also call'd Herba Benedicta and Sanamunda, from its singular Vertues; 'tis somewhat astringent; it strengthens and discusses; 'tis cephalic and cordial, and resists Poison; it is chiefly us'd inwardly, to cure Catarrhs, and for quickning the Blood when coagulated. Wine wherein the root has been infus'd has a fine pleasant taste and smell. It cheers the Heart, and opens Obstructions. The Root infused in Beer is excellent for strengthning the Joints and Bowels.

Caryophylleus Flos, Clove July-flowers; 'tis Cephalick and Cordial, the Syrup of it is chiefly us'd.

Caryophylli, great Cloves, different from those common Cloves which are sold in the Shops; for that is but blue unripe Fruit. The Tree that bears this Fruit is much taller than any Laurel Tree, but its Leaves are very like those of the Laurel, only somewhat narrower. The ripe Fruit is sometimes no bigger than the unripe. There is also another kind less than any of the rest, but much rarer, and more excellent, call'd Royal Cloves. There is a certain Bark in America, not inferiour in Scent or Taste to Cloves, call'd the Clove-bark; but what Tree it belongs to I am not able to tell. There are also a kind of Cloves so call'd by Pliny, growing in Branches like Grapes, with very large Leaves, the Seed whereof has a taste resembling, but very faintly, that of Cloves.

Caryophylli Plinii, see Caryophylli.

Caryota, a Carot; see Carota.

Caschu, or Catechu, little Pastils made of Japan Earth, Ambergrise, and Sugarcandy.

Cassatum, is Blood coagulated and so grumous, that it obstructs the passage and motion of good Blood in the Veins.

Cassia Fistula, Nigra, Solutiva,

Laxativa, Cassia in the Pipe or Cane, it is black and laxative; it grows in both the Indies and Africa. The Tree is not unlike a Walnut-tree, its Leaves are the same, only narrower like the Peach-tree. It brings forth sweet-scented yellow Flowers, and these black, round, hard Husks, or Rinds, contain a black Pulp.

Cassia Lignea; see Cinamomum.

Cassia Mellis, that Pulp of Cassia which is extracted for Clysters, in which Composition Honey is mixt, that it may keep in the Shops.

Cassutha; see Cuscuta.

Castanea, Chesnut-tree, the Nut of it is astringent, and consequently good for Fluxes of the Belly, and for spitting of Blood; but they are Windy, and injurious to the Stomach and Head, and to those that are subject to Cholical Pains, and the Stone.

Castoreum, 'tis difficult to know what this is from Foreigners; for our Merchants buy it of others, who have it from other Countries. It comes from both the Indies.

Castratio, a gelding or cutting away both the Testicles.

Casus, a Word of various significations; it is taken for a Symptom, for Chance, Accident, and Providence; for a Fall, or a present Disease. Medicinal Cases, practical Observations. Collegium Casuale, i. e. wherein are treated and explain'd the particular Histories of singular Diseases.

Casus Uvulæ; see in Cion.

Cataeleis, the same as Cataclida.

Cataclesis, the Cartilaginous Bone, or the Cartilage seated in the Connexion of the Omoplata or Scapula with the Clavis. Otherwise the first little Rib of the Thorax, call'd the Subclavian.

Catagma, the Fraction, or breaking of Bones, or a Separation of the Continuum in the hard parts of the Body, which is effected by some hard Instrument forcibly impreſt upon the Part; whose Differences are taken from the Form, the Part, and several other Accidents.

Catagmatica, Remedies for the curing of Fractures.

Catalepsis, or Catochus, Prehensio, seu Congelatio, an Abolition of all the Animal Functions, wherein the Respiration remains entire, and the Patient in the same Habit and Position of Body that he had before he fell sick. The Pulse continues all this while, the Eyes are open, but without any Motion, Speech, or Sense, it happening very seldom that they understand what is said, or can swallow what is given them: The Cause of it seems to consist in the Obstruction or Anguſtation of the Corpus striatum in those Pores by which Objects are represented in the Brain, so that there's no Perception of any Object; but the Pores, by which the Animal Spirits are convey'd from the Brain to the Organs of Sense, are left free and open. Among the External Causes are commonly reckon'd, Thunder, Lightning, and excessive Cold.

Catalotica, the same with Cicatrizantia, or healing Medicines.

Catamenta, Women's Courses, which gathering every Month by the Fermentation of the Blood, and being come to a Turgency by the Accession of a Ferment that is in the Womb, discharge themselves at their set time. Others say, they proceed from Seed bred in in the Testicles, and communicated to the Blood. Some ascribe the Courses to the Motions of the Moon, but if this were true, then all Women would have them at the same time. They begin at 12, 13, or 14 Years of Age, and stop about 50; but this cannot be exactly determin'd. They are suppressed in breeding Women, and Nurses; yet this is not a Rule neither.

Catapasma, fragrant Powder, which, by reason of its scent, is strew'd amongst Cloths: Also a fragrant Powder which, after anointing, is applied to the Stomach or Heart.

Cataphora, the same with Coma; they only differ in this, that Cataphora is taken as the Genus to all sorts of Stupors, that are not attended with a Fever. A most profound sleep.

Cataphractica, is the Name of a certain Bandage, or Ligature, accommodated to the Breast.

Cataplasma, a Topical Medicine of the consistence of a Poultice; 'tis usually prescrib'd two ways, either boil'd, or without it; the former is more frequent; the latter of more Efficacy. In the former they are to take such Vegetables as are proper, as Roots, Herbs, Seeds, Flowers, Fruits, &c. adding proper Meals, or omiting them; all which are boil'd up in a convenient quantity of Liquor, v. g. Water, Beer, Milk, Honey, &c. to the consistence of a Poultice. The latter is prepar'd commonly of Vegetables shred small, with the Infusion of so much Liquor only as may make it of the former consistence; you may add here Meal, Crumbs of Bread, Oils, Ointments, as in the former sort of Cataplasms too. A Cataplasm or Poultice.

Cataplexis, that is, a Stupor, or Stupefaction of the Eyes.

Catapotis, swallowing, or a ready descent of Meat, Drink, and Medicines thro' the Gullet.

Catapotium, commonly Pillula, is a Medicine given inwardly; Purging Pills.

Catapsyxis, a great chilness or trembling of the Body and Limbs with a sense of Pain, which coldness of the extream Parts is taken for an ill sign in Fevers.

Cataptosis, is not a Disease, but a Symptom of Epilepsies and Apoplexies, signifying a sudden or casual falling to the Ground, which is an involuntary Motion of some Organical Member, proceeding from a Palsy, and Relaxation of the Muscles and Tendons beyond Nature.

Cataputia; see Lachyrus.

Catapulta was an Engine among the Ancients, which threw out Darts and Stones.

Cataracta is twofold, either beginning, or a Suffusion only, or confirmed, or a Cataract so call'd; the incipient is but a Suffusion of the Eye, when little Clouds, Motes, and Flies seem to fly before the Eyes, but the confirm'd Cataract is when the Pupil of the Eye is either wholly or in part cover'd and shut up with a little thin Skin, so that the Sunbeams have not due admitance to the Eye. Confirm'd Cataracts are cur'd with thrusting a Needle thro' the Albugineous and the horny Membrane, as far as the Cataract, which is to be depress't with a Needle, and if it start back, to be broken, then the Eye is to be tied up with Water of Roſes, the White of an Egg, and Alum, all ſhaken together.

Catarrhopus, when Humours, Vapours, or Wind, fall downward from the Head. 'Tis the ſame with Catharrus.

Catarrhus was taken by the Ancients for a Defluxion of Humours from the Head to the ſubjacent Parts, as the Noſtrils, Mouth, Lungs, &c. as happens in the Coryza and Branchus: But there are no ſuch things as Catarrhs, for there is nothing falls from the Head to thoſe Parts. But the Glandules of the Noſtrils, and thoſe that are about the parts of the Mouth, are often obſtructed. It is thus diſtinguiſh'd, if it fall on the Breaſt, the Catarrh is call'd Rheum; if on the Jaws, Branchus; if on the Noſtrils, Coryza.

Catarrhus Suffocatorius, a ſmothering Rheum, when (as the Ancients fancy) the excrementitious Humours fall on the Reſpiratory Organs, and threaten ſuffocation. But I ſhould rather eſteem it a ſwelling of the Glandules about the Larynx, by which the difficulty of Reſpiration and Suffocation is cauſed.

Catarrhus Spinalis Medullæ, when certain lymphatick Veſſels which ſurround the Marrow of the Back-bone are broke.

Cataſarca, the ſame as Anaſarca.

Cataſchaſmos, ſignifies a Scarification when 'tis made deep, being neceſſary in a Gangrenous or Sphacelous Corruption.

Cataſcheſis, a good ſtate of Body, oppoſite to an Hectick.

Cataſeiſis, a Concuſſion, Extenſion, or Diſtenſion.

Cataſtagmos, ſignifies Diſtillation; as in a Catarrh.

Cataſtaſis, a diſpoſition of human Body, or of Time.

Catataſis, an Extenſion of the Body toward the lower parts.

Catatripſis, Attrition, grinding or wearing away of any Bodies.

Catecheſis, the Inſtruction of the Phyſician, which is done viva voce to the By-ſtanders.

Catechu, improperly call'd Terra Japonica; a Juice ſqueez'd out of ſeveral aſtringent fruits. It comes from ſeveral parts of the Eaſt Indies, from Pegu, Surat, the Great Mogul's Country, from the Coaſt of Malaber, Bengal, and Ceylon: They uſe it with the Leaves of the Herb Betel. The true Fruit and Ground of it is Acacia, an Oriental Plant ſomewhat like Tamarind. If you chew only a ſmall quantity of it, you find it at firſt aſtringent, but it afterwards leaves behind it a ſweetiſh agreeable taſte, not unlike the Leaves of Thea.

Cathæretica, ſive Cauſtica, ſive Eſcharotica, Medicines that make an opening into, or take away ſuperfluous Fleſh or Excreſcences.

Catharma, the ſame with Cathartícum.

Catharrus; ſee Catarrhus.

Catharſis, the ſame with ——

Cathartícum, ſeu Catharma, a purging Medicine which cleanſes the Stomach, the Guts, and whatever is vitious and heterogenous in the Blood, and throws it into the Common-ſhore of the Guts. Cathartícks are commonly diſtinguiſh'd in Cholagoga, ſuch as purge Choler, as Rhubarb, Scammony, Caſſia Fiſtula, the Diaprunum Solutivum, &c. or Phlegmagoga, ſuch as purge the Phlegm, as Colocynth, Jalap, Mechoacanna, &c. or Melanagoga, ſuch as purge Melancholy, ly, as black Hellebore, Sena Leafs, Confectio Hamech, &c. But this Diviſion is rejected by moſt modern Phyſicians, who allow of no ſuch Specifick Purges. See Purgatio & Vomitorium.

Cathemerina, the ſame with Quotidian Febris, or Quotidian Ague.

Catheter, five Immiſſor, vel Demiſſor, a Fiſtulous Inſtrument ſomewhat crook'd, which is thruſt up the Yard into the Bladder to provoke Urine when 'tis ſuppreſt by the Stone; or into whoſe cavity an Inſtrument cal'd Itinerarium is thruſt, to find out the Stone in the Bladder, that then the Sphincter of the Bladder may be ſhewn, and an Inciſion be made in the Perinæum, i. e. in the Interſtice betwixt the Fundament and the Privities.

Cathetetriſmus, the Adminiſtration or Operation of injecting any thing into the Bladder by a Catheter or Syringe.

Catholicum, ſeu Panacea, a general or common Medicine that expels or corrects all ill Humors; which is kept in the Shops.

Catias, vel Scalpellus exciſorius, an Inciſion-knife to cut out a dead Child, &c.

Cathypnia, a long and profound Sleeping.

Catillus cinereus, ſeu Obruſæ Catillus, is a kind of a Kettle or Pot fill'd with Aſhes, well waſh'd, us'd for the refining of Gold and Silver. See Cupella.

Catinus, the ſame with Capella.

Κάτω purgare, to purge downwards; the oppoſite of which is Ἄνω, to vomit, or purge upwards.

Catocatharctica, Medicines that purge by Stool.

Catoche, the ſame with Catalepſis.

Catoretica, the ſame with Cathartica or Purgantia, things that purge downwards.

Catoxys Peracutus, a very acute Diſeaſe in the ſuperlative degree, that is carried on with more than ordinary ſwiftneſs and danger.

Cattaria, the ſame with Nepeta, Nep, or Catmint; 'tis hot and dry, and chiefly uſed for Obſtructions of the Womb, for Barrenneſs, to haſten Delivery, and to help Expectoration; it is uſed outwardly in baths for the Womb, and for the Itch.

Cava Radix; ſee Radix cava.

Caudex, the Stem or Trunk or Body of a Tree or Shrub, through which Nouriſhment is convey'd from the Root to the Branches.

Cava Vena; ſee Vena cava.

Cavitates, the greateſt Cavities in the Body, wherein ſome principal Part is contain'd, as the Brain in the Head, in the Cheſt the Lungs, Heart, &c. in the Abdomen the Liver, Spleen, Reins Stomach, Inteſtines, Bladder, &c. and they are three, the Head, the Cheſt, the Belly.

Cavitates minores, the Ventricles of the Heart and Brain, of which in their proper places. See Ventriculi.

Cauledon, the breaking of the Bones acroſs, when the Parts of the Bones are ſo ſeparated that they will not lie direct.

Caulis; ſee Braſſica.

Caulis, the Stalk of any Herb.

Cauſodes, the ſame with Cauſus.

Cauſtica, or Eſcharotica, vel Cathæretica, thoſe things that burn the Skin and Fleſh into an hard Cruſt, as burnt Braſs, quick Lime, ſublimated Mercury, and hot Iron, &c. A Cauſtick.

Cauſus,

Causus, or a burning Fever, is that which is attended with a greater heat than other continu'd Fevers, with an intolerable thirst, and other Symptoms, which argue an extraordinary accension of the Blood; and that which discriminates it from other putrid Fevers is, that the temperature of the Blood is hotter, i. e. abounds more with combustible Sulphur; and therefore, when it begins to boil, is accended in a greater measure, and in its deflagration diffuses Particles of most intense heat thro' the whole Body: Its Motion is acute, it comes presently to its height, is accompanied with dreadful Symptoms, has a very difficult Crisis, and a dangerous event. A burning Fever.

Cauterisatio, an artificial Burning, made by a Cautery.

Cauterium, a Chirurgeon's Instrument, made of Iron, Silver or Gold, which, after 'tis heated, has an actual power of burning into any thing; they differ in bulk and in form. 'Tis sometimes taken for a Potential Cautery prepared of Lixiviums, or Lime and Soap. An Actual and Potential Cautery.

Cedmata, Defluxions upon the Joints, especially the Hip.

Cedrus, the Cedar-tree.

Celastrus, a Tree which hath Fruit very late.

Cele, a Tumour in any Part; see Hernia.

Celis Macula, a spot or stain on the Skin.

Celotomia, the cutting of a Hernia or Rupture.

Cellulæ intestini coli, the little Cavities or rather Receptacles of the Gut Colon, are where the Excrements lodge some while, that they may refresh some adjacent Parts with their heat, and digest and ferment any remaining Crudities.

Celsa, is a wandring Pulsation in several parts of the Body; a Wind or Vapor creeping betwixt the Skin and the Muscles, endeavouring to force its way out.

Cementatio, is an Art of purifying Gold by means of the Royal Cement; see Cementum.

Cementum, a Powder by whose means Cementatory Calcination is perform'd: or, as others say, 'tis a very sharp piercing Mineral matter, wherewith Metals being strew'd, are reverberated to cement; 'tis either simple or mixt, and either in form of a Powder or of a Paste. A Cement.

Cenchrias, a sort of spreading Inflamation which we call Wildfire, call'd Herpes Miliaris, from the resemblance it bears to the Seed of the small Grain call'd Millet, or Hyrse. See Herpes.

Cenchros; see Milium.

Ceneangia, an evacuation of the Vessels by opening a Vein. 1. It is expedient in a Plethora, to free Nature from too great a Load. 2. It is expedient to draw back the Blood by way of Revulsion, when it rushes too plentifully towards any one part. 3. To divert the Blood from one part to another, tho' it be no way lodg'd there, nor be extravasated. 4. To ventilate and cool the Blood in burning and in putrid Fevers.

Ceneon, signifies all that cavity of the lower Belly from the Ribs to the Bones of the Ilea, which contain the Mesentery and small Guts.

Ceneos vacuus, Vacuity or Emptineſs.

Cenoſis, the ſame with Evacuatio or an Evacuation.

Centaurium, call'd likewiſe Chironium, becauſe Chiron was cur'd by it; 'tis alſo call'd Febrifuga, the Antifebritick; Fel terræ, Limneſium and Limnæum, Centory: Galen, by reaſon of the wonderful Vertue of this Plant, writ a whole Book of it: 'Tis Splenetick and Hepatick, bitter without biting; 'tis cleanſing, opening, and vulnerary; 'tis good in the Jaundice, in ſuppreſſion of the Courſes, in the Gout, and for Worms, and is a Specifick for the biting of a mad Dog. The Decoction of it is uſed with ſucceſs in Tertian Agues, therefore 'tis call'd by ſome the Febrifuge Plant; 'tis one of the Ingredients of the bitter Drink ſo much uſed by London Phyſicians. A decoction of the tops of it takes off Pimples, Spots, Morphew, and other Diſeaſes of the Skin; a Lee made of it cleanſes the Hair, and makes it white. A Man almoſt deſtroy'd by the Jaundice was cur'd by drinking every morning a ſtrong Decoction of this Herb.

Centrum, the middle of a Body not taken mathematically, but phyſically, and that they ſay is the Heart, from which, as from a Centre, the Blood continually circulates round the moſt diſtant part, of the Body; for mathematically the middle point is the Centre of any Circumference whatever.

Centum capita; ſee Eryngium.

Centumcellis, certain famous Baths in Tuſcany.

Centum Morbia, the ſame with Nummularia, Money-wort; 'tis alſo call'd Hirudinaria.

Centum Nogia, the ſame with Polygonum.

Centunculus, and Centuncularis Herba; ſee Gnaphalium.

Cepa and Cepe, the ſame with Cæpa.

Cephalæa, an obſtinate Headach of a long continuance, and ſcarce curable.

Cephalalgia, five Capitis Dolor, differs from the Cephalæa, becauſe 'tis not inveterate; it ſeizes ſometimes upon the whole, ſometimes upon a part of the Head; and is ſo common, that 'tis a hard matter to find any one who can boaſt his Head ne'r pain'd in his life. The Parts affected with the Headach are either external, as the Skin, Muſcles, the Pericranium; or internal, as the Meninges, Nerves, Brain, and Perioſteum, a Headach that proceeds from Intemperance or ill conformation of the Parts.

Cephalartica, Medicines which purge the Head.

Cephalica, ſpirituous and volatile Medicines uſed in Diſtempers of the Head, as the Spirit of Sal Armoniac, of Hartſhorn, Caſtoreum, with many other, call'd Cephalicks; alſo the outermoſt Vein in the Arm is call'd Cephalica, becauſe uſed to be open'd in Diſeaſes of the Head.

Cephalopharyngæi, the firſt pair of Muſcles of the upper part of the Gullet, which proceed from beſide the Head and Neck, and are ſpread more largely upon the Tunick of the Gullet.

Cephalophonia, a pain or heavineſs in the Head.

Ceræa, the Horns of the Womb in Brutes, wherein Generation is perform'd.

Cerea, vel Cera, the excrementitious Matter of the Ears, call'd Earwax.

Cerasus, a Cherrytree; Cherries when they are fresh looſen the Belly, but when dry, they bind. Thoſe that are ſweet purge, but they are offenſive to the Stomach. Sharp and harſh Cherries are binding; the diſtill'd Water of ſharp Cherries, and Cherries themſelves, extinguiſh Feveriſh Heat, quench Thirſt, and create an Appetite. The Decoction of dry'd Cherries is excellent in Hypochondriac Diſeaſes, and many have been cur'd by this Remedy alone. Sweet Cherries are peculiarly good for Diſeaſes of the Head, Falling-ſickneſs, Apoplexy, and Palſy. A Lord that was ſeiz'd with an Apoplexy, and ſpeechleſs 3 days, recover'd his Speech by taking Spirit of Cherries. In Stammering, and other Vices of Speech, waſh the Mouth oft with Spirit of black Cherries, for they are very cephalick, and do much ſtrengthen the Muſcles of the Tongue and the Spirits deſign'd for their uſe. The diſtill'd Water of ſweet black Cherries is much commended and uſed for Childrens Convulſions. The Oil drawn from the Kernels takes Spots and Pimples from the Skin, by anointing it; and 'tis reckon'd good for the Gout and Stone in the Kidneys and Bladder. The Gum of Cherries diluted with Wine cures inveterate Coughs, quickens the Sight, and provokes Appetite; it is counted alſo Lithontriptick taken in Wine.

Ceranium; ſee Cadus.

Ceratium, the ſame with Siliqua.

Ceratoglossum, the proper pair of Muſcles belonging to the Tongue proceeding from the Horns of the Bone call'd Hyoides, and join'd to the ſides of the Tongue; their uſe is to move the Tongue ſtrait downwards toward the inward part when they act jointly; but if either the one or the other be contracted ſingly, they move it to the right or left ſide.

Ceratoides, the ſame with Cornea Tunica.

Ceratomalagma, a ſoftning compoſition, prepar'd of Wax, and other Ingredients.

Ceratonia, the Crab Tree.

Ceratum, Cerotum, vel Ceratomalagma, a Medicine applied outwardly, made of Wax, Oils, and ſometimes Duſt mixt thicker than an Ointment, and ſofter than a Plaiſter, commonly call'd a Searcloth.

Ceraunia, Muſhromes.

Ceraunochryſos, the ſame with Chryſocenaurius Pulvis, call'd Aurum Fulminans.

Cerchnos, a certain Aſperity of the Larynx, which is felt as it were like ſo many Juniper Berries, whence proceeds a little dry Cough.

Cercis, the ſecond Bone of the Cubit, call'd Radius, becauſe it is like the Spoke of a Wheel.

Cerſis, a Tree, whoſe Leaves ſhake when the Wind is quiet, and make a Noiſe.

Cercopithegus, a kind of an Ape with a Tail.

Cercoſis, a Fleſhy Excreſcence coming out of the Mouth of the Womb, filling the privy Parts of a Woman, which extending it ſelf ſometimes without the Extremities of thoſe Parts, looks like a Tail. It is alſo call'd Nympha Virga, Mentula Muliebris, the Clitoris.

Cere-

Cerebellum, the hinder part of the Brain, consisting like the Brain it self, of an ashy or barky Substance, and a white marrowy Substance, wherein the Animal Spirits, which perform involuntary and meer Natural Actions, are generated: In Man, but not so in Beasts, it seems to consist of a great many thin Plates that lye upon one another.

Cerebrum, the Brain, is strictly taken for the foremost part of the Substance which is within the Scull; and it is a Substance of a peculiar sort to its self, outwardly it is cover'd with the Skin call'd Pia Mater; it is wrought with many turnings and windings, its Exterior Substance is of an Ash-colour, wherein the Animal Spirits are generated. The Inferiour is white, which receives the Animal Spirits from the former, and discharges them by the Corpus Callosum, and the Medulla Oblongata, into the Nerves; upon which voluntary Actions do chiefly depend. Likewise the Brain is the Subject of Imagination, Judgment, Memory, and Reminiscence; for the Ideas or Species of Things being receiv'd from the Organs of the External Senses, are carried to the common Sensory, or the beginning of the Oblong Marrow, and then to the Corpora striata, and the Corpus Callosum, there the Judgment and Imagination are form'd, but the seat of the Memory is said to be in the ashy barky Substance, and if the Ideas after some time chance to be call'd for out of the place of the Memory, then it is properly said to be Reminiscence, or Remembring. Sleep is likewise transacted in the Brain, concerning which see in its proper place.

Cerelæum, an Ointment made of Wax and Oil, a kind of Searcloth.

Cerevisia medicata, Physic-drink, is wherein Medicines proper for any Diseases have been infused.

Cerevisia, cervisia, cererisia, celia, Beer, or any sort of Malt Drink.

Cereus, a sort of House Leek.

Ceria, the same with Favus and Achor.

Cerinthe, an Herb with Flowers, whereon Bees frequently feed, and therefore call'd Honeywort.

Cerio, the same with Favus and Achor.

Ceroma, the same with Ceratum.

Ceroneum, the same with Ceratum, a Searcloth.

Cerotum, the same as Ceratum.

Cerrus, and Cerris, the Mast-bearing Tree.

Cervaria, Æthiopic seseli.

Cervicaria, or Trachelium, a sort of Campanula: see Trachelium.

Cervinum cornu; see Coronopus.

Cervix, the hinder part of the Neck, as the forepart is call'd Collum.

Cervix Uteri, the Neck of the Womb.

Cerumina, the filth of the Ear, which seems to sweat out from the Cartilages; others think it comes from the Glandules, which border upon the Ears, it consists of abundance of Salt and adust Sulphur, which gives it its bitterness. It is good to hinder Dust, Motes, or little Animals from getting into the Ears. 'Tis commonly call'd Ear-wax.

Cerussa, or Ceruse, White Lead, is Lead prepar'd by Vinegar, whose Vapour it is made to imbibe, for it turns into a white Rust, which is gather'd up and made into little tle white Cakes, this, and all other Preparations of Lead, are of a drying nature; they may be mix'd with Ointments and Plaisters, they unite with Oils, or fat Substances, in the boiling, and they give them a good solid consistence; and the greatest part of our Plaisters derive their hardness from it.

Cestum Betonita; see Betonica.

Cete, a Whale, or any large Fish.

Ceterach, a sort of Spleenwort.

Chærefolium, and Cherefolium, and Cherephyllum, and Cerefolium, Chervil, especially that which grows in Gardens, is hot and dry, and Diuretick; it provokes the Courses, and is Lithontriptick; it quickens the Blood when coagulated, and dispose to sleep; it is used outwardly with great success for the Cholick, and Obstructions of the Urine; used in Cataplasms, it discusses Tumours and clotted Blood, like Solomon's Seal; 'tis chiefly used for Swellings and Hardness of the Paps.

Chalastica, Medicines of a moistning and emollient quality, which relax the Parts that are too hard bound up.

Chalazia, a little Swelling in the Eyelids, like a Hail-stone.

Chalazæ, every Egg has two of them, one in the Obtuse, and the other in the Acute end. There is more of them in the White; yea, they stick closer to the Yolk, and are fasten'd to its Membrane. They are something long Bodies, more concrete than the White, and whiter; knotty, have some sort of Light, as Hail, whence they have their Name; for each Chalaza consists as it were of so many Hail-stones, separated from each other by that White; one of them is bigger than the other, and farther from the Yolk, is extended toward the Obtuse end of the Egg: The other is less, and extends it self from the Yolk, toward the Acute end of the Egg. The greater is made up of 2 or 3 Knots, like so many Hail-stones, which are moderately distant from each other, the less in order succeeds the greater. It is also a Disease incident to Swine, call'd the Measels of an Hog.

Chalbanum; see Galbanum.

Chalcitis, is a Metallick Thing growing in Veins of Brass, and is nothing else but a Mineral of Vitriol, as Sory and Missy. That which is friable, and not stony, and like Brass, is best. The Apothecaries now-a-days substitute for Chalcitis, White or Crude, or burnt Vitriol.

Chalcus; see Cereolus.

Chalybs, Steel, Iron is turn'd into Steel by means of Horns or Nails of Animals, with which it is stratified, and so calcin'd. These Matters containing a great deal of Volatile Salt wherein is an Alcali, do kill or destroy the Acids of the Iron that kept its Pores open, and do render it more compact; besides, the Fire carries off many of the more Volatile and Soluble Parts of Iron, whence it comes to pass that Steel will remain longer without rusting than Iron. Steel is to be prefer'd before Iron for the making of Utensils; but for Remedies Iron is better beyond Comparison. Steel is almost always Astringent by Stool, and Aperitive by Urine.

Chalinos, Aurelian says, is the Ultimate Angle and joining of the Mouth, or that part of the Cheeks Cheeks that adjoin upon the Lips.

Chamæacte, ſive Ebulus, ſive Sambucus Humilis, Ground or Dwarf-Elder.

Chamæbalanus, ſive Terra Glans, Earth-Nut, Muſhrooms, or the like: ſee Apion.

Chamæbatos: ſee Rubus.

Chamæcedrys, Female Southernwood.

Chamæceraſus, Dwarf Cherry-Tree.

Chamæciſſus, ſee Hedera Terreſtis.

Chamæcypariſſus, dwarf Cypreſs-Tree has the ſame ſhape and ſmell with the Cypreſs Tree.

Camædaphnæ. See Clematis Daphne.

Chamædrys, Germander; 'tis hot and dry, and ſomewhat bitter; 'tis good for a Cough, at the beginning of a Dropſy, for an ill habit of Body, the Green-ſickneſs, Strangury, and Obſtructions of the Bowels. The Garden Germander provokes Urine and Sweat powerfully, upon which account 'tis good in Fevers, for the Scurvy, and for the Blood when coagulated, but eſpecially for the Gout, the Jaundice, and Suppreſſion of Urine. It was commended to the Emperor Charles V. as an Arcanum for the Gout: 'Tis outwardly uſed for corroding Ulcers, for the Piles, the Itch, and to dry up Catarrhs. 'Tis frequently uſed in a Decoction, to open Womens Obſtructions: 'Tis call'd by ſome Engliſh Treacle.

Chamæleon, a ſort of Carduus, it is ſo call'd from the variety of the Leaves, for it changes colour with the Earth; it grows in as the Animal call'd the Chamæleon doth.

Chamæleuce, the ſame with Tuſſilago.

Chamæmelum, Camomile; it digeſts, looſens, mollifies, eaſes Pain, provokes Urine and the Courſes, wherefore 'tis much us'd in the Cholick, and for Convulſions that proceed from Wind. Among all the Plants that are uſed in Baths for the Stone, none is ſo effectual as the Flower of Camomile; 'tis outwardly uſed in paregorick, emollient, and ſuppurating Cataplaſms, and for Clyſters. The Oil of Camomile ſoftens hard Swellings, diſcuſſes 'em, and eaſes the Pain: Some drink a Decoction of it for the Stone; a Perſon that had the Stone, and had try'd many Medicines to no purpoſe, was wonderfully reliev'd by a decoction of two handfuls of the flowers in a quart of Reniſh-wine; he took two or three ſpoonfuls of this decoction at a time, in a ſmall draught of hot Wine. And ſeveral others ſo afflicted found much Relief by this Decoction.

Chamæpitys, 'tis alſo call'd Abiga, Ajuga, and Ibiga, Ground Pine. It ſtrengthens the Nerves, incides, opens, is diuretick, and provokes the Courſes; it expels a dead Child and the After-birth, and works ſo powerfully that Women with Child are wholly forbid the uſe of it, becauſe it occaſions Miſcarriage; boil'd in Wine, or powder'd, and made into Pills with Hermodactile and Venice Turpentine, it does much good in a Dropſy; outwardly uſed, it cureth Ulcers, by cleanſing them and taking off the hardneſs.

Chamælyce, the Dwarf Figtree.

Chaomantia, is an Art of prognoſticating Weather from the diſpoſition of the Air.

Chaos, a rude and indigeſted Heap,

Heap, such as was at the beginning of the creation of the World.

Characias, Plants so call'd which grow about the Valleys.

Character, a mystical Sign or Figure, which signifies or denotes something among Chymists.

Chariſtolochia, Mugwort, a Specifick in expelling the Lochia in Women.

Charlatan, originally a French Word, signifying a Mountebank.

Charopos, signifies a fine lovely colour of the Eye, as a Sky-colour, &c.

Charta Emperotica, or Bibula, is Paper made without Glue, very porous; it serves to filter Liquors, and is commonly call'd Cap-paper, or Brown-paper.

Charta Virginia, the same with Amnios.

Chaſme, a gaping or opening, as a windy explosion or discussion from the Muscles, the Cause of which is a Vapour or Flatus contain'd therein.

Chaunos, lax, fungous and soft, so as to yield to the impression of the Fingers.

Cheilococe, or Labroſulcium, is a Disease of Infants, for it seldom befals grown People; their Lips swell much with an hard Tumour, somewhat reddish but not inflam'd and which never suppurates; 'tis sometimes more inward than outward. There are most commonly small Ulcers in the Mouth, Palate, Tongue, Jaws, Lips, and Gums. This Disease is call'd in Engliſh, a Canker of the Mouth, or a Water-canker.

Cheimetlon, the same that Pernio.

Chelæ, the sharp-edg'd Claws of Craw-fishes, Crabs or Lobsters.

Chgeirgnium, the same as Cacoethes

Chelidonium, or Chelidonia, Celandine; 'tis hot and dry, it evacuates Choler by Urine and Stool, and clears the Sight. A Syrup made of the whole Herb is good in the Jaundice, Obstructions of the Liver, Spleen, and Kidneys; it cures a Tetter (call'd in Latin Herpes Miliaris) effectually, it being daily anointed with the juice. Large Warts may be taken off by rubbing them daily with the Leaves of this Herb. The Juice or distill'd Water of it, outwardly apply'd, strengthens the Eyes, and cures Ulcers; but because the Juice is very acrid, it must be mix'd with those things that will abate the Acrimony of it. A great quantity of the Juice is made use of in the Composition of Aqua Mirabilis. There are two sorts of it, the Chelidonium majus, or greater Celandine or Swallow-wort, and the minus, or lesser.

Chelone, Teſtudo, is a Chirurgical Instrument, whereby Limbs that are to be made strait are by little and little extended, as the Animal call'd a Tortiſe creeps leisurely. There are various Figures of this Instrument, for different Purposes.

Chelonium, the bunching or gibbous part of the Back, seated just under the Neck, call'd so from its resemblance to the Back of a Tortoiſe.

Chema, a Measure of the Ancients containing 2 small spoonfuls.

Chemia, the same as Chymia, anciently signify'd the Art of making Gold and transmuting of Metals.

Chemoſis, vel Chymoſis, the Tumor of the Albugineous Tunic that makes the Black of the Eye appear concave.

Chenocoprus, Gooſe-dung.

Chenopus, Gooſe-foot: ſee Pes Anſerinus.

Cherefolium, and Cerefolium, or Cherifolium: ſee Chærefolium.

Cheronia, the ſame with Centaurium.

Chiliophyllon, the ſame with Milleſolium.

Chermes Grana: ſee Kermes.

Chermes and Kermes, an Arabian Word, but ſufficiently known in the Shops; ſee Coccos.

Cheronia, ſive Centaurium Majus, ſee Centaurium.

Cherſydrus, the Name of an Amphibious Serpent, which at firſt inhabits in watry Places, and from thence is call'd Hydrus, then he delights in the dry Ground, and obtains the Name of Cherſydrus.

Chiaſmus, denotes the meeting or joining together of two things, under the form or figure of a Croſs, ſo the Optick Nerves of each Eye run croſſways.

Chilophyllon, the ſame with Milleſolium.

Chimetlon, the ſame that Pernio.

Chimia, the ſame with Chymia.

Chimiatri, Chymical Phyſicians.

China Chinæ; ſee Cina Cinæ.

China Radix, China Root, 'tis of two ſorts, Oriental, brought from China, and Occidental from New Spain and Peru; the Oriental is eſteem'd the beſt, and of a rediſh or faint black colour on the outſide, but within whitiſh, or a faint red. The Occidental is more red within, 'tis very good in the Gout, Pox, and other Diſeaſes that are hardeſt to be cur'd.

Chiragra, a ſort of Gout in the Hands, ariſing from the Effervescence of Acid Particles, and fix'd Salt.

Chiromantia, a Divination from inſpecting the Hand, when Men predict Futurities from the Lineaments thereof, not at all neceſſary to a Phyſician, ſince it is rather a deceitful Art. It is commonly call'd Chiromancy.

Chirones, the ſame with Sirones.

Chironium, a great and malignant Ulcer, and of difficult cure.

Chironia, and Chironium, got its Name from Chiron the Centaure; from whence the Briony is alſo called Chironium; ſee Centaurium.

Chironomia, is a kind of Exerciſe or Motion of the Hands, perform'd by a certain Rule or Art. It may be call'd the Art of talking upon the Fingers.

Chirurgia, Chirurgery, is an Art, wherein by the help of our Hands or Inſtruments we endeavour to cure Diſeaſes; Or it is a part of the Art Theraputick, or Medicinal Art, wherein Diſeaſes are cur'd by Inciſion, Burning, and Setting of Joints. Or it is a Science, which teaches the manner and way of working upon living and humane Bodies, by way of Manual Operation; and it is fivefold, though others chuſe rather to divide it into 4 parts. 1. Syntheſis, a ſetting together of things ſeparate. 2. Diæreſis, a ſeparating of things that were contiguous before. 3. Diorthoſis, a correcting of things ſqueez'd together and contorted. 4. Exereſis, a taking away of Superfluities. 5. Anapleroſis, a reſtoring of that which was deficient.

Chirurgus, one skilful in the Art of Chirurgery, who performs his Cures upon humane Bodies by Manual Operations.

Chloroſis, or Morbus Virgineus, commonly Icterus Albus, ſeems ſo be a kind of Flegmatick pituitous Dropsy, arising from an Obstruction of the Courses, want of Fermentation in the Blood, and a Detention or Depravation of the Ferment in the Womb, whereupon the Muscular Fibres being obstructed, they become lazy, and unfit for Action, commonly call'd the Green-sickness.

Choana, a sort of Cavity or Tunnel in the Basis of the Brain, by which the serous Excrements are brought down, from the Ventricles of the Brain, to the Pituitary Glandule: Also the Pelvis of the Reins, of which in its proper place. It is also an Instrument of Glass, Tin, or any other Metal, or solid Matter, for the more convenient pouring of Liquids from one Vessel into the other.

Chocolata, Chocolate, it is a Composition of Cocoa Nuts, Cinnamon, Sugar, &c. reduc'd into a Paste, and afterwards boil'd in Milk or Water, and stir'd about till it be all dissolv'd, and so taken gently whilst it is hot; see Cacoa. It is also call'd Succholuta & Chucolata.

Choenix, the same that Mediolus.

Choenix, a sort of Measure, containing two Sextaries, which is 3 Pints of our Measure. Some say it contains 44 Ounces of Wine, and 40 Ounces of Oil.

Choeras, the same with Scrophula.

Cholagoga, are Medicines that purge Sulphureous and Bilious Humours; as Rhubarb, Senna, &c.

Choledocus, the Ductus Bilarius, or Passage of the Bile, call'd Common, wherein the Bile from the Bladder that contains it, and the Ductus in the Liver, is carried on to the Gut call'd Duodenum: see Cathartica.

Cholera, sive Passio Felliflua, as some call it, is a convulsive Motion of the Ventricle and the Guts, whereby the Bilious Excrements are discharg'd in great plenty upwards and downwards. This Distemper is attended with great Anxieties, pain of the Stomach, excessive Thirst, Inquietudes, a sudden Faintness, and continual Ejection of the Gall, and other Humours, by Stool. It proves sometimes mortal in a few hours. The Cholera sicca, or dry Choler, is an Eructation or Belching of much Wind, with much Noise and Pain. The cause of it consists sometimes in the very Acrimony of the Gall, which meets and ferments highly with the Juice of the Pancreas, as sharp and acid as it self.

Cholerica Passio, the same with Cholera.

Cholericus, he that abounds with a great deal of Choler.

Chondrilla, Gum-Succory.

Chondros, is a Grain, as of Mastich, Frankincense, and the like.

Chondros; see Cartilago.

Chondrosyndesmus, a Cartilaginous Ligament, or joining of Bones by the Intervention of a Cartilage.

Chorda, the same as a Tendon, Nerve, or Gut, of which in their proper place.

Chorda, a Tension, or rather drawing back of the Yard toward the Perinæum, with pain, contracted by cohabiting with unwholesome Women.

Chorda Membranæ Tympani, is a certain Nerve coming from the 5th pair, which is extended above the Membrane of the Tympanum.

Chordapsus, so Celsus calls it, barbarously call'd Miserere Mei, by others Iliaca Passio, by others Volvulus, lus, commonly Ilieus; and 'tis an Ejection of the Excrements at the Mouth only, proceeding from an Obstruction of Excrements, from Wind, Inflamation, or Contortion, or Convulsion of the Guts; when the upper part of the Intestines are twisted with the lower, whereupon the Paristaltick or Vermicular Motion of the Guts, whereby the Excrements are excluded, becomes inverted. It is also call'd Chorda Intestini Coli, or Iliaca passio.

Chordata Gonorrhœa. See Gonorrhœa Chordata and Chorda.

Chorea sancti Viti, a sort of Madness that formerly was very common among some People, wherein the Persons affected lay not down, but ran hither and thither dancing to the last gasp, if they were not forcibly hinder'd. Horstius says, That he had spoke with some Women, who paying a yearly visit to the Chapel of St. Vitus, which is near the City Ulm, have been taken with such a violent Fit of dancing Night and Day, together with a sort of Franticknes in the Mind, that they fall together like so many People in Extasies, and are sensible of little or nothing for a Year together, till next May, about which time they perceive themselves so tormented with a Restlesness in their Limbs, that they are forc'd to repair to the same place again about the Feast of St. Vitus, to dance. 'Tis commonly call'd St. Vitus's Dance.

Chorion, the outward Membrane, which with the rest of the Membranes and Humours contain the Fœtus in the Womb. It is of an orbicular figure in Women, and its upper part is annex'd to the Placenta, where it adheres to the Womb.

Choroides, the Folding of the Carotidal Artery in the Brain, wherein is the Glandulæ Pineales. 'Tis also the Uvea Tunica, which makes the Apple of the Eye.

Christi Manus, see Manus Christi.

Christophoriana, the Herb Christopher.

Chromatismus, the natural Colour and Tincture; for example, of Urines, Spittle, Blood, or Excrements.

Chronicus, a daily inveterate Distemper that has continued above forty days, as a Quartan Ague, a Consumption, an Asthma, Dropsie, &c. commonly call'd Chronical Distempers.

Chronius, the same as Chronicus.

Chrysanthemum, many Herbs are call'd so that have yellow shining Flowers.

Chrysisceptron, white Chameleon.

Chrysoceraunius pulvis, or Aurum fulminans, which is prepar'd of Gold dissolv'd in a Menstruum, impregnated with Sal Armoniack infused in Oil of Tartar; the Calx is precipitated to the bottom, which is sweeten'd and dry'd for use. 'Tis known under the name of the Fulminating Gold, because when touch'd by Fire, it makes a Noise like Thunder.

Chrysocome, an Herb producing golden hairy Flowers.

Chrysolachanon, a sort of Atriplex. See Atriplenum.

Chrysolithos, a Chrysolite, as it was call'd by the Ancients; or Topasius, the Topase, as our modern Jewellers term it, a Precious Stone of a Gold-like colour. There are two sorts, the harder, and one of a finer colour; the last is chiefly found in Bohemia.

Chryſomela, Apples of a golden colour.

Chus, call'd alſo Congius, Congiarium, and Choa, a Meaſure that contains four Sextaries, or two Chœnices, in our Meaſure ſix pints. Some ſay it contain'd ten pints of Wine, and nine of Oil.

Chyliſicatio, a natural Action of the Stomach, which by Digeſtion and Motion converts our Meats and Drink into Chyle.

Chyloſis, the ſame as Chyliſicatio.

Chylus, Chyle, a white Juice in the Ventricle and Inteſtines, proceeding from a light diſſolution and fermentation of Victuals, eſpecially of their Sulphur and Salt with which edible things abound, and which, by the intervention of the acid Humour in the concavity of the Stomach, become white; for if you pour an Acid upon any Liquor that is impregnated with Sulphur and Volatile, it preſently turns milky; as is obvious in preparing Milk of Sulphur or the reſinous Extracts of Vegetables: nay, Spirit of Hartſhorn, and of Soot, abounding with volatile Salt, if they be mix'd with an Acid, or but with plain Water, grow to be of a milky colour. At laſt the Chyle, after a co-mixtion and fermentation with the Gall and Pancreatick Juice, either volatile or acid, paſſing the Lacteal Veins, &c. is mixt with the Blood. 'Tis alſo call'd in Latin Chymus.

Chymetlon, the ſame with Pernio.

Chymia, or Chemia, is a Reſolution of Sublunary Bodies into their Elements; and again, a Coagulation of the ſame Elements into the Bodies, which they conſtitute before, in order to the preparation of Medicines more grateful and more ſafe. There are two parts of it, Solution and Coagulation: By the addition of the Arabick Article 'tis call'd Alchymia, tho' (properly ſpeaking) this laſt relates more particularly to the Tranſmutation of Metals; the firſt to the Preparation of Medicines, or Alchymy. 'Tis call'd alſo Spagyria, Hermetica Ars, Ars perfecti Magiſterii, Ars Segregatoria, Separatoria, and Diſtillatoria; in Engliſh Chymiſtry.

Chymiatria, the ſame with Chymia, or rather the Art of curing Diſtempers by Chymical Medicines.

Chymica, or Chymicalia, Medicines which the Chymiſts prepare that they may be taken in a leſs or more grateful quantity.

Chymicalia, the ſame with Chymica.

Chymicus, one skilful in the Art of diſſolving and coagulating, one skilful in Chymiſtry. A Chymiſt.

Chymoſis, or Chemoſis, Diſtortion of the Eyelids by an Inflamation. Alſo an Inflamation of the Tunica Cornea in the Eye.

Chymus, the ſame with Chylus.

Cicada, a Graſhopper.

Cicatriſantia, ſuch things as by drying, binding, and contracting fill up Ulcers with the Fleſh, and cover 'em with a Skin.

Cicatrix, Cicatrices, Scars, or Marks which are left after great Wounds or Ulcers, ſo as to leave a Diſfigurement upon the Skin: Some are ſimple, others accompany'd with a Cavity, Diminution, or Excreſcence in the Part affected.

Cicer, Chiches or Vetches, they cleanſe, open, incide, digeſt, provoke Urine, and leſſen the Stone, but but they hurt the Bladder when 'tis ulcerated; they gently move the Belly; the Broth of 'em does good in the Jaundice; a Decoction of 'em kills Worms, moves the Courſes, expels the Child, and breeds Milk. In Cataplaſms they cure Swellings under the Ears, call'd Parotides, and Inflamations of the Teſticles.

Cicera Tartari, are Pills made of Turpentine and Cream of Tartar.

Cicerbita, a ſort of Sonchus; ſee Sonchus.

Cichoreum, Succory, 'tis counted cold by ſome Authors, but its bitter taſte argues heat. It is Diuretick, it attenuates and cleanſes; 'tis chiefly us'd in Obſtructions of the Liver and Spleen, and for Fevers. The Water diſtill'd from the blue Flowers is an excellent Remedy for Inflamations and Dimneſs of the Eyes; the Leaves boil'd, and eaten in Vinegar, cure a Gonorrhœa; the Flowers of this Plant open and ſhut at Sun-riſing and Sun-ſet, whether the Heavens are clear or cloudy. Syrup of Succory with Rhubarb is much in uſe, and is an excellent Purge for Children.

Cicindela, a ſort of Chaffers, that give Light in the Night.

Cicongius, a Meaſure that contains twelve Sextaries, i. e. nine Quarts.

Ciconia, a Stork.

Cicuta, Hemlock, 'tis a poiſonous Herb, noted for the Death of Socrates. Baubinus ſays, he knew two Families who in Winter, thinking they had gather'd Parſnips, by chance found the Roots of Hemlock, for they are much like Parſnips, and having eaten ſome of 'em, they were like to be ſuffocated, and were ſenſleſs and mad, and juſt like Anticks. He cur'd 'em with Vomits. Hemlock is very cold, and ſuppos'd to be poiſonous, yet is frequently uſed now-a-days for Inflamations, and Tumors of the Spleen. Some Phyſicians ſay 'tis hot, outwardly uſed 'tis anodine. A Cataplaſm or Plaiſter of Hemlock, with Ammoniacum, diſcuſſes powerfully hard Swellings and a Ganglion.

Cicutaria, common Hemlock, Cicely, or Cow-weed; the Leaves are like the Hemlock abovemention'd, but they are broader, and of a pale green, and ſhine, and have a ſort of Down.

Cilia, and Supercilia, the Eyebrows, hard cartilaginous Bodies. But Supercilia denotes properly the Hair upon the Eyebrows, at the Extremity of the Forehead; they are like two Hairy Bulwarks or Ramparts to the Eyes, to defend 'em from the ſudden Incurſe of any thing from the Head, or otherwiſe.

Cina cinæ, or Chyna chynæ, or Cortex Peruvianus, or Quinquina, or Kina kinæ, the Peruvian Bark, or Jeſuite's Bark. 'Tis brought from Peru, the Spaniards call it Palo de Calenturas, or the Wood againſt Fevers. There are two kinds of this Tree, the one is cultivated, and t'other grows wild; the cultivated is much better than the other: You muſt chuſe it of a compact ſubſtance, bitter to the taſte, ſomewhat aſtringent, and of a reddiſh colour. 'Tis the moſt certain Remedy that ever yet was known to hinder the Fits of Agues: It is infuſed in Wine, or a Tincture or Extract is made of it, but 'tis moſt frequently taken made into Pills or an Electuary. This Bark is not unlike that of a young Oak.

Cinamomum, Cinamon, is the Bark of a Tree as large as an Olive-tree, with pretty large leaves not unlike thoſe of the Laurel; it bears a Fruit blackiſh of colour like an Acorn, and of the likeneſs of a Haſel-nut: The interiour Bark is the true Cinamon. It ſeems to be different from the Caſſia, is thinner, and when chew'd affords a mucilaginous Liquor: Perhaps they are both the Barks of one and the ſame Tree, the larger Branches affording the Cinamon, and the leſſer, Caſſia. Out of the Roots they draw Camphire; the Wood ſmells like Roſes, the Leaves like Juniper. The Fruit expreſs'd and boil'd, affords an oleaginous Subſtance in Scent not unlike Cloves. It grows in Zeilan, and is both an excellent Spice and Medicine. The beſt Cinamon is that which has the ſtrongeſt ſmell, is quick upon the taſte, and of a reddiſh colour. It fortifies the Stomach, helps Perſpiration of groſs Humors, ſtrengthens and rejoices the Heart; the Oil of it is an admirable corroborative, and aſſiſts Nature in her evacuations; 'tis given to make Women have an eaſie Delivery. The Tincture of Cinamon is an excellent Cardiack; it comforts the Stomach, cheers the vital Parts, and may be uſed like Cinamon-water, but in a ſmaller doſe.

Cinara, Artichoke; it reſtores Nature, ſtrengthens the Stomach, and the Buds provoke Urine, but they make it ſtink: Archokes breed melancholy Humours, are very windy, and hurt the Head; being eaten with Pepper and Salt they are leſs hurtful, and more pleaſant. See Articocalus.

Cinefactio, the ſame with Jacobea Marina.

Cinerarium, the ſame with Coniſterium.

Cineratio, the ſame with Cinefactio.

Cineritium, is a Cement of Gold and Silver, by ſome call'd Regale; it alſo ſignifies a Veſſel wherein Goldſmiths calcine Gold and Silver.

Cinerula, Spodium.

Ciniſtones, are Pretenders to Chymiſtry only, who know nothing of the Secrets of that Art while they boaſt themſelves to be Adepts, and will take up with nothing leſs than the Philoſopher's Stone.

Cinnabaris, Cinnabar, is of two ſorts, one artificial, the other natural, or mineral; the artificial is made of Sulphur and Mercury, the mixture of which makes a Sublimation; the native Cinnabar is a Mineral red Earth or Stone, conſiſting of Mercury and Sulphur coagulated with Earth into a Stone; 'tis brought out of the Eaſt-Indies, Hungary, and ſeveral Parts of Germany, but the Hungarian is beſt.

Cinnabaris Cinnabrion herba, the ſame with Rubea tinctorum.

Cinnus, is a mixture of many things, but particularly ſignifies a kind of Potion made up of ſeveral Liquors.

Cion, collumella, gargareon, gargulio, uva, uvula, uvigena, uvigera, epiglottis, ſublinguium, penſilis de palato Iſthmus, gutturis operculum, the Cover of the Windpipe; it hangs hangs betwixt the two Glandules call'd Amidalæ, above the chink of the Larynx, and is a Proceſs from a Subſtance, as one would think, glandulous, ſpongy, and red; which, Columbus is of opinion, ariſeth from the Tunick of the Mouth redoubled in that place; but Riolan ſays, it proceeds from ſome Muſcles which are terminated there. It is of a figure roundly oblong, in the upper part thicker, and ending obtuſely in an Acute. Its Uſe is to attemperate the coldneſs of the Air, and to hinder the Drink from falling upon the Noſtrils. Sometimes this Uvula ſticks out too far from the Humors that fall upon it, which can't return by the Lymphatick Veſſels, whence proceeds the fall of the Uvula, which we call Roof of the Mouth.

Cionis, the ſame with Cion.

Circæa, the ſame with Mandragora.

Circuitus, the ſame as Periodus.

Circulatio Sanguinis; ſee Periodus.

Circulatio Chymica, the Exaltation of a pure Liquor by a circular Diſtillation, in an Inſtrument call'd a Pelicane, or a blind Alembick, by the vertue of Heat.

Circulator, the ſame with Circumforaneous. See Agyrta.

Circulatorium, a Glaſs Veſſel wherein the Liquor infuſed, by its aſcending and deſcending, rouls about as 'twere in a circle. There are ſeveral ſorts of theſe Veſſels, but two eſpecially of moment and uſe, that call'd Pelicanus, and the Diota, with the blind Alembick, being an Alembick without a Pipe to convey the Liquor into the Receiver. See Diota.

Circulatum minus, Spirit of Wine.

Circulus, a round Inſtrument, made of Iron, for cutting Glaſs, which is perform'd thus. the Inſtrument being heated, is apply'd to the Glaſs, and is there continued till it grow hot, then with a drop of cold Water, or a cold Blaſt upon it, it flies in pieces.

Circumciſio, was formerly a ſacred Rite, whereby the Prepuce or Fore-Skin that covers the Glands of the Penis is cut off. This Cuſtom is yet practiſed among the Turks and Perſians, and is ſtill uſed as a Chirurgical Operation in preternatural Affections, as in the Paraphymoſis. So it is alſo neceſſary to circumciſe Women by a circumſection of the Clitoris or Nymphæ. So, in Men, if the whole Prepuce turns black, it ought to be cut round.

Circumferentia, the Circumference or outward Extremity of a Circle or round Body.

Circumlitio, generally ſignifies every Medicine that is bound about any Part affected, but more ſtrictly uſed for a Medicine applied to the Eyelids, to bind 'em down, leſt any thing run into the Eye.

Cirrhos, is the Name of a Colour, eſpecially a bright yellow or Flame-colour; 'tis between white and yellow; but Dioſcorides ſays, 'tis a Wine betwixt white and black, which is a larger acceptation.

Circumforaneus, the ſame with Agyrta.

Ciriion, a ſort of Carduus. Fuchſius calls it Bugloſſa, or Lingua Brevis.

Ciriocele, a ſwelling of the preparing Veſſels about the Teſticles, ſo that they look like a third Teſticle.

Ciſſos, or Varix, a Dilatation and Swelling of the Veins, crooked or winding, and ariſing in one or more Parts of the Body, inſomuch that the Veins threaten a Rupture.

Ciſampelos; ſee Helxine Ciſampelos.

Ciſſium, ſeu Ciſſophyllum, the ſame with the Vincetoxicum; it hath Leaves like the Ivy.

Ciſſos, the ſame with Hedera.

Ciſterna chyli, the ſame with Sacculus chyliferus.

Citrago, the ſame as Meliſſa, or Balm, becauſe it ſmells ſomewhat like Citrons. See Meliſſophyllum.

Citrea malus, a Citron-tree; every part of Citron. The outward and inward Bark, the Juice and Pulp, and the Seeds, are all of great uſe in Phyſick; the outward yellow Bark hath a curious aromatick ſmell, and bitter taſte; being dry'd, 'tis very cordial and alexipharmick; it heats and corroborates a cold and windy Stomach; it diſcuſſes Wind powerfully, concocting and digeſting crude Humors that are contain'd in the Stomach or Bowels; being chew'd in the Mouth, it cures a ſtinking Breath, promotes concoction of the Meat, and is good for Melancholy. 'Tis much commended in hypochondraical Diſeaſes, for Vapours, Wind, Palpitation of the Heart, obſtructions and weakneſs of the Bowels; the Pulp or Juice, tho' it be not acid, is much more cooling than the Juice of Limons; 'tis very proper in burning and peſtilential Fevers, to quench Thirſt, to ſuppreſs too great a fermentation of the Blood, to recreate the Spirits; 'tis alſo reckon'd good for Giddineſs in the Head. The Seeds are cordial and alexipharmick, are good for the biting of venomous Creatures; they ſtrengthen the Heart, and defend it from the Contagion of the Plague and Small-Pox; they kill the Worms of the Stomach and Bowels; they provoke the Courſes, cauſe Abortion, and digeſt crude and watery Humors.

Citrulus, Citruls; the Fruit of it is cold and moiſt, and very fit to quench Thirſt, wherefore the Italians refreſh themſelves in the Summer-time with the Pulp of it. 'Tis good for a dry Tongue; the Seed of it is one of the greater cold Seeds.

Cinis clavellatus, Aſhes of the young Shoots of Vines; others comprehend under this name the calcin'd and elixiviated remnants of the diſtil'd Lees of Wine; and others underſtand by it the Salt extracted by Lixiviation out of certain Herbs, which is well reverberated afterwards.

Citta, or Pita, a deprav'd Appetite, when People long for thoſe things which are not fit to be, nor ever are eat, as Lime, Coals, Shells, Cloth, Hides, Sand, &c. the Cauſe lies in the Depravation of the Ferment of the Ventricle.

Civetta, Civet, is a ſmall Animal, from whoſe Belly is taken a fat fragrant Juice.

Clareta, ſignifies the White of Eggs.

Claretum, a Wine impregnated with an Infuſion with ſeveral Aromaticks, and ſweetned with Sugar; 'tis otherwiſe call'd Vinum Hypocraticum, Hypocras Wine; alſo also a medicated Wine: 'Tis so call'd because 'tis percolated and purified by a Wine-sack, through which 'tis drain'd from its dregs, call'd Manica Hippocratis.

Clarificatio, when Juices or thick Decoctions become clearer and finer, which is done four ways, by Filtration or Percolation, by Subsiding, Fermentation, or the addition of Vinegar, the White of an Egg, or Milk.

Claudus, a Cripple who is either bandy-legg'd, or hath one Leg shorter than t'other.

Clavellati, see Cinis clavellatus, Potashes for Soap-boilers.

Claviculæ, two little Bones which close the Chest of a Man, fastning the Shoulder-bone like a Key, with the Breast-bone, that part where the Ribs join together: They are otherwise call'd Ligulæ, or Os Furcale, Furcala superior, &c. They are plac'd transverse under the very bottom of the Neck in the top of the Breast, on each side one. The Clavicular Bones.

Clavicula, young shoots whereby, as it were with Hands, Vines take hold of other things.

Clavis, beside the vulgar acceptation, is taken first for Clavicula spoken of before, in the next place for a Menstruum, especially of Minerals; that is, all dissolving Bodies are call'd Claves, because they open the Parts that were lock'd up. Nay, every Process shewing any secret operation obtains the Name of Clavis, particularly in the business of the Philosopher's Stone.

Clavus; see Helos. It is also a kind of Head-ach; for Clavus, according to Tornamita, is a Pain in a small part of the Head, commonly above the Eye, in the Eyebrow, and seems as if that part of the Head were bor'd through with a little Augur or Wimble.

Cleidion, the same with Clavicula.

Clema, and Clematis, so are called Plants that are full of Twigs, as the Vine, and the like.

Clematis Daphnoides, is a famous Vulnerary; 'tis used in Fluxes of the Belly, for Dysenteries, the Piles, bleeding at the Nose, and for Wounds with Fluxion; it is used outwardly for overflowing of the Courses, for Looseness and Pains of the Teeth. The Leaves of this Herb put upon Paper that will easily receive moisture, and sow'd to it with fine Flax betwixt, and perfum'd with Frankincense, cured a scrophulous Tumor in a short time, which continued obstinate under the use of other Remedies the space of a whole Year. This Herb is also call'd Vinca Pervinca; see Pervinca and Vinca Pervinca.

Clematis passiflora, the Flower of Passion.

Clepsydra, was an Hour-glass made with Water, instead whereof we now use Sand, or burnt Lead.

Climactericus Annus, is so call'd because certain Pretenders have render'd the 49th and 63d Year remarkable, by distinguishing betwixt the degrees or distance of the 7th and 9th Numbers. And according to this, they presage some notable Alterations, or danger of Death in these Years, commonly stil'd the Climacterical Years: see Annus Climactericus.

Clinius, a Physician, or Quack, that that cures by Diet, or Medicament, but this is done very often by Nurſes that tend the Sick.

Clinoides Apophyſis, a Protuberance of a Bone, reſembling a Bed.

Clinapodium, wild Baſil, the vertue of this Herb is not certainly known, and none would judge by the Smell and Taſte that it has no great vertue, tho' it is ſaid to be hot and dry, and to remove Melancholy.

Clinopale, a Venereal Copulation in Bed.

Cliſſus; ſee Clyſſus.

Clitoris, ſeu Amoris Dulcedo, a part of a Woman, reſembling the Yard of a Man, whoſe Uſe is Titulation; it conſiſts, like a Man's Yard, of Nervous Bodies, which ariſe from the lower part of the Bones of the Privities, and at the end is cover'd with a Nut, and a Prepuce, or Fore-skin. Its Subſtance is ſpongy, ſo that it is capable of Increaſe or Relaxation; but is not perforated as in Man. The Clitoris.

Clonodes, that is, Vibratus, a kind of vehement, large, unequal Pulſation, it falls in ſtrongly with a Convulſive Motion.

Clonos, ſignifies a tumultuary inordinate Motion; by Tranſlation the Convulſive Motion of Epilepticks is call'd Clonos.

Clydon, is a Fluctuation or Flatulency in the Stomach, it is alſo a Symptom of ſome Action loſt; to wit, a leſſening or diminution of Chylification; the Cauſe of which is from an unaptneſs of the Aliment receiv'd, that is, if the Meat and Drink be too windy, or from the Crudity of the Ferment in making the Chyle, or elſe in All together.

Clypealis Cartilago, the ſame as Thyoides.

Clyſma, the ſame with Clyſter.

Clyſſus, with the Chymiſts, is that which contains the Eſſence of any thing, or when the Species of one Body, prepar'd ſeparately by divers Operations, are re-united; as when common Salt, Sulphur, Oil, the ſpirituous part, and Mercury, are reduc'd and coagulated into one Body. It is alſo taken for a certain Mineral Spirit, made chiefly out of Antimony, and ſome other Mineral Sulphurs, which is otherwiſe call'd Aqua Stimmea, vel Sulphurea. See Eſſentia Quinta.

Clyſter & Clyſterium, ſeu Enema, is an internal Remedy, which being fluid, is injected thro' the Fundament into the Guts. Glifters are emolient, laxative, detergent, anodine, and directed for ſeveral other Indications. As to Metrenchyta, Otenchyta, Riſenchyta, &c. which alſo ſometimes fall under the Denomination of Glifters; each of theſe will be treated of in their peculiar places.

Cnemodactylæos, is the Name of a Muſcle that extends the Toes of the Feet, which is call'd Longus, riſing forward from the ſuperior Tibia, determining into the 4 Toes, by 4 diſtant Tendons.

Cneorum, is a Plant that bites the Tongue.

Cnicus, and Cnecus, the ſame as Carthamus; it has a Flower like the Saffron.

Cnide, a ſtinging Nettle.

Cniſmus, & Cneſmus, the ſame with Pruritus.

Cniſtoregmia, or Soda, the Heartburning, occaſion'd by the burning up as it were of Meat and Drink

Drink in the Stomach, with ſowre belches.

Coagulatio, a curdling, or growing thing, being a real Privation of the Humour or Moiſture, or at leaſt appearing ſo to our Senſes, proceeding from ſome Cauſe.

Coaleſcentia, the Re-union of Parts before divided, or a growing together.

Coalternæ Febres, Fevers, ſo called when two meet together in the ſame Patient, ſo that at the end of one Paroxyſm, another of a different kind invades him.

Coarticulatio, the ſame with Diarthroſis.

Cobaltum, Native Cadmia, Foſſile, and Metallic; an Earthy Mineral, of a blackiſh colour, containing Braſs and Silver. It is cauſtick and eroding, and therefore to be eſteem'd poiſonous. It is found about Goſlar in Germany.

Coccigra, or Coggyra, is a Mountain Shrub, with the Roots whereof Wool is died Purple.

Coccus, relates in general to all ſorts of Berries, but in particular to the Coccus Baphica, the ſame with Kermes. Some will have it, that Coccus ſignifies a Worm that grows in all Berries.

Coccymelea, the ſame with Coccymelon.

Coccymelon, a ſort of Prune.

Coccyx, the laſt Portion of the Back, made up of 3 little Bones, ſometimes four, which are under the Os Sacrum, and ſerve for eaſier ſitting. It is alſo call'd Orropygium, Uropygium, and Sacra ſpina. The Rump-bone.

Cochia, a Compoſition of Pills, uſually ſold in the Apothecaries Shops.

Cochinella, vel Cochinilla, is the Name of a Seed that grows upon a Plant call'd Cardaſſe in Hiſpaniola, and is now chiefly uſed for dying Scarlet, &c. but is of great Uſe in Medicine.

Cochlea Limax, a Snail, the Name of a certain Teſtaceous, Exanguitous Animal, that is either upon the Land, the Water, or Sea. The Uſes of which are various, both in Food and Phyſick.

Cochlea, & Concha, ſeu Antrum Buccinoſum, the Cavities of the inner part of the Ear, ſo call'd from its winding and turning, for it has 3 or 4 rings which mutually ſucceed one another. It is girt about with a very ſoft and thin Membrane.

Cochelaria, Scurvey-graſs, it is hot and dry, and abounds with a Volatile Salt, which makes the crude and fix'd Humours of the Body more volatile; it cures thoſe Diſeaſes that proceed from too great a quantity of fix'd Salts, but eſpecially the Scurvey.

Cochleare, a Spoon or Ladle.

Coctio, Concoction or Digeſtion is the Fermention of the ſmalleſt Particles which our Nouriſhment conſiſts of, that they may be made fit and proper for the Nouriſhment and Encreaſe of a Living Body. The firſt Concoction is made in the Stomach, by a Ferment which partly remains there, from the Relicks of the former Meat, and partly flows thither from the Cæliac Arteries. The ſecond is made in the Guts by the Gall and Pancreatick Juice. The third is in the Glandules of the Meſentery, from a Lympha, or Water, which mixes it ſelf with the Chyle. The fourth is in the Lungs, from the Inſpiration of Nitrous Air.

The

The fifth is in the Veſſels and Bowels, as in the Spleen, Liver, Teſticles, &c. It is erroneouſly call'd Coction, or boiling, becauſe it is the property of Fire to boil; for, if heat were the cauſe of Fermentation, what ſhould then become of Fiſh, and other things, wherein there is no ſenſible heat at all. The Apothecaries alſo call the Preparations of their Medicines made by Ebullition, a Coction.

Coculus Indi, a Fruit for bigneſs and ſhape like a Laurel-tree; they be alſo call'd Baccæ Levantiæ, Baccæ Orientalis, Baccæ Cotilæ Elephantinæ, Cuculus Indicus, the vulgar Uſe of it is for Lice. Indian Cockles.

Codia, the top of Poppies, of which they make Syrup; in a more general ſenſe it is taken for the tops of every Plant.

Cæcum Inteſtinum, the fourth in order from the Stomach, and firſt of the thick Guts; in Children new born it is found full of Excrements, but in Adult Perſons its Cavity often diſappears, and only hangs like a Worm.

Cælia, a great Cavity, as the uppermoſt, middle, and the loweſt Region or Cavity of our Body.

Cæliaca Arteria, that which ariſes from the Trunk of the great Artery, and ſpreads it ſelf toward the Ventricle and Liver with its Branches.

Cæliaca Paſſio, or Affectio, is a purging, wherein the Meat either wholly unchang'd, or in part is ejected, without any Chilification, and it is twofold: The firſt, in which the Meat is only digeſted in the Stomach; the other, when Concoction or the Fermentation is perform'd in the Stomach and Inteſtines both at once; but by reaſon that the Lacteal Veſſels or little Teats of the Guts are obliterated through long Faſting, a Purulent Diſſentery, or the like, the Chyle is not diſtributed.

Cæli Donum, the ſame with Chelidonia.

Cæloma, a hollow and round Ulcer in the horny Tunick of the Eye.

Cælum, the Cavity of the Eye towards the corner. The Palate is alſo call'd Cælum.

Cæmentatio, & Cementum: ſee Cementum.

Cænologia is a Conſultation of Phyſicians, call'd together to enquire into the Knowledge of the Diſeaſe, and the method of its cure.

Coffe, in Engliſh Coffee, a kind of Beans of the Product of Arabia Fælix, which being roaſted and grinded, a Tincture is thence made with hot fair Water, much in uſe among the Turks, Egyptians, and Perſians, and now alſo among the Europeans. It is call'd Coffee, Coffi, Coava, Bon, Bunchum, Chaova; the Decoction of it ſtrengthens a cold Stomach, helps Concoction, and opens Obſtructions of the Bowels and Womb; but it is moſt taken notice of for removing of Drouſineſs and Giddineſs; and it is commended indeed for moſt other Diſeaſes of the Head, as Headach, Lethargy, alſo for Catarrhs, and is uſed with good ſucceſs by thoſe that are of a groſs habit of Body, and of a cold Conſtitution, and whoſe Blood is watry, their Brains moiſt, and their Animal Spirits dull; but on the contrary, they who are of a thin habit, and an hot and melancholy Conſtitution, ought by all means to forbear Coffee; as alſo thoſe that have but weak Spirits, or are ſubject to a trembling, or numbneſs

neſs in the Limbs, or a Palpitation of the Heart; but it is reckon'd good in a Scorbutick Gout, and for the Gravel.

Coggygria: ſee Coccigria.

Cohob & Cohobium, the ſame as Cohobatio.

Cohobatio, when a diſtil'd Liquor is pour'd upon its Remnants again, and afterwards is diſtil'd ſeveral times, to render the body more porous and ſpirituous.

Coindicantia, Signs which do not indicate by themſelves, but in Conjunction with others.

Col. ADD. ſignifies add to the Colature, when ſomething elſe is to be mingl'd with the percolated Decoction.

Colatorium, a Strainer, or Straining-cloth.

Colatura, & Colatio, that which, after boiling or Infuſion, is percolated thro' a Sive or Cloth.

Colchicum, Meadow-ſaffron, reputed poiſonous; ſee Ephemerum.

Colcothar, the dry Subſtance which remains after Diſtillation, commonly call'd Caput Mortuum, chiefly underſtood of the Remnants of the Vitriol after Diſtillation.

Coles: ſee Penis.

Colica Paſſio, or Colicus Dolor, has its Name from the Inteſtinum Colon, but erroneouſly, ſince it affects alſo all the other Inteſtines. It is either Continual or Intermittent, ſometimes keeping its certain times, attended with pungent Pains, that ſometimes move from place to place, ſometimes are fix'd in one, with Vomiting, violent Belching, Fever, Inquietudes, and Suppreſſion of Urine; if it continue long, it proves violent and fix'd in one place; it is often ſucceeded by a Palſy in the Limbs. The Cholick is a vehement Pain in the Abdomen, from an ill diſpoſition of the Animal Spirits, begun in the Nervous foldings of the Meſentery, and is ſometimes falſly imputed to this Gut Colon. Some make this Diſeaſe to proceed from an Acid Pancreatic Juice, or the Acid Juices in the Inteſtines and Glands of the Meſentery; others other ways, but falſly.

Colicus Dolor, the Cholick.

Colla, Glue.

Collatitium, is roaſted or boil'd Fleſh of a Pullet or Capon, which, after 'tis beat in a Mortar, is mixt with Veal or Mutton-broth, and mix'd with the Juice of Limons, for the uſe of ſick People.

Collectio, is when various dry Medicines, as Roots, Herbs, Seeds, and the like, are preſcrib'd and mix'd together, to be infuſed in Wine.

Colletica, Medicines that Conglutinate.

Colliciæ, the joining of the Puncta Lachrymalia into one Paſſage on both ſides, which convey the Humour of the Eyelids into the Cavity of the Noſtrils; the holes that are made in the very tops of the Eyebrows, in Men and Women, deſcend in little Chanels, eaſily to be ſhewn, unleſs the Bones of the Noſtrils be ſo nicely broken that the Tunicks remain entire; for after they have penetrated Bones (whither they are ſeparated with a thin Membrane) they ſpread themſelves into a larger Chanel, and are continued to the Tunick of the Noſtrils. The ſame Holes or Openings in Sheep, Hares, Calves, Rabbits, &c. are not found in the very Eyebrows, but a little more inward; and moſt of all in Birds, where they are larger than in any other Creatures. The Membrane which separates the Holes here is very short.

of

Colliquatio, the same with Liquatio and Fusio, variously taken according to the variety of the Subject spoken of. 'Tis Colliquation properly when we speak of the Blood being too much attenuated, and its fibrous and naturally-glutinous Texture broke and destroy'd, from whence some have obtain'd the Name of Colliquative Fevers, because the Blood is too much fus'd or thinn'd, by reason of the abundance of fiery effervescent Particles therein; so strong Purgatives, and certain Poisons, procure a Colliquation of the Blood and other Humours.

Collisio, or Contusio, but there is this difference betwixt 'em, that Collision is said to be a solution of Continuity made in the Bone; a Contusion, that is in the Flesh.

Collix, a Pastil or Trochy.

Collutio, vel Gargarismus.

Collymus lapis; vide Aetites.

Collum, the forepart of the Neck.

Collum Uteri, the Neck of the Womb.

Collutio, a washing of the Mouth when we scour loose Teeth, the Gums, or Ulcers.

Collyrium, once an oblong Medicine, which was taken in Distempers of the Eyes; 'Tis prepar'd in an oblong, and sometimes in an orbicular form, and is dissolv'd in a convenient Vehicle for curing the Eyes.

Coloboma, a fault in the Lips, Eyelids, Ears, Nostrils, &c. when one Part, either from our Nativity or by some Accident, grows to another, which were before either actually asunder, or at least ought to have been so.

Colocasia, 'tis suppos'd to be Egyptian Wake-Robin.

Colocynthis, is an extream bitter sort of Citrul, or Citrul-cucumber, brought to us without the Rind, out of Italy, Spain, and France; 'tis distinguish'd into the greater and lesser, the round and oblong; the first is in use. The Seed is also exceeding bitter; 'tis a violent Purge. We call it Coloquintida.

Colon, the second of the great Guts, thus situate: It arises from the Cæcum Intestinum in the right Flank, and adheres to the right Kidney; then it tends upward under the Liver, where sometimes 'tis annex'd to the Bladder of the Gall, which dies it of a dark-yellow colour; it goes on further transverse under the bottom of the Stomach, and on the left hand is join'd to the Spleen, then again 'tis fasten'd to the left Kidney, where it winds very obliquely, and after that descendeth in a right line. It is commonly about 8 or 9 hand-breadths long, but 'tis the widest and largest Gut of all: It hath a great many little Cells or Cavities in it; a certain Ligament is twisted with it the breadth of the middle Finger about its middle upward, and then (by reason of its largeness) it is guarded with two strong Ligaments, the one upward, and the other downward, that it may be fasten'd to both the upper and under Parts; about the beginning it hath a Valve that stands upward, lest any thing should return from the great Guts into the small.

Colon. See Membrum.

Colophonia, Rosin-Pitch.

Colpus, the same with Sinus.

Colubrina; see Dracontia. The same Name is also given to the Bistorta, or Snake-weed.

Colubrinum Lignum, or Semputarium, is properly a Root very bitter, of a pale ash-colour. It is good in Fevers, and the biting of Serpents, whence 'tis call'd Snake-weed.

Colum 'tis call'd thro' which we strain (or percolate) and purifie any liquid thing, as a small Sive, the Manica of Hippocrates, Linen-cloth, Brown-paper, &c.

Columella, the same with Cion.

Columnæ cordis, the Tendons and Muscles by which the Ventricles and Auricles of the Heart are contracted and dilated.

Columna nasi, the fleshy part of the Nose prominent in the middle, near the upper Lip.

Columma oris, the same as Cion.

Columellares dentes; see Dentes.

Colutea, Bastard Senna. They say, that if the least Twig be broken off from this Tree, it dies immediately.

Colytea, the same with Colutea.

Coma; see Summitates.

Coma somnolentum, a deep sleep less than a Lethargy, without a Fever, wherein the Patient being awaken'd, answers to any Questions propounded to him, but falls into a profound Sleep again with his Mouth open and under Jaw fallen, more like one dead than alive. It proceeds from an obstruction of the Brain when the Serum has invaded the Tegument of the windings and foldings of the Brain, and the little streaks of Marrow that are included therein. It is the same with the Cataphora.

Coma Vigil, five Agrypnia, a Disease wherein the Patient is continually inclin'd to sleep, but scarce can sleep, being affected with a great drousiness in the Head, a stupidity in all the Senses and Faculties, and many times with a Delirium too, being frequently disturb'd with certain Imaginations of Spectors or Visions, that hinder their sleep continually. Hence it is that when they are awaken'd they look wild, fall immediately as it were to sleep again, and being full of Inquietudes, they can't lie long still in a place. So that the Coma Vigil seems to be a medium betwixt a Lethargy and Phrenitis, or Madness; whence it is also call'd a Typhomania. If the reason of these things be demanded, we may solve them thus, That the Pores and Passages of the Brain, wherein the Spirits move, are very much stuff'd up with a thick Soporiferous Matter from the Blood, whereby the Spirits being hinder'd from their usual Explosion and Commerce with one another, seem to induce a profound and almost irresistible drousiness upon the Person affected; but inasmuch as there are some sharp Volatile Particles, like so many Springs, intermixt with the Spirits, and which keep them in perpetual Motion, therefore some of them still force their way, and directly, or obliquely, as they can find a Passage, meet and exert their Motion, which, such as it is, confus'd and wandring, tho' it do not perfect the compleat exercise of the Animal Function, yet easily interrupts its rest, so that the Persons thus affected enjoy neither perfect perfect Day nor perfect Night, but live in continual Twilight, betwixt sleep and waking.

Comarus, is Arbutus.

Combustio; see Ignis Actualis.

Comitialis morbus, the same as Epilepsis.

Commansum, a Chaw; see Apoplegmatismus.

Compages, is taken in general for the Structure and Organical Hardness and Solidity of the Body, and its Members; But particularly signifies the Union, Coalition, and Coherence with which the Bones are joyn'd together among themselves.

Completio, is a fulness of the Arteries with Spirits supply'd from the Heart, according to the Opinion of Erasistratus. This is said to differ from Impletion, that in the Contraction the Arteries does not evacute all the Spirit. Therefore Completion is at least the addition of something to suppress a Defect.

Complexi morbi, such Distempers as are inseparable from one another, as the Pleurisy and Fever.

Complexi musculi, Muscles that belong to the hinder part of the Head.

Complexio, is vulgarly taken for the Temperament; it is otherwise us'd for complexed and complicated Distempers, and also for Agues and Fevers that come by Fits; so the difference and various meeting of the Pulses are reckon'd in the number of Complexion.

Complicati morbi, Complicated Diseases, are when divers Diseases concur in one subject; for instance, if to the Wound of the Head a Fracture of the Scull, the Meninges hurt, the Brain wounded, & the like, are join'd with it.

Compositæ, Medicines made up of many simple ones, as the Compositions of certain Waters, Syrups, Electuaries, Opiates, Trochies, Ointments, Plaisters, &c. such as we meet with in all the Apothecaries Shops. There is also certain Chymical Compositions; as divers Spirits mix'd, the volatile oleous Salts, Tinctures, Balsams, Essences, Powders, &c. which are all comprehended under the Name of Compound Medicines.

Compositio, when several Medicaments are mingl'd together, as in the Theriac and Mithridate.

Compressæ, what the Chirurgeons call Compresses are so many Linnen Rags gently press'd or squeez'd together, and fitted to the Part affected.

Compressiva Medicina, causing siccity or dryness in any affected Member, and a killing or ruin of it self, by which means the Passages are stopt.

Conarium, or Glandula Pinealis, hangs in the folding of the Choroides in the Brain, so call'd from the shape of a Cone. It is seated betwixt the 2 Beds of the Optick Nerves, and the Prominences of the Nates. We can scarce believe that this Glandula is the Seat of the Soul, or that the principal Faculties of a Man arise hence, because that several Animals, which are in a manner wholly destitute of the prime faculties of the Soul, Imagination, Memory, &c. retain this Glandula very fair and ample. It ought therefore to be look'd upon rather as a Sensory, whence the Nerves arise; to wit, about the beginning of the Oblongated Marrow. Its Use is to receive and contain the Serous Humours, which are Excerned from the Arterious Blood, till either the Veins being emptied, ſuck them again, or elſe the Lymphaducts (if there be any at hand) convey them away. Yet the learned F. Boyle doubts of its Uſe, when he ſays, That it is not ſo eaſy to determine what its Uſe is. Since I have obſerv'd this Glandule to be always impregnated with an apparent and pretty ſharp Saltneſs in the Brains of Men, Oxen, and Sheep, I cannot but imagine, that it ſeparates ſome Volatile Humour from the Blood, analogous to a Volatile Armoniac Salt, which being infuſed upon the Trunk of the Spinal Marrow, communicates ſome new Vigour to the Animal Spirits, and hinders their Coagulation. It is commonly call'd the Pineal Gland.

Concavatio, the ſame with Arcuatio.

Concentratio & Concentrantia Medicamenta, ſuch Medicines the Acid is ſo moderated by the addition of Alcali, that neither of them predominates, as in the Tartar Vitriolate, it is ſaid to concenter the Humours, when the ſuperfluous Acidity is ſubdued by the Alcali: ſee Abſorbentia.

Conceptio, is a Conception, or Comprehenſion of the Virile Semen in the Wombs of Women, for the Generation of the Fœtus, and a Retention afterwards of the ſame. It may be call'd an Attraction of the Semen into the Tubes of the Matrix, and an embracing of the Penis in the time of Ejaculation.

Conceptus, the Thing that conceives, or is impregnated, is that Maſs from which the Fœtus is formed in the Womb; and 'tis called the Ovum.

Choncha, the ſame with Cochlea. i. e. the winding Cavity of the inner part of the Ear, and ſome of the external part.

Concretio, a Condenſation of any liquid Coction or Juice into a more ſolid Maſs, as the inſpiſſated Juice of Wormwood, &c.

Condenſantia & Condenſatio, ſee Incraſſantia.

Condimentum, a ſeaſoning, or whatever makes the Food grateful; ſo that, tho' it is not eatable it ſelf, yet it renders the Aliment more agreeable, the chief of which is Salt, Pepper, &c.

Conditum & Conditura, a Compoſition of Conſerves, Powders, Spices, made up into the form of an Electuary, with a convenient quantity of Syrup. It is taken alſo for a ſimple Medicine, ſweeten'd with Honey or Sugar, as candied Ginger, or Helicampane.

Condrilla, the ſame as Chondrilla.

Conductor, is an hollow Inſtrument thruſt into the Bladder, to direct another Inſtrument into it to cut and extract the Stone.

Condyloma & Condylus, the knitting or joining of Joints. Alſo a certain Tumour in the little Skin of the Fundament; an hard and callous ſwelling on the Fingers and Toes, proceeding from black Humours that flow thither, and rather troubleſome than painful: Sometimes alſo it is accompanied with an Inflamation.

Condyli, the Joints and Knuckles of the Fingers, thicker about the Joints than in other places.

Confecta, are things (as Seeds, Almonds, Cinnamon, &c.) cruſted over with dry Sugar.

Confectio, a compoſition of Powders, Gums, Sugar, Honey, Syrups, &c. made up into one ſubſtance; and it is twofold, either dry, as Lozenges, &c. or moiſt, as Opiates, Preſerves, Conſerves, and all ſorts of Antidotes.

Conformatio, an eſſential part of Health or Sickneſs, and therefore is either good or bad; it conſiſts in theſe ſix following Particulars, Number, Magnitude, Figure, Cavity, Surface, and Situation.

Confortativum & Confortantia, the ſame with Cardiacum.

Confuſio, ſuch a mixture of Liquids together, ſo as they may be able to preſerve their Fluidity. It is alſo an artful joining of Colliquating Bodies, ſo as to preſerve their Conſiſtence of parts, as adding Pitch, Roſin, and Wax. Confuſio hath likewiſe the oppoſite Senſe, which a mixture or compoſition of Fluids has made inconſiſtent. It hath alſo a relation to a Diſeaſe of the Eyes, call'd Confuſio Oculorum.

Congelatio, Congelation, when Liquids are reduc'd into a Maſs like Ice, as all Chryſtaliz'd Salts are.

Congelatio: ſee Catalepſis.

Congelaticus, is one that is taken with an Extaſy, who are ſomething (as it were) raviſh'd out of themſelves, and affirm they have beheld Angels or Devils: ſee Ecſtaſis.

Congius & Congiarius, a Meaſure that contains ſix Sextaries, or nine pints of Oil.

Conglobata Glandula, is a round Gland, ſubſiſting by it ſelf, as are the Glands of the Meſentery, and all others which receive and carry off Lympha. A Conglobated Gland.

Conglomerata Glandula, a Conglomerated Gland, is that which conſiſts of various Glands, as the Pancreas, and the Salival Glands, and it has a proper excretory Duct. A Conglomerated Gland.

Conglutinatio, is a Species, Union, or joining together, in oppoſition to a Disjunction made in the Fleſhy Parts.

Conia, ſignifies three things, a Lixivium or Lee, Lime, and Aſhes.

Coniſterium, the Aſh-hole in a Furnace, the Receptacle of the Aſhes underneath the Fire-place.

Coniza, vel Conyza, Flea-bane; the Herb being ſpread under foot, or burnt in any place, will, as 'tis believ'd, drive away Venomous Creatures, and Fleas, and kill Gnats, wherefore 'tis call'd Flea-bane. Some make an Ointment of the Root and Leaves for the Itch.

Conjunctiva Tunica, the ſame as Adnata.

Conoides, the ſame as Conarium.

Conquaſſatio, is ſaid to be when Juicy Vegetables, or freſh Fruit, are beat groſly with a Peſtle, to preſs out the Juice.

Conſenſus, a Diſeaſe by Conſent, is when one Diſeaſe is cauſed by another, as Reſpiration is hinder'd by a Pleuriſy; it is likewiſe the Correſpondence of different Parts, by the mutual and common Ligaments of both, to wit, Nerves and Tendons. Sympathy.

Conſerva, a Conſerve, it is a Compoſition of Flowers or Herbs beat together, to every Pound whereof, if they be dry, are added three Pounds of Sugar; if moiſt, two Pounds; ſo that they may be kept ſeveral Years.

Conſidentia, ſee Apocataſtaſis, is a kind of narrowing of any Cavities or Hollows, when their ſides fall in together.

Conſiligo, an Herb that is frequently found among Rye.

Conſolida, Comfrey, 'tis an excellent Wound-herb, is mucilaginous and thickning, and qualifies the Acrimony of the Humors; it is uſed in all Fluxes, eſpecially of the Belly, and for a Conſumption; the Flowers boil'd in Red Wine, is very proper for thoſe that make Bloody Urine; outwardly applied, it ſtops bleeding of Wounds, and helps to unite broken Bones, wherefore it is call'd Bone-ſet; it eaſes the Pain of the Gout, and cures eating Ulcers.

Conſiſtentia, when any thing is boil'd to a certain thickneſs, as in boiling Syrups, or evaporating Juices, or other Liquids to a certain Conſiſtence.

Conſolidantia, thoſe things that (correcting the Acid, and cleanſing with a moderate heat and force, by taking Corruption out of Wounds, and preſerving the temperature of the Parts) cauſe the Nouriſhment to be fitly apply'd to the Part affected.

Conſtipatio, Adſtrictio, vel Conſtrictio, a binding or conſtinging, a Word uſed by Chirurgeons for Medicines that compreſs the Lips of Wounds together.

Conſtitutiones, the ſame with Cataſtaſis.

Conſtrictiones Muſculi, ſuch as bind and ſtraiten any part. See Sphincter.

Conſuetudo, ſignifies in Phyſick a Cuſtom, or continued Uſe of Non-Naturals for a long ſpace of time, in one and the ſame manner. It may be diſtinguiſh'd into a good, or an ill Cuſtom.

Conſultatio, ſignifies the Advice of ſeveral Phyſicians met together;

Conſummatum, is when the Juice or Moiſture of a Hen, cut into ſmall bits, is extracted by B. M. being firſt ſtopt cloſe in a Veſſel, without any addition or mixture, the Head, Feet, and Fat, being firſt taken away.

Conſumtio, the ſame with Colliquatio, Atrophia, Maraſmus, Phthiſis, &c.

Contagium, a Poiſon, which from one ſubject is propagated to another, which happens two manner of ways, either at a diſtance by Air, or by ſimple Contact.

Contemplabiles dies: ſee Critici dies.

Continens Cauſa, the Internal Cauſe of a Diſeaſe, with the matter of it, which ariſes elſewhere, and is ſo near a-kin to the Diſeaſe, that on its Being depends alſo the Being of the Diſeaſe, and if it be taken away, the Diſeaſe follows of courſe. As the Stone, which, proceeding from ill Humours ariſing from ill Qualities in Meats and Drinks, obſtructs the Ureters.

Continens Febris, a Fever that continues without Intermiſſion; it is twofold, either Primary, or Secondary; the former proceeds from a too great Exaltation of the Sulphur, as in a burning Fever, a Pleuriſy, Quinzy, &c. the latter, which is alſo call'd Symptomatica, is caus'd by Wounds, Ulcers, &c. as in a Conſumption, Wounds in the Head, &c.

Continua Febris, a Fever, or Ague, which is continually troubleſome, but with ſome Intermiſſion; and it is either Quotidian, Tertian, Quartan, or Erratick. The cauſe of its continuance proceeds from a too high Exaltation of the Sul- phur, as in the former ſort of Fevers. But the Paroxiſms, or Fits, proceed from that portion of Chyle which is continually added to the Blood.

Contorſio, when any Member is a little diſlocated from its Juncture, tho' not entirely.

Contractio, a Synonimous Word with Syſtole; it is taken in the natural ſtate for the proper Action of the Muſcles; in a preternatural condition 'tis underſtood as a contraction, drawing together, ſhortning, or folding of the ſolid Parts, with Pain and Force, or an Impotence, and Want of Strength and Action.

Contritio, the ſame with Attrition, ſarigating or grinding; 'tis call'd a Solution, or dividing of Bodies by rubbing, pounding, or reducing to a Powder.

Contra Fiſſura, is when any one has fell upon the left ſide of the Head, Bone, or Brain-pan, and the Fiſſure is found on the oppoſite ſide. But whether there be really any ſuch thing, is much queſtion'd by moſt Phyſicians.

Contra Indicatio, an Indication which hinders that to be done which the firſt Indication ſuggeſted, and 'tis either Contra Indicans, which hinders of it ſelf, or Correpugnans, which is Secondarily repugnant and in conjunction with other Indications. See Antendeixis.

Contrayerva, a Root not unlike thoſe of the Flower de Luce, or Cypreſs, which, not many Years ago, was firſt brought to us out of Peru. It has an Aromatick Taſte, with ſome ſharpneſs: It is a good Sudorifick, and preſcrib'd againſt Poiſon. It is alſo call'd Radix Tervæ, Bezoardica, Cyperus Odorus Peruvianus, Dracena, &c.

Contuſio, a bruiſing of the Fleſh or Bone by ſome hard Inſtrument, whereby, tho' the outward parts appear whole, there is a Solution of Continuity.

Convexus, ſignifies a bunching out, a Protuberance or Gibbous Part of any Body which is oppoſite to the hollow; and this is either natural, or preternatural.

Convolvulus, and Convolvulum, is Smilax: ſee Helxine Ciſampelos.

Conus Fuſorius, or Pyramis, a ſort of Crucible, made of Iron, and other Metals, uſed for the ſeparation of the Regulus.

Convulſio, Convulſion, an involuntary Motion, whereby the Nerves or Membranes are contracted towards their principals. It is alſo call'd Spaſmus, as in the Falling-ſickneſs, Cramp, &c. of which in their proper places.

Convulſivus Motus, a Convulſion. See Motus Convulſivus.

Conyza: ſee Coniza.

Copaivæ Balſamus, an Exotick natural Balſam, brought from Copaiba in Peru, and commonly called Balſam of Capivy.

Copal Gummi, a Roſin ſomewhat hard, very white, or a little yellowiſh, pellucid, well colour'd, ſweet ſcented. It is brought from New Spain, where it drops out of a wounded Tree. There are two ſorts of it, one call'd Xoloch Copalli, the other Copal Cahuitl.

Copella. See Cupella.

Cophoſis, a Deafneſs.

Copos, a wearineſs of the Body, when the Muſcles, or their Fibres rather, are loaded and obſtructed with ſuch Viſcous Humours, that they are render'd unfit for Motion.

Coprocritica, Medicines which purge away the Excrements in the Guts.

Coprophoria, the ſame with Purgatio.

Copros, Stercus, Fimus, the Fæces, Dung, or Excrement, and may be conſider'd naturally as a Conſequent of Health, or elſe as a Non-Natural, and the Procatarctick Cauſe of Health and Diſeaſes; or as a thing preternatural, as a Symptom, or as a Medicine, tho' a filthy one, and deſervedly out of Uſe.

Coproſtacia, Coſtiveneſs, or binding in the Belly.

Coq. ad Med. Conſumpt. that is, boil it to the conſumption of half.

Coq. in S. Q. AQ. that is, boil them in a ſufficient quantity of Water.

Coq. S. A. that is, boil them according to Art.

Cor, the Heart, a fleſhy Fibrous Subſtance, made up of ſeveral Muſcles and Tendons. It has two Auricles, or Ears, and as many Ventricles; the Vena Cava or great Vein is faſten'd to the right Auricle, and the Pulmonary Vein to the left; the Pulmonary Artery is join'd to the right Ventricle, and the great Artery to the left. It is cloath'd with a little Membranous Bag, call'd the Pericardium, wherewith it is join'd to the Mediaſtinum, and the Diaphragme. Its Baſis is upwards, and its Point is downwards, and is plac'd in the middle of the Cheſt, amongſt the Lobes of the Lungs. Its Uſe is only to receive and diſperſe the Blood to all Parts in the Body; tho' others place I know not what Flame, others a Ferment in its Ventricles, which are all Fables, and no way conſonant to Reaſon, as we have ſufficiently evinced in our Tract concerning the Circulation of the Blood. Cor ſignifies alſo the inward Pith in Vegetables.

Coracobotane, a Name which is given to Bruſcus, and Laurus Alexandrina.

Coracobrachiæus, the ſame with Coracoideus.

Coracohyoides, Muſcles which proceed from the Proceſs of the Shoulder-bone, call'd Coracoides, and go on as far as the Bone Hyoides. Their Uſe is to move obliquely downwards.

Coracoides Proceſſus, a Proceſs of the Shoulder-blade in the form of a Crow's bill.

Coracoideus Perforatus, or Coracobrachiæus, one of the Muſcles that gives Motion to the Arm.

Corallina, a ſtony Marine Moſs, that ſticks to the Rocks in the Sea, and the Shells of Fiſhes, as the Moſs does to a Tree. It is of a greyiſh Colour, and a ſaltiſh Taſte. It is reputed an excellent Remedy againſt Worms. We call it Coralin, and Sea-Soſin.

Coralloides. See Dentaria.

Corallum & Coralium, Coral, of which there are ſeveral Species in both the Indies, as well as in Europe and Aſia, and thoſe of ſeveral Colours: There is Red, White, Black, and Sky-colour. They differ alſo in form, ſome branches it ſelf out like the Boughs of Trees, ſome with bare and naked Branches, ſome with rough or hairy, &c. It is agreed on all hands, that Coral is ſoft under the Water, but grows hard as ſoon as it is expos'd to the Air. It is prepar'd into Tinctures, Magiſteries, &c. But a Scruple of it powder'd, inwardly taken, is a potent Corrector of the acid Humours.

Cordialia, Corroborantia, seu Cardiaca, Medicines which are commonly thought to strengthen the Heart. But they only put the Blood into a fine gentle Fermentation, which corroborates and facilitates the Motion of the Heart. See Cardiacum.

Cordis Palpitatio: see Palpitatio Cordis.

Coriandrum, and Coliandrum, Coriander.

Corii: see Hypericum.

Cornea Oculi Tunica, or Ceratodes, which is also call'd Sclerotes, and Dura, the hard Tunick, proceeds from a Skin in the Brain, call'd Dura Meninx. It is pellucid forward, that it may transmit the visible Species. Its Sides are cover'd with the Albugineous Tunick, inwardly it contains the Aqueous Humour.

Cornicularis Processus: see Ancyroides.

Cornua Uteri, or Ceræa, two lateral Parts of the Womb in some Brutes, as Cows, Harts, Sheep, Goats, &c. yet some Authors have attributed the same Parts to a Woman's Womb, from something that imitates them there; for at the side of the bottom of the Womb there is a sort of Protuberance on both sides, where the Vasa Deferentia are inserted. A Woman's Womb is rarely bipartite, as it is in Brutes.

Cornu Cervi. See Coronopus.

Cornus, the Cornel-Tree, or Dog-Tree.

Cornuta, the same with Retorta.

Corona, the upper Superficies of the Teeth, call'd the Grinders.

Corona Regia; see Melilotus.

Corona Terræ; see Hedera Terrestris.

Coronalis Sutura, a Cleft in the Head, made like a Comb, and joins as if the Teeth of two Saws were closely compacted into one another. It is plac'd in the upper part of the Scull, from one Temple to another, and is circumscribed with the Bones of the Forehead, and that particularly call'd Bregma, in the middle whereof the Suture, stil'd Sagittalis, is terminated.

Coronaria Vasa, the Veins and Arteries that surround the Heart to nourish it; as also the Veins and Arteries which surround the left Orifice of the Stomach.

Corone, an acute Process of the lower Jaw-bone, from its likeness to the Beak of a Raven, call'd Rostriformis, in the form of a Beak.

Coronopus, seu Pes Cornicis, vel Sanguinalis & Sanguinaria, call'd also by some Herba Stellæ; Buckthorn, Plantain.

Corpora Nerveospongiosa; the same with Corpora Nervosa Penis.

Corpora Nervosa Penis, they are two long Bodies, compos'd of abundance of Membranous small Receptacles, or Cells, which make up the greatest part of the Yard; if those little Bodies are extended, it produces the Erection of that Member.

Corpus Callosum, the Marrowy, or rather the Fibrous part of the Brain, whose Complication makes the foremost Ventricle of the Brain, and is wholly Marrowy, without any Membrane, and is fasten'd on both sides to the little Tufts of the Oblongated Marrow, from which, as from its rise, this Medullary Substance which overspreads the

Ar-

Arches of the Brain, is expanded towards the hinder part, and gradually diminiſhes; at length the exterior Edge of this expanded Subſtance is more narrowly contracted, and lower down is join'd to the Trunk of the Oblongated Marrow by the Connexion of Membranes and Veſſels; and farther, that the Connexion may be firmer, there ariſes a Medullary Proceſs from its former part near its little Tufts, which ſubtending the opening of the Brain, goes to the very Extremities of it; with which, as with 2 Arms folded, 'tis united on both ſides; which Arms embrace the Trunk of the Oblongated Marrow, and ſo unite that Limbus of the Brain more firmly to themſelves.

Corpus Glanduloſum, or Glandoſum, the ſame with Proſtata.

Corpus Varicoſum; ſee Varicoſum Corpus.

Corpus Pampiniforme; ſee Varicoſum Corpus.

Corpus Pyramidale; ſee Varicaſum Corpus.

Correctio, is when ſome Salt, or other thing is added to a Medicine, to quicken or allay its violent Operation.

Correctorium, Correction, is when the Medicaments are meliorated or mended, that they may not be injurious; as when Fennel-Seed is added to the Senna.

Corroborantia, the ſame with Cordailia.

Corroſio Chymica, a Calcination of mix'd Bodies by Corroſives.

Corroſivum, a Medicine that has a power of Corroding, as Lime, Aquafortis, &c. As for inſtance, to take away Excreſcences, or to make Iſſues, &c.

Corrodentia, Corroding things, are thoſe which eat up and conſume Excreſcent Fleſh by their ſharp Particles.

Corruda, wild Aſparagus.

Cortex, the outward Cover, Rhind, or Skin of Vegetables, which we call Bark; as of Nuts, Pomegranates, Oranges, &c. as alſo the exterior part of the Cerebrum, and Cerebellum.

Corticalis Subſtantia Cerebri & Cerebelli, the outward Subſtance of the Brain, full of Labyrinths and Meanders in the outſide; 'tis cover'd with a thin Skin; 'tis of an Aſh-griſly Colour, and full of little Veſſels; inwardly, the Medullary Subſtance is next to it. Its Uſe is to ſegregate the Animal Spirits from the Blood, and hence they are convey'd by the Medullary Subſtance to the Nerves, and diſtributed thro' the whole Body. Secondly, the Seat of the Memory, and Sleep is plac'd there.

Cortuſa, a ſort of Avens.

Corylus, the Haſel-nut Tree, or Filberd-Tree.

Corymbi, the ſame with Summitates.

Corymbia, Corymbos, Corymbe, climbing Ivy, 'tis frequently uſed outwardly upon Iſſues, and for Pains in the Ears, proceeding from Matter contain'd within. The Ancients boil'd the Leaves in Wine, and applied them to Burns, and Malignant Ulcers. Some that are afflicted with the Gout apply the green Leaves to the painful Parts. A Pugil of the dried Flowers taken in Wine, cures the Bloody-flux. A large quantity of the Powder of the ripe Berries taken in Wine, is an excellent Remedy for the Plague. A dram of the Stones taken in Wine, provokes Urine, and expels Gravel. Three of the Stones powder'd, and taken with a little Saffron in Penny-royal Wine for some Days in the Morning, scarce ever fails to remove the Courses; it must be taken hot. The Berries work upward and downward. The Oil of the Berries drawn by distillation, is very good for cold Diseases of the Joints, it provokes the Courses, expels Gravel, and cures sordid Ulcers. Take one dram of the ripe Berries dried in the shade, and powder'd in a Glass of Whitewine, this is very Sudorick, and is good in the Plague, and for Pains of the Stomach.

Coryphe, the Crown of the Head, also the interior Extremity of the Fingers near the Nails.

Coryza, or Gravedo, a Defluxion of a sharp, salt, and thickned Humour, by an outward Cold, into the Mouth, Lungs, and Nostrils, from the Ventricles of the Brain by the Nerves of Smelling; for when it grows thick, it can neither be percolated, nor pass from the Pituitary Glandules, thro' the Infundibulum into the Veins, and therefore it distils into the Nostrils by the aforesaid Nerves, which, if it meet with an Accension of Sulphureous Particles, it produces a Fever, and consequently Thirst. Hence it is that Coryza is either with or without a Fever.

Cos Vinum, a Wine that is excellent for Colour, Smell, and Taste, the first Letter signifying Colour, the next Smell, the third Taste.

Cosmetica, Medicines that whiten and soften the Skin, as Oil of Tartar, a Dissolution of Sublimated Mercury, Sulphur, Camphire, &c. Cosmeticks.

Costæ, the Ribs, are those Bones which, with other Parts, make the Chest or Thorax. Backward they are connex'd with the Vertebres of the Back; forward with the Cartilages of the Breast-bone; they are 12 in number on both sides; the 7 upper are call'd True, the 5 lower Spurious; the broader part of the Ribs is call'd Palmula, the straiter towards the Vertebres, Remulus.

Costus, is a sweet-scented Herb, it heats much, forces Urine, and the Courses, and is good for Diseases of the Womb. Half an ounce of it taken in a proper Liquor, is good for the biting of Vipers; it stimulates Venery, and expels broad Worms by reason of the bitterness that is in it. We call it sweet-scented Costus.

Cotis, by Hippocrates the Occiput, and signifies the hinder part of the Head.

Cotinus, the wild Olive-tree.

Cotonea, Citonia, and Cydonia Malus, the Quince-tree; it was brought first from a City of Crete, the Fruit of it is very agreeable to the Stomach; it is astringent, and cures spitting of Blood, the Bloody-flux, and all other Fluxes; the Mucilage of the Seeds extracted, with the Water of the Spawn of Frogs, is an excellent Gargarism in Fevers; a Syrup is made of the Juice of it, and Marmalade of the Quinces.

Cotonium, Cotonum, Cotum; see Xylon.

Cotula & Cauta, stinking May-weed, it is a sort of Camomile, the Decoction of this Herb is used successfully for the King's-Evil.

Cotyla Attica, nine Ounces, as an an Italian Hemina, but Cotyla Italica contains twelve.

Cotyle, ſeu Cotyla, the ſame with Acetabulum, the Cavity of the Huckle-bone, which is appointed to receive the head of the Thigh-bone.

Cotyledon, the ſame with Cotyle.

Cotyledones, or Acetabula Uterina, vel Umbilicus Veneris, Glandules diſperſed up and down the uttermoſt Membrane of the Fœtus, called Chorion; which ſeparate Nutritious Juice from the Womb, to nouriſh the Fœtus, but this is found only in ſome Animals, the Placenta in the Womb ſupplies their place in Women. Alſo the gaping meetings of the Veins in the Womb are call'd Cotyledones, and Acetabula; theſe Glandules are ſo call'd from the reſemblance they bear to the Leaves of the Herb Pennywort, in Latin, Cotyledon.

Courap, a ſort of Indian Itch, reſembling an Herpes.

Coxæ Os, the Hip-bone, call'd otherwiſe Innominatum and Ilium, Coxendix, becauſe it contains the Gut call'd Ileum; it is annex'd to the ſides of the Os Sacrum; in Infants it conſiſts of 3 Bones, Ilium, Iſchium, and Os Pubis, which are join'd together by Cartilages, till 7 Years of Age; then it is diſtinguiſh'd by a triple Line; it grows into one continu'd Bone in adult Perſons.

Coxendix, the ſame with Coxa, and Iſchium.

Crama, Croma, and Chrama, is a mixture of any thing, whether Medicines or Elements.

Crambe, the ſame with Braſſica. See Braſſica.

Crania; ſee Cornus.

Cranium, the Compages of the Bones of the Head, to which belong the Bones of the Forehead, of the ſides of the Head, of the hinder part of the Head, of the Temples, the Bone call'd Sphenoides, and another call'd Cribriforme, like a Sieve. It is like a Κράνος, an Helmet to the Head, which defends it from External Injuries; its upper part is double. Some call it Calva, and Calvaria. See Calva; the Scull.

Crapale, vel Crapula, an Headach, proceeding from the drinking of too much Wine.

Craſis, or Temperamentum, is a convenient mixture of Qualities. Temperament is either Simple or Compound: Simple is when only one quality exceeds the reſt, as hot, cold, moiſt, dry, ſalt, ſharp, &c. Compound is when more qualities exceed, as hot and dry, hot and bitter, ſalt and ſharp, acid and frigid, acid and acrimonious; and alſo one is inherent, which is fix'd in the Parts; another influent, which is deriv'd on the Parts, from the Blood and Spirits; and it is either moderate or immoderate, total or partial, natural or acquir'd, permanent or tranſitory, to an Equality in Weight, or a juſt Proportion; and ſo they make a great many Diſtinctions, which ſignify little or nothing. The Temperament, Temperature, or Conſtitution.

Craſſities, Craſſitudo, Craſſus, a Term attributed in Phyſick to many things. 1. The ſize of the Body. as Corpulency. 2. The Membranes, ſo the exterior and firſt Membrane inveſting the Brain, which is vulgarly call'd Dura Mater, is named Craſſa Meninx. 3. In the Veins. 4. In the the Pulse, 'tis term'd Pulsus Crassus, a turgid Pulse, in opposition to a small or feeble one. 5. In Medicines which are of gross parts, and not easily made fine or subtile.

Crassula, a sort of Telepium.

Cratægônon, an Herb much of the sort of Melampyrum.

Cressio. See Cardamon.

Craticula, a Chymical Instrument made of square pieces of Iron as thick as one's Finger, placed so near one another in acute Angles, that there is half a Fingers space betwixt them. It is us'd in making of Fires, to keep up the Coals, and to afford a passage for the Ashes to fall into the Ash-hole underneath it. The Grate or Grid-iron of a Chymical Furnace.

Crea, seu Ocrea; see Tibia.

Creber, frequens, wherein the time of rest is short, as in Breathing and the Pulse, where either of them are quick, and the intermission short.

Cremasteres, are two Muscles of the Testicles, call'd Suspensores, Hangers; they grow outwardly to the Membrane of the Vagina, and proceed in Men from the Ligament which is in the Os pubis, and are fast connex'd to the lower part of the Testicles.

Cremor, the same with Chylus, Chymus, the Chyle.

Crenæ, the indented Leaves of Herbs that are cut round like a Saw.

Crepatura, is said to be when Barley or any other thing is boiled till it cracks.

Crepitus Lupi; see Orbicularis.

Creta, the Name of an Isle called Crete, whence comes Samian Earth; but the signification here is a noted kind of Earth call'd Chalk, sometimes call'd Cimolian Earth, of various kinds and colours; 1. white, 2. soft, 3. hard, 4. loamy, that easily chalks, 5. stony, 6. hard, and of an Ash-colour, 7. Sky-colour'd, 8. hard, and green, 9. light green, 10. black and soft, 11. black, soft, and shining with silver spots, 12. black and hard. Chalk is generally taken for a Medicinal Earth, but is of various other uses.

Cribratio, the sifting of Powder thro' a Sieve.

Cribrosum Os; see Ethmoides.

Cribrum, a Sieve.

Cribrum benedictum antiquorum, the Ancients fancied two Cavities plac'd longways in the Reins, one uppermost, whereinto the Serous Blood was poured from the Emulgent Arteries; t'other lowermost, which they fancied was distinguish'd with a certain transverse Membrane full of little holes like a Sieve, whence they call'd it Colatorium, a Streiner, and Benedictum cribrum, a blessed Sieve, thro' which they would have the Serum percolated into the Ureters, and the good Blood stay behind for the nourishment of the Reins.

Cricoarytænoides, Muscles which proceed from the Cartilage call'd Cricoides, and are inserted into the Arytænoides, which whilst they draw backward and outwardly, the opening of the Larynx is dilated.

Cricoides, the Cartilage of the Larynx or Windpipe, which is in fashion of a Ring.

Cricothyroides, a pair of Muscles which proceed from the Cartilage lage like a Ring, and are terminated in that which is call'd Scutiformis, or like a Shield: They dilate the opening of the Larynx, by moving a little obliquely.

Crimnoides, or Crimnodes, Urine with thick Sediment at the bottom like Bran.

Crinis, or Pili, Hair commonly divided into Capilli, or Locks: Crines, common long Hair; Pili short Hairs in any part of the Body.

Crinon; see Lilium.

Crinones, Cutaneous Vermicles; call'd likewise Dracunculi.

Crinonia, the same with Crinon.

Crisima, Signs by which one may discern and judge.

Crisis, a sudden change in a Disease, either toward Recovery or Death. It sometimes signifies a Secretion of Humours, but is more frequently taken for a Judgment pass'd upon a Disease. One Crisis is call'd perfect, another imperfect; the perfect is that which frees the Patient perfectly and entirely from the Distemper, and 'tis either salutary or deadly: 1. It must be judg'd by very good Signs; 2. be manifest; 3. happen upon a critical Day; 4. be faithful; 5. secure; 6. suitable to the Disease and Distemper of the Patient. An imperfect Crisis is that which does not clearly determine the tendency of the Disease, but leaves room for another Crisis; and this is twofold, either for the better, or for the worse: The latter is when the Disease becomes more violent and dangerous. That Crises depend upon the motion and influence of the Moon and Stars, and follow their Quadrate and opposite Aspects, or their Conjunctions, is false and frivolous; for critical Evacuations are determin'd only according to the different Maturation: But in these Countries they are quite neglected.

Crispinus & Crespinus, is Berberis; see Berberis.

Cristæ, Excrescences of Flesh growing about the Fundament, from a preposterous use of Coition, the Roots whereof are often chap'd and cleft.

Crista Galli, the third part of the Bone Ethmoides, or the inner Process, not much unlike the Comb of a Cock. It riseth betwixt the Olfactory Nerves, and has the Extremity of the third Cavity of the hard Skin of the Brain, call'd Dura Meninx, implanted in it.

Crista Galli; see Alectorolophus.

Criterium, the same with Crisis.

Crithamum, the same as Crithmum.

Crithe, or Hordeolum, a little oblong Push or Swelling, which grows to the Eyebrows where the Hairs are, so call'd from its resemblance to a Barley-corn. See Hordeum.

Crithe, is Hordeum.

Crithmum, Crithmus, Crithamum, and Creta, Sea-Fennel, or Samphire; being pickled, 'tis very agreeable to the Stomach; it provokes Urine moderately, opens Obstructions of the Bowels, and excites Appetite.

Critici dies, those Days whereon there happens a sudden change of the Disease, and they're threefold; some are call'd truly and perfectly critical, others Indices, others Intercidentes. The perfectly critical Days are call'd Principes, or Radicales, becauſe the Criſis which happen on theſe Days have all the marks of a perfect Criſis; and theſe are the 7th, the 14th, and the 21ſt Day. Indices, which are alſo call'd Contemplabiles and Internuncii, are thoſe which indicate that the Criſis will be on the 7th Day, and theſe are three, the 4th, 11th, and 17th. Intercidentes, which are call'd alſo Intercalares, Irrepentes, or Provocatorii, are thoſe which fall betwixt the days call'd Principes and Indices, and only aim at an imperfect Criſis, which are the 3d, 5th, 9th, 13th, and 19th; but all other Days, which are neither Principes, Indices, nor Intercidentes are call'd Vacui, and Medicinales, and are the 6th, 8th, 12th, 16th, and 18th. The computation of Critical Days is to be inſtituted from that Hour wherein the Patient firſt felt himſelf ill. We may obſerve by the way, that the computation of Critical Days in theſe Countries does not exactly correſpond with Hippocrates's Account. All theſe Days depend on the ſooner or later fermentation and maturation of the Morbifick Matter. They are commonly call'd Critical Days.

C

Critica Signa, Critical Signs, are ſuch as are taken from a Criſis, either toward Death or Recovery; and ſome of 'em are antecedent, which either foretell the time of a Criſis, or ſignifie a kind of Criſis; others are concomitant, which appear at the ſame time with the Criſis; and others, laſtly, are ſubſequent, which ſhew whether an imperfect Recovery be to be expected, or there be fear of a Relapſe.

Crocomagma, a Compoſition whoſe Baſis is Crocus.

Crocus, Saffron, is a bulbous Plant bearing a yellow Flower, whoſe Flame-colour'd Stamina is the Saffron in the Shops. There are divers kinds of this. It is brought from the Indies, France, Spain, &c. but the beſt is Engliſh Saffron. Being moderately uſed, 'tis good for the Brain, it renders the Senſes brisk, ſhakes off Sleep and Dulneſs, and cheers and ſtrengthens the Heart; it concocts the crude Humours of the Breaſt, opens the Lungs, and frees 'em from Obſtructions; and it is ſuch an effectual Remedy for the Breaſt and Lungs, that it ſometimes revives conſumptive People when they are in a manner worn out. 'Tis frequently uſed for Fainting, for Apoplexies, in the Jaundice, and for Obſtructions of the Liver; in the Plague, and other malignant Diſeaſes; it is alſo good in an Aſthma, mixt with Oil of Almonds; it provokes Urine and the Courſes, and haſtens Delivery. Half a ſcruple, or at moſt a ſcruple of it infuſed in Canary-wine, is very effectual in the Jaundice. It is much uſed to drive out the Small-pox, but undoubtedly it does many times much hurt, by enflaming the Blood, occaſioning Frenſies, and making them flux.

Crocus, is with the Chymiſts a Calx, or any other Powder, of the colour of Saffron, and is prepar'd out of Steel, Copper, and Antimony; as Crocus Martis, Veneris, Metallorum, and the like.

Crommyon, is Cepa.

Crotaphites, the Muſcles, Veins, and Arteries about the Temples.

Some-

Sometimes Crotaphium is taken for a pain in the Head. See Temporalis Musculus.

Crotaphium; see in Crotaphites.

Croton signifies the Ricinus or Cataputia major vulgaris, the greater Spurge, which is a Plant that has the resemblance of a small Tree, whose Stalk rises 6 or 7 foot high. This beareth Fruit or Berries used in Medicine, called Tile-berries, and contain in 'em plenty of Oil and Salt. 'Tis brought from America, and call'd Grana Tiglia, Indian Pinekernels.

Crucialis Incisio; see Incisio Crucialis.

Cruciata, Crosswort, a kind of Gentian; it drys, is astringent, and one of the chief Vulneraries, inwardly taken, or outwardly apply'd; drank in Wine, 'tis good for Ruptures; it also expectorates Viscous Humours.

Crucibulum, seu Tigillum, a Crucible, 'tis a Vessel for melting Minerals and Metals made of Earth, extraordinarily harden'd by Fire, with an acute Basis, but a larger Top, Round, or Triangular. There is also a sort of Crucible made, commonly call'd Testa, which is sufficient to melt Metals.

Cruditas Morborum, a Crudity in Diseases is when the Blood (as in continued Fevers) is not yet duly fermented, and brought to a right Consistence.

Cruditas Ventriculi, a Crudity of the Stomach, is when Meat out of a defect of Nourishment, or some other cause, is not rightly fermented, and turn'd into Chyle. And 'tis threefold, Apepsia, Bradypepsia, and Dyspepsia; of which in their proper places.

Cruor, Blood, see Sanguis. Helmont makes a distinction betwixt Sanguis and Cruor; the former whereof he says, Is the Blood in the Arteries; the latter, that in the Veins.

Cruræus Musculus, it lies under the Vasti, affix'd to the Integument of the Thigh-bone every where but in the Extremities. Its four Tendinous Expansions, collected into one, make a strong Tendon to extend the Tibia.

Crus, or Magnus Pes, is all that part of the Body which reaches from the Buttocks down to the end of the Toes; it is divided into the Thigh, Leg, and Foot, commonly call'd the Leg.

Crusta Lactea, a Species of Achor, a Scurf, or crusty Scab, only with this difference, that an Achor infects only the Head, but this, not only the Face, but almost the whole Body of an Infant, at the time of its first sucking. Crusta Lactea turns white, but Achors have another Colour.

Crusta Vermicularis, the same as Velamentum Bombicinum.

Crusta Ulceris. See Eschara.

Crustula, the same as Ecchymoma in the Eye, that is, Blood descending to the Tunica Conjunctiva from the Arteries, breaking by a Stroke, Wound, or other ways.

Crymodes, a cold shivering Fever, but many times accompanied with an Inflamation of the inner Parts.

Cryforchis, an absconding of the Testicles of a Male within the Belly.

Crystalli, are Pustules dispersed all over the Body, of the bigness of a Lupine, white and diphanous like Crystal.

Crystallina Tunica. See Arachnoides Tunica, and Aranea.

Cry-

Cryſtallinus Humor Oculi, call'd alſo Glacialis, the Cryſtalline Humour of the Eye within the opening of the Tunica Uvea, like a Glaſs put over a Hole, collects and refringes the Rays which ſtrike upon it from all Parts. Its Subſtance is like Glue, or the Gum of a Tree, very pellucid, and of a conſiſtence like melting Wax; which, tho' it be preſt, doth not eaſily yield and ſeparate. In Men it is ſhap'd like a Lintel, whoſe outward Surface is pretty plain, but the inner gibbous and riſing. This Humour, though it be not apt to ſpread abroad, yet is cloath'd with a ſmall Membrane of its own, call'd Aranea, by reaſon of its thinneſs, like a Spider's Web. The Cryſtalline Humour of the Eye.

Cryſtallizatio, the Depuration or Reduction of any Salts into Cryſtals. It is ſaid properly of Salts, unto which Tartar or Sugar may be added; where note, all the ſuperfluous Liquor muſt be exhal'd, and after they are taken out, becauſe the Liquor is in too great proportion, it muſt be evaporated anew, to acquire more Cryſtaliz'd Matter.

Cryſtalloides Tunica, the ſame with Aranea Tunica.

Cryſtallus, a tranſparent Stone, reſembling Ice. It may be call'd a Gem, but the ſofteſt of all, becauſe colour'd Cryſtal reſembles them; as falſe Emerald, falſe Saphire, falſe Topaz, which are all ſofter than the true ones. So the Iris may be call'd a Gem, from the colour it exhibits when applied to the Face. Several ſorts of Cryſtal are found in divers Places; as in Germany, Hungary, Bohemia, Cyprus, Portugal; and ſometimes in the Fields. Tho' the colour'd ones are not to be neglected as the counterfeit Diamond, yet in Chymical Preparations the moſt pure pellucid Cryſtal is to be prefer'd.

Cubebæ, Aromatick Fruits of the bigneſs of Pepper, each having one Stock. The Taſte is like Pepper, and grows in the ſame manner, climbing about the Tree like Ivy. The Fruit hangs in bunches. The Flower is fragrant. It is brought from both the Indies.

Cubebs, are hot and dry, they ſtrengthen the Stomach when 'tis oppreſſed with Wind or Flegm; they purge the Breaſt, by carrying off clammy and groſs Humours; they relieve the Spleen, and expel Wind, and cures cold Diſeaſes of the Womb; being chew'd with Maſtick often, they ſtrengthen the Brain, and draw Flegm from the Head; being infuſed in Wine, they provoke Venery, and heat the Stomach, they cleanſe the Urinary Paſſages, and expel Gravel from the Reins and Bladder, they are an Ingredient in the compound Spirit and Water of Wormwood, of the London Diſpenſatory.

Cubiforme. See Cuboides.

Cubitæus Muſculus, is Internal and External. The firſt being fix'd to the internal Proceſs of the Arm and Cubitus, ends with a ſtrong Tendon near the Integument of the 4th Bone of the Metacarpus. The External ariſing from the External Apophyſis of the Arm, and lying according to the length of the Cubitus, ends with a notable Tendon in the 4th Bone of the Metacarpus, near the little Finger. The Muſcles, Benders of the Wriſt.

Cubitus, or Gibber Brachii, the middle part betwixt the Shoulder-bone and the Wriſt; it conſiſts of two Bones, one call'd Ulna, and the other Radius; the ends whereof meet indeed, but the middle parts are ſeparate, tho' they be tied together a little by a Membranous Ligament. Cubitus is alſo a Meaſure, containing in length as much as will reach from the bending of the Elbow to the Extremity of the middle Finger, commonly computed at 6 Palms, or 24 Inches.

Cuboides, ſeu Cubiforme, the 4th Bone in that part of the Foot that immediately ſucceeds the Leg, and that in both Feet. It is call'd alſo Grandinoſum, and Os Teſſeræ.

Cucullaris Muſculus, or Trapezius, is the firſt Muſcle of the Scapula, call'd ſo from the reſembling of a Monk's Cowl. It begins from the Occiput, and ends on the upper part of the Shoulder.

Cucuma, the ſame with Ahenum.

Cucumer, and Cucumis, call'd alſo by ſome Anguria, Cucumber. The Seed of it is one of the four greater cold Seeds; it cleanſes, opens, and provokes Urine; 'tis frequently uſed in Emulſions, for Pleuriſies, and the Stone in the Kidneys; the Flower of it is reckon'd good to clear the Skin; 'tis generally reckon'd that the Subſtance of the Cucumber is cold and moiſt, of an excrementitious Juice, and therefore to be uſed only by thoſe whoſe Stomachs are ſtrong. But Schroder is of a quite contrary Opinion, for he thinks they are very agreeable to the Stomach, and may be eaten all the time they are in ſeaſon, being ſliced and ſprinkled with Salt, beat betwixt two Diſhes, ſo that the Water may be drain'd from 'em; and being eaten with Vinegar, Pepper, and Oil, they are undoubtedly not unwholſom. Elaterium is made of the juice of wild Cucumber, preſt out and thickned; it purges Flegm and watry Humors upward and downward, but kills the Child in the Womb, wherefore 'tis ſeldom uſed, eſpecially becauſe 'tis accompanied with Malignity. 'Tis moſt durable of all Juices, for 'tis ſuppoſed to continue good above a hundred Years. A certain Empirick cured ſeveral People of Dropſies by giving them two Pills of the bigneſs of a Vetch, made of wheaten Flower; and with this Juice afterward he waſh'd their Legs with a Lotion made of the Stalks, and then he gave 'em the Pills again, and ſo perfected the Cure.

Cucupha, a Cover for the Head, made of odoriferous and cephalick Spices beat to powder, and ſtitcht betwixt two pieces of Silk, or elſe ſown within a Cap, and wore upon the Head, againſt Catarrhs and other Diſeaſes of the Head. An Aromatick Cap for the Head.

Cucurbita, a Chymical pointed Veſſel, made of Earth or Glaſs, uſed in Diſtillations by an Alembick. Sometimes 'tis taken for Cucurbitula, a Cucurbite.

Cucurbita, a Gourd.

Cucurbitini Lumbrici, are broad Worms like the Seed of a Gourd.

Cucurbitula, or Cucurbita, a Cupping-glaſs, is a wide hollow Veſſel made of Glaſs or Tin, which is apply'd to the Body with Scarification, or without it, to divert or drive the Blood into another part, or to let it out. If it be apply'd with-without Scarification, 'tis call'd Cucurbita cæca & ventosa. Cupping-glasses are applied to the most fleshy parts, where the large Vessels and Nerves can't be hurt. The drawing which is perform'd by these Glasses is done thus; after the Skin is scarified, the Air in the Cupping-glasses is rarified and dilated by the Flame of the Tow that is fired within it, which after 'tis cool'd and condens'd, takes up less room than before, so that the external Air pressing on the Flesh without, forces the Blood into the Glass. There are two sorts of Cupping-glasses, says Celsus, one of Brass, and the other of Horn; the former is open on one part, and shut on the other; the latter is equally open on one part, and the other hath a little Hole. Burning Tow is thrown into the Brazen one, and so its Mouth is applied and forced upon the Body till it stick. That of Horn is applied singly by itself, and by a violent sucking at the little Hole, which must presently be stop'd up with Wax, it sticks as fast as the other. But if other things fail, then a little Cup or Goblet, with a strait Mouth, may be very fitly applied to the same effect; after it has stuck, if the Skin be scarified before with a Penknife, it draws out the Blood; if it be whole and entire, it draws out the Flatulent Matter; therefore, where the Matter is hurtful and offensive, it must be applied the former way; where there is an Inflamation, the latter. The Ægyptians at this day use those of Horn, as appears from Prosper Alpinus.

Culeus, a great Measure of the Ancients, containing 40 Urns.

Culmus, the Straw of Wheat, which sustains the Ear.

Culus. See Anus.

Cuminum, Cyminum, Cummin; the Seed of it resolves and discusses Wind, and therefore is good in the Cholick, and for a Timpany, and a Vertigo; taken in Wine, it relieves those that are afflicted with difficulty and heat of Urine; boil'd with Figs in Wine, it cures a Cough, and cleanses the Breast; 'tis conveniently bak'd in Bread, for it helps Concoction, and dissipates Wind; but the frequent use of it, in a large quantity, renders the Countenance pale; it cures a stinking Breath. The Chymical Oil of it is excellent for Wind and Uterine Diseases; it is sown in great abundance in the Island of Melita, or Maltha.

Cuneiforme Os, so call'd from the resemblance they say it has to a Wedge, in Latin, Cuneus; the Ancients call'd it Multiforme, of many shapes, by reason of the various Processes inside and outside, that render it rough and unequal. It is situate in the midst of the Basis of the Brain, and is plac'd under it like a Basis, so that it touches upon most of the Bones of the Head, and the upper Jaw. It is also call'd Basilare Os & Sphenoides Os. The Wedge-like Bone.

Cuneiformia Ossa, are those Bones which make the fifth, sixth, and seventh Bones of that part of the Foot which immediately succeeds the Leg; which Fallopius calls Sphenoidea, Innominata, and Calcoidea. The little Wedge-like Bones in the Foot.

Cunnus, a Woman's privy Parts, consisting of a Clytoris, Nymphæ, and and the Lips. It is also call'd Natura and Muliebria by Pliny; Cunnus by Horace and Virgil; Hortus by Ovid; Genitale Arvum by Virgil; Interfeminium by Apuleius; and Vulva and Porcus by Varro.

Cupella, Copella & Capella sive Catinus, a Test-Cupel made of burnt Bones, or other Matters, for separating Gold and Silver from other Metals, and purifying or refining it from their Dross. See Catillus Cinereus.

Cupressus, the same with Cypressus, the Cypress-tree; the Wood of it is very lasting, for it has continued fresh and sound above Six-hundred Years; and the smell of it, which is very curious, continues many Ages. The Fruit and Leaves is drying and astringent; a Decoction of the Leaves in sweet Wine helps the Strangury and Cough, Short-windedness, Fluxes of the Belly, spitting of Blood, and Ruptures; the Powder of the Leaves provoke Urine, the Leaves beaten with Figs soften Tumours, and are good in the King's-Evil, being applied outwardly.

Curatio, seu Medela, a right way or method of finding out, by Symptoms and Indication, proper Remedies for any Disease, in order to the Recovery of Health. A healing or curing of a Distemper.

Curativa Indicatio, an Indication which respects the Disease to be cur'd.

Curculio, the same with Cion.

Curcuma, sive Crocus Indicus, Turmerick, an Indian Root, of a Saffron Colour, tinging other things so; some long, some round Root. The last is much stronger, and often brought with Ginger. It has Flowers like the Indian Cane; see Herman's Catalogue of the Leyden Garden. Turmerick is an excellent Remedy for Obstructions of the Lungs, Liver, and Spleen, and also of the Mesaraick Veins, and for Nephritick Pains; 'tis also very good for the Stone in the Kidneys and Bladder; it also opens Womens Obstructions, and hastens Delivery, but it is peculiarly good for curing the Jaundice; in short, this Root is reckon'd the best of all Medicines for opening Obstructions.

Cuscuta, Cassutha, Dodder, it is supposed to participate of the Plant it sticks to, for it hangs and climbs about other Herbs, and defrauds 'em of their Nourishment; so that which grows to Broom is reckon'd Diuretick; that is counted moist that sticks to Flax; that astringent which climbs up Madder; that which grows on Nettles is very Diuretick. It is hot, dry, and cleansing, it opens Obstructions, and purges Melancholy. Is of good Use in the Itch, for the black Jaundice, and Obstructions of the Liver and Spleen; but that which grows on Nettles is prefer'd before all the other in Physick.

Cuspis & Hamus, a sort of Bandage, or rather two long Bandages, of about two Fingers breadth.

Custos Oculi, an Instrument to prevent hurting the Eyes in some Operations.

Cutambuli, little Worms that creep either under the Cuticula, or upon it, tickling and itching there with trouble; or else they're wandring Pains, that run about like Worms, plaguing the Patient with great Pain and Uneasiness, proceeding from a Volatile thin Fluid, that is endow'd with some Malignity, arising from a Scorbutick Cause.

Cuticula, the little thin Skin, is a cover of the Skin, without Sense, extended outwardly over the whole Skin like a Membrane, full of innumerable small Pores, accomodated to the avoiding of Injuries from abroad, to the shutting up of the Cutaneous Vessels, and to the more acurate perfecting of Tactile Qualities. It is nourish'd by the Blood; for if it be lost or perish'd, it comes again, tho' its Vessels be but little conspicuous. It is not condensed by Cold, for I have often shewn it in Abortions. Nor is it condensed by Oily Vapours, because that condensed Vapours easily slide off again. 'Tis commonly call'd in English also the Cuticula.

Cutis, the Skin in a living Man, but Pellis is that which is flea'd off, and it is the outmost cover of the whole Body, or a pretty thick Membrane wrought of several Filaments of the Veins and Arteries, and Nervous Fibres, complicated and interwoven with one another, full of Glandules and Limphe-ducts, or Vessels that convey away the Vapours and Sweat, abounding with a great number of Pores here and there, and sensibly perforated in many places, to let in and out, as occasion requires, as at the Mouth, Nostrils, Eyes, Ears, Privities, Fundament, &c. It is thickest of all upon the Head, moderately hard in Neck and Back, finer in the Face, Yard, and outer Skin of the Cod, thin on the Sides, thinnest of all on the Lips; in some places, as the Elbow, Forehead, Soles of the Feet, &c. it sticks very close together.

Cyamus, is Faba.

Cyanus, vel Baptisecula, or rather Blaptisecula, call'd also Flos Frumentorum, or the Corn-flower, because it grows in the Corn-fields, much commended, besides its Medicinal Vertues, for its fine Sky-colour; Blue-bottles. The Flowers, and the distill'd Water, are useful for Inflamations of the Eyes, and for the blaredness of them; the Juice of the Flowers distil'd, is good for putrid Ulcers; the Powder of it taken inwardly is very effectual in the Jaundice; the Flowers infus'd in Spirit of Wine, or common Water, impart their Colour to the Liquor; and they colour Sugar very curiously, as do the Flowers of Succory.

Cyathus, five Bickarium, Cuathum, Alcuatus and Alcuatum, we English it properly a Beaker, is a Measure of Dry things, as well as Liquids; not as some think a common sort of Cup, but the eighth part of a Sextary.

Cyclamen, or Arthanita, Sow-bread. It is also call'd Rapum Terræ, Terræ Tuber, Umbilicus Terræ, & Panis Porcinus.

Cyclisci, Surgeons Tools, wherewith they scrape away corrupt Flesh, or the like, made in the form of an Half-moon.

Cyclophoria Sanguinis, the same as the Circulation of the Blood.

Cyclopion, the same with Album Oculi; the White of the Eye, or all that is white therein.

Cydonia Malus. See Cotonia.

Cyema, the same with Embrion.

Cylindrus, a Plaister made oblong, in the form of a Roll, which Physicians call Magdaleo.

Cyllosis. See in Cyllum.

Cyllum, a Leg put out of joint out-outwardly; from whence is derived Cylloſis, Claudicatio, a being Lame or Crooked.

Cyma, or Cymæ, little Shoots or Sprouts.

Cymbalaria, Penny-wort.

Cymbiforme Os, ſee Os Naviculare.

Cyminum; ſee Cuminum.

Cynanche, and Lucanche, ſo called becauſe it is frequently incident to Dogs and Wolves, is an Inflamation of the inner Muſcles of the Larynx, accompanied with a Difficulty of Breathing, and a continual Fever. See Angina.

Cynanthemis, is Cotyla Fœtida; call'd alſo Flos Caninus, or the Dog-flower.

Cynanthropia, Madneſs given by a Dog, wherein the Patient flies Light, and any thing that is bright and ſplendid, fears Water, and trembles at the ſight and remembrance of it; it proceeds uſually from a poiſonous Bite, or the like, of ſome Creature, as a Dog, a Wolf, &c.

Cynicus Spaſmus. See Spaſmus Cynicus.

Cynobotane, is Cotyla Fœtida, or Herba Canina.

Cynocoprus, Dog's-turd.

Cynocrambe, Braſſica Canina, ſive Mercurialis, Dogs-Mercury. Prevotius, in his Book of Medicines for the Poor, ranks this Herb among thoſe things that evacuate Seroſities gently.

Cynodes Orexis, a Doglike Appetite, or an extream Hunger join'd with Vomiting, or a Looſneſs. It ariſes from too much, or too acid a Ferment in the Stomach.

Cynodiſmus, or Caninum Vinculum, is the Band which ties the little Skin of the Yard to the Nut.

Cynodontes, are thoſe Teeth betwixt the Axle Teeth and Grinders, call'd Canini, Columellares, and Oculares, Eye-teeth, as we ſay.

Cynogloſſum, Hounds-tongue, it cools and dries; 'tis uſed to ſtop Blood, a Looſneſs, a Gonorrhœa, and Catarrhs. An Oyntment made of the Juice with Honey and Turpentine, is much commended for old Fiſtulous Ulcers.

Cynorexis, the ſame with Cynodes Orexis.

Cynorhodos, the wild Roſe, is Roſa Canina.

Cynosbatos, is Rubus Caninus, the ſame with Cynorhodos.

Cynoſorchis, or Teſticulus Canis, Dogs-ſtone, a kind of Satyrion.

Cypariſſus, the ſame as Cypreſſus.

Cyperus is of two ſorts, long and round; brought from Italy, Syria, Alexandria, India. It grows near Water, and has a fragrant Root. Cyperus Root.

Cyperus, a ſort of Ruſh.

Cypoma, the ſame with Cyphoſis.

Cyphos, the ſame with Cyphoſis.

Cyphoſis, in Latin, Incurvatio, the bending of the Vertebres of the Back towards the back Parts.

Cypreſſus, the ſame with Cupreſſus. The Cypreſs-tree.

Cyrtoma, a bunch on the Back, or a preternatural Tumour in any other Part.

Cyrtoſis, the ſame with Cyrtoma.

Cyſſaros, the Gut call'd Rectum, the lowermoſt of all. Alſo the Fundament.

Cyſteolithos, the Stone of the Bladder.

Cyſthepaticus, is an addition of Gall Ducts in an Ox's Liver, ſometimes opening with 3 Mouths into the Gall Bladder, ſometimes with four, which by reaſon of their In-ſertion ought rather to be call'd Hepatcyſtici.

Cyſthepaticus Ductus, is that Duct which is implanted into the Hepatick Duct, and the Gall Bladder.

Cyſtica, Medicines uſed againſt Diſtempers in the Bladder.

Cyſticus Ductus, the ſame as Porus Bilarius.

Cytinus is the Flower of the Pomegranate.

Cyſtis, the Bladder that holds Urine, or the Gall.

Cyſtis Choledochus, the ſame with Folliculus Fellis.

Cyſtotomia, the Section of the Bladder, or Lithotomy, whereof in its proper place.

Cyſtus Fellis, the ſame with Folliculus Fellis.

Cytiſus, a Shrub, ſo call'd from the Iſland Cythnus, where it grows plentifully. Some derive it from the Iſle of Cynthia, one of the Cyclades.

D

△ Formerly they underſtood by this Letter, in a Myſtical Senſe, the Quartan Ague.

Dacridium, is the Juice of Scammony, harden'd and prepar'd in a Quince made hollow, call'd Lachrymula by the Latins.

Dachryodes, ſive Lachrymoſus, an Ulcer which continually ſendeth forth Matter.

Dacryon, the ſame that Lacryma.

Dactylios, the Podex, the Fundament. There are ſome who underſtand by it the ſtrait Gut.

Dactylus, the Palm-Fruit, oblong and round, ſweet, containing within a hard Nut. 'Tis a large Tree which grows in Judea, Syria, Ægypt, Africa, India, &c. having Leaves like Swords. It flouriſhes in the Spring, bears ſmall, white, and ſweet-ſcented Flowers, the Fruit is not ripe till Autumn, 'tis call'd Digitus, or the Finger, by the Latins. Some Authors have miſtaken the Dactylus for the Balanus, by reaſon of its reſemblance, it bearing, as well as that, an Acorn-like Nut.

Dama Rupicapra, the Rock-Goat.

Danich, weighs no more than 8 grains, the ſame with Lupinus.

Daphne, is Laurus: ſee Laurus.

Daphne Alexandrina, ſee Laurus Alexandrina.

Daphnelæon Oleum Laurinum; Oil of Bays.

Daphnoides, is Laureola.

Darſis, an Excoriation of the Skin; ſee Intertrigo.

Dartus, the ſecond Tunick of the Cotes, which immediately cover the Teſticles of a Man. It ariſes from the Fleſhy Membrane; but in Women the Teſticles are immediately cover'd with the Cote of the Peritonæum.

Daſymma, a Superficiary Inequality of the inner part of the Eyelids, accompanied with a redneſs.

Dates, are aſtringent, and are uſed for Fluxes of the Belly, and the Whites; they ſtop bleeding, and cure Wounds; the freſh are more aſtringent than the dry, but they occaſion the Headach, and if many of them are eaten, they intoxicate; when they are dry, they ſtop ſpitting of Blood, and are good for the Bloody-flux. A Decoction of them is a very aſtringent Gargariſm. Boil'd in Wine they take off proud Fleſh, and cicatrize Ulcers. A Decoction of them makes the Hair black; and being taken inwardly, it cures Diſeaſes ſeaſes of the Reins and Bladder; when they are ripe, they are good for a Hoarſeneſs and Coughs, and difficulty of breathing, a Pleuriſy, and a Peripneumonia. They are an Ingredient of the pectoral Decoction of the London Diſpenſatory.

Datura, a ſort of Solanum. See Stramonia.

Daucus, Wild Carrot, aſſwages Pain, and procures Sleep.

Daura is call'd black Hellebore by Paracelſus.

Dealbatio, five Leucoſis, relates properly to Coſmeticks, or beautifying things, the whitening any part of the Body, as Face, Teeth, &c.

Dearticulatio, five Abarticulatio, the ſame with Diarthroſis.

Deauratio, the Gilding of Pills to avoid ill Taſtes; alſo the Gilding of Money, Metals, &c.

Debilitas, a weakneſs proceeding from Swooning, Fainting, Hunger, Diſeaſe, or otherwiſe.

Decantatio, the pouring off of any Liquor by inclination of the Veſſel; decanting.

Decidentia, the ſame with Cataptoſis; decay, or tendency to any Diſtemper.

Declinatio Morbi, the Declenſion of a Diſeaſe, is when it recedes from its height, and the Patient is beyond danger, for none die in the declenſion of a Diſeaſe but accidentally. See Acme. Per Declinationem effundere, is when we decant or pour off gently a Liquid out of a Veſſel in order to leave the Dregs behind.

Decoctum and Decoctio; ſee Apozema.

Decompoſitum, the encreaſing of a Compoſition.

Decorticatio, the freeing any thing, as Roots, Seeds, Fruits, &c. from its Bark.

Decrepitatio, is ſaid of common and other ſuchlike Salt, when they are calcin'd by the Fire without Fuſion, becauſe they crackle till the humidity be conſumed.

Decupelatio, the ſame with Decantatio.

Decurſus, denotes the continuance of any Thing, or Time, or Diſeaſe; or otherwiſe it denotes a Courſe or Method of Phyſick.

Decuſſis, the ſame with Denarius.

Decuſſorium, a Chirurgeon's Inſtrument wherewith the Dura Mater being highly preſt, is accurately join'd to the Scull, that the Pus or ſnotty Matter gather'd betwixt the Scull and the Skin call'd Dura Meninx, or Mater, may be evacuated by a hole made with a Chirurgeon's Inſtrument call'd Trepanum.

Defatigatio, Wearineſs, proceeding from hard or long Exerciſe or Labour.

Defectio Animi; ſee Lipothymia.

Defenſivum, any Chirurgical application to defend a Part from ill Symptoms. A Defenſive.

Definitio, is a way of explaining the Eſſence of any thing wherein the Genus, Difference, Subject, and efficient Cauſe is contain'd, which ought to be well underſtood in acquiring the knowledge of the Diſeaſe.

Deflagratio, is a Chymical way of preparing Medicines, by ſetting them on fire; ſuch is the Conflagration of Nitre with Sulphur, and Antimony with Nitre, whence ſuddenly ariſes a Flame.

Deflagratio Febrium; ſee Apyrexia.

Defluvium Capillorum; see Alepecia.

Defluxus, the same as Catarrhus.

Defrutum, Must boil'd to halfs, as Sap to thirds.

Deglutitio, swallowing, is an Animal Action, whereby Meat chew'd in the Mouth, or any thing more liquid, descends into the Stomach by the contraction of the Fibres of the Gullet.

Dejectio, an evacuation of the Excrement by the Peristaltick Motion of the Guts, which is various, as well in state of health as illness; a liquid moderate Consistence, differently colour'd, as white, black, yellow, green.

Dejectoria; see Catoretica.

Delapsio, a falling or bearing down (for instance) of the Womb, Fundament, &c.

Delatio, the same with Indicatio, in as much as it represents to the Physician, either by Simile or the contrary, what he ought to apprehend and do to gain his point.

Deleterium, any venomous thing.

Deligatio, a part of Chirurgery that concerns the binding up of Wounds, Ulcers, broken Bones, &c. and 'tis either simple or compound. The simple is either equal or unequal: the equal is round, which swathes the affected Member without any declension to either side; the unequal is divided into Ascia and Sima, which at least differ on the account of one being greater, and the other less. Ascia declines little from a round, but Sima, much. There are a great many distinctions of swathing, taken from the likeness of the Parts which are swathed, or from certain Animals, and other things. A binding up.

Deliquium Animi, Swooning; this hath its degrees, and is call'd Eclysis, Lipothymia, Lipopsychia, Apopsychia, Syncope, Asphyxia, which are so many Degrees. 'Tis observ'd, that the preceeding Symptoms are Cardialgia, sudden Anxiety, pressure of the Heart, Yawning, murmur in the Gut, heaviness or aching of the Head, noise of the Ears, Darkness and various Colours before the Eyes, chilness of the extream Parts, paleness, and change of Pulse. Secondly, when these appear and encrease, presently follow Falling down, greater paleness and chilness, Pulse small, slow, weak, Respiration small; lastly, interception of Sense and Motion. But in a Syncope the Pulse ceaseth, as also Breathing, and all Motion, cold Sweat, with the discharge of Urine, Excrement, Seed, &c. After the Paroxysm ensue deep Sighs, Languishing, Weakness, Weariness, Sloth. 'Tis often in Fevers, Asthma's, Dropsies, violent Pains, &c. Sometimes 'tis hereditary weak, cachectick, hypochondriack Persons recovering from a long or dangerous Distemper; young Lads, old People, very lean or fat Men easily fall into it; others, from strong Perfumes, sight of offensive things, eating (without knowing it) something they have aversion to, violent Exercise, Passion, Purging, Bleeding, Sweat, great effusion of purulent Matter, Pain, Poison, Biting of venomous Creatures.

Deliquium Chymicum, a Distillation downward, by putting Fire above it; 'tis also a dissolution of calcin'd Matter or Salt into a lixi-

lixivious Matter, in a Cellar or other moist place.

Delirium, a depravation of the Imagination and Judgment, arising from a tumultuary and disorderly motion of the animal Spirits, whereupon those affected speak several absurd and incongruous things, the antecedent Cause whereof lyeth either in the Blood or animal Spirits. There are several Species of it; some who speak little, others doat in their talk, and not only think, but speak things ridiculous, strange, magnificent, and malicious; some again really execute what they think, and that either with laughter, or in great earnest: But all these Orders of doating People are reduced to certain distinctions, mention'd under several denominations by Hippocrates and Galen.

Delphinum, or Flos Regius; 'tis also call'd Consolida Regalis, Larkspur. Juice of the Flowers, and the distill'd Water of this Herb, clear and strengthen the Sight: Some say, looking upon it doth the same, wherefore they always take care to hang it in sight. It is successfully used in Vulnerary Potions; a Decoction of the Flowers in Wine, with a dram of Saffron, openeth Obstructions.

Deltoides, a triangular Muscle like the Greek Δ; it proceedeth from the Chanel-bone, from the upper Process of the same, which is call'd Spiniforme, like a Thorn, and being fasten'd to the middle strong Tendon of the Shoulder, lifts up the Shoulder itself.

Dementia, the same as Anœa, being a sort of Delirium.

Demersio, five Immersio, the putting any Metal into a dissolving Liquor.

Demonstratio, hath been reckon'd rather a Philosophical than a Medicinal Term; but since it signifies a Proof taken from certain and undoubted Evidence, as well from Sense as the Intellect, those Physicians undervalue the Art and themselves who do not think it a proper Term.

Denarius, the seventh part of an ounce. See Aureus.

Dendroides, signifies a Plant like a Tree.

Dendrolibanus, Rosemary.

Dendromalachne, Tree-mallow.

Dendron, a Tree.

Denigratio, Melasmos, is when a Part either contracts a Blackness from external Cold, or when it blackens by a Contusion, (the Blood being extravasated) or from some other external Cause, which often proves the beginning of a gangrenous Putrefaction, or rather a Sphacelus.

Dens Caninus, five Satyrion Erythronium, so call'd because the Leaves of its Flowers resemble a Dog's Tooth.

Dens Leonis, five Taraxicum, a kind of wild Cychory, Dandelyon. 'Tis epatick, and much of the same vertue with Endive. It is also diuretick. See Taraxicum.

Dentagra; see Forfex.

Dentalium, a small, white, and smooth Shell, having an indented Cleft. It is one of the Ingredients in the Unguentum Citrinum.

Dentaria, as Coralloides, so called because its Root is like Teeth and knotty as 'twere, like Coral.

Dentarpaga; see Forfex.

Dentes, the Teeth, are little Bones of both Jaws, fasten'd one within another like ſo many nails. Men are ſaid to have 30, and Women 28; ſo far as they appear above the Gums, there's no Membrane about 'em, otherwiſe they would be worn out by daily grinding. They are not only provided with Veins and Arteries, but with Nerves too, as the great Pains they are ſubject to manifeſtly evince. The 4 foremoſt Teeth are call'd Inciſores by Iſidore, and Tomici by Celſus.

Dentiducum; ſee Forfex.

Dentrificium, a Medicine for whitening, ſcowring, and faſtning the Teeth, and for ſtrengthning the Gums. A Tooth-powder.

Dentium dolor, the ſame with Odontalgia.

Dentillaria, the ſame with Dentaria.

Dentio, the ſame with Dentitio.

Dentiſcalpium, ſignifies not only a Chirurgical Inſtrument to clean the Teeth, but alſo to ſeparate 'em from the Gums.

Dentitio, the time that Children breed Teeth, which is about the 7th Month, or later; uſually the upper Teeth come firſt, in ſome the under, and among theſe the fore-Teeth firſt. Many-times Fevers, Convulſions, Looſneſſes, &c. attend Children in the time of breeding Teeth.

Dento, is a Perſon whoſe Teeth and Mouth ſtick out.

Deoppilantia and Deobſtruentia, Medicines which remove Obſtructions.

Dephlegmatio, an Operation, whereby ſuperfluous Water is ſeparated from a Spirit; and this is done by Diſtillation repeated.

Depilatorium, the ſame with Pſilothron.

Depuratio, a cleanſing, or more properly a ſeparation of the more impure parts from the purer, by Deſpumation and Clarification.

Derivatio, a Means whereby a Humour, purulent Matter, Urine or Blood that flows to one part, but not fix'd there, is drawn away by a neighbouring part.

Derma, the ſame with Cutis, or the Skin.

Deplumatio, the ſame as Ptiloſis, where the Eylids, with their callous Tumor and Hair, fall together. 'Tis a Diſtemper compounded of a Madaruoſis and Sclecopthalmia, but not always accompany'd with a fall of the Hairs.

Deſcenſum, or per deſcenſum diſtillare. See Deliquium.

Deſcenſorium, a Furnace to diſtill per deſcenſum.

Deſcenſus likewiſe is properly meant of the motion of the Body or Humor, in a moderate or more remiſs degree downward, in oppoſition to the aſcending motion. See Catabaſis.

Deſiccatio, an evaporation of ſuperfluous Moiſture by Heat.

Deſiccativum, a Plaiſter or Ointment call'd deſiccative or drying.

Deſipientia, a ſort of Delirium, the ſame with Paraphroſyne.

Deſpumatio, taking the filth off Honey, Syrups, &c. whilſt they are boiling.

Deſquamatio, a ſcaling of Bones in the Caries or Corruption of Bones.

Deſtillatio, an extraction of the moiſt or unctuous Parts, which are rarified into a Miſt or Smoke as 'twere by the force of Fire. Diſtillation is perform'd by a Bladder, or rather a Copper, by the Chymical Inſtrument call'd

Cu-

Cucurbita, (before deſcrib'd) by a Retort, by Deliquium, Filtration, Deſcent, &c. and that either in Balneo Mariæ, Sand, Vapours, Dung, the Sun, or in a Reverberatory, &c.

Deſtillatio, the ſame as Catarrhus.

Deſudatio, denotes a profuſe or inordinate Sweat, which is frequently ſucceeded by Puſtules.

Detergentia à detergere. See Abſtringentia.

Detonatio, Deflagration with noiſe, when ſulphureous Matter being mixt with Nitre, and put to the Fire, burn out on a ſudden with a great noiſe not unlike Gunpowder, as in making Antimonium diaphoreticum, or firing Aurum fulminans, &c.

Deunx, eleven ounces.

Deuteropathia, a Diſeaſe that proceeds from another Diſeaſe; for example, the Headach from the Diſtemper of another Part, the morbifick matter being tranſlated thither from its former Repoſitory.

Dextans, a Weight of ten ounces.

Dia, pro Ex, a Prepoſition before Names of medical Compoſitions, as Diaprunum, i. e. a Compoſition made of Prunes, Diaſena, Diaieros.

Diabetes, ſo Galen calls it, and Ægineta Diapſacus, from the great Thirſt that attends it, from a certain ſort of Serpent call'd Diapſacus, found eſpecially in Libya, which poiſons with its Bite, and brings an unquenchable Thirſt on the Perſon affected. Some call it Matulam inter cutem, aut Urinæ profluvium & ſiphonem. 'Tis an immoderate Flux of Urine, attended with exceſſive Thirſt and Weakneſs of the whole Body; beſides, the Urine, whatever the Patient drinks, is voided again without any alteration. 'Tis a rare Diſtemper, which Galen ſays he has ſeen but twice. The famous Doctor J. van Dueren, and I, obſerv'd it once in a Reverend Paſtor of the Church; and it is too great a Fuſion of the Blood, whereupon the Serum join'd with a violent Thirſt, paſſes the Reins, and is excern'd in great quantity by the Paſſages of the Urine. It proceeds commonly from a too much exalted, or a too acid Ferment in the Reins.

Diabroſis, a Solution of the Continuum by corroding the Parts. A Corroſion.

Diacenos, ſignifieth a hollow fiſtulous Body, not ſuch as is ſimply ſo; 'tis ſpoke of Bodies, ſuch as the Sponge and Pumice-ſtone.

Diachalaſis, ſignifies in particular a looſening or breaking of a Suture.

Diacheiriſmos, is meant of a Preparation of Medicines perform'd with the Hand.

Diachoreſis & Diachorema, the ſeparation of any Excrement.

Diachylon, a Plaiſter ſo call'd made of Juices and Gums.

Diachyſis, is call'd a Liquefaction or Fuſion, and is the alteration or change of a dry Body into a liquid one.

Diacinema, when Bones recede from their Place.

Diaclyſma, a waſhing the Mouth to cleanſe it, or to ſtrengthen the Teeth or Gums: The Waſhes are made of ſeveral Aſtringents, viz. the Herbs Britanica, Tormentil, Bark of Pomegranates, Galls, Alum, lum, Flowers or Bloſſoms of wild Pomegranates, &c.

Diacodium, a Syrup made of Poppy-heads, Roots of Liquorice, Marſhmallows, &c.

Diacolocynthis, a Medicine made of Coloquintida.

Diacope, is call'd by Galen, the Solution of the Continuity in any of the Bones of the Head, occaſion'd by ſome ſharp Inſtrument, or other ſuchlike external Cauſe.

Diacoprægia, a Medicine made of Goats-dung, againſt Tumors in the Spleen, and Glandules behind the Ears, call'd Parotides.

Diacorum, a Confection of Acorum or Calamus Aromaticus, of Meſne's invention.

Diacriſis, a diſtinction and dijudication of Diſeaſes and Symptoms.

Diacrocium, Electuarium de Ovo.

Diacrocu, the Name of a dry Collyry compoſed of Saffron.

Diacritica; ſee Diacriſis.

Diacydonium, a Stomachick Confect of the Juice of Quinces.

Diadoche, a ſucceeding by a Criſis.

Diadoſis, a diſtribution of Nouriſhment thro' all the Parts.

Diæreſis, is a Corroſion or conſuming of Veſſels, as Senertus ſaith, when from ſome acrimonious corroding Cauſe ſome Ways and Paſſages are made which naturally ought not to have been; or when ſome which really are, yet are dilated more than ordinary, ſo that the Humours which ought to have been contain'd in the Veſſels run out: For, firſt, a Diæreſis may be occaſion'd by ſharp Humours that diſſolve the Unity, and cut a Way, which ſharp Medicines will do, if they conſiſt of thick Parts, for thoſe of minute Parts are not corroſive, becauſe they ſtick not long enough. Again, plenty of Humors may occaſion a Diæreſis, by diſtending and burſting the Parts. There are ſeveral evident Cauſes of a Diæreſis, to wit, all thoſe which by contuſion and ſtretching break the contiguity of the Veſſels; ſuch as are vehement Motion, Noiſe, Weight, things that wound, that bruiſe, a Fall, a Leap, and the like; amongſt which you may reckon Wind, which being long pent up, doth ſo forcibly diſtend the Parts of the Body, that it does not only dilate the natural Cavities which contain it, but make new ones when it breaks out, and diſſolves the Unity of the Parts alſo; a Chirurgical Operation, which either by inciſion, burning, perforating, ſhaving, filing, ſawing, or eating, ſolves the Continuity of the Parts. A corroding of the Veſſels.

Diæretica, Medicines that corrode and eat.

Diæta, Diet, a method in ſound Perſons of living moderately; in ſick, a Remedy conſiſting in the right uſe of things neceſſary to Life, and upon that account is either of a thick moderate or thin conſiſtence. The firſt is done by a good quantity of ſolid Meats, and ſuch as afford good Nouriſhment; this ſort of Diet is call'd ſimply full, and was formerly made of whole Barley-corns husk'd and boil'd like Furmety; or 'tis more full and thick, which is done by Pullets Fleſh and poach'd Eggs; or 'tis moſt full, which allows of eating of things gelt: That of a mode-

moderate consistence, is what consists of Meats of a moderate quantity and substance, and was formerly done by Bread sopp'd in Pottage, or with young tender Flesh. That of a thin consistence is what's done by little Nourishment, and that thin and weak, which for the most part is agreeable in acute Diseases; and this is threefold, either simply weak, which was formerly done by the Juice of Ptisane, or more weak, when the Patient drank Water and Honey boil'd together; or weakest of all, when the Patient eat no Meat; but now Diets are not so strictly observ'd as formerly, especially in these Countries.

Diætetica, a part of Physick that prescribes the use and knowledge of six things which are not natural, viz. the Air, Meat and Drink, Exercise and Rest, Sleep Waking, Passion, things to be voided and retain'd; which if they are immoderate, prove the cause of Diseases.

Diagnosis, the knowledg of present Signs, or a Knowledg whereby we understand the present condition of a Distemper; and it is threefold, either a right investigation of the Part affected, of the Disease itself, or of its Cause.

Diagridium; see Scammonium.

Dialeimma, the same with Apyrexia, vel Intermissio, is that Interval wherein the Fever is abated, and is call'd more particularly in Fevers Apyrexia; but in other Diseases that have Intermissions, as the Headach, Epilepsie, Gout, Stone, Dialeimma, from intermitting; it signifies a sincere and pure Remission; for there is in some continued Fevers, a certain Change like a Remission, but not a perfect and full Intermission.

Dialepsis, that middle space in Wounds or Ulcers which is left open for their Cure.

Dialysis, signifies a Dissolution, and sometimes denotes in the Body and its Members a Faintness and Impotency of its proper Functions.

Diapasma, according to Pliny, is a dry Medicine made up of dry Powders, to be sprinkled upon something; as either on Cloaths, to perfume 'em, or upon Ulcers and Wounds several ways; into Drink, to make it more delicious.

Diapedesis, an Eruption of the Blood by reason of the thinness of the Vessels. An Eruption.

Diapegma, a Chirurgeon's Instrument, call'd also Intercolumne.

Diaphanum, that which is transparent, as the Humours of the Eyes, the Tunica Cornea, &c.

Diaphœnicum, a Composition of Dates.

Diaphoresis, five Transpiratio & Sudatio, Sweating, a perspiration of all manner of Effluvia thro' the invisible Pores of the Body.

Diaphragma, or Septum Transversum, and Dissepium, is a transverse Muscle that separates the Thorax or Chest from the Abdomen; in the middle 'tis membranous; the Gullet, the great Artery, and the great hollow Vein all pass thro' it. It conduces to Respiration with other Muscles, and pressing upon the Guts, helps forward the Secretion of the Excrement. The Midriff or Diaphragm.

Diaphrattontes, Membranes called Pleura, which cover the inside of of the Thorax, and leave a kind of Partition in the middle, call'd Mediaſtinum.

Diaphthora, a Corruption of any part of the Body.

Diaphyſis, Interſtitium, an interval, diviſion, or ſpace betwixt. Paræus will have it the 3d Ligament, whereby the Bone of the Tibia is articulated with the Thigh-bone. 'Tis underſtood of the Stalk by which the Fruit of the Tree ſticks and hangs to the Branch.

Diaplaſis, the ſetting of a Limb which is out of Joint or broken.

Diaplaſma, an Ointment of fomentation.

Diapnoe, the ſame with Diaphoreſis.

Diapyema, the ſame with Empyema.

Diapyetica, Medicines that ripen the Pus, or groſs ſlimy matter.

Diaria febris, the ſame as Ephemera.

Diarrhœa, a looſneſs in the Belly which ejects ſeveral bilious, pituitous, and other fæculent Excrements, without Pain, Blood, or any purulent Matter. 'Tis fivefold, 1. Gravis, attended with a Tumor, Anxiety, and exceſſive Weakneſs of the whole Body. 2. Seroſa, when they void only a ſerous watery Matter, which oft happens in Conſumptions, Dropſies, Scurvys, or ſuch as have taken a great Cold in their Feet. 3. Maligna, which happens in the Plague, malignant Fevers, Small-pox. 4. Critica, which happens to give eaſe in, or carry off certain Diſtempers, and is often proficuous to healthy Perſons. 5. Hypercatharſis, ſive Superpurgatio, i.e. a Looſeneſs, occaſion'd by too ſtrong a Purge or Vomit.

Diarthroſis, ſive Abarticulatio & Coarticulatio, ſeu Dearticulatio, a good Conſtitution of the Bones, whereby they are apt to move eaſily and ſtrongly; ſuch as is in the Arm, Hand, Thigh, Foot, &c. See Articulatio.

Diaſpermaton, the Name of a Topical Medicine, or Malagma ſo call'd that is made of Seeds, eſpecially Fenugreke. Sometimes it denotes an internal Remedy of Seeds that has a Narcotick Vertue.

Diaſphyxis, ſignifies a Pulſation of the Arteries.

Diaſtaſis, in general, diſtance, dimenſion, in breadth, length, and depth, and ſometimes means Interſtitia, Interſtices.

Diaſtole, the Dilatation of the Heart, when the Blood flows into it from the place where it is accended, viz. the Lungs.

Diateretica, part of the Art of preſerving Health, which is various according to the Age and Conſtitution of Men; ſee Diæta.

Diateſſarum, a Medicine compounded of four Ingredients, viz. Roots of Gentian, round Birthwort, Myrrh, Bay-berries, made up into an Electuary with Honey.

Diatheſis, the natural or preternatural Diſpoſition of the Body, whereby we are inclin'd to perform the natural Actions, ill or well.

Diazoma, the ſame with Diaphragma, or Septum Tranſverſum.

Dichophyia, a fault in the Hair, when it parts.

Dicrotus, a Pulſe which beats twice, or double.

Dictamnum, and Dictamnus, it hath all the Vertues that Penny-royal hath, but 'tis much more effectual, for it expels a dead Child, not only by taking of it inwardly, but alſo by outward application, by Fumigation. It is ſaid, that the Goats in Crete, when they are wounded by Darts, extract them, and ſo are cur'd by feeding on it. It has moreover a purgative Quality, being applied to the Soles of the Feet, or any other part of the Body, it draws out Thorns; it alſo eaſes the Pain of the Spleen; the Root of it taſtes hot, and haſtens Delivery; and ſo great is the Vertue of this Herb, that the ſmell of it drives away venomous Creatures, and kills them if they but touch it; the Juice of it applied to Wounds made by a Sword, or by the biting of a venomous Creature, is a preſent Remedy, if at the ſame time it be alſo taken inwardly. Hippocrates counts it the beſt Remedy to expel the Secundine, and a falſe Conception; being taken in Wine, it provokes the Courſes, and haſtens Delivery ſo powerfully, that it ought not to be kept in the Chamber, or near where big-bellied Women are. A Woman that was in a deſperate Condition, by reaſon of a dead Child, was ſoon deliver'd, by taking the Powder of the Leaves of this Herb.

not

Dictyoides, that is, Retiformis, Reticularis, the weaving and contexture of the Branches & Sprigs of the Carotid Artery at the Baſis of the Cerebrum, otherwiſe call'd the Retemirabile. The Corpus Reticulare is the common Integument lying under the Cuticle diſtinct from it, to which the Nervous Pupillæ join by reaſon of the Senſe of feeling.

Didymi, Twins. Alſo the Teſticles.

Dies Critici; ſee Critici Dies.

Digaſtricus, five Graphoides, a double-bellied Muſcle, which ariſes from the Proceſs, call'd Mammiformis, or like a Teat, and ends in the inner middle part of the Chin, drawing it downwards.

Digerentia, or Præparantia, thoſe things which change the qualities of fermenting Heat, which reſiſt Action. Digeſtiva, or Digeſtives, are ſuch Ointments or Liquids as promote Suppuration in Wounds or Ulcers.

Digeſtio Chymica, a Chymical Digeſtion, when Tinctures, Infuſions, are by the help of a conſtant moderate Heat refin'd and exalted ſo, that the groſſer part and Crudities be attenuated, and the dregs caſt down to the bottom. This is done either in warm Sand, Horſe-dung, or a Digeſtion-furnace.

Digitalis, Fox-glove, 'tis vomitive; the Country People in Somerſetſhire purge and vomit the Sick in Fevers with it. It is very good in the Falling-ſickneſs, if you take 2 handfuls of it, with 4 Ounces of Polypody of the Oak, and boil them in Beer, and then drink it; for ſome has been cur'd by this Decoction, that have had the Falling-ſickneſs above 20 Years, and that uſed to have 2 or 3 Fits every Month; but this Medicine muſt be given only to ſtrong People, for it purges and vomits violently. Being bruiſed, and applied to the King's-Evil, or the Juice of it made into an Ointment, does much good; ſome confide very much in the Flowers, in King's-Evil Swellings; they put a great many of them into May-butter, and ſet them in the Sun; others mingle them with Lard, and put them under-ground for 40 Days, then ſpread the Ointment on a Cloth, and apply them to the ſwelling, and purge every ſixth Day, and in the mean while uſe continually a Decoction of the Herb Robert; with the thin part of the Ointment they anoint the red part of the ſwelling, the thickeſt they uſe on a Cloth; a large quantity of this Ointment ought to be provided, for ſometimes it is a Year and more before the Cure is perfect. This Ointment is chiefly of uſe in moiſt Ulcers of the King's-Evil.

and

Digeſtiva; ſee Digerentia.

Digitus, a Finger or Toe in the Hand; they are call'd the Thumb, Fore-finger, Middle-finger, Ring-finger, and Little-finger.

Digloſſon, ſee Hypogloſſum. 'Tis alſo call'd Laurus Alexandrina, and Biſlingua.

Dilatatio, when any Paſſages or Receptacles in the Body are too much diſtended, as in Veins that ſwell with melancholy corrupt Blood in the Temples, Legs, &c.

Dilatatorium, a Surgeon's Inſtrument, wherewith the Womb or its Mouth is dilated or open'd. It is call'd likewiſe Speculum & Dioptra, becauſe by it one may ſee into the Mouth, or the Womb.

Diluentia, ſuch things as dilute the Blood, as Drinkables in a conſiderable quantity, Coffee, Tea.

Dilutum, is properly what is mixt; ſo Wine mixt with Water is call'd Dilutum. But the Subſtantive Dilutum ſignifies a Liquor, wherein ſomething is for ſome time infuſed and macerated. Thus, if you put Wormwood into a Veſſel with Wine, and after ſome time draw it off, it ſhall be call'd a diluted Wormwood-wine; it is the ſame with Infuſio.

Dinica, Medicines againſt a Vertigo.

Dinus, the ſame with Vertigo.

Diobolon, or Gramma, 1 Scruple.

Dionycia; ſee Hedera.

Dioptra, is the ſame with Speculum Matricis, or Dilatatorium, an Inſtrument uſed to extend the Womb, in the Delivery of a dead Child, or an Exulceration of that Part. See Speculum Matricis.

Diorthoſis, a Chirurgical Operation, whereby crooked Bodies or Members are reduc'd to their due State.

Diota, a Veſſel that ſurrounds a thing, ſo call'd from its two Ears, which environ both Arms, applied comprehended Gargariſmata & Apophlegmatiſmus. See Collutio.

Dipcadi, Tipcadi, a ſort of Hyacinth.

Diphryges, a ſort of Droſs that comes from melted Braſs, when it is waſh'd with cold Water.

Diplaſiaſmus, a Reduplication of Diſeaſes. Alſo 2 Muſcles of the Arm, which ſerve to turn it about.

Diploe, the lower thin Plate or Shell of the Scull. Alſo a double Veſſel uſual with Chymiſts, when they put a Veſſel fill'd with Water into another of Aſhes.

Diploma, the ſame with Diploe, or Diplois. Sometimes it is taken for a complicated or folded Cloth.

Dipſacus, the ſame as Diabetes.

Dipſacus, ſeu Labrum Veneris, ſeu Virga Paſtoris, Teaſel, the Roots of it boil'd in Wine, cure Ulcers of the Fundament, call'd Rhagades and Warts. The Water that is receiv'd into the Hollowneſs of the Leaves is good for Inflamations of the Eyes, it alſo takes off ſpots from from the Face, and beautifies it; boil'd in Wine, it purges by Urine.

Diptamnum; see Dictamnum.

Discretorium; the same with Diaphragma.

Discrimen, a sort of Bandage which is used in Bleeding in the Forehead and Temples.

Discutientia, Discutients, such Medicaments as dissolve impacted Humours by their subtil Particles.

Dislocatio, the same as Luxatio.

Dispensatio; so Apothecaries term it, when the Simples of a Composition are dispensed in order, lest any of the Ingredients should be forgotten.

Dispensatorium, a Dispensatory, a Book useful for Apothecaries, wherein all Medicines, at least the most useful, are contain'd and prescrib'd, by the Society of practising Physicians in each Place, as London, Amsterdam, that they may be prepar'd in the Shops all the Year round.

Dispositio, an habit whereby we are well or ill dispos'd to perform an Action: see Diathesis.

Dissepтum, the same with Diaphragma.

Dissimilares Partes, Dissimilar Parts, are such as can be divided into various Parts, different from one another; as the Hand into Veins, Muscles, Bones, &c.

Dissolventia; see Discutientia.

Dissolutio; is when Metals, Stones, Salts, Gums, or other Matters, are dissolv'd in Spirit of Wine, or any other Liquor; or when Bodies are dissolv'd into their Principles by Chymistry; as also when Electuaries and Powders are mingl'd and dissolv'd in Water, or a Decoction.

Distentio, when Parts are puffed up, dilated, or relax'd by any thing, as the Guts by Wind, rais'd from Effervences within them, whence Oppressions and Pains frequently proceed.

Distichia and Distichiasis, a double Row of Hairs on the Eyelids. Item, a continual flux of Tears.

Distichum, the lesser Barley.

Distorsio, when Parts are ill plac'd, or ill figur'd.

Distributio Chyli, the Chyle is distributed when, after a due Fermentation in the Stomach and the Guts, it soaks into the little Teats in the Intestines (which Dr. Willis calls the Glandulous Tunick) and passing thro' the Lacteal Veins, and its proper Channel, call'd thence the Ductus Chyliferus, along the side of the Thorax, at last falls into the Subclavian Vein, that it may circulate with the Blood, and receive its colour. Or when the Blood from the Heart, and the Nervous Juice from the Head is distributed thro' the whole Body.

Diuresis, a Secretion of the Urine by the Reins, which is done after this manner: There are little Glandules plac'd near the Emulgent Arteries, wherewith the Serum is separated from the Blood, and is convey'd by little Channels (of which the Substance of the Reins does principally consist) to the Caruncula Papillares, little pappy pieces of Flesh, thence to the Pelvis, the Bason, thence to the Ureters, thence to the Bladder, and so out of doors.

Diuretica, five Uretica; those Medicines which by parting and dissolving the Blood, do precipitate the Serum, by the Reins, to the Bladder.

Dodecadactylum, five Duodenum, the the first of the small Guts, beginning from the Pylorus of the Stomach, and ending where the Gut Jejunum begins. It is so call'd, as if it were the length of 12 Fingers, which yet is never observ'd in any Men amongst us; perhaps the Ancients mistook from inspecting the Guts of some Brutes, or understood the length of 12 Fingers breadth.

Dodecapharmacum, is a Composition of 12 Simples, as the Apostles Ointment.

Dodrans, nine Ounces; as also a Measure of 12 Fingers length, and is call'd by the Latins, Palmus Major.

Dogmatica Medicina, or Rational. Hippocrates was its first Author, and after him Galen; who both added Reason to Experience.

Dogmatici, Physicians that seek Reason for their Experience.

Dolichos, is Smilax Hortensis, or Phaseolus.

Dolium, the same with Lolium.

Dolor, Pain, the same as Algema. It has various Epithets, according to its different Natures; so 'tis call'd Algens, if attended by a Cold; Gravaticus, when it makes the Head, or any other part, heavy and lumpish; Pungens, when it is very acute and excessive; Ostococus, is call'd the Pain in the Bones; Stupidus, a Pain that is scarce perceptible; and Tensivus, when it is accompanied with a Tension, or drawing Pain. It also borrows its Name from the affected Parts; as the Pain in several Parts of the Head is call'd Cephalalgia, Cephalæa, Hemicrania, Crapula, &c. In the Joints it is call'd Arthriticus Dolor; in the Kidneys, Nephriticus; and Colicus in the Belly.

Donax, the same with Calamus.

Doria Herba, a sort of Solidago Saracenica.

Doronicum, a sort of Aconite.

Dorsum, or Tergum, the Back, is the hinder part of the Thorax; the Dorsum Manus, or Pedis, the back of the Hand or Foot, is their outside.

Dosis, a set quantity of Physick, or as much as is given at once. A Dose of Physick.

Dothien, an hard Swelling, as big as a Pigeon's Egg, accompanied with a grievous Pain, and proceeding from thick Blood; the same with Furunculus.

Draba. See Arabis.

Drachma, relates properly both to Weight and Measure, and was formerly divided into the Athenian and Egyptian. The last only weigh'd an Obolus, or half a Scruple; but the first 3 Scruples, or 6 Oboli; and so it continues now in the Shops. A Dram is the 8th part of an Ounce, and contains 3 Scruples.

Draco Herba, Tarragon, call'd also formerly Tarcon, Tarchon, Tragum, & Tragium; 'tis frequently used in Sallads to correct cold Herbs and the Crudities of 'em; 'tis good for those that have cold Stomachs; it provokes Appetite, and expels Wind; it provokes Urine, and the Courses, and opens Obstructions; being chew'd, it evacuates Flegm, and so eases the pain of the Teeth, 'tis also Sudorifick.

Draco Arbor, and Draconis Sanguis, is the same with Lapathum rubrum, Dragon-blood; 'tis an Exotick Tree, from whence distils a Gum or Rosin of a deep-red Colour, which being held to the Fire soon ſoon melts, and if it be caſt upon the Fire it flames; if it be rub'd upon any thing, it makes it red, but it mixes difficultly with Oil and Water; 'tis of an aſtringent Vertue, and is frequently us'd in the Bloody-flux, and for other Fluxes, for ſpitting of Blood, and to ſettle the Teeth when they are looſe. Dragon's-blood comes from one of the Canary Iſlands, call'd Portus Sanctus, near the Maderas.

Draconthæma, the ſame as Sanguis Draconis.

Dracontia, Dracontium, and Dracunculus, Colubrina, and Serpentaria, Dragon's-wort; 'tis hot and dry, aſtringent, and of an acrid taſte; 'tis ſomething of the nature of Cuckoopintle; 'tis good in Coughs, Catarrhs, and Convulſions. The Leaves are good for Ulcers, and venomous Bitings; the diſtil'd Water is good in the Plague, and other peſtilential Fevers.

Dracunculus, the ſame with Dracontia.

Dracunculus, an Ulcer which eats thro' a Nerve it ſelf. Alſo a long ſort of Earth-worm, white, plain, but not very broad; which frequently grows to Indians Legs.

Drageta, the ſame with Tragea.

Dragma, the ſame as Manipulus.

Dragmis, the ſame as Pugillus.

Draſtica, are the moſt excellent Medicines.

Dropaciſmus, that wherewith all the External Members being extenuated or looſen'd, cold and moiſt, are anointed, and 'tis either Simple or Compound. The Simple is made of a little Pitch melted with Oil. The Compound, beſides that, has Pepper, wild Pellitory, Brimſtone, and Roſemary-ſeed in it; and if there be occaſion for drying, they add Natural Brimſtone as 'tis dug out of the Earth, Salt, and the Aſhes of Vine-branches. But if it be to Vellicate, then you muſt add Euphorbium, (a Tree firſt found by King Juba) it is made up in different forms, ſometimes like an Emplaſtrum, other times like a Cataplaſm.

Dropax, the ſame as Dropaciſmus.

Droſomeli; ſee Manua.

Drus, quercus, or an Oak.

Drypepes, Oliva.

Dryopteris, a ſort of Fern.

Drypes, a thorny Plant.

Ductus Adipoſi. See Saculi Adipoſi.

Ductus Bilarius. See Porus Bilarius.

Ductus Chyliferus, a Veſſel in the lower part whereof all the Lacteal Veins, and many Lymphe-ducts, are terminated. It ariſes about the Glandule of the Kidney on the left ſide, and aſcending along the Thorax near the great Artery, ends at the Subclavian Vein on the left ſide. It is furniſh'd with ſeveral Valves, that the Matter which aſcends by it may not fall down again. Betwixt the fourth and ſixth Vertebre it is variouſly forked, as Nature hath been pleaſed to ſport. Its uſe is to convey the Chyle and the Lympha from the lower parts to the Heart. The Thoracick Duct.

Ductus Hygroblephari, are certain ſmall Veſſels which diſcharge the Lymphatick Juice under the Eyelids, to keep the Eyes always moiſt.

Ductus Hygrophthalmici: the ſame with Ductus Hygroblephari.

Ductus Lachrymales, by which the Water which moiſtens the Eyes is convey'd into the Nose.

Ductus Pancreaticus, is a little Channel which arises from the Pancreas or Sweet-bread, which is inserted into the Guts near or not far off the Passage which conveys the Bile, it runs with a Lymphatick Juice, which it discharges into the Gut Duodenum, to ferment and volatilize the Meat from the acid Ferment of the Stomach and the mixture of Gall. The Learned Dr. Graaf knew how to get a Juice out of it that was something Acid, tho' other Physicians doubt of it, and of certain Diseases which the Excellent Sylvius attributes to the Effervescence of this acid Pancreatick Juice with the Gall in the Duodenum; but we affirm, that there is sometimes an acid Juice found in it, and often a salt and austere (but frequently an insipid) volatile Liquor. See my Anatomy Reform'd, Cap. 11. l. 1. The Pancreatick Duct.

Ductus Roriferus, so the Noble Bilsius calls it; the same with Ductus Chyliferus.

Ductus Salivares, or Salivarii, Passages which, proceeding from the Maxillary Glandules, go as far as the Jaws and sides of the Tongue, where they emit the Juice we call Spittle, which conduces to the better chewing and swallowing of solid Meat, and something to its Fermentation too. The Salival Ducts.

Ductus Thoracicus; see Ductus Chyliferus.

Ductus Umbilicalis; see Funiculus Umbilicalis.

Ductus Urinarius, the same with Ureter and Urethra.

Ductus Versungianus, the same with Ductus Pancreaticus.

Duella, an ancient Weight of 8 Scruples, or the third part of an Ounce.

Dulcamara, or Glycypicris, woody Nightshade or Bitter-sweet; 'tis said to provoke Urine, and to be good in a Dropsy, and for the Jaundice. The Juice of the Leaves, says Parkinson, purges much; the Leaves are used outwardly with good Success in Inflamations, and itching Humours of the Hands and Feet.

Dulcedo Amoris. See Amoris Dulcedo, and Clitoris.

Dulcoratio: see Edulcoratio.

Duodenum Intestinum, the same with Dodecadactylon.

Dupondium, the Weight of four Drams, or half an Ounce.

Dura Mater. See Mater Dura.

Dynamis, signifies a Faculty or Power from which an Action proceeds; a term very useful in Physick. Or it is so describ'd that it is the Propriety of the whole Substance or Essence. So in the Semen 'tis call'd the Vis Plastica, or forming Faculty, which is the same with the Vegetative Soul.

Dysæsthesia, a difficulty of, or fault in Sensation.

Dyscinesia, an Inability or difficulty to move.

Dyscrasia, an unequal mixture of Elements in the Blood, or Nervous Juice.

Dysecoia, Dulness of Hearing.

Dyselses, one who is troubled with Ulcers that are very hard to be cur'd.

Dysenteria, a Looseness, accompanied with Gripings in the Belly, wherein bloody and purulent Excrements, and membranous pieces of the Intestines too are excern'd, al-always or very frequently attended with a continual Fever, and a Drought; when the Patient voids frequently a mucilaginous Matter, 'tis call'd the White Dysentery, or Bloody-flux. It is sometimes Epidemical; as in the time of Plagues, or in the Army.

Dysepulotica, are very malignant Ulcers beyond Cure.

Dysodes, any thing that smells ill, as Excrements.

Dysorexia, want of Appetite, proceeding from an ill Disposition of Juices in the Stomach.

Dysspathia, an Impatient Temper.

Dyspepsia, a Difficulty of Digestion, or Fermentation in the Stomach and Guts, whereupon the Nourishment is often turn'd into Acidity, and smells ill.

Dysphonia, a difficulty of Speech, from an ill Disposition of the Organs.

Dysphoria, an Impatience in Suffering.

Dyspnœa, a difficulty of breathing, which proceeds from vitiated, obstructed or irritated Organs. It is distinguish'd in an Asthma and Orthopnœa, differing only in Degrees. Of each in its proper place.

Dystherapeuta, Diseases of difficult Cure.

Dysthymia, a Sickness of the Mind.

Dystocia, a difficulty of bringing forth, or a preternatural Birth; as when the Fœtus comes forth obliquely, transverse, or with its Feet foremost; or when the Passages are straiten'd by Inflamation, or otherwise; or when the Fœtus is very large, weak, fat, or dead. A difficult Birth, or hard Labour.

Dysuria, a difficulty of Urine, proceeding from an ill disposition of the Organs, or from an Obstruction of them by the Stone, Gravel, or viscous clammy Humours, accompanied with an heat of the Urine.

E

Ebenum, and Ebenus, or Hebenus, the Ebony-tree; it is the hardest, heaviest, and blackest Tree that is.

Ebiscus, the same with Hibiscus; see Althæa.

Ebullitio, a Boiling, a Rarefaction of Liquids by Fire, or bubbling up; as when an Alcali and an Acid are mix'd, and produce an Effervescence.

Ebulus, Dwarf-Elder, or Danewort; 'tis said to have the same Vertues with Elder, but they are stronger. The Bark and Seeds purge Water, wherefore they are good in Dropsies, and other Diseases arising from watry Humours; the Root likewise purges very strongly; the Leaves of it, as well as those of Elder, applied to Burns, cure them.

Ecbolica, Medicines which help the Delivery in hard Labour; also Medicines that cause Abortions.

Eccathartica. See Cathartica.

Ecchyloma, the same with Extractum.

Ecchymoma; five Ecchymosis; Marks and Spots in the Skin, from the Extravasation of Blood.

Ecchymosis, the same with Ecchymoma.

Eccliſis, signifies Declination, an Emotion or Removal of the Bone from its situation; or a Luxation.

Eccope, the same as Extirpatio.

Eccoprotica, the same with Cathartica.

Eccrimocritica, Signs from particular Excretions.

Eccrisis, a Secretion of Excrements.

Ecdora, Excoriation in general, particularly an Excoriation of the Urethra.

Ecdorios, Medicines that have a Caustick Quality, that burn or exulcerate the Skin.

Echidnium, is a Diminutive of Echium.

Echinomelocactos, is an Indian Plant, call'd also Melocarduus.

Echinophthalmia, an Inflamation of the Eyelids.

Echinopoda, is Genista.

Echium, and Viperina, Vipers Bugloss.

Eclegma, or Linctus, which the Arabians call Loch, and Lohoch, others Illinctus, is a Medicine applied inwardly, of a middle Consistence, between a Syrup and an Opiate, made up of several Pectorals against the Distempers of the Throat and Lungs.

Eclipsis, a Defection of Spirit.

Eclysis, when the Strength is a little decay'd, proceeding from a want of sufficient warmth, and spirits in the Body. See Deliquium Animi.

Ecpepiesmenos, Protuberans, speaking of Ulcers, the Lips of which are protulerant and bunch out.

Ecphracticum, a Medicine good against Obstructions.

Ecphraxis, a taking away of Obstructions in any part, by opening and cutting Medicines.

Ecphysesis, a breathing thick or very fast.

Ecphysis, a Process that coheres with the Bone; see Apophysis. It signifies also as much as the Duodenum.

Ecpiesma, a Juice squeez'd out, also Dregs which remain of any thing that is squeez'd. Likewise a Fracture of the Scull, wherein the broken Parts press upon the Meninges or Skins of the Brain.

Ecpiesmus, is a Prominence, but particularly a very great Protuberance of the Eyes.

Ecplexis, a Fright or Stupor.

Ecpneumatosis; see Expiratio.

Ecptosis, the same with Luxatio and Excidentia.

Ecpyctica, condensing Medicines; see Incrassantia.

Ecpyema, the same as Empyema.

Ecpyesis; see Ecpyema.

Ecrhythmus, a Pulse which observes no method nor number, incident to any Age. An irregular Pulse.

Ecsarcoma, the same with Hypersarcosis.

Ecstasis, an Ecstasy, is a Commotion of the Mind; sometimes attended with Silence, sometimes with a furious Frenzy, continual waking, or continual sleeping. It is also applied to those who fancy themselves to be carried into Heaven. A Trance.

Ectasis, is an Extension of the Skin both in length and breadth.

Ectexis, Colliquation, Fusion, wherein the Stasis of the Blood is broke, and a Consumption follows.

Ecthlimma, an Ulceration arising from a violent Compression on the Surface of the Skin.

Ecthymata, Pimples, or certain breakings-out in the Skin, as in the Small-pox, &c. Pimples, Pustules.

Ectillotica, Medicines which con-consume callous Parts, and pull out Hairs.

Ectome, the same as Extirpatio.

Ectomos, an Eunuch, or one castrated.

Ectrapelogastros, a Person having a monstrous Belly.

Ectropium, a growing of the Eyelids, when the lower is shorter than the upper.

Ectrotica, Medicines that cause Abortion.

Ectylotica, Medicines which consume callous Parts.

Eczemata, red-hot and burning Pimples. Some take Hydroa for Eczema, but it is a mistake.

Edulcoratio, and Dulcoratio, the washing of things that are calcined from their Salts, with fair Water, but chiefly with hot Water, to make 'em sweet, because the Salt is taken away by the Water: Or when Potions are sweetned with Sugar or Syrups.

Effectus, every thing is call'd so which depends or is produc'd from another, as from its Cause; variety of Effects may depend on one Cause, from the disposition of Matter; as the Sun hardens the Earth, and melteth Wax.

Effervescentia ab Effervence, an intestine motion of Particles of different Nature and Qualities; as an Acid and Alkali dissolv'd in or mixt with Water, tending to their mutual destruction; sometimes attended with Heat and a Flame, as is unquench'd Lime, Hay laid up moist, Chymical mixtures, &c. An Effervescency.

Efficacia, the same with Dunamis, Vertue, Power, or Quality of doing any Action; so a Medicine is call'd Efficacious.

Efforatio, or Efflorescentia, the same with Exanthema.

Effluvium, the same with Aporrhœa.

Egestio, the same with Dejectio.

Ejectio, the same with Dejectio.

Eispnoe, the same as Inspiratio.

Elæa, an Olive-tree.

Elæagnus, is Agnus Castus, but is applied also to diverse other Shrubs.

Eleosaccharum, is a distill'd Oil and Sugar mix'd together.

Elæoselinum, or Eleoselinum, is Apium.

Elaphoboscum, is Allium Cervinum.

Elastica Vis, an Explosion of animal Spirits, as is frequently in Cramps, Convulsions, &c. also an intestine Commotion of the Air. An Elastick Force.

Elate, is Abies.

Elaterium, the Juice of wild Cucumbers made up in a thick and hard Consistence; also any Medicine that purges the Belly.

Elatine, is by some counted Veronica, by others a sort of Helxine.

Elctica; see Attrahentia.

Elcus; see Helcus.

Eleagnus, the same with Elæagnus.

Electrum, the same with Succinum, Amber; which is no other than a bituminous Juice, or Rosin of the Earth and Plants well digested together, then cast into the Sea, and there concreted.

Electuarium, a Confection of simple Ingredients, Paps or Pithes, Gums mixt with Syrup or Honey, of a consistence like a Conserve; and 'tis either Simple or Compound; the Simple consists only of the Pith of Cassia, Tamarinds, or Prunes; but the Compound for the most part of several Simple Ingredients, Pulps, condensated Juices, Gums, &c. made up with Honey or Syrup. Electuaries are digestive, loosening, purging, strengthening, alexipharmick, &c.

Elimenta, or Principia, are the simplest Bodies that can be, which are neither made of one another, nor of any thing else of which all things are made, and into which they are ultimately resolv'd: Some say there are five Elements, Spirit, Salt, Sulphur, and Mercury, or Water and Earth. Others make but three, viz. Salt, Sulphur, and Mercury, but not so well. The Peripateticks reckon four, Fire, Air, Water, and Earth, but all those Elements are compounded of others; wherefore to say that any thing consists thereof, is as if one should say a Tree is compounded of a Root, Trunk, Branches, Leaves, Flowers, &c. Des-Cartes comes nearest to the Mark when he supposes a first, second, and third Elementary Matter, viz. that which casteth forth Light, that which transmits, and that which reflects it. [See our Treatise of Fermentation.] The first Principles or Elements.

Elemi, is a Gum, or Rosin, or pellucid Tear, whitish mixt with yellow Particles, reduced into a mass of an odoriferous scent. It comes from Æthiopia, where it flows from a Tree suppos'd by some to be an Olive-tree, others a Cedar, and others another Tree.

Elemni, the same with Elemi.

Eleochryson, and Heleochryson, is Ageratum & Tiniaria, vel Elichryse.

Eleoselinum, the same with Elæoselinum.

Eleosaccharum, distil'd Oil mixt with Sugar. See Elæosaccharum.

Elephantiasis Arabum (of which the Greeks speak nothing, but the Arabians frequently) is a-kin to a Varix, or crooked Swelling in the Veins, and proceedeth from thence, but is a Tumor properly in the Feet. Avicenna treats of this Distemper, where he speaks of the Varices; yet Rhases differs from him; and Haly Abbas differs from the Greeks, who says, that an Elephas is a Disease which corrupts all the Members of the Body, and is as it were an universal Cancer; but neither is he consistent with himself when he writes that Ulcers in the Legs and Feet are call'd Elephas, and that Elephanticus Morbus is an Apostume proceeding from Melancholy in the Legs and Feet; and a sign of it is, that the shape of the Foot is like the figure of an Elephant. All the rest treat separately of a Leprosie, and an Elephantia, and make the latter to be a Swelling of the Feet, proceeding from Melancholy and pituitous Blood, and the crooked swelling of the Veins, whereby the Feet resemble the Feet of an Elephant in shape and thickness; and this sort of Tumor is often seen in Beggars who wander much.

Elephantiasis Græcorum, which the Arabians call a Leprosy: 'Tis call'd also Elephas, Elephantasis, and Elephantia, from an Elephant, as some think, because it maketh People big, like an Elephant; which is a foolish Notation of the Word, for the Body is no bigger, tho' the Disease be. Others think it so call'd because the Distemper lying in the Legs, makes 'em stiff and unequal, like an Elephant, or becauſe 'tis a ſtrong vehement Diſeaſe like an Elephant, with ſuchlike Stuff. Galen, in his 14th Chapter of Tumors, ſays, This Diſeaſe is call'd Satyriaſmus when it firſt begins, becauſe it maketh the Face like that of a Satyr; for the Lips are thick, the Noſe ſwells, the Ears decay, the Jaws are red, the Forehead is ſet with Tumors like ſo many Horns. Tho' others think 'tis call'd Satyriaſmus becauſe the Perſons affected are much inclin'd to Lechery at the beginning, as Satyrs are. Celſus deſcribes it thus: The whole Body (ſays he) is ſo affected, that the very Bones may be ſaid to be corrupted; the upper parts of the Body are full of Spots and Tumors, the redneſs whereof is gradually turn'd into black; the top of the Skin is unequally thick, thin, hard, ſoft, rough, as if it had Scales on it; the Body decays, the Bone, Calves of the Legs, and Feet ſwell: When the Diſeaſe is old and inveterate the Toes and Fingers are hid in the Swelling, and a ſmall Fever ariſes, which eaſily conſumes a Man loaden with ſo many Infirmities.

and

Elephantiaſis, ſive Lepra & Leproſis, is a cutaneous Diſtemper, appearing firſt of all with Puſtules in the Face, Forehead, Breaſt, Arms, about the Hips. They are of a blewiſh colour, like a Canker, but without pain. 2*dly*, Suchlike Puſtules appear on the Tongue, and in the Throat. 3*dly*, Theſe Exulcerations are broad, but not deep, never reaching below the Skin, but their Extremities or Edges are hard; they are moſt frequently on the Fingers, Toes, and Joints; and if they are remov'd from one place, they break out in another. 4*thly*, By degrees they ſeize alſo on the Noſe, which is often eat up, Bones and all, and at laſt fix on the Palate and Windpipe. 5*thly*, There is a Swelling near the Extremity of the Noſe and Ears. 6*thly*, The Eye-apple is cover'd with a Skin. 7*thly*, The Skin is very rough and chapt in many places, and covered with Scales. 8*thly*, The Hairs fall off, the Nails grow crooked, like the Talons of Birds of Prey. The Muſcles appropriated to Inſpiration loſe part of their uſe, by reaſon of the many Exulcerations, and in proceſs of time the ſanguiferous Veſſels are ſo ſtraitned, that when you prick 'em with a Pin no Blood enſues, but you may ſee a purulent Matter. The Leproſy.

Elevator, the ſame with ——

Elevatorium, ſo call'd from lifting up, is a Chirurgeon's Inſtrument wherewith Sculls that are depreſt are raiſed up again.

Elichryſon, the ſame with Eleochryſon.

Elixatio, when things are ſoftned with boiling.

Elixir, ſo call'd from the Arabick Word Elecſchir, or Elieſchir, or Eleſchis, is the Eſſence of any thing extracted with the Spirit of Wine, or ſomething of that nature; the ſame with a Tincture.

Eleborus, or Helleborum, ſeu Veratrum, Helebore. The Root of white Helebore, uſed only in Phyſick, purges very violently upward and downward; yet it may be uſed, ſaith Tragus, being infuſed 24 hours in Wine or Oxymel, and then dry'd; half a dram of it ſo prepar'd may be given in Wine to mad and melancholy People; but either of the Helebores, ſays Geſner, may be uſed inoffenſively being boil'd to a Syrup with Honey and Vinegar, and are very uſeful for many flegmatick Diſeaſes, eſpecially of the Head and Breaſt, as an Aſthma, difficulty of breathing, and the Falling-ſickneſs; they wonderfully purge the Belly, the Urine, and all the Paſſages. In the uſe of white Helebore two things are chiefly to be obſerv'd, 1*ſt*, That the Diſeaſes are obſtinate; and, 2*dly*, That the Patient hath ſufficient Strength to bear the Operation; therefore the Root ought not to be given to old Men, Women, or Children, or to ſuch as are weakly and coſtive in their Bodies; and the Helebore ought to be well prepar'd. The Root boil'd in Vinegar, and held in the Mouth, takes off the pain of the Teeth; a Decoction of it made in Lee, kills Lice, and cleanſes the Head from Scurf, it being waſh'd with it, and cures the Itch, and other Vices of the Skin; Powder of it blown up the Noſtrils, occaſions Sneezing, wherefore it is call'd in Engliſh Sneezwort. Parkinſon ſays, the Spaniards make Poiſon of the Juice of the Root, being fermented in an earthen Pot, wherewith they anoint their Arrows, that the Wounds inflicted by them may be render'd incurable. In ſhort, both Helebores are now only uſed in great Diſeaſes, as the Falling-ſickneſs, Giddineſs, Madneſs, Dropſy, Hip-Gout, Convulſions, and the like.

Eleminthes, and Helemthes, are little Worms bred in the Gut, eſpecially that call'd Rectum, the lowermoſt.

Elodes, and Helodes, a continual Fever, attended with continued Sweats, wherein the Patients are almoſt melted through moiſture. The Sweating Fever.

Elongatio, a ſort of imperfect Luxation when the Ligament of any Joint is ſtretch'd and extended, but not ſo as that the Bone goes quite out of its Place.

Eluxatio, the ſame as Luxatio.

Elymos is Panicum.

Elythroides, or Vaginalis, is the ſecond proper Tunick which mediately involves the Teſticles.

Embaphium, a Sawcer or ſmall Veſſel wherein Medicaments or Aliments are put or meaſur'd.

Embaſis, a ſort of a hot Bath, made with Water.

Embrocatio, and Embrocha, the ſame with Embroche.

Embroche, an Irrigation, or Inſtillation, is a ſort of fomentation when a Liquor is diſtil'd from on high, like Rain, on a Part, which is either done by a Veſſel with a Noſe that inclines, or by Diſtillation, or out of an Ewer. 1*ſt*, 'Tis uſed in Diſtempers of the Brain, where the Liquor is firſt poured upon the Suture call'd Coronalis, and permitted to run by that called Sagittalis. 2*dly*, 'Tis applied to the top of the Spinal Marrow in Diſeaſes of the Nerves, and permitted to run down the whole ridge of the Back. 3*dly*, 'Tis uſed to warm or dry the Stomach, and the Liquor's ſuffer'd to run thro' the whole Abdomen; if the Bowels be weak, they apply a Sear-cloth of Santalum, (ſome Engliſh it Sanders) to the Liver, when they apprehend it may be overheated.

heated. The Matter whereof these Embroches are made is commonly Bath-water, a Decoction, Milk and Oil, according as the Distemper of the Part and Necessity require. Some say this Word relates also to this kind of Fomentation, which is perform'd by laying the Hand warm on the affected Part, or fomenting it with a Sponge full of Liquor appropriated to the Disease.

Embryon, the Rudiment of a Child in the Womb. An Embryo.

Embryonatum; this is spoke of an internal or embryonated Sulphur, of which there are two sorts remarkable; one from a fix'd is made volatile, the other pure and quick, is an invisible and visible Fire; both pass and consume away alike. There is an Extraction made of the embryonated Sulphur, by Sublimation or Descent. The Acid of the embryonated Sulphur is an universal Esurine Salt, the active Principle of all Metals and Minerals, which it passes out of its native form by corroding the Minita; it turns into a Vitriol. There is another embryonated acid Salt, which lies in the Bowels of the Earth, join'd to no other Body.

Embryothlastes, or Embryulcus, an Instrument wherewith Chirurgeons crush the Bones, to draw the dead Child out of the Womb. A Crochet.

Embryotomia, an Anatomical Dissection of a Fœtus.

Embryulcus, is an Iron Hook made use of in drawing out a dead Child.

Emetica, or Vomitoria, Medicines which with their pungent Particles contract the Fibres of the Stomach, and so eject at the Mouth whatsoever is offensive to it. They are made of Decoctions, Tinctures, Infusions, &c. and therefore for the most part are liquid, tho' sometimes also in Pills and Powders, An Emetick or Vomit.

Emetocatharticum, a Medicine purging upward and downward.

Emetologia, a Description of things that provoke Vomiting.

Emetos; see Vomitus.

Emmenagoga, Medicines which excite the Menstrual Courses, cautiously prescrib'd by Physicians to Women suspected of being with Child.

Emmenia, the same with Catamenia and Menses.

Emmoton, a liquid Medicine, which is injected into Ulcers with a little Instrument which they use in Wounds, fashion'd like a Man's Yard.

Emmollientia, ab Emollire, softening things, are such as with a moderate heat and moisture dissolve the Parts which before cohered close; and dissipating others, make them loose and soft.

Empasma, is an astringent Powder, used to correct a stinking Breath, or check excessive sweating; the same with Catapasma.

Empeira, or Empira; see Empirica.

Empetalon, the same with Eupetalon.

Empetron; see Saxifraga.

Emphraxis, Obstruction in any Part.

Emphractica, the same with Emplattomena, such things as obstruct the Pores of the Body.

Emphysema, an Inflamation proceeding from an Effervescence, or or otherwiſe, either in the Concavities, as in the Tympany, or in ſome particular part, as the Stomach, Inteſtines, &c.

Emphyton Thermon, the innate Heat, or Heat firſt ſown in the Fœtus by the Parents Seed, which afterwards, when Reſpiration is begun, and the Fœtus ſubſiſts of it ſelf, decays by degrees. Both Philoſophers and Phyſicians call this Heat an innate and native Spirit, and ſay that it conſiſts of three parts, of a primogenial Moiſture, an innate Spirit, and Heat; whence Fernelius defines innate Heat, to be a primogenial Moiſture, every way qualified with an innate Spirit and Heat. But theſe Toys of the Ancients are nothing to us; for it is certain that this Heat belongs only to new-born Creatures.

Empirici Medicina, Quacking, curing the Sick by gueſs, without Reaſon, the Uſe of Anatomy, or knowing the Cauſes of Diſtempers, but to certain Symptoms only preſcrib'd ſuch Medicines as they had experienc'd in ſuchlike Caſes before. Acron Agrigentinus, or as ſome will have it, Serapion, was the firſt Author of it, who, neglecting the Reaſons of things, contented himſelf with bare Experience. Quacks firſt flouriſh'd amongſt the Ægyptians, who, as Herodote tells us, had a peculiar Phyſician for every particular Diſeaſe. In proceſs of time, People began to ſeek for Aid from their Experience in Reaſon; ſo that even before Hippocrates his time, among the Cnidii, Rhodii, and Coi, there aroſe a Sect call'd Dogmatica, or Rationalis. From this Trade came Mountebanks, and Quack Medicines.

Empetalon, the ſame with Eupetalon.

Emplaſtica, the ſame with Emplattomena.

Emplaſtrum, a Plaiſter, a Medicine applied outwardly to the Skin, ſpread upon Linnen or Leather, 'tis commonly made of Oils, or of thoſe things which are of a like Conſiſtence with Oils, as Swines-greaſe, Butter, ſlimy viſcous Extractions from Gums, Roots, &c. alſo of Powders and Wax, or thoſe things which are of a like conſiſtence with Wax, as Roſin, Pitch, Gum, &c. the Maſs whereof being yet hot, is formed into a Cylindriacal Figure.

Emplaſtrum de Ammoniaco, the Plaiſter of Ammoniacum; it diſſolves hard Swellings, eaſes the Pain of the Breaſts, and diſſolves the ſwellings of them.

Emplaſtrum è Baccis lauri, Plaiſter of Bayberries, it expels Wind, ſtrengthens the Stomach, and eaſes Pain, proceeding from Cold or Wind.

Emplaſtrum Barbarum Magnum, it is reckon'd good for the biting of venomous Creatures, to take off Inflamations, and for Pains and weakneſs of the Joints.

Emplaſtrum de Betonica, Plaiſter of Betony; 'tis uſed for Diſeaſes of the Head.

Emplaſtrum Cæſaris, 'tis very aſtringent, it ſtrengthens the Back, and takes off the Pain of it, and is good for weakneſs in the Joints.

Emplaſtrum Cephalicum, a Plaiſter for the Head; it ſtrengthens the Head, and eaſes the Headach, being applied to the crown of the Head ſhav'd; but it is moſt commonly applied to the Soles of the Feet, Feet, to draw the Humours from the Head.

Emplaſtrum de Cicuta cum Ammoniaco, the Plaiſter of Hemlock with Ammoniacum; it is good to ſoften hard Swellings, and to take off Inflamations.

Emplaſtrum è Cymino, 'tis uſed for windy Ruptures, and to expel Wind.

Emplaſtrum Diachalciteos, Plaiſter call'd Diacalcitis; it is commonly uſed to drive away Milk.

Empraſtrum Diachylon ſimplex, ſimple Diachylon; it ſoftens, diſcuſſes, and heals.

Emplaſtrum Diachylon Magnum, great Diachylon; it is cleanſing, healing, and anodine.

Emplaſtrum Diachylon Magnum cum Gummi, great Diachylon; it diſſolves, digeſts, and ripens hard Swellings.

Emplaſtrum de Mucilaginibus, Plaiſter of the Mucilage; it is a good Plaiſter to ſuppurate Tumors.

Emplaſtrum Epiſpaſticum; bliſtering Plaiſter.

Emplaſtrum, call'd Flos Unguentorum; it diſſolves and digeſts Tumors, and is good for Strains.

Emplaſtrum Griſeum de Lapide Calaminari, the Plaiſter of the Stone call'd Calaminaris; it cools, heals, and dries.

Emplaſtrum de Hermodactilis, the Plaiſter of Hermodactile; it eaſes pains of the Gout.

Emplaſtrum ad Herniam, Plaiſter for Ruptures; it is uſed to ſtrengthen the Back, ſtop Fluxes, and prevent Miſcarriage.

Emplaſtrum Hyſtericum, Hyſterick Plaiſter; it is applied to the Navel for Mother-fits.

Emplaſtrum Oxycroceum, it comforts the Limbs; 'tis good for Aches, and diſcuſſeth cold Tumors.

Emplaſtrum de Ranis, Plaiſter of Frogs; 'tis chiefly uſed to diſſolve hard Swellings.

Emplaſtrum de Sandice, it gives eaſe, is drying and cooling.

Emplaſtrum de Sapone, Plaiſter of Soap; 'tis proper for the Gout and pains of the Joints.

Emplaſtrum Stipticum Paracelſi, it is commonly uſed for Bruiſes and Aches.

Emplaſtrum Stomachicum Magiſtrale, the Magiſterical Stomach-plaiſter, comforts and ſtrengthens the Stomach. The Way of making all theſe Plaiſters may be ſeen in Peachey's London Diſpenſatory, reduc'd to the Practice of the London Phyſicians.

Emplattomena, or Emplaſtica, Salves which ſo conſtipate and ſhut up the Pores of the Body, that ſulphureous Vapours cannot paſs.

Empneumatoſis, ſive Inſpiratio, an alternate Dilatation of the Cheſt, whereby the Nitrous Air is continually breath'd in, and by the Windpipe and its bladdery parts are communicated to the Blood to accend it. But if we inſpect the matter narrowly, Inſpiration does ſeem to depend principally upon the Thorax, and upon the Contraction of the Membrane which covers the Windpipe, the upper part of the Gullet, and the Noſtrils; for, take this away, and you take away the motion of the Cheſt, the Lungs, and the Abdomen.

Emproſthotonos, the continual Contraction of the Muſcles of the Neck and other Parts towards the fore-parts, ſo that you ſee the the Chin bent down to the Cheſt, and the Knees or Hips drawn up to the Belly, which thus continues for ſome time.

Empyema, properly ſo call'd, is a collection of purulent Matter in the Cavity of the Thorax; but largely taken, ſignifies the ſame in the Abdomen, or any other part. 'Tis call'd alſo Ecpyema and Ecpyeſis, an Impoſtume in the Concavity of the Breaſt.

Empyreumata, little Feveriſh, Remains after a Criſis, alſo that thick viſcous Matter which ſubſides to the bottom in diſtil'd Waters, and that burning Scent of the Sediment.

Emulgentia Vaſa, or rather Renalia, becauſe they are the Arteries and Veins which paſs under the Reins.

Emulſio, ab Emulgere, an Emulſion, a Medicine to drink made of the Kernel, or ſome Seeds infuſed in a convenient Liquor, unto which, after Percolation, are added Syrups, Laudanum, &c.

Emunctoria, Cavities into which ſomething is emptied, as the pituitous Humour of the Brain into the Noſtrils; the yellow thick Humour which we call Ear-wax, into the Ears; the Excrement into the Bowels; the Urine into the Bladder, &c. Emunctories.

Enæmon, a Medicine that ſtops the Blood; or which, by binding, cooling or drying, cloſe the Paſſages of the Veſſels that were open, ſtops or diminiſhes the Fluidity and violent Motion of the Blood.

Enæorema, ſive Nubecula aut Nubes, that little Cloud which hangs in the middle of Urines.

Enarthroſis, Jointing, when the Cavity that receives is deep, and the Head of the Bone that is inſerted is oblong, as may be ſeen in the Huckle-bone, and its Cavity, in the principal Bone of that part of the Foot that immediately ſucceeds the Leg, with the Bone call'd Cymbiforme, like a Boat.

Enaulia, properly ſpeaking, is an interior Way or Paſſage, metaphorically uſed for the inward Cavity, Vagina, or Neck of the Womb.

Encanthis, the Caruncula Lachrymalis, or an Excreſcence and Swelling of the inner Angles of the Eye.

Enchardion, in the largeſt ſignification is the Middle of any thing, Meditullium, but in the ſtrickeſt Senſe, ſignifies the place where the Heart is ſituated.

Encathiſma, the ſame with Inſeſſus.

Encauma, ſeu Inuſtio, a burning in any part of the Body. It alſo ſignifies an Ulcer in the Eye, with a filthy Scab, which oftens follows a Fever.

Encephalos, whatever is within the compaſs of the Scull, as the Brain, the Cerebellum, the oblongated Marrow, &c.

Encharaxis. See Scarificatio.

Encheireſis Anatomica, a readineſs in Diſſections, when an Anatomiſt ſhews the parts of a Carcaſe dexterouſly.

Enchondros, hath a double Signification, from the primitive Chondros, which denotes Granum and Cartilaginem; therefore the Derivative ſignifies Granulated and Grumous; in which ſignification it is uſed, and from thence Cartilaginous.

Enchriſtum, an Ointment, or Liniment.

Enchuſa, the ſame with Anchuſa.

Enchymoma, an Afflux of the Blood, whereby the external Parts are render'd black and blue; as in the Scurvy, Blood-ſhot Eyes, &c. alſo an Afflux of the Blood by the quickneſs and ſuddenneſs of its Motion, as in Anger and Joy.

Enchyta, or Infundibulum, an Inſtrument whereby Liquids are inſtil'd into the Eyes, Noſtrils, or Ears.

Enclyſma, the ſame that Clyſter.

Encope, an Inciſion of any part, as in a Gangrene.

Encranium, the ſame that Cerebellum.

Endeixis, an Indication of Diſeaſes, whereby is ſhewn what is to be done. As for Example, a Plethora, too much fulneſs of Blood, indicates the opening of a Vein; a Wound indicates a binding it up; an Obſtruction, purging. An Indication.

Endemius, or Morbus Vernaculus, and Communis, is a Diſeaſe which always infects a great many in the ſame Country, proceeding from ſome Cauſe peculiar to the Country, or to the Place where it reigns. Such is Scurvy to the Hollanders.

Endemus, the ſame with Endemius.

Endivia, or Intubum, Seris, Seriola, vel Scariola, 'tis a cooling Herb, and the Water of it is uſed in Fevers, and in Inflamations. Endive.

Enema, the ſame with Clyſter.

Energia, an Agitation or Operation of the Animal Spirits and Blood.

Enervatio, a Weakneſs about the Tendons or Nerves.

Engizoma, a Blow upon the Scull, wherewith the Bone deſcends to the inner Membrane of the Brain, and preſſes upon it. Alſo an Inſtrument which we uſe in ſuchlike Caſes.

Engomphoſis, the ſame with Gomphoſis.

Engonios, the bending of the Arm or Leg to an Angle.

Ens, ab Eſſe, is the eſſential part of any mix'd thing.

Enſiformis Cartilago, the loweſt part of the Breaſt-bone, pointed like a Sword.

Enixum Sal, by this they underſtood a Salt which partakes both of an Alcali and Acid. It is alſo call'd Sal Neutrum, becauſe it is neither truly an Alcali or Acid; of which ſort are common Salt, Nitre, Allum, Vitriol, &c.

Entalium, a certain Sea-ſhell, long and hollow like a Pipe, and white, ſcallopp'd without, and ſmooth within, about the length of a Finger. 'Tis one of the Ingredients in the Unguentum Citrinum.

Enteron, a long Membranous Windpipe annex'd to the Meſentery, that the Guts be not confounded with one-another; and they are ſix, (unleſs you reckon the Gullet, Stomach, and Bladder among the Inteſtines, which I ſhould not ſtand upon, ſince they have the ſame Subſtance, and almoſt the ſame Action) the Gut Duodenum, Jejunum, Ileum, Cæcum, Colon, and Rectum; the three uppermoſt are call'd ſmall Guts, the lower great Guts, or rather narrow and broad Guts. They are cloath'd with four Tunicks; the outermoſt is membranous, and ariſes from the Peritoneum; the ſecond is fibrous, or fleſhy, whoſe ex-exteriour Fibres are long, the interiour round, plac'd upon one-another at right Angles; the third is nervous, and contains the meetings of both lacteal and sanguinary Vessels; to which there inwardly adheres a fourth Tunick, which is glandulous, or rather of a pappy substance, whereby the Chyle is imbibed and communicated to the Milky Veins. The Intestines for the most part are about six times as long as the Man whose they are. Some take Lactes to signifie the small Guts only; others take 'em for fat Guts, and particularly Persius.

Enterenchyta, a Clyster-pipe; which is also call'd Siphon, and Syringa.

Enterocele, or Hernia Intestinalis, the Fall of the Intestines, especially of the Ileum, thro' the Processes of the Peritoneum, dilated into the Groins, or outer Skin that covers the Cod.

Enteroepiplocele, a sort of Hernia, when the Caul and Intestines fall both together into the Cod.

Enteromphalos, Hernia Umbilicalis, when the Intestines bunch out at the Navel, which is common with great-belly'd Women; each of these three is a peculiar sort of Rupture.

Enthemata, Irruptions, or Pustules in the Skin that are full of Matter.

Enthermos, impense Calidus, excessive hot.

Enthlasis, an inward Contusion.

Entrichomata, the outmost Circle of the Eyelids, from whence the Hair grows.

Entyposis, the Jointing of the Shoulder with the Arm.

Enula Campana, the fresh Root being candied, or dry'd and powder'd, mixt with Honey or Sugar, is very good in difficulty of breathing, an Asthma, and an old Cough. Being taken after Supper, it helps Concoction; 'tis also commended as an excellent Preservative against the Plague; being taken in the Morning, it forces Urine, and the Courses. Half a pint of Whitewine wherein the Root sliced hath been infused 3 days, taken in the Morning fasting, cures the Green-sickness. A Decoction of the Root taken inwardly, or outwardly apply'd, is commended by some for Convulsions, Contusions, and the Hip-gout. The Root boil'd in Wine, or the fresh Juice infused in it and drank, kills and expels Worms. Wine prepar'd with this Root, and often drank, wonderfully quickens the Sight. Elecampane distil'd in common Water yields a volatile Salt, that smells, and has the same Vertue with Salt of Hartshorn. See Helanium.

Enypnion, a Dream, or rather want of Sleep.

Enyposarpos, an internal Putrifaction.

Enystron, is the Sinus or hollow of the Belly in Quadrupeds, called Abomasum.

Eon, the whole Circuit of the Eyes.

Epacmé, the same with Anabasis.

Epacmastica, a Fever that continually grows stronger.

Epagogium, the Fore-skin of a Man's Yard.

Epanadiplosis, or Reduplicatio; see Anadiplosis.

Epa-

Epaphæresis, an iterated Phlebotomy.

Epar; see Hepar.

Eparmata, Tumors of the Glandules, call'd Parotes, behind the Ears.

Ephebæum, the place from the Hypogastrium, or lower part of the Abdomen, to the Privities. 'Tis also call'd Sumen, Pecten, Pubes, Aqualiculus.

Ephelcis, that bloody Substance which is brought up in spitting of Blood; also a Shell or Crust that grows over Ulcers.

Ephelis, sive Lentigo, dewy Spot, we call it a Freckle, which proceeds most commonly from Sunburn; they grow especially in Spring and Summer, and chiefly in those who have very thin Skins, but about Winter they disappear again; they are about as big as Flea-bites, and often disfigure the whole Face.

Ephemera, or Diaria, a continued Fever which lasts but a day, arising from a Commotion and Accension of the fine parts of the Blood. If it last above a Day, 'tis call'd Synochus Simplex.

Ephemerum, a Plant that dies the same Day it springs.

Ephialtes, or Incubus, the Night-Mare, is a deprav'd Imagination whereby People asleep fancy that their Wind-pipe is oppress by some superincumbent Body, that their Breath is stopt, and they are excited to Venery. This proceeds from a compression of the Cerebellum, when the Ventricles are too full of moisture. Or if those that are thus affected lie upon their Backs, then the whole bulk of the Brain lies upon the Cerebellum; whereupon all the Pores and Passages being stopt by so much weight, the Spirits are hinder'd from influencing the Nerves call'd Par Vagum and the Intercostal Nerve, which being thus destitute of Spirit, the Lungs are oppress; so flag, and cannot perform their Office.

Ephidrosis, Sweating.

Ephippium, or Sella Equina, or Turcica, any part of the Bone Sphenoides, wherein the Pituitary Glandule is placed.

Ephodos, hath a threefold signification; 1st, It denotes the ways and passages thro' which the Recrements of the Body are convey'd. 2dly, The hostile Invasion or Insult. 3dly, They are call'd the Accessions of similar or dissimilar things, which either assist or injure the Temperament of the Body.

Epiala, five Quercera, a continued Fever, wherein the Patient feels both heat and cold at once.

Epialtes, the same as Ephialtes.

Epicarpium, a Medicine apply'd outwardly, like a Plaister or Cataplasm, to the Pulse or Wrist of the Hand, to drive away intermitting Fevers.

Epicauma, a crusty Ulcer that sometimes happens to the Black of the eye.

Epiceraslica, Medicines which obtund and temperate sharp Humours.

Epicheiresis, the same with Encheiresis.

Epicholos, that is, bilious or cholerick.

Epichordis, the Mesentery, so call'd because 'tis situated upon the Strings or Guts.

Epichemasis, decubitum ad dormiendum, a lying down to sleep.

Epi-

Epicolicæ Regiones, or Laterales, or Lumbares. Gliſſon calls that part Epicolica which lies upon the parts of the Gut Colon, whence it has its Name.

Epicophoſis, the ſame with Cophoſis.

Epicraſis, a gradual Evacuation of all ill Humours in the Blood, or a Critical Evacuation.

Epicriſis, a judging of a Diſeaſe.

Epicruſis, a percuſſion of the ſoft parts, with light Ferula's, an uſual Cuſtom amongſt the Japaneſes.

Epicyema, a Superfœtation, or Superimpregnation, which rarely happens.

Epidemeus, a common Diſeaſe, proceeding from a common cauſe, ſpreading itſelf over divers Countries, at divers times; ſuch are the Plague, malignant Fevers, &c. The reaſon is, that the Nitre of the Air, with other Particles that are in it, acquire the Vertue of an Arſenick, or a Sublimate, as we ſee in making Sublimates, for the Particles of which that conſiſts, if they be given ſeverally, are not ſo deſtructive; but taken together, they make a deadly Poiſon. An Epidemical or General Diſeaſe.

Epidermis. See Cuticula.

Epideſis, ſive Deligatio; the binding of a Wound to ſtop the Blood.

Epideſmus, a tying of Swathes underneath.

Epididymis, or Paraſtata, in Latin Supergeminalis, and it is a winding Veſſel, making a Figure like the winding of crooked Veſſels that are ſwoln with ill Blood, and is affix'd to the Back of the Teſticles. Its greater Globe is annex'd to the Teſticles, conſiſting of one Veſſel or Paſſage above five Ells long. The leſſer Globe is connected to the Veſſel that carries the Seed.

Epigaſtrium, the forepart of the lowermoſt Belly, whoſe upper part is call'd Hypochondrium, the middle part Umbilicalis, and the lowermoſt Hypogaſtrium.

Epigennema, that which happens to a Diſeaſe like a Symptom; alſo the order of parts in Generation, which is done ſucceſſively.

Epigeneſis, the ſame that Epigennema.

Epigloſſum, the ſame with Laurus Alexandrina.

Epiglottis, ſive Epiglottalis, the fifth Cartilage of the Larynx, the cover of the opening of the Wind-pipe. It is alſo call'd Sublinguium.

Epigonatis, the Whirl-bone of the Knee.

Epilepſia, or Morbus Caducus, or Comitialis, becauſe that the Perſons affected fall down on a ſudden. Or Hercules, becauſe it is hard to be cur'd; alſo Lues Deifica, Sonticus, Sacer, &c. And it is an Interpolated Convulſion of the whole Body, which hurts all Animal Actions, proceeding from an Exploſion of Animal Spirits in the Brain, whereby the Perſons affected are ſuddenly caſt upon the Ground. This Exploſion ariſes either from an Irritation or pricking in the Spirits, or when ſomething Heterogeneous is intermix'd with the Animal Spirits. The Epilepſy, or Falling-ſickneſs.

Epilepſia Inteſtinalis, is nothing elſe than a Convulſion that ariſes from things irritating the Bowels, which often happens to Children.

Epilepsia Puerorum, Childrens Convulsions. Infants and Children are so often seiz'd with Convulsions, that they are the chief and most frequent of all Convulsions; and Children are most inclin'd to 'em the first Month after the Birth, as also upon their breeding of Teeth, tho' they may likewise come at other times and from other Causes, as from a sickly or breeding Nurse; from the Milk's being coagulated in the Stomach; from a Fever, or Ulcers of the Head or other Parts; from Breakings-out suddenly; from change of Air, and the like. See Epilepsia.

Epileptica, Medicines against an Epilepsie.

Epilogismus, the common Assent and Approbation of a whole Society or Consultation of Physicians.

Epimelis, is Mespilus.

Epinyctides, Pimples that send forth Matter, that are painful, especially in the Night.

Epiparoxysmus, when a Patient endures more Fits in a Fever than usual, which happens often in inordinate Fevers.

Epiphænomena, Signs which appear later than ordinary, or is usual in Diseases.

Epiphania, the external Habit of the Body; the Superficies, or outward appearance.

Epiphora, properly an Inflamation of the Eye; but it is sometimes taken more at large, for an Inflamation of the whole Belly, or any part thereof.

Epiphysis, Appendix, Adnascentia, Additamentum, signifie one Bone that grows to another by simple and immediate Contiguity, tho' not with so even a Surface, but with some kind of Ingress of one Bone into the cavity of another, like that Co-articulation wherewith the Bones form the Joints, but without any motion.

Epiplasma, the same with Cataplasma.

Epiplocele, five Omenti Ramex, five Hernia, a Rupture, when the Caul falleth into the outward Skin of the Cods.

Epiplocomistæ, fat big-belly'd Men, who have fat huge Cauls, which, Writers say, hath sometimes hinder'd Conception in Women, and therefore they are nam'd Caul-bearers.

Epiplomphalum, five Hernia Umbilicalis, a Navel-Rupture, when it juts out, by reason of a swell'd Caul that is fallen down.

Epiploon Omentum, or Reticulum, the Caul, a Cover spread over the Intestines, arising from the bottom of the Ventricle and the back of the Gut Colon, to wit, from the doubling of the Peritonæum. It is shaped like a Net or a Fowler's Bag, and aboundeth with several Sanguinary Vessels. Its Use is to cherish the Stomach and Guts with its Fat.

Epiporoma, a hard Callus in the Joints.

Epirrhoe, signifies an Influx of Humours into the Part.

Episarcidium vel Hyposarcidium, the same with Anasarca.

Epischion, the Os Pubis, seu Pecten.

Episcopales Valvulæ, which are also call'd Mitrales and Sigmoides. There are two of 'em in the Vena Pulmonaris, to hinder the Blood from flowing back to the Heart.

Epiſemaſia, the very time that a Diſeaſe firſt ſeizes a Perſon, and is properly call'd Significatio.

Epiſion, the place of the ſecret Parts, or Aqualiculus.

Epiſphæria, windings and turnings in the outer ſubſtance of the Brain, that the Sanguiferous Veſſels may paſs more ſecurely thro' the ſubſtance of the Brain.

Epiſpaſmos inſpiratio, or by others a more than natural quick and frequent Inſpiration. It ſignifies Attraction in general, and more particularly a Medicine that is very efficacious in the cure of malignant Ulcers in the Bladder, Womb, &c.

Epiſtaſis, a ſuppreſſion or retenſion of Urine; and ſometimes it ſignifies a ſubſidence in the Urine.

Epiſtaxis, a repeated diſtillation of Blood from the Noſe.

Epiſtomia, the utmoſt openings and meetings of Veſſels.

Epiſtropheus, or Cardo, the ſecond Vertebre of the Neck; ſo call'd from turning, becauſe the Head turns upon it.

Epitecuos, fruitful, or well diſpos'd for the generation of Children.

Epithema, a liquid Medicine applied outwardly to the more noble Parts of the Body, eſpecially to the Heart and Liver, with a Sponge or Cloth dipt into it.

Epomis, the upper part of the Shoulder, call'd alſo Acromium.

Epomphalum, a Plaiſter, or any ſuch thing, apply'd to the Protuberances of the Navel.

Epſema, a Decoction of new Wine till half be boil'd away.

Epulis, an excreſcence in the Gums, which reacheth the fartheſt Axle-teeth, ſo that it hinders the opening of the Mouth.

Epulotica, the ſame with Cicatrizantia.

Equiſetum, Horſe-tail. This Herb is very aſtringent, wherefore 'tis uſed to cure the Whites, and Fluxes of Blood, one dram of the Powder, and 4 ounces of the Decoction of it in Wine, being taken morning and evening; 3 ſpoonfuls of the diſtil'd Water taken 2 or 3 mornings, cureth Bleeding, and Ulcers of the Kidneys; outwardly applied it cures Wounds, even when the Nerves are cut. For Ulcers of the Lungs drink 3 ounces of the Decoction made in Water, or 2 ounces of the Juice, morning and evening. A dram of the Powder taken in 3 ounces of Plantane-water morning and evening, for ſome days, is highly commended for a Conſumption.

Eranthemum, or Delphinium, is Camomilla.

Erebinthus, is Cicer. See Orobus.

Erica, Heath or Ling.

Ericerum, a ſort of Collyrium.

Erigerum, or Senecio, Groundſel. The Juice of the Herb taken in Beer, or a Decoction of it with Honey, vomits gently; outwardly apply'd, 'tis good for the Inflamation of the Paps, and for the Kings-evil. 'Tis very probable it may be uſeful againſt Worms, for Farriers uſe it as a preſent Remedy for the Botts. See Senecio.

Erinus, is a Name given to various Plants.

Erodentia, Medicines which gnaw and prey upon the Fleſh with their acute Particles.

Eroſio,

Eroſio, the ſame with Corroſio.

Ericerum, a ſort of Waſh for the Mouth.

Erpes; ſee Herpes.

Errhinum, barbarouſly call'd Naſale & Caputpurgium, a Medicine which, being made like a Pyramid, is put up the Noſtrils, and cleanſes the Brain of viſcous Humors, eſpecially without ſneezing; and 'tis either liquid, ſoft, or ſolid: The liquid is made of the Juices of cephalick cleanſing Herbs, extracted by Wine or other Liquor, to which Spirit of Wine is ſometimes added; or of a Decoction of fit Simples, to which are added ſometimes Juices, Honey, Syrup, and Powders too. The ſoft is made of Powders, with Honey, Oil, or Juices, boil'd to a kind of Ointment. The ſolid is given either in form of a Powder (and that hath place eſpecially in Medicines which provoke Sneezing) or in form of a Pellet, and is call'd Naſale. It is prepar'd of fit Powders mix'd with viſcid extractions from Seeds, Gums, Roots, &c. with Wax, or with Turpentine. A Sternutatory or Snuff.

Eruca, Rocket. This Herb is acrid and hot, and much of the ſame Vertue with Creſſes. 'Tis mix'd with Sallads, eſpecially in Winter-time, when Creſſes are ſcarce, wherefore 'tis call'd Wintercreſs. Wild Rocket is hot and dry, and chiefly uſed to ſtimulate Venery, and for preſervation againſt Apoplexies. Outwardly apply'd, it extracts Splinters out of Bones.

Eructatio; ſee Ructatio.

Eruptio, Eruption, the excretion of ſome Fluid in greater quantity than ordinary, as of Blood, Pus, &c.

Ervilla, and Ervum, is a ſort of the leſſer Pulſe.

Eryngium and Eringium, a ſort of Carduus, call'd Eringo or Sea-Holly. 'Tis epatick, nephritick and alexipharmick; it forces Urine and the Courſes; it expels Wind, eaſes Gripes, and cures the Jaundice. The Roots of it candied are counted excellent Sweetmeats, and are provocative to Venery; they are good Preſervatives againſt the Plague and Contagion of the Air, as alſo for Conſumptive People; they likewiſe cure a Gonorrhœa, and are uſeful in the French Pox. Uſed in the form of a Cataplaſm, and apply'd to the Belly, they prevent Abortion.

Eryſimum, Hedg-muſtard. A Decoction of this Herb in Wine is good in the Cholic; the Syrup of it is much in uſe, and is an excellent Medicine for Coughs and other Diſeaſes of the Lungs.

Eryſipelas, Ignis Sancti Antonii, Ignis Sacer, St. Anthony's Fire, is a Swelling in the Skin or any fleſhy or membranous Part, red, broad, not ſpreading high, nor beating, but attended with a pricking ſort of Pain, ariſing from a ſharp and frequently ſulphureous Blood. I take the cauſe of it not to be the Blood ſo much as a ſerous Sweating, which is ſharp and ſulphureous, and flows from the Fibres themſelves.

Eryſipelatodes, a Swelling like an Eryſipelas, or a baſtard Eryſipelas.

Erythremata, red Spots like Fleabites, common in Peſtilential Fevers.

Erythroides Membrana, a red

Membrane of the Testicles, the first of the proper Tunicks.

Eschara, a Crust or Shell brought over an Ulcer, or rais'd with a Searing-Iron. An Escar.

Escharoticum, a Searing-Iron, Fire, or the like, which burns the Skin and Flesh into a crusty Substance. See Causticum.

Esculus; see Æsculus.

Escura, the same with Eschara.

Esphlasis, Intropulsio, the forcing of any thing inwards violently impress'd from any External Cause.

Essatum, is a Potential Vertue and Medicinal Power which is in Vegetables and Minerals.

Essentia, Essence, in accurate speaking, signifies the Balsamick part of any thing separated from the thicker matter, so that whenever this is done by way of Extraction, the Balsamick part is call'd Essence by way of Preeminence; otherwise sometimes thicken'd Juices are call'd Essences; but 'tis better to call these by their own Name, to avoid confusion. Some call Compounds of Oil and Sugar Essences, but it is an abuse of the Word.

Essentia quinta, or Clyssus, Quintessence, a Medicine made of the entire energetical and active Particles of its Ingredients.

Essere, Sora & Sare, little Pustules or Wheals, somewhat red and hard, which quickly infect the whole Body with a violent Itching, as if one were stung with Bees, Wasps, Flies, or Nettles, but they vanish after a little time, and leave the Skin as smooth and well-colour'd as before. This Disease differs from an Epinyctis in this, that an Epinyctis emitteth a certain Ichor or Matter, but an Essere doth not.

Esthiomenos, a winding Inflamation that consumes the Parts. It proceeds from this, that the little pappy substance of the Skin keeps a certain Humour in it which (for want of Perspiration) corrupts and gnaws not only the Skin by its Acrimony, but the Parts which are under it.

Esula, seu Etula, a sort of Tithymal.

Ethmoides, the Bone which resembles a Sieve, placed above the inner part of the Nose, and full of little holes, to receive the serous and pituitous Humours from the soft pappy Processes of the Brain.

Etron, the lower part of the Belly, the Hypogastrium.

Evacuatio, Evacuation, is either spontaneous or by Art; by Art, is either of the Blood, when it abounds too much, as in a Plethora, where opening a Vein is requisite; or of ill Humours in the Blood, and the Primæ Viæ, as they call 'em, which is done by purging or vomiting. A spontaneous Evacuation is Hæmorrhagy, or Bleeding; for example, at the Nose, the Monthly Courses, by Urine, Stool, &c.

Evaporatio, the same with Diaphoresis; also when Juices or other moist Substances are evaporated till they become of a better consistence.

Euchorea, a good colour and temperament of the Skin.

Euchylos, he that abounds with good Juices or Humours. It is also said of Aliments that afford good Nourishment.

Euchymia, an excellent temper of the Blood.

Eucraſia, an excellent temper of the parts of the Body, ſuitable to all Ages and both Sexes.

Eudiapnuſtos, he who has a good Diaphoreſis or Perſpiration.

Euectica, the ſame with Gymnaſtica, or that part of Phyſick which teaches how to acquire a good Habit of Body.

Euelces, one that is troubled with Ulcers eaſie to be cur'd.

Euexia, a good ſound Habit of Body.

Euforbium, or Euphorbium, is a concreted Juice that's very acrid. You muſt chuſe that which is pure yellow, and acrid, which being juſt touch'd by the Tongue heats the Mouth for a great while after, but grows milder by time, and therefore when 'tis freſh it ought to be uſed with great caution. It wonderfully purgeth watery Humours from the whole Body, but is a churliſh Medicine, for (beſides the malignant Property of its Subſtance) it has an enflaming Faculty; and Hofman is of opinion, that Euphorbium ought not to be taken inwardly. 'Tis much uſed for the Caries of Bones, and for Wounds, by way of outward application, but care muſt be taken that it be not ſprinkled on Ulcers of the Jaws, Noſtrils, Palate, and Tongue, or on thoſe places where Tendons or Nerves are expos'd, leſt by its vellicating and biting of 'em, it ſhould occaſion dangerous and ſurprizing Symptoms.

Eufraſia, the ſame with Euphragia.

Eugeos, the Womb, ſo call'd from its analogy to a fruitful ſort of Ground. The Hymen is ſo call'd.

Euodes, a ſweet ſmell of Excrements.

Euonymus, the Spindle-Tree; 3 or 4 of the Berries vomit and purge; Women uſe 'em powder'd to kill Lice. The whole Tree has a ſtrong and unpleaſant Smell.

Euoſma, the ſame with Euodes.

Eupatorium, Hemp-Agrimony. It is epatick and vulnerary, but chiefly uſed for an ill habit of Body, for Catarrhs, Coughs, Obſtructions, Jaundice, &c.

Eupathia, ſive Euphoria, an eaſineſs in ſuffering.

Eupepſia, an eaſie Concoction or Digeſtion.

Euphorbium, a concreted gummy Juice drawn from the Libyan Ferula, being cut: There are two ſorts of it, one yellow and clear, in hollow Drops as big as Peas, reſembling Sarocol; another in Bladders, of a white Body, and almoſt like Glaſs. It grows in Libya, Mauritania, and Peru.

Euphoria, the ſame with Eupathia.

Euphragia, and Euphraſia, and Eufraſia, and Ophthalmica, Eyebright. This Herb, which way ſoever it is taken, (either in powder by itſelf, or in White-wine, or the Juice, or the diſtil'd Water) wonderfully ſtrengthens the Eyes, and repairs a weak Sight. 'Tis apply'd outwardly, being bruiſed, for Inflamations and dimneſs of Sight; or the Juice is dropt into the Eye, but eſpecially the Water. The Oculiſts in England, and beyond Sea, uſe the Herb in Sallads, in Broth, in Bread, in Table-beer, and apply it outwardly in Fomentations and other external Medicines for the Eyes. Fabricius Hildanus, who is an Author of the first rank, saith, That the Vertues of Eyebright are so effectual in weakness of Sight, that he had observ'd some of 70 years of age to receive their Sight (which they had lost by long watching, much study, &c.) by the use of it.

Euphrosyne, the same with Euphragia.

Eupnœa, a right, good, and easie Respiration.

Euporia, an easiness in preparing Medicines; or their easie Operation.

Eurythmus, an excellent, natural, and orderly Pulse.

Eusarcos, one that's well flesh'd.

Eusemia, a Crisis, excellently well judg'd.

Eustia, a good Appetite.

Eusplanchnos, he whose Viscera are strong, and in a good temper.

Eustomachus, a good Stomach, also Meat convenient for it.

Euthanasia, a soft easie passage out of the World, without Convulsions or Pain.

Euthyporos, a going upright.

Euthrophia, a good Nutrition of the Body.

Eutocos, five Fœcunda, she that is fruitful, and bringeth forth with ease.

Eutonos, one that is strong, lusty, and well proportion'd in his Limbs.

Eutrophia, a due nourishment of the Body.

Exacerbatio; see Paroxysmus.

Exæresis, the extracting things out of the Body that are hurtful to it.

Exagium, a Weight of the Ancients, being 4 Scruples.

Exaltatio, or Sublimatio, an Operation whereby a thing being chang'd in its natural Qualification, 'tis elevated to a higher degree of Vertue and Substance; or 'tis a subtilizing of things by gradually dissolving them, and exalting them into a purer and higher degree of their own Qualities; and 'tis done either by Circulation, Ablution, or Fermentation.

Exambloſis, the same as Abortus.

Exanastomosis, an opening of the extremity of Vessels.

Exanthema, a certain Efflorescence upon the Skin of the Head, like those which appear in the Skin of the whole Body. 'Tis describ'd two ways by Sennertus; one is, that at least it changeth the colour of the Skin, as in continued malignant Fevers, wherein the Skin is spotted, like Fleabites; the other is, when certain little Swellings break out in the Skin, which may be call'd Papillæ; as for example, the Small-pox, Pimples, Pustules, &c.

Exarthrema, the same with Luxatio. A Luxation.

Exarticulatio, the same with Luxatio.

Excathisma, or Semicupium, a Bath of hot Water.

Excidentia, or Ecptosis, the same with Luxatio.

Exceptio, the incorporation or mixture of dry Powders with some moisture or other. Thus Electuaries are made, Powders and Pulp are mixt with Honey or Syrup; and the Powder for Pills with Syrup, Honey, Wine, or Juice.

Excipulum Chymicum; see Receptaculum Chymicum.

Exciſio, or Eccope, the ſame with Extirpatio.

Excipulum, the ſame with Recipiens.

Excoriatio, the ſame with Darſis.

Excorticatio, the taking off the outward Bark of Roots, Fruit, Seeds, &c.

Excreſcentia, the ſame with Hyperſarcoſis.

Excretio; ſee ——

Excrementa, Excrements, are whatſoever is ſeparated from the Aliments after concoction, and is to be thrown out of the Body, as the moiſture in the Mouth, Spittle, Snot, Milk, Bile, Sweat, the Wax of the Ears, the Excrements of the Belly and Bladder. The Action itſelf is call'd Excretio.

Exelciſmus, a bringing of the Bones from the Surface downward.

Exercitatio, a vehement and voluntary motion of the Humane Body, attended with an alteration in breathing, undertook either for preſerving or acquiring Health. Exerciſe of the Body.

Exercitium, a Motion whereby the Body is agitated in order to Health, and is threefold, 1. What proceeds only from things extrinſick, as Riding, Navigation, &c. 2. What proceeds partly from other things, partly from thoſe that are mov'd, as in Gladiators, and Wreſtlers. 3. What cometh from thoſe only who exerciſe, as in Walking, and the Ball, and beſt of all at the Hand-ball. The end of Exerciſe is threefold likewiſe; either Heat, Sweat, or Breath. Exerciſe is a moſt powerful and prevalent thing to preſerve Health, being that which purges and drives away the ſuperfluous Humours of the Body. There's many ſorts of Exerciſe, as Walking, riding in a Coach or on Horſe-back; the temperate Exerciſe is that which contributes much to Health, for it does corroborate the natural Health, waſte Superfluities, cheer Old-age, enliven Youth, hinder Dulneſs, fortifie the Senſes, render the whole Body light and agile, ſtrengthen the Nerves and all the Joints (for the Parts exercis'd become more robuſt) help Digeſtion, and keep the Paſſages of the Body open. The light Exerciſes are Fiſhing, Fowling, and the like, which alſo cheer the Mind. The beſt time for Exerciſe is before Meals, having firſt evacuated the Excrements of the Belly and Bladder. And after violent Exerciſe one ought to beware of catching cold, for Motion and Exerciſe having open'd the Pores of the Body, Cold eaſily enters therein, bringing along with it Catarrhs, and other Infirmities. Exerciſes are beſt in the open Air.

Exhalatio; ſee Evaporatio.

Exinanitio; ſee Evacuatio.

Exiſchios, when the Os Femoris is out of joint. A Luxation.

Exomphalos, a Protuberance of the Navel common to Infants.

Exoncoma, a large and very prominent Tumor, Protuberantia.

Exoneiroſis, Pollutio Nocturna, an Excretion or involuntary Pollution of the Semen in the Night-time. This is a Species of a ſimple Gonorrhœa.

Exophthalmia, a Protuberance of the Eye out of its natural poſition.

Exoſtoſis, a Protuberance of the Bones out of their natural place, and Prominences in several parts, occasion'd sometimes by the Venereal Disease.

Expellens, is a sort of Medicine which hath the Vertue to expel (especially Pestilential) Infections to the external Parts.

Expiratio, seu Ecpneumatosis, an Alternate Contraction of the Chest, whereby the Air, together with fuliginous Vapours, is expel'd by the Wind-pipe. The Cause of Expiration don't seem to consist in the Contraction of the Chest, but in the Relaxation of the Tunick of the upper part of the Gullet, and the Windpipe, for take that away, and you take away the motion of the Chest and Abdomen.

Exploratorium, the same with Specillum.

Explosio, an Action of the Spirits whereby the Nerves are suddenly contracted; the reason is, that some heterogenous Particles are mixt with the animal Spirits, or that they are drove into a confusion, like Gun-powder out of a Gun.

Expulsio, the same with ——

Expultrix Vis, seu Facultas; according to the Ancients, was that Faculty which expel'd the Excrements; but we need not have recourse to those blind Faculties, since we know that this is perform'd by the animal Spirits, which cause the Peristaltick Motion of the Guts.

Exsolutio, the same with Eclysis.

Exsuccatio, the same with Ecchymoma.

Extasis, a depravation of the Judgment and Imagination, familiar to mad and melancholy People.

Exsudatio, the same with Ephidrosis.

Exsufflatio, the same with Ecphysesis.

Exta, the same with Viscera.

Extasis, the same as Ectasis.

Extensio, is the stretching or enlarging of any ductile Body; the same with Tasis, Ectasis, and Catatasis.

Extenuatio, is call'd a gentle detracting, lessening, or falling away of the whole Body, in opposition to grossness. Extenuation is twofold; one, which is from a sensible or insensible evacuation of the useful and nutritious Parts; the other proceeds from a Cacochymia, or a collection and actual presence of vitiated and useless Parts.

Extergentia; see Abstergentia.

Extinctio, a quenching, relates chiefly to Stones and Crystals, which being frequently made red-hot, are as oft extinguish'd in fair Water, till they become fryable. Metals also made red-hot are often extinguish'd in Water, that it may participate of their Vertues. Thus Iron is quench'd in Water, Gold in Wine, with several others of that nature, commonly practic'd in the preparing of Medicines. Mercury is also said to be extinguish'd when 'tis thus involv'd in Oyl of Turpentine, or any other Matter, that there does not appear the least of its substance.

Extirpatio, the cutting off a Part by reason of a Cancer or Blasting: 'Tis best to cut it off two, three, or more Fingers-breadth from the Joint, unless the Mortification hath reach'd the upper part of the Arm or Thigh, for here we are forced to chuſe the Joint itſelf. 'Tis a ſurer way to make the Exciſion in a ſound Part, tho' it be more painful.

here

Extractio, ab Extrahere, a ſeparating the ſubtile parts of a mixt Body from the more groſs; for example, when the ſtrength of any Medicine is extracted by Spirit of Wine, that which is left after the evaporation of the Menſtruum is call'd the Extract. Among Chirurgeons 'tis taken for the extracting any thing out of our Bodies, as Teeth, Stones, Leaden Bullets, &c.

Extractum, that pure, unmixt, and efficacious Subſtance which, by the help of ſome Liquor, is ſeparated from the dull and more unactive parts. An Extract.

Extracts, may be prepar'd of any thing almoſt that belongs to the Materia Medica, or of any Medicine, whether it be ſimple (as Herbs, Flowers, Seeds, &c.) or compound, (as Species, Pills, &c.) which often communicates a Tincture to the Menſtruum wherein 'tis infuſed.

Extraneus; ſee Exotick.

Extravaſatus, Blood flowing out of the Veſſels ſo far as to form an Aneuriſm, or already extravaſated, and fixing in the ſofter parts of the Body, or conſtituting an Ecchymoma or Effuſion.

Extremus, Eſchatos, the end of all Metals are call'd Sulphur and Quickſilver.

Extuſſio, to expectorate or throw off Matter by Coughing.

Extuberatio, the ſame with Apophyſis.

Exumbilicatio, ſive Hernia Umbilicalis. See Exomphalos.

Exulceratio, a Solution of continued Parts, proceeding from ſome gnawing Matter, and in ſoft parts of the Body, attended with a loſs of their quantity. It differs from an Abſceſſus in this, that an Abſceſſus is occaſion'd by a Criſis. An Exulceration is either great, little, broad, ſhort, narrow, ſtrait, tranſverſe, winding, equal, unequal, deep, &c. An Exulceration.

Exuſtio, a burning by Fire; it is threefold, the firſt is when the Cuticula, which riſes in Bliſters, is only burnt; in the ſecond the Cutis is likewiſe affected; and in the third, the Parts alſo under the Cutis.

Exula. See Eſula.

F

F in the end of Preſcriptions ſignifies Fiat, as F. S. A. Fiat Secundum Artem; and F. L. A. Fiat Lege Artis.

Faba, a Bean. Beans are very nouriſhing; the diſtil'd Water of the Flowers provokes Urine, and is much uſed for beautifying the Face, and takes ſpots from thence; for the Gravel, make a Lee of the Aſhes, ſtrain it, and ſweeten it with Sugar; take ſix Ounces with 20 Drops of Tincture of Cinnamon in it. One that voided Blood by Stool three or four Months, was cur'd by eating red Beans boil'd in Milk, Morning and Evening, when other Medicines would do no good. But they are windy, and occaſion troubleſom Dreams. The French Bean is the leaſt windy.

Fabaria. See Telephium.

Facies Vultus, the fore-part of the Head, compos'd of the Eyes, Noſe, Mouth, Lips, Chin, Cheeks, and the Forehead. The Viſage.

Fa-

Facies Hippocratica, is when the Noſtrils are ſharp, the Eyes hollow, the Temples low, the Laps of the Ears contracted, and the Lobes inverſt, the Skin about the Forehead hard and dry, the Complexion pale, livid, of a Leaden Colour, or black.

Facultas, an Action in Man, which is perform'd either by the Body alone, or by both Body and Mind. Faculties are either Natural, which depend upon the Cerebellum; or Animal, which depend upon the Brain. The Ancients made three Faculties, Natural, Vital, and Animal, but the Vital belongs to the Animal.

Fæcula; ſee Fecula.

Fæces, are the Impurities of Liquids, which, when ſettling at the bottom, ſeparate themſelves from the pure Liquor after Fermentation. See Excrementa.

Fagitriticum, and Fagotriticum, the ſame with Fagopyrum.

Fagopyrum, Buck-wheat.

Fagus, the Beech-Tree; the Leaves of the Beech-tree bruis'd, and applied to hot Swellings, does diſcuſs them; the Water contained in old hollow Oaks and Beech-trees cures the Itch in Men, and Cattel when they are mangy.

Falx, a doubling of the Dura Mater, like a Siecle, annex'd below to the third Cavity, whereby the Brain is divided into the right and left Hemiſphere.

Fames, Hunger, is either Natural, which is a deſire of Food, when an Animal (from a Vellication of a Nerve of the Par Vagum and the Intercoſtal in the Stomach, which proceeds from an acid Humour, carried thither by the Cæliac Arteries or Glandulous Tunick) is excited to ſeek for Food as a Remedy to allay that Vellication; or it is Preternatural, which is either deprav'd, as Longing in Women with Child; or it is a Canine Appetite, &c.

Fames Canina; ſee Cynodes Orexis.

Farciminalis Tunica, the ſame with Allantoides

Farfara, is Tuſſilago.

Farfarus, is Populus Alba.

Farina, Meal.

Faſcia, a Swathe, is a long Band, moderately broad, which Chirurgeons uſe. Swathes are wound up, long, and all of a breadth. Others are cut, which are indeed of one piece of Linnen, but that cut either at the ends or middle. Others ſew'd together, which conſiſt of Swathes and Thongs of ſeveral ends, and like ſeveral Swaths. Others are longer, ſome ſhorter; others broader, ſome narrower.

Faſcia Lata, Faſcialis Muſculus. See Membranoſus Muſculus.

Faſcia Lata, is a white Worm in the Inteſtines, of the length of three or four Yards.

Faſciatio, a binding of Swathes about a Limb that is to be cur'd.

Faſciculus: ſee Manipulus.

Faſelus: ſee Phaſeolus.

Faſtidium Cibi, the ſame with Anorexia.

Faucus and Frumen, the ſame with Pharynx.

Favus. See in Achor.

Febrifugum, a Remedy againſt a Fever.

Febris, a Fever, is an inordinate Motion, and too great an Effervescence of the Blood, attended with Cold firſt, and afterwards with Heat, Thirſt, and other Symptoms, wherewith the Animal

Oeco-

Oeconomy is variouſly diſturb'd. Fevers in general are divided into Intermittent, Continued, Continent, and Symptomatical; as alſo into Quotidian, Tertian, Quartan, Erratick, &c. Agues or Fevers. Scotus in his Magick aſſures us, That the Blood in a Fever has Worms in it.

Febris Ungarica Theroides, or Lues Pannoniæ, vel Cerebri Vermis, a Peſtilence of Hungary, whereof Shenkius gives us this Deſcription. It was a Diſtemper raging in the Armies; it commonly ſeiz'd the Patient about Four a-Clock in the Afternoon, with ſome ſhivering, but in half an Hour after with a violent Heat, which continued Day and Night without intermittency. They complain'd of Oppreſſion and Pain about the Heart. At the beginning they felt an exceſſive Thirſt, but on the ſecond, or at furtheſt on the third Day, they grew Delirious. The Diſtemper encreaſed always towards Night. Some were troubled with a Looſeneſs, or voiding coagulated Blood, or a Liquidity like the Water wherein Fleſh has been waſh'd, by Stool. Sometimes they became Deaf, were afflicted with the Cholick, Pains in the Side, or Palſy. A Tumor aroſe in many in the Foot, of ſo malignant a nature, that the Foot was forc'd to be cut off. Hard Drinkers never eſcap'd with Life. They had Spots like Flea-bites; ſome larger, ſome broader, ſometimes all over the Body, but moſt generally about the Region of the Cheſt and Back, along the Medulla Spinalis; they would alſo appear about the Shoulders and Arms, of a deep Colour, except that upon the approach of Death they turn'd blewiſh and black.

Feculæ, Duſt that ſubſides in the ſqueezing of certain Vegetables, as in Briony, Aron, &c.

Fegopyrum, the ſame with Fagopyrum.

Fel. See Bilis.

Femen. See Femur.

Femur, and Femen, the Thigh, the part from the Buttocks to the Knee; it is ſo call'd from bearing, becauſe it holds up and ſuſtains an Animal; it conſiſts but of one Bone, but that the greateſt and longeſt in the whole Body, whoſe external and forepart is gibbous and riſing, but the internal hinder-part flat and bending. Grammarians make Femen to be the hinder fleſhy part, and Femur the former outward part.

Feneſtra, two Holes in the hollow of the Ear, adjoining to the Tympanum; one call'd Ovale, the other Rotundum.

Ferinus, hath reference to a natural Diſpoſition, and likewiſe if transfer'd to malignant Diſeaſes, pre-ſuppoſes a great Depravity of the Humour. Sick Perſons are alſo term'd Ferini, when ſeized with Epidemical Diſtempers. Diet is likewiſe ſaid to be Ferine, that is common to Brutes.

Fermentatio, an inteſtine Motion of Particles, or of the Principles of any Body tending to Perfection, or a Change. And it is either Natural, which comes of its own accord, as in Natural Actions; or Artificial, which we make, as we ſay in Beer, Wine, Bread, &c. by adding ſomething to them. A Fermentation.

Ferrugo, that is, the Ruſt or Scoria of Iron.

Ferrum, an Ignoble Metal, called Iron, conſiſting of Mercury and a crude Sulphur, or rather of a Salt, loaded with the groſſeſt earthy parts.

Ferrum Equinum, a ſort of leſſer Pulſe.

Ferulæ, little light Chips or Planes, which are made of different Matter, according to the Nature and Neceſſities of the Places to which they are applied; as of Barks of Trees, of the Bark of the Herb Sagapene, in Latin Ferula; whence they have their Name. They are made of Firr, Paper glew'd together, Leather, &c. which are applied to Bones that have been looſen'd or diſjointed after they are ſet again.

Ferulago, the ſame with Ferula.

Feſtuca, a ſort of Bread-corn.

Fex, the Sediment or Lees of Wine; as the Recrement of Oil is call'd Amurca; this when dried is call'd Tartar.

Fibra Auris, the ſame with Lobus Auris.

Fibræ, Fibres, are little round oblong Veſſels, and are either Muſculous or Nervous. The Nervous are ſuch as have no Valves, and by which the ſpirits flow conveniently from the Nerves to the ſeveral Parts. The Muſculous Fibres receive the Blood from the Arteries, and diſcharge themſelves into the Veins, and have a great many Valves. They are call'd long, round, or oblique, from their ſituation. Some ſmall Threads interwoven with Trees and Leaves are call'd Fibres too; and ſo are the ſmall Threads which ſtick to their Roots. Sprouts, Filets.

Fibrillæ, are the ſmalleſt Threads whereof Fibres conſiſt; which, tho' they don't appear like ſmall Channels or Veſſels to the Eye, yet, by the help of the Microſcope, are found to be ſo.

Fibula, the Ancients mention them; for if there be a Wound in the Fleſh, ſays Celſus, that gapes, and cannot eaſily be cloſed, it is improper to ſew it, you muſt apply a Fibula; but becauſe this way of cloſing the gaping of Wounds by Fibula's was ſo uſual amongſt the Ancients, they have not been at all ſollicitous in deſcribing either their matter or form. Guido tells us, that they made theſe Fibula's of Iron Circles as it were, or Semicircles crooked backward on both ſides, the Hooks whereof being faſten'd on both to the gaping Wound, anſwer'd exactly to one another; but ſince this muſt be an unſupportable Pain to the poor Patient, it is hardly credible that they meant any ſuch thing by their Fibula's. The Opinion of Fallopius is more probable, who tells us, That it was only a ſewing up of the Wound with a Needle and Thread, which is commonly uſed at this day. Sanctorius writes thus: We need not diſcourſe much of Fibula's, ſince the Uſe of them is almoſt out of doors; and though the Ancients have not deſcrib'd them, yet they forbear not to acquaint us how to uſe them, as Argenterius falſly imagines; for, not only Phyſicians, but ſome of the Ancients, knew the form of them, ſince Corn. Celſus has inform'd us, That Fibula's, as well as Sutures, were made of a Needleful of ſoft untwiſted Silk or Thread, wherewith they

ſew'd

ſew'd the gaping Lips of a Wound together. Some call Acia, or this Needleful of Thread, Vinculum, Ligatura, Colligatio, Obligatio, Ligamentum; all which ſignify tying or binding. Whoever would be farther inform'd in this Particular, may conſult the incomparable Rodius, in his Diſcourſe about Acia.

Fibula, the leſſer Bone of the Shank, call'd Sura by Celſus; it ſeems to join the Muſcles of the Leg like a Button or Claſp, in Latin Fibula; it is the hinder Bone betwixt the Knee and the Foot, ſmaller than the other Bone call'd Tibia, and faſtned outwardly to it; as the Bone call'd Radius in the Arm is to the Cubit. Its round Head does not extend as far as the Knee upward, but downward; it goes farther than the other Bone call'd Tibia, and therefore is altogether as long a Bone as the Tibia. They part in the middle, becauſe the Muſcles of the Feet are plac'd there; in which interval, a ſlender broad Ligament joins them together lengthways. It is join'd likewiſe to the Tibia with a common Ligament above and below; as it tends acutely downwards, it has an Appendix to it, which, growing thicker and thicker, makes a Proceſs call'd Malleolus Externus.

Ficus, a Fig, a Fruit ſufficiently known, but from their Similitude are likewiſe call'd certain Excreſcences about the Fundament, and other Parts, like Figs; if they grow big, then they are call'd Ficus, or Sycoſes; as alſo Mariſcæ, Sycoſis & Sycoma.

Figentia, ſuch things as tame Volatiles, and concenter Acids.

Filago, a ſort of Cudweed.

Filicula, is Trichomanes. See Polypodium.

Filipendula, five Oenanthe, common Drop-wort, the Root attenuates, and is ſomewhat aſtringent, a Decoction of it provokes Urine, and expels Gravel; it cures the heat of Urine, and takes off the difficulty of it; the Powder of the Root, and the Juice of it, is commended by ſome in the Falling-ſickneſs; it is excellent for the Whites, and the immoderate Flux of the Childbed Purgations; the Doſe is one Dram of the Root in Wine. It alſo cures the Bloody-flux, and Ruptures.

Filius ante Patrem, this is ſaid of a ſort of Lyſimachium, or Saffron, Pulſatilla, and other Plants, whoſe Flowers come out before the Leaves.

Filix, Fern; the Roots of male Fern is reckon'd injurious to Women, occaſions Barrenneſs, hinders Conception, and cauſes Abortion; 'tis peculiarly good for the Rickets; the Aſhes of the male and female Fern are made up by ſome with Water, to waſh their Cloaths with them, having firſt dried them in the Sun, and burnt them in a light Fire till they are redhot; the Powder of the Root of female Fern taken in Water and Honey, kills the broad long Worms of the Belly, a Dram of it being taken at a time; the Juice of the Root is good for Burns; the Root of flowering Fern cures Ruptures and Ulcers, and is good in the Cholick, and for Diſeaſes of the Spleen; the whitiſh part of the Root is very effectual for Bruiſes, and thoſe that are wounded, being boil'd in ſome Liquor;

'tis

'tis also excellent for the Rickets.

Filtratio, the percolating any Liquor thro' a woollen Cloth, or course Paper. It is a Chymical term, and is by some term'd a Distillation downwards, because the Liquor falls down by drops. It is perform'd three different ways. First, Thro' a woollen Cloth, as we do in the clarifying of Syrups. Secondly, Thro' the Manica Hippocratis, that is, thro' a kind of a Sack, pointed at the bottom, and wide on the top; this is chiefly used for Medicinal Wines. The Third, belonging most properly to Chymists, is done thro' brown course Paper; whereof if they have a sheet, they double it crossways, so that the right Angles meet, and thus they double it again, till the Paper be four double, which being open'd, they put it into a Funnel, or Tritorium, by which means the Liquor passes thro' the Paper, leaving its Sediment behind. A Filtration.

Filtrum, a woollen Cloth, or blotting Paper, thro' which Liquors are strain'd to clarify; as through a Manica Hippocratis, a Wine-sack; which draws Wine from the dregs.

Fimbriæ, are the Extremities of Garments; from whence the Leaves of Herbs are said to be fimbriated, when they have a fringe about them.

Fistatium, the same with Pistacium.

Fistula, a strait long Cavity, or a winding narrow and callous Ulcer, of difficult Cure, proceeding for the most part from an Apostheme. Fistula's differ from winding Ulcers in this, that Fistula's are callous and hard, but Ulcers are not. Sometimes an Issue is call'd a Fistula.

Fistula Lachrymalis, when the Punctum Lachrymale, the little Hole in the Bone of the Nose, through which the liquid Matter passes to the Nostrils, is grown hard and callous, from an Ulcer of a Caruncula, plac'd at the greater corner of the Eye, by which means there happens a continual Defluxion of Tears.

Fistula Pulmonis, the same that Aspera Arteria.

Fistula Sacra, that part of the Back-bone which is perforated.

Fistula Urinaria, the same with Urethra.

Fistularia, a sort of Cristagalli, call'd the Cock's Comb.

Fixa, such things as cannot be Elevated or Exalted by Fire.

Fixatio, the fixing of any Volatile Substance, that it may not fly away.

Flagellæ, the tops of Trees; as also the small and long Twigs of a Vine.

Flammula. See Batrachium.

Flatus, Effervescences excited in the Body from Wind let in, or from the Bile and Pancreatick Juice mix'd together, whence Wind and Noise.

Flores Chymici; the subtiler Parts of the Body, separated from the grosser by Sublimation, in a dry form.

Flos Februarii, is Leucoion Album; sive Hexaphyllum Album Bulbosum.

Flos Frumentorum; see Cyanus.

Fluctuatio, a continued Motion of floating Bodies in the Action of Digestion, Fermentation, &c.

Fluiditas, is a term for all Bodies that are readily put in motion.

tion. A Fluid is divided into two kinds, either an ætherial or ſpirituous Body, which conſiſts in a continued motion, and therefore is the moſt ſubtil, or an aqueous one, having a groſſer conſiſtence. There is another more viſcous Fluid, in which the Salts prevail, and this is hard to flux, having only the ſubtil parts of Fire to put it in motion.

Fluor Albus, or Fluor Uterinus, is a continual Evation of corrupt Humours from the Womb, or Pore in the Vagina. The Whites in Women.

Fluor Muliebris. See Fluor Albus.

Fluor Uterinus. See Fluor Albus.

Fluxio, the ſame with Catarrhus.

Fluxus Alvinus, the ſame with Diarrhœa.

Fluxus Hepaticus, a kind of Dyſentery, wherein black ſhining Blood, and too long roaſted as it were, is driven out of the Guts by the Fundament, but without Pain. It is ſometimes taken for a Dyſentery, wherein ſerous ſharp Blood is evacuated, and is often the Conſequence of it.

Focile Majus, the greater Bone of the Cubit, call'd Ulna; or the greater Bone of the Leg, call'd Tibia.

Focile Minus, the leſſer Bone of the Cubit, call'd Radius; or the leſſer Bone of the Leg, call'd Fibula.

Focus, ſome place in the Myſentery, and other parts, whence they formerly deduc'd the Original of Fevers.

Fodina, is a ſubterraneous Paſſage in a Mine; as alſo the leſs Labyrinth in the Bone of the Ears.

Fœcula. See Fecula.

Fœmina. See Modiolus.

Fœniculum, Fennel, the Powder of the Seed taken daily in the Morning faſting with Sugar, clears the Sight wonderfully; the Seed ſtrengthens the Stomach, and takes off Naſeouſneſs; and being mix'd with Pectoral Medicines, it relieves the Lungs; the Leaves and Seed aſſwage nephritick Pains, forces Urine, and expels Gravel; the whole Herb, boil'd in Broth, is reckon'd good to prevent over-fatneſs.

Fœnum, Hay.

Fœnum Græcum, and Fœnigræcum, Fenugreek, the Flower of the Seed, which is only in Uſe, mollifies, digeſts, ripens, diſcuſſes, and is anodine; and the Uſe of it is ſo frequent, that there is ſcarce a Poultice made without it, or its Mucilage. It is alſo often uſed in Emollient Clyſters; for the Mucilaginous Subſtance blunts the Acrimony of the Humours, and keeps the Guts from Eroſion.

Fœtor Oris, a ſtinking Breath, proceeds from the filth about the Teeth and Gums; ſometimes from the Lungs, and a Conſumptive or Scorbutick Blood; and ſometimes alſo from the Stomach, when the ſuperiour Orifice is not well cloſed up.

Fœtus, immediately after the Woman has conceiv'd, it is call'd an Embryo. Afterwards, when there is a perfect Formation, it is properly call'd the Fœtus.

Foliaceum Ornamentum, is the Fringe in the Extremity of the Fallopian Tube.

Folium Indicum, the ſame with Malabathrum.

Fol-

Folliculus, is a kind of Bladder or Skin, containing ſome liquid thing. It is alſo applied to the Involuere of the ſides in Vegetables.

Folliculus Fellis, a little Bladder faſten'd to the Concave part of the Liver, that receives the Bile, which in proper time empties it ſelf into the Gut Duodenum, by a Ductus, or Paſſage call'd Choledochus. The Gall-bladder.

Fomentum, vel Fomentatio, ſive Fotus, that which, applied to the Body, cheriſhes and warms it; and it is twofold, either wet or dry; the firſt is a Decoction, Liquor, or Vapour, applied to ſeveral Parts of the Body for to cheriſh it, by the help of a Linnen or Woollen Cloth, a Sponge, Bladder, &c. A Fomentation.

Fontanellæ, ſive Fonticuli, Iſſues, are little Ulcers which Chirurgeons make in ſound Parts of the Body, to evacuate bad Humours, cure Diſeaſes, or prevent them. Iſſues are made either with an actual, or a potential Searing-iron, with a Launcet and a pair of Siſſars. You muſt always obſerve to make Iſſues betwixt two Muſcles. In the Fœtus and new-born Children, Fontanellæ is call'd the opening betwixt the Bone of the Forehead and the two Bones of the hindermoſt part of the Head.

Fontalis, the ſame with Potamogeiton.

Fonticuli, the ſame as Fontanellæ.

Foramen, a Term in Anatomy for a Mouth or Hole, ſo the Foramen Ovale, which is in the Septum of the Heart in a Fœtus during its continuance in the Womb, but cloſes up upon Reſpiration; the Term is likewiſe uſed in Fractures of the Head, when the Scalp is divided even to the Membranes of the Brain.

Forbicina, or perhaps more properly Forficina or Forcipina, is the Name of an Inſect or Worm, called an Earwig, becauſe (ſay the Dutch and Germans) it creeps into the Ear to annoy the Brain. 'Tis likewiſe ſo call'd from its two-fork'd Tail, like a pair of Tongs or Plyers.

Forceps, an Inſtrument wherewith dead and corrupt Parts (alſo things beſides or againſt Nature) are ſeiz'd, cut off, or pull'd out; they are of ſeveral ſhapes, as long, crooked with Teeth, with Beaks, in faſhion of an Half-moon, ſuch as will open the Mouth, or the Womb, and by which you may ſee into either of them; which, according to the difference of their ſhape, are of different uſe.

Forceps Deceptoria, is an Inſtrument fitted for Inciſion, which the Surgeon may hold in his Hand unperceiv'd by the Patient.

Forfex, an Inſtrument to pull out Teeth with. It is alſo call'd Odontagra, ſive Dentagra, or Dentiducum & Dentarpaga.

Formica, is not only an Inſect, but alſo a ſort of Wart, callous and black, broad at the bottom, and painful when it is cut, like the biting of a Piſmire, from whence it has its Name. Wierus ſays, this Diſtemper was brought among us out of Spain.

Formicans Pulſus, or rather Vermiculans, an unequal Pulſe, reſembling the motion of Piſmires.

Formicatio. See in Formica.

Formix, the ſame that Eſthiomenos Herpes, or Noli me Tangere, or Lupus.

For-

Formula, a Phyſician's Preſcription, which the Apothecaries prepare accordingly.

Fornax. See Furnus.

Fornix, the callous Subſtance of the Brain, ſo call'd becauſe it ſeems to ſuſtain the Cavities of the Ventricles, and the Bulk of the impending Brain, like an Arch or Vault.

Foſſa Magna, ſive Rima Magna, the interior Cavity of the Pudendum Muliebre. It may be call'd alſo Navicularis, from its ſhape like a Boat.

Fotus, the ſame with Fomentum.

Fovea, the ſame as Foſſa Magna.

Fovea Cordis, the ſame with Anticardium.

Fractura Oſſis, the breaking of a Bone, is a Solution of the Continuum in the hard parts of the Body, which is done by a hard external Inſtrument, forcibly impel'd upon the part, the differences whereof are taken from the Form, the Part, and the Accidents of it. The Rupture, or rather Fracture of a Bone.

Frænulum, a Membranous Ligament under the Tongue; in New-born Children it ſometimes ſpreads over the whole under-ſide of the Tongue, that the Midwife ſometimes is forc'd to pull it aſunder with her Nail, (which yet ought not to be allow'd of) or the Chirurgeon with his Penknife. The Bridle of the Tongue.

Frænulum, or Frænum penis, is a Membrane which ties the Foreskin to the Nut of the Yard. The Bridle of the Prepuce.

Fragaria, Straw-berry; the Fruit cools and moiſtens; the diſtill'd Water of it comforts the Heart, purges the Blood, cures Ulcers of the Mouth, and is good in a Quinzay, the Mouth being gargl'd with it; it is Diuretick, and expectorates. Thoſe that are troubl'd with hot Puſtules in the Face, or a dry Itch in the Body, ſhould take two ſpoonfuls of the Water every Morning; the ſame quantity at the ſame time is good for ſuch as have the Stone, for it cools the Reins, and expels Gravel; a Decoction of the whole Herb is good for the Jaundice.

Frangula; ſee Alnus Nigra.

Fraxinella, ſo call'd from the reſemblance of its Leaves to the Fraxinus, or Aſh-tree, White Dittany; the Root, which in a manner is only uſed, is Cardiack and Alexipharmick; it is a good Preſervative againſt the Plague, taken any way, and is reckon'd good againſt Poiſon, and the biting of Venomous Creatures; it kills Worms, a Dram of it being taken at a time; 'tis us'd in cold Diſeaſes of the Womb, and to force the Courſes and Urine; it haſtens Delivery, expels the Secundine, and a dead Child, two Drams of it being taken at a time in Wine; 'tis alſo good for the Gripes and Gravel, and is mix'd with Vulnerary Potions for the Falling-ſickneſs, and Diſeaſes of the Head; the Roman Women make a Coſmetick of the diſtill'd Water, and they alſo uſe it for Inflamations of the Eyes, the Cods and Flowers being touch'd occaſion itching, and in hot Countries burn the Skin; 'tis one of the Ingredients of the Orvietan ſo much cry'd up by ſome.

Fraxinus Arbor, the Aſh-tree, the Seed of the Aſh powder'd, and taken in Wine, forces Urine; the juice of three or four Leaves taken every Morning, makes those lean that are fat. The Bark and the Wood dry and attenuate, and are suppos'd to soften the hardness of the Spleen, by a Specifick quality; the Juice of the Leaves, and the tender Twigs, taken in the Morning daily, in a small quantity, is said to do good in Dropsies; one Dram of the Seeds powder'd, and taken in Wine, is also beneficial in the Dropsy; the Salt of it provokes Sweat and Urine.

Friabilis, this is a Term for a Body that is compos'd of such Parts as it is easily divided or crumbled into small Particles.

Fricatio, is twofold, Dry and Moist; Dry, when the Body, or any part of it is rubb'd with the Hands, or dry Towels. Moist, is either with Water or Oil, or both mix'd together.

Frigus, a chilness or shivering that precedes a Paroxysm or Fit of an Intermitting Fever. It is also call'd Frigor, and is an Attendant of a Catarrh and Rheumatism.

Frons, the Forehead, is the upper part of the Face. It is also taken, among the Vegetables, for a Branch or Twig, or rather for the whole Product of the Branch.

Fritillaria, Fritillary.

Frontale, an external Medicine, frequently applied to the Forehead for a Pain or Heat in the Head. It is made, for the most part, of Herbs, Flowers, Seeds, Meal, moisten'd with Vinegar of Roses. A Frontlet.

Fructus, Fruit, is most commonly taken for the juicy and large Product of Trees or Shrubs, which contain also the Seeds, as Apples, Pears, Plumbs, &c. but in general relates to other Fruit also.

Frumentum, Bread-corn.

Frutex, is a Vegetable betwixt a Tree and an Herb, but of a woody Substance, a Shrub. See Thamnos.

Fucus, a Sea-herb, growing in the Isle of Candia, wherewith they die Linnen and Woollen into a Purple Colour. Women use it as a Cosmetick or Paint. See in the Alga of Hofman.

Fuligo, or Soot, is an Exhalation of an earthy Matter throughly burnt, and differs from Smoke or Vapour, which is an Exhalation half burnt, that proceeds from a moist or humid Matter. There is a Fuligo, or Soot, that the Painters use, which is made various ways, and from many things.

Fulminatio, the same with Detonatio.

Fumaria, five Fumus Terræ, Fumitory, it purges Choler, and purifies the Blood, and is much used for a Leprosy, the Itch, and other Diseases of the Skin; 'tis likewise commended for the French-Pox, it opens Obstructions of the Liver, and cures the Jaundice; 'tis much used in Whey in the Spring-time; 'tis also good for the Scurvy; the Juice or Water of it drop'd into the Eyes, cures dimness of Sight; being mix'd with Treacle, it is good for the Plague; an Ointment made of the Juice of Fumitory, and of sharp-pointed Dock, and a little Vinegar, cures the Itch.

Fumigatio Chymica, is an Erosion of Metal by Smoak or Vapour.

Fumus Terræ, the same with Fumaria.

Functio, the same with Actio.

Funda Galeni, a Swathe divided into into four parts, useful in Accidents that happen to the Jaw-bone.

Fungus, a Mushroom or Toad-stool, which either grows from Trees and Shrubs, or immediately comes forth of the Earth.

Fungus, soft spongy Flesh which grows upon Wounds. A Spongeous Excrescence.

Funisulus, Intestinum, Laqueus, or Ductus Umbilicalis, the Navel-string, is a membranous Channel or Conduct in a Fœtus, which reaches from the Navel to the Placenta in the Womb; it contains two Arteries, one Vein, and the Urinary Passage in the Fœtus.

Funis Arborum, is Smilax Levis, so call'd because it twists it self about the Trees.

Furcale Os, the same with Furcula.

Furcula Superior; the upper Bone of the Sternum, or Breast-bone. Others call it Jugulum.

Furcella, the same with Furcula.

Furfur, properly signifies a Husk, Shell, or Rind, that falls off Corn in grinding, and is what we call the Bran in Flour. Upon the Skin it is call'd Scurf or Dandriff, such as falls from the Head in combing, and from the Body in rubbing or scratching. It is also term'd Porrigo, being a dry Scale or Scab.

Furnus, a Furnace, or a Place where a Fire is conveniently kept for Chymical Uses; and it is either open or cover'd, round or four-square, &c.

Furor, the same with Mania.

Furor Uterinus, an unseemly Distemper, which is wont to seize upon Maids, especially those of riper Years, and sometimes Widows too. They who are troubled with it, throw off the common Veil of Modesty and Decency, and delight only in Lascivious obscene Discourses. They covet a Man greedily, and even furiously, and omit no inviting Temptations that may induce them to satisfy their Desires. At the beginning of this Disease they appear melancholy and silent, with lascivious Looks, their Countenance sometimes very red, sometimes pale; sometimes they will laugh, sometimes dance lasciviously, and promiscuously invite any Man to enter with them into a Venereal Commerce. The Cause seems to be in the Seminal Juice; which, being exalted to the highest degree of Maturity, drives the Maid into a kind of Fury; which is conspicuous every Year in some Brutes; as in Cats, Bulls, Bucks, Does, Harts. There is another Distemper akin to this, which the Ancients call'd Fervorem Matricis, or the Fervour of the Womb, or the Matrix, when the whole substance and body of the Womb is extream hot, accompanied with a pain and heaviness of the Loins, a roughness, by the growth of Hair, loathing, and a suppression of the Urine and Excrements; and the Woman all the while covets to be lain with, but by reason of Pain is still afraid of it. The Madness of the Womb.

Furunculus, sive Dothien, a Boil, is an acute Swelling as big as a Pigeon's Egg, attended with an Inflamation and Pain, especially when it begins to corrupt and putrify. When it is open'd, and the Matter let out, part of the Flesh underneath is turn'd into Corruption of a whitish and reddish Colour, which ſome call the Ventricle of the Furunculus. There is no Danger in it, tho' you apply no Remedy to it, for it ripens of it ſelf, and burſts; but the Pain makes it more convenient to apply a Remedy, becauſe it frees the Patient ſooner from his trouble.

Fuſio, a melting with exceſſive Heat, by the help frequently of Smiths Balliſes; as in the melting of Metals and Minerals.

Fuſor, a Glaſſmaker, who works in the Furnace, and proportions a due quantity of Aſhes and Sand together, ſo that by a vehement Fire they flux together, and make a white tranſparent body.

Fuſterna, the upper part of the Firr-tree; the undermoſt part is call'd Sapinea.

G

THe G of the Greeks, Γ, ſignifies as much as an Ounce among the Phyſicians.

Gagates, is a kind of the leſſer precious Stone, ſo call'd from the River Gagas in Lycia, or (according to others) in Cilicia, from a liquid Bitumen, or a fat bituminous Juice concreted, which burns in the Fire, and yields a Brimſtone ſmell.

Gala, the ſame as Milk.

Galactophori Ductus, are properly the Vaſa Lactea, or Lacteal Veſſels, or certain Ductus's which carry Milk, and convey the Chyle (as ſome modern Authors have fancied) a ſtreight way from the Guts to the Glandules of the Breaſts. Yet the Arteries were more properly ſo call'd, becauſe they carry the Chyle along with the Blood to the Breaſts, wherein Milk is reſerv'd for the uſe of the Fœtus. This Name is alſo given to the Glandulæ Mammariæ, or rather their little Chanels which convey the Milk into the Breaſts.

Galactopoietice Facultas, an Aptitude or Faculty to ſequeſter Milk in the Breaſts. Of the ſeparating of Milk, ſee in the word Lac.

Galanga, Galangal, which is of two ſorts, greater and leſſer; the leſſer is the beſt, taſting like Pepper. 'Tis aromatick, and of a red colour, coming from India and China. Galangal is uſed in all caſes wherein Ginger is uſed, and 'tis generally candy'd like Ginger. It provokes Appetite as Capers and Olives do; the freſh Root cut into ſlices is boil'd with Fleſh and Fiſh for the ſame purpoſe; 'tis alſo eaten raw with Oil, Salt, and Vinegar, with Fiſh and Fleſh, to help Concoction; 'tis uſed in the cold Diſeaſes of Man and Beaſt; 'tis cephalick, cardiack, and ſtomachick; it ſtrengthens the Stomach, and taketh off ſowre beliching; being chew'd in the Mouth, it diſcuſſes Wind and cures a ſtinking Breath being candy'd; it eaſeth Pain in the Limbs, is good for Diſeaſes of the Nerves, and Headach; 'tis good for Palpitation of the Heart being taken with the Juice of Plantane; the Powder of it taken in good Wine, Balm water, or in the Juice of Borage, cures Fainting, proceeding from a cold Cauſe.

Galbanetum, is a Compoſition of Galbanum.

Galbanum, a Gum, from the Plant call'd Metopion, or Ferula Galbaniſera, being yellow or whitiſh, tiſh, inflamable, and ſcented almoſt like to Opopanax. 'Tis alſo call'd Chalbanum.

Galbanum, is a fat Juice, but can't be diſſolv'd with Oil, in Water it may, being of a middle nature betwixt a Gum and a Roſin, for 'twill burn like Roſin, and diſſolve in Water like a Gum, in taſte bitteriſh and acrid, ſmelling very ſtrong. The chief Uſe of it is to mollifie and digeſt; 'tis uſed inwardly to provoke the Courſes, to haſten Delivery, to expel the Secundine and a dead Child; it is alſo outwardly uſed for Mother-fits and Vapours, a Plaiſter of it being apply'd to the Navel; the Fume of it is good for the Falling-ſickneſs, Mother-fits, Fainting, &c. The way to purifie it is, to diſſolve it in Vinegar, then ſtrein it thro' a Cloth; all the moiſture is to be evaporated away over the Fire, and by this means 'tis cleanſed indeed from Straws and ſome other Impurities that are contain'd in it, but then part of its volatile Spirits are evaporated at the ſame time, and in them conſiſt its greateſt Vertue, while others are fix'd by the Acid, which always hinders the motion of Volatiles. 'Tis therefore better to uſe it without this Purification, only powder it in a Mortar to mix it with what may be thought fit; but becauſe 'tis too moiſt to be powder'd, you muſt firſt cut it into ſlices, and then dry it in the Sun.

Galea, a Pain in the Head, ſo call'd from the likeneſs of the place, becauſe it takes in the whole Head, like an Helmet; in Latin Galea.

Galea, is likewiſe when the Head of the Fœtus is cloath'd with part of the Membrane call'd Amneos as it comes into the World.

Galea, a Chymical Veſſel, being that upon which a Retort is placed; of which in its proper place.

Galea 'tis alſo call'd when the Head of a new-born Child is cover'd with the Membrane Amneos. In Female Children 'tis call'd Vitta, of which the Women will tell you ſtrange Stories.

Galeanthropia, is ſaid to be a Species of melancholy Madneſs, like the Lycanthropia or Cynanthropia, when Men fancy themſelves to be Dogs and Cats.

Galenica Medicina, that Phyſick which is built upon the Principles of Galen, and therefore they are Galeniſts who embrace the Foundation of Art which is fetch'd from Galen, and the Philoſophers (prov'd by Reaſon, and confirm'd by Experience) found their Principles chiefly upon the four Elements of the Peripateticks; and hence their Notions of Temperaments, Humours, &c.

Galega, Goats-rue.

Galiancones, thoſe which have ſhort Arms.

Galiopſis, vel Gallopſis, the true Engliſh ſtinking Dead-nettle; the Juice of it given with Vinegar is good for the Hemorrhoides, taketh off Warts, and diſcuſſeth hard Tumors; a Decoction of it, or the Powder of the Herb, is commended for Diſeaſes of the Spleen.

Galla, a Gall, is a round Excreſcence on the Leaves of the Oak-tree. A certain kind of Flies or Inſects hide their Eggs within the Leaves; theſe producing a vaſt number of their own kind, eat the inner part of the Leaf, which by degrees turning hard and ſwelling, produce what we ſtile the Gall, or Oak-Apple, which is of a drying and burning nature.

Gallicus Morbus; ſee Lues Venerea.

Gallinaginis Caput; ſee Caput Gallinaginis.

Gallium, ſeu Galium, Ladies Bed-ſtraw. The tops of this Herb turn Milk like Rennet, the Herb (or Powder of it) ſtops Bleeding, and is recommended for Cancerous Ulcers.

Galreda, or Gelatina, Jelly, is a thickned, viſcous, and lucid juicy Subſtance; 'tis commonly made of the cartilaginous parts of Animals boil'd, as of Calves Feet, &c.

Gangamon, by moſt 'tis call'd the Omentum or Caul, becauſe (from the many Veins and Arteries wove together) it looks like a Fiſher's Net, which the Greeks call'd γάγγαμον.

Ganglion, an Humour in the Tendonous and Nervous Parts, proceeding from a Fall, Stroke, or otherwiſe; it reſiſts if ſtir'd, if preſt upon its Side, is not diverted, nor can be turn'd round.

Gangræna, a Gangrene, is a cadaverous Corruption of a Part, attended with a beginning of Stink, Blackneſs, and Mortification.

Gargareon, or Gargulio, the Uvula, which is a membranous or ſpongy Caruncle hanging in the Throat, at the end of the Palate, and is viſible upon opening the Mouth wide.

Gargariſma, a Gargariſm, is a liquid Medicine that cleanſes the Mouth and Parts adjacent, by gargling without ſwallowing, and 'tis either a Decoction wherein convenient Syrups are diſſolv'd, or diſtil'd Waters mixt with Syrups, and ſometimes with Mineral Spirits.

Gargariſmus, the ſame with Gargariſma.

Garyophyllata, Avens, a Herb, the Roots whereof ſmell like the Indian Caryophyllon or Cloves.

Garyophylli, the ſame with Caryophylli.

Gas, a term uſed by Helmont, and ſignifies a Spirit that will not coagulate, or the Spirit of Life, a Balſam preſerving the Body from corruption.

Gas pingue Sulphureum, that which kills People, eſpecially in ſubterraneous places.

Gas Sylveſtre ſive Ventoſum, the ſame with the Air.

Gas Siccum, Sublimate.

Gas Cereviſiæ, the Spirit which evaporates whilſt the Beer works in the Barrel.

Gas Salium, the ſame with Water, as alſo Grapes.

Gaſter, ſometimes ſignifies the whole Abdomen, ſometimes taken only for the Stomach, and ſometimes for the Womb.

Gaſtricus Succus, the Juice of the Stomach, which proceeding from its Glands into the Cavity, fermenteth and diluteth the Aliments.

Gaſtrocnemium, the Calf of the Leg, whence its Muſcles are called Gaſtrecnemii, from their ſwelling like a Belly.

Gaſtrocnemii Muſculi. See Gaſtrocnemium, the Muſcles of the Calf of the Leg.

Gaſtroepiploica, the Vein and Artery

Artery which goes to the Ventricle of the Caul.

Gaſtroraphia, a Connexion or a Suture in the Wounds of the Abdomen.

Gaſtrotomia, the cutting open of the Abdomen and Womb, as in a Sectio Cæſarea.

Gattaria, the ſame with Cattaria.

Gaudium, a Cheerfulneſs, proceeding from the apprehenſion of ſome Good obtain'd, or to be obtain'd; Joy.

Gelatina, à Gelare, or to congeal; almoſt the ſame with Galreda, but that is of more general ſignification, and is taken for any pellucid glutinous Juice, which uſed firſt to be made of the Juice of Fruits, as of Apples, &c. the Jelly of Quinces, &c.

Gemmæ, Precious Stones.

Gemmæ Sal, or Sal Foſſile, a ſort of common Salt taken out of Pits, and ſhines like Cryſtal, whence it hath got its denomination, Sal Gem.

Gemma, a Bud of a Tree.

Gemurſa, a Diſtemper in the Toes.

Gena, Mala, part of the Face, from the Noſe to the Ears; alſo the Chin, the Jaw-bone, which is either the upper or lower.

Generatio, a natural Action, whereby an Animal begets another like it of the ſame Species, of the ſame Seed in generation. The firſt thing we ſee is a red Speck, which is cloath'd with a little Bladder; next a little Heart, whence Veins and Arteries flow, at the extremity whereof you ſee the Viſcera, Bowels, &c. afterward the whole Fœtus is formed and cloath'd with Membranes. Before Generation the Seed of the Male being caſt into the Womb, enters and prepareth its Pores, afterward ſweats out a viſcous Subſtance like the White of an Egg, which moves the Egg out of the Teſticles and Tubes; for the Woman's Eggs being impregnated by the influence of the Seed, are emitted out of the Teſticles, and receiv'd by the Fallopian Tubes. Procreation or Generation.

Geniculata, an Herb ſo call'd, becauſe it has many Knots.

Geniculi, or Genicula, are the Knots which appear in Herbs, Shrubs, or Roots.

Genioglоſſum, five Meſoglоſſum, a pair of Muſcles proceeding inwardly from the Chin under another pair call'd Geniohyoides, and are faſtned in the Baſis of the Bone Hyoides.

Geniohyoides, Muſcles reaching from the internal and lower Seat of the Chin to the Baſis of the Bone Hyoides, which is placed at the Baſis of the Tongue.

Geniſta, Geneſta, or Geneſtra, Broom: The Leaves, Branches, or Tops boil'd in Wine or Water, or the Juice of 'em, are good in the Dropſy, and all Obſtructions of the Kidneys and Bladder, for they partly purge watery and ſuperfluous Humours by Stool, and partly by Urine; one dram of the Seed does the ſame. The Flowers (when they are green) are commonly pickl'd, and made agreeable Sauce of, for they provoke Appetite and force Urine. The Aſhes are moſt in uſe, and frequently commended in a Dropſy.

Geniſtella, a leſſer ſort of Broom.

Gentina, Gentian, the Root of it (which is chiefly uſed) is alexipharmick; 'tis uſed in the Plague and other contagious Diſeaſes, for Obſtructions of the Liver and Spleen, and the like; 'tis good for Mother-fits, weakneſs of the Stomach, Worms, Ague, and for the biting of a mad Dog; 'tis frequently uſed outwardly to dilate Ulcers, and to make Iſſues run. The compound Water of Gentian in the London Diſpenſatory is a good Preſervative againſt ill Air and contagious Diſeaſes, it opens Obſtructions of the Liver, ſtrengthens the Stomach, creates an an Appetite, and helps digeſtion. It is good for the Jaundice, and Womens Obſtructions. The Extract is alſo much in uſe.

Gentianella, a leſſer ſort of Gentian.

Genu, the Knee.

Geranium, or Roſtrum Gruinum, Cranes-bill, or Herb Robert; 'tis vulnerary, inwardly taken or outwardly applied; it ſtops Fluxes of the Blood, and reſolves coagulated Blood; it cleanſeth Wounds and Ulcers, expels Gravel, and eaſeth Cholical Pains; 'tis alſo commended for Ruptures; 'tis uſed outwardly in an Eryſipelas, and for Ulcers of the Mouth and Paps. Country People make a Decoction of it for Cattle, when they void Blood by Urine.

Gerocomia, a part of that part of Phyſick call'd Hygieina or Preſervation of Health, which teaches the way of living for old Men.

Gerſa, is much the ſame with Fœcula, and ſignifies a fine Powder of ſome Root, as of Snake-weed, Wake-robin, &c.

Geſtatio, that time wherein the Fœtus ſtays in the Mothers Womb, the time of Child-bearing.

Gibbus, one that's hunch-backt.

Gilla & Grillus, the emetic Salt of Vitriol. Some take it for the Subſtance of Vitriol diſſolv'd into a Liquor by a ſpontaneous diſſolution; others, for Sal Armoniack melted. Gilla is properly an Arabian Word, ſignifying as much as Salt.

Gingibrachium, the Scurvy, infeſting not only the Gums, but alſo the Arms.

Gingidium, the Name of a Syriac Herb.

Gingipedium, the ſame with Scorbutus, infeſting not only the Gums, but alſo the Feet.

Gingiva, the Gums, are a hard ſpurious ſort of Fleſh ſurrounding the Teeth like a Rampart, and in People that want Teeth, help to chew their Meat, which being either eat out, relaxed, or too dry, the Teeth ſhake or fall out.

Ginglymus, five Cardiniformis, a conjunction of Bones, when the Head of one is receiv'd into the Cavity of another, and again the Head of this into the Cavity of that.

Glacialis Humor; ſee Humor Oculi.

Gladiolus, a Plant whoſe Leaves repreſent a ſmall Sword, call'd Swordgraſs.

Glandula, a Glandule, is a Subſtance of a peculiar nature, fleſhy, white or grey, and fryable; and 'tis twofold, Adventitious, as thoſe Kernels that are ſometimes under the Armpits and in the Neck, the King's Evil, a ſwelling in the Larynx and middle of the Windpipe, &c. Or Perpetual and Natural, as the Thymas, Pancreas, Glandula Pinealis, &c. The Perpetual

is

is again twofold, either conglobated in one entire piece, which ſends the ſeparated Humours into the Veins, as the Pituitary Glandule, the Pinealis, the Glandules of the Meſentery, of the Groin, &c. Or conglomerated in a cluſter, which convey the Juice by their own Chanels into ſome notable Cavities of the Body, viz. the Pancreas, the Glandules of the Breaſt, the Salival Glandules, &c.

Glandula Guidonis, a Tumor like a Glandule, ſoft, ſingle, movable, without Root, and ſeparate from the adjacent Parts. The Glands of Avicenna ſeem to be a Ganglion.

Glandula Pinealis; ſee Conarium.

Glandula Pituitaria, a little Body in the Sella Equina, a place in the Brain ſo call'd, cover'd over with the Rete Mirabile in Brutes, but not in Man; it receives the Serous Humour from the Infundibulum and the Rete Mirabile, which it ſends into the Jugular Veins, and the Lymphatick Veſſels.

Glanduloſum Corpus, the ſame with Proſtata.

Glans, the ſame with Balanus and Suppoſitorium.

Glaſtea Bilis; ſee Bilis.

Glaucedo, the ſame with ——

Glaucoma, a fault in the Eye, or a tranſmutation of the Cryſtalline Humour into a grey or Sky-colour.

Glaucoſis, the ſame as Glaucoma.

Glene, the ſame with Pupilla; alſo the Cavity of a Bone which receives another within it.

Glenoides, two Cavities in the lower part of the firſt Vertebre of the Neck.

Globulus Naſi, the lower Cartilaginous movable part of the Noſe.

Globulus, or Nodus, ſignifies a round movable Tumor, with little pain, in the glandulous part of the Lip.

Gloſſa Lingua, that fleſhy fungous Part which is the Inſtrument of Speech and Taſte, call'd the Tongue.

Gloſſocatochos, a Chirurgeon's Inſtrument for depreſſing the Tongue, known by the Name of a Spatula.

Gloſſocomium, a Chirurgeon's Inſtrument for broken Limbs, ſo call'd from the ſhape of a Merchant's little Caſket, which was formerly carried upon the Back.

Glottis, the Chink of the Larynx, which is cover'd by the Epiglottis.

Gluma, the Huſk or Caſe of any Grain.

Glutea, Glutinum or Glue.

Glutia, that is the ſmall Nates or Teſtes of the Cerebellum, call'd Didymia.

Glutæus, the great Rotator of the Buttock and Thigh-bone.

Glycypicrum, is Dulcamara.

Glycyrrhiza, Liquorice; it is good for the Lungs and Reins, it mitigates Acrimony, helpeth Expectoration, and gently looſeneth Childrens Bellies; 'tis chiefly uſed for a Cough, Hoarſneſs, Conſumption, Pleuriſie, Eroſions of the Bladder, and ſharpneſs of Urine.

Gnaphalium, call'd alſo Centunculus & Centuncularis Herba, Cudweed; the diſtil'd Water of it is of excellent uſe for Cancers, eſpecially of the Breaſt, for it hinders their growth, and prevents their breaking, Rags being dipt into it and applied to them; but some dip Leaves of Asarabacca in the Water, and apply 'em to Cancers. 'Tis of a drying and astringent nature; the Herb infused in Oil is used to take off black and blue Bruises and Stripes.

and

Gnathos, is ambiguously taken sometimes for the Cheek, at other more strictly for the Maxilla, or all that space which reaches from Ear to Ear; sometimes again for the whole Bones of the Jaw, in which the Teeth are fix'd.

Gomphiasis, or Agomphiasis, a Distemper of the Teeth, when they are loose and ready to drop out.

Gomphoma, the same with Gomphosis.

Gomphos, when the Pupil of the Eye, going beyond a little Skin of the Tunica Uvea, is like that Swelling of hard Flesh in the corner of the Eye, call'd Clavus.

Gomphosis, or Conclavatio, is when one Bone is fasten'd into another like a Nail; as may be seen in the Teeth.

Gonagra, the Gout in the Knee.

Gongrona, every Tumor happening to the Nervous Parts with hardness and roundness.

Gongyle, or Strongyle, the Root of a Turnep.

Gonimos, a Fæcundity to Generation.

Gonorrhœa, a too great effusion of Seed; and 'tis either Simple, when crude thin Seed (not white neither) is emitted, and that rather from the Prostates than the Seminary Vessels; or Virulent, when a poisonous liquid Substance, of a white or yellowish colour is ejected. An involuntary emition of Seed.

Gonorrhœa Chordata, is when (together with a Gonorrhœa) the Urethra is bent like a Bow with Pain downwards. A Cordée, a Symptom sometimes attending a very virulent Clap.

Gonisalgia, a Pain or Gout in the Knee, the same with Gonagra.

Gossipium, seu Gossypium, Cotton; being burnt, it stops bleeding, especially of Wounds; the Marrow of the Seed relieveth those that are subject to a Cough and difficulty of breathing. The Oil of the Pith of the Seed takes off Spots from the Skin; the Down fired and put under the Nostrils, preventeth Mother-fits. It grows in the Island of Crete, betwixt Jerusalem and Damascus, where are whole Fields sown with it.

Gracilis Musculus, the Muscle of the Leg, arising from the jointing of the Os Pubis, and ending in the Tibia.

Gradus, a Degree. This had formerly a relation to the degrees of Heat, Cold, drying and moistning qualities of Medicines, but now among the Chymists is apply'd chiefly to the degrees of Fire, to be observ'd in Distillations or Digestions.

Gramen, Grass.

Gramma, the same with Scrupulus.

Grana Paradisi. See Cardamomum.

Granatum, Pomegranate; it grows in France, Italy, and Spain. The Apples are reckon'd to contain a good Juice that is agreeable to the Stomach, but it yields little Nourishment. Pomegranates, with respect to their taste, are distinguish'd into sweet, acid, and and vinous; the ſweet, and the Syrup of 'em, are us'd for Chronical Coughs, and a Pleuriſy; the acid are cold and aſtringent, and ſtomachick, wherefore they and the Syrup of them are us'd to quench Thirſt, for Fevers, the running of the Reins, for Ulcers of the Mouth, and the like; the vinous are of a middle Nature, betwixt acid and ſweet, they are cordial and cephalick, and chiefly us'd for Fainting and Giddineſs, and the like.

Granatus, the Granate, a ſhining tranſparent Gem, of a yellow red, almoſt like Fire, being a kind of a Hyacinth, and is either Oriental or Occidental. The Oriental is the beſt. The Occidental is found in Spain, Bohemia, and Sileſia, but the Bohemian exceed the other two ſorts.

Grandinoſum Os, the ſame with Cuboides.

Grando; ſee Chalaſia.

Granulatio, is nothing but the reduction of melted Metal into Grains. Granulatio.

Granum, a Grain, is the leaſt Weight we uſe. They take inſtead of it ſometimes white Pepper-corns, twenty make a Scruple.

Graphoides, a Proceſs like a Pen for a Table-book, about the Baſis of the Brain inclining downward. Graphoides is alſo call'd the Muſculus Digaſtricus. See in its proper place.

Gratia Dei, a Plaiſter ſo call'd, made of Wax, Roſin, Suet, Turpentine, Maſtich, and Olibanum. Sometimes Verdigreaſe is added to it.

Gratiola, & Gratia Dei, Hedge-Hyſſop.

Gravedo, the ſame with Coryza.

Grillus; ſee Gilla.

Groſſularia, ſive Uva Criſpa, Gooſeberry; the Fruit is very agreeable to the Stomach, being boil'd in Broth before they are ripe. They do good in a Fever, they provoke Appetite, and ſtop Fluxes of the Belly. They alſo cure a Gonorrhœa, and the Whites. They are outwardly apply'd for Inflamations, and St. Anthony's Fire; but before they are ripe many of them muſt not be eaten, for they occaſion the Cholic and Gripes. Wine is made of them when they are ripe.

Groſſus, an unripe Fig.

Grumus, is any liquid thing concreted or coagulated into a maſs.

Grus, a Chirurgeon's Inſtrument, or Forceps, reſembling the Beak of a Crane.

Gryphus, a ſort of Forceps, like the Beak of a Griffin.

Guaiacum, or Lignum Sanctum, the Wood of a tall Tree growing in the Weſt-Indies.

Guaiacum, ſive Lignum Sanctum, is an Exotick Tree growing in America. There are different kinds of it: The Wood is ponderous, of a yellowiſh colour, with reſinous blackiſh veins, and a biting taſte. The Wood, Gum, and Bark, are uſed in Phyſick. In curing the French-Pox, there is no Medicine better or ſurer than the Decoction of Guaiacum, for if the Cure be manag'd as it ought, and the Decoction be taken in due time, it is a certain Cure for this Diſeaſe. It is alſo good for the Dropſy, for an Aſthma, the Falling-ſickneſs, for Diſeaſes of the Bladder and Reins, and for Pains in the Joints, and for all Diſeaſes pro-proceeding from cold Tumors and Wind. The Spaniards learnt the Use of it from the Indians. The Oil of it is good for the Tooth-ach: Tho' Guaiacum be a very dry body, yet abundance of Liquor is drawn from it; for if you put into a Retort four Pounds of this Wood, 16 Ounces to the Pound, you will draw 39 Ounces of Spirit and Flegm, and 5 Ounces and an half of Oil.

Gula; see Pharynx.

Gumma Gallicum, the eating out a Bone in the French-Pox, or in some other Diseases.

Gummi, Gum, is a concrete Juice flowing from Trees or Herbs.

Gum Ammoniacum, chuse that which is without Sand, and clear within, which burns clear when it is fir'd, and softens, and sticks to the Hands when handled, and flies into many shining pieces when it is knock'd with an Hammer. It will dissolve in Water, it smells stronger than Galbanum, and has a bitterish taste. It attenuates and resolves, and draws violently, and moves the Belly; 'tis chiefly used for Pains of the Gout, to resolve the viscid and thick Mucilage of the Lungs and Mesentery, and for obstinate Obstructions of the Liver, Spleen, and Womb, and for the Stone; 'tis used outwardly for a Scirrhus, for the King's-Evil, and to dissolve other hard Swellings. The Spirit of Ammoniacum is a good Remedy against the Plague, and all sorts of malignant Diseases; 'tis used in the Scurvy, and all manner of Obstructions. The Oil of it is good for the Palsy, and Hysterical Diseases, the diseas'd Parts being rub'd with it, and it is given Women to smell to.

Gum Arabick, the most transparent and whitest is the best, it will easily dissolve in Water, it mitigates Acrimony, and is good for Fluxes, Coughs, and Catarrhs.

Gum Caranna, the Indians use it for Tumors, and all sorts of Pain; 'tis commended for those Diseases which Tacamahaca is wont to cure; but it is more effectual than that. It is brought from Carthagena.

Gum Copal, 'tis very clear and transparent. The Indians use it in their Sacrifices for Perfumes; and their Priests use it so frequently in their Temples, that when the Spaniards came into those Parts first, they smelt it. It is good for cold Diseases of the Head, and may serve instead of Frankincense, and Gum Animæ; 'tis also good for fresh Wounds. It comes from the West-Indies.

Gum Elemi, it is of the colour and consistence of Wax, it tastes somewhat bitterish, and smells like Fennel; it discusses Tumors, cleanses sordid Ulcers, and cicatrizes them; it is of excellent Vertue in Wounds of the Head, and therefore Practitioners always use it in Plaisters and Ointments for Fractures of the Scull, and Wounds of the Head.

Gum Gutta, it is a concreted Juice of a yellow colour, and if it be moisten'd with Spittle, it becomes more yellow. What Plant it comes from is uncertain, but it is a great Commodity in the East-Indies.

Gum Lac, it is the Juice of an Indian Tree, call'd Malus Indica by the Portuguese. 'Tis not certainly known how it is made, the best beſt comes from Pegu and Martaban; 'tis twofold, Seed Lac and Shellac; 'tis alſo factitious, it attenuates and opens, and purifies the Blood, and provokes Sweat, and is Diuretick; 'tis chiefly uſed in Obſtructions of the Liver, Spleen, and Gall-bladder; 'tis good in a Dropſy, for the Jaundice, and an Aſthma, and Impoſthumes of the Lungs, to expel Malignity, and to force the Courſes. The Species call'd Dialacca, is much commended by moſt Phyſicians. The fine hard Sealing-wax is made of Gum Lac.

Gum Olibanum, or Frankincenſe, it heats, drys, and is aſtringent; 'tis chiefly uſed inwardly for Diſeaſes of the Head and Breaſt, and for Fluxes of the Belly and Womb, for a Cough, and ſpitting of Blood; but the inward Uſe of it is much diſlik'd by ſome, for they ſay it occaſions Madneſs; 'tis us'd outwardly for Fumes, to ſtrengthen the Head, and to ſtop Catarrhs; it incarnates Ulcers, and cures Wounds; mix'd with Lard, it cures Chilblains; it eaſes the pain of Ulcers of the Fundament, powder'd and mix'd with Milk; 'tis mingled with Plaiſters, Ointments, and Balſams, to cleanſe and incarnate Ulcers and Wounds; but the chief Uſe of it is in Fractures of the Scull, being powder'd, and mix'd with the White of an Egg, and apply'd to the Temples, it does good for an Hemicrania, and the Headach; infuſed in ſweet Wine, and drop'd hot into the Ears, it eaſes the pain of them, and cures Ulcers in them. The Bark of the Frankincenſe is more effectual than the Frankincenſe it ſelf, and is more aſtringent.

Gum Opopanax, the Herb call'd Panax Herculis being cut, eſpecially in the Root, the Juice flows out in the Summer-time, which is call'd Opopanax; 'tis good for Wounds, it mollifies, digeſts, and diſcuſſes Wind, purges thick and clammy Flegm from the remote Parts, from the Head, Nerves, and Joints. The beſt is yellow without, and white or yellowiſh within; it taſtes very bitter, and ſmells ſtrong; 'tis of a fat conſiſtence, diſſolves eaſily in Water, and is light and fryable.

Gum Sagapenum; the Plant whoſe Juice it is, is unknown; it opens, diſcuſſes, attenuates, and cleanſes. 'Tis uſed for Pains of the Side and Breaſt, and for Ruptures. It cleanſes the Lungs of thick Matter that ſticks to them. 'Tis uſed in the Falling-ſickneſs, and for Diſeaſes of the Spleen, and the Palſy. It provokes the Courſes; and taken in Wine, it cures thoſe that are bit by Venomous Creatures. It takes off Mother-fits, being held to the Noſtrils; 'tis reckon'd among the ſtrongeſt Purges; but Meſne ſays, it hurts the Stomach and Liver; it may be corrected with Maſtich, Spike, and the like; it muſt not be uſed to Women with Child, for it kills the Child; 'tis outwardly uſed for a Pleuriſy, and other Tumors, for it reſolves and eaſes Pain; the Fume of it takes off a Fit of the Falling-ſickneſs, and cures the little Excreſcences on the Eye-lids call'd Hordeola.

Gum Sarcocolla, 'tis ſo call'd becauſe it agglutinates Fleſh; it is beſt when it is freſh, and of a paliſh colour; for when it is old, it grows

grows reddish, has a bitter taste, and is of a Porous Substance, and easily dissolves in Water; it heats, drys, and is astringent; it consolidates, glutinates, ripens, and concocts; 'tis chiefly used for cicatrizing and healing of Wounds; 'tis excellent for Fluxions, for the Albugo and Nubeculæ of the Eyes, being infused in Womens Milk, and mix'd with Rose-water.

Gum Tacamahaca, 'tis much used by the Indians in Tumors of all kinds, in any part of the Body, it wonderfully resolves, ripens, and discusses; it takes away all Pains, proceeding from Cold and Flegmatick Humours; the Fume of it takes off Mother-fits; 'tis commonly apply'd in the form of a Plaister, to the Navel, in Hysterick Diseases; it stops all Defluxions from the Head, being wrapt in a Cloth, and apply'd behind the Ears; being apply'd in the form of a Plaister to the Temples, it diverts Defluxions on the Eyes and other parts of the Face; it cures the Tooth-ach, the hollow Tooth being stopt with it; 'tis also good for Pains of the Hips and Joints, proceeding from cold Humours.

Gum Tragacanth, opens Obstructions, and attemperates Acrimony, 'tis used in Medicines for the Eyes, for Coughs and Hoarseness, and Distillations, it eases the Pain of the Kidneys, and Erosions of of the Bladder; 'tis good for the Bloody-flux used in Clysters, and dissolv'd in Milk or Rose-water; it takes off Redness of the Eyes, and stops sharp Distillations on them; a Mucilage is made of it in Water to form other Medicines; for instance, Troches, it flows from the Root; being cut, that which is brought to us is glutinous, white, or yellow, and of a sweetish taste.

Gurgulio, the same with Cion.

Gustus, the Taste, is a Sense, whereby the Soul perceives the taste of things, from the Motion of the Nerve inserted into the Tongue and Palate for that purpose.

Gutta Gamandra; or Gutta Gamba, a concrete Juice or Gum brought from the East-Indies first not above 50 Years ago, but especially from China and Siam. 'Tis of an Orange colour, and brought to us often in Canes. 'Tis also call'd Gutta Gemau, Catta Gauma, vel Gemu, Gummi Peruvianum, sive de Peru, de Jemu, de Gamandra; and by others, Succus Cambici, vel Cambrici.

Guttalis Cartilago, the same with Arytænoides.

Gutta Rosacea, a Redness with Pimples, wherewith the Cheeks, Nose, and whole Face is deformed as if it were sprinkled with red Drops; these Pimples or Wheals often increase, so that they render the Face rough and horrid, and the Nose monstrously big.

Gutta Serena, the same with Amaurosis.

Gutteta, is a kind of Powder call'd Pulvis Gutteta, used by the French in all Pains in general, deriv'd from the Word Goutte in French, which signifies a Convulsion or Spasm, for which this is given, as well as all obstinate Head-achs.

Guttur, the same with Larynx.

Gutturis Os, the same with Hyoides Os.

Gutterniformis Cartilago, the same

ſame with Arytænoides.

Gymnaſtica, the ſame with Euectica.

Gynæcia, in general, are the Accidents incident to Women; but Hippocrates takes 'em more ſtrictly for the Courſes. They are alſo taken for the Purgations of Women after Delivery. See Menſtrua.

Gynæcomaſtum, a growing of the Breaſts.

Gynæcomyſtax, a Tuft of Hair at the upper part of a Woman's Secrets; from this ſome take their eſtimate of the Temperament of the Womb and the Teſticles.

Gypſos, Gypſum, Plaiſter made by Art, from a Stone ſo call'd, that is burnt or calcin'd, as Lime from the Limeſtone. There are two ſorts of it, one Native, or a Foſſile from the Earth; the other Factitious, from a white Stone like Alabaſter.

H

H*Abena*, a ſort of Chirurgical Bandage, whereby the Lips of Wounds are drawn together inſtead of ſtitching.

Habitus, the ſame with Hexis.

Hæma, Sanguis, Blood, or that Vital Liquor moſt familiar and agreeable to Nature.

Hæmalops, when the Eye is Bloodſhot by a Fall, or any other Accident.

Hæmatoides, whoſe Roots are of a Colour like Blood, a ſort of Geranium.

Hæmatites, a dark-red Stone, found chiefly in the Iron Mines. It grows in Bohemia, and other Places; but the Spaniſh is the beſt. 'Tis taken inwardly to ſtop the Effuſion of Blood; whence it is call'd the Blood-ſtone.

Hæmatoſis, Sanguificatio, depends principally upon the Fermentation, Diſſolution, and Union of Particles, to wit, Spirit, Sulphur, and Salt, eſpecially upon the Inſpiration of Nitrous Air, which accends the Sulphureous Blood in the Lungs. Sanguificatio is perform'd in all the parts of the Body, and not in any particular part, as the Heart, Liver, or Spleen.

Hæmoderum, Dyers-Broom.

Hæmodia, a great pain in the Teeth, which proceeds from acid and auſtere Particles, which penetrate the Pores of the Teeth, whence the Nerves, being vellicated and contracted, cauſe pain.

Hæmophobus, one that fears to be let blood.

Hæmoptoica, are thoſe things which cure ſpitting of Blood.

Hæmoptyſis, is the ſpitting up of Blood from the Lungs, which proceeds either from a ſweating out at the Glandules of the Larynx, with which its Tunick is cloath'd within, (to wit, when the openings of the Arteries are too much relax'd) or from ſome great Veſſels that are broke, or out of the little Bladders of the Lungs themſelves.

Hæmorrhagia, a Flux of Blood at the Noſtrils, Mouth, or Eyes, but is eſpecially underſtood of the firſt.

Hæmorrhoides, ſwelling Inflamations in the Rectum, or about the Fundament, red and painful, that ſometimes ſends forth Blood or Matter. Hæmorrhoides Cæcæ, are Tumors in thoſe Parts without any emition of Blood, for when they do, they are call'd Hæmorrhoides Apertæ. They are call'd Intarnæ, or Internal, if they are within within the Fundament; and Externæ, or External, if without. Sometimes no Blood, but a purulent Matter iſſues thence. The Hæmorrhoides or Piles. Hæmorrhoidis Vena, is a Branch of the Vena Portæ, proceeding from thence to the Inteſtinum Rectum, near the Fundament.

Hagioſpermum, is Semen Santonici.

Hæmoſtaticum, a Medicine to ſtop Blood.

Halicacabum, is Fructus Alkekengi.

Halimus, the ſame with Halymus.

Halinitron, Salt of Nitre.

Halmyrax, a Species of Nitre.

Halo, a red ſpot of Fleſh which ſurrounds each Nipple in the Breaſts.

Haloſanthos, Salis Flos, vel Flos Maris, ſuch as comes from the River Nile, and ſome Lakes.

Halymus, or rather Halimus, Sea-Purſlain.

Halmycis, a ſort of Sea-Cabbage.

Hama, when a Doſe is took off at once.

Hamalgama, for Amalgama; i. e. Calcination by Mercury.

Hamma, the ſame with Amma.

Hamus & Hamulus, a Hook, a Chyrurgical Inſtrument, uſed for extracting a dead Child or Mole. And ſometimes 'tis the Name of a Bandage.

Harmala, the ſame as wild Rue.

Hamus; ſee Cuſpis.

Harundo, is Arundo.

Harmonia, is in a general ſignification a proportion of the Members or Qualities, or in the mixture of Medicines, but more particularly a joining of Bones by a plain Line, as may be ſeen in the Bones of the Noſe and Palate.

Hauſtus, or Potio, a liquid Medicine, taken inwardly, made into one Doſe of ſeveral Ingredients, mix'd with a ſuitable Liquor, by Decoction, Infuſion, or Diſſolution, to purge, alter, or ſweat.

Hebdomada, a Week, or the ſpace of ſeven Days, to be reckon'd in a Criſis.

Hebenum, the ſame with Ebenus, Ebony; the Wood is black like Pitch and ſmooth as poliſh'd Ivory; 'tis good for Diſeaſes of the Eyes. A Man that was ſeiz'd with flatulent Convulſions, was cured by uſing a Decoction of Ebony for the ſpace of 40 Days, whereby he ſweated much.

Hebiſcus, the ſame as Hibiſcus.

Hecatontaphyllum, a Roſe full of Leaves.

Hectica Febris, this hath a double ſignification; firſt, every Fever is ſo call'd that is hard to diſcharge, then particularly ſo, as oppoſite to a Putrid one; for the Hectick is in the Habit of the Body, and is fix'd in the ſolid parts, as in its Subject, being indeed a preternatural Heat burning in the ſolid part of the Heart. Or, ſecondly, 'tis a hot and dry Habit or Temperament of the whole Body, with various Symptoms, but eſpecially of external heat in the Hands and Feet after eating, leanneſs of the Body, profuſe Sweats in the Night, &c. ariſing from a preternatural Effervеſcence and Colliquation of the Blood, which is ſlow and conſtant.

Hedera, Ivy.

Hedera Terreſtris, ſive Corona Terræ, or Chamæciſſus, Ground-Ivy.

'Tis

'Tis vulnerary, either outwardly apply'd, or taken inwardly; 'its also Diuretick, and moves the Courses; 'tis frequently used for Diseases of the Lungs, for Obstructions of the Kidneys, and for the Jaundice, and in Clysters for the Cholick; it clears Beer, and therefore is call'd Ale-hoof; the Juice of it drawn up into the Nostrils, cures inveterate and violent Headachs; a Tincture of the Leaves made into Nants Brandy, is excellent in the Cholick.

Hedra. See Eccope.

Hedychroum, is a Medicine of a pleasant Colour.

Hedyosmos. See Mentha.

Hedypnois, a sort of Succory.

Hedysarum, Honey-suckle.

Hedysma, any thing that gives Medicines a good scent.

Hegemonicæ, are the principal Actions in Humane Body, as the Actions Animal and Vital.

Helcoma, the same with an Exulceration; 'tis also call'd Helcysma, and Helcosis.

Helcos, the same with Ulcus, or an Ulcer.

Helcydria, are certain little Ulcers, thick and red in the Skin of the Head, like the Nipples of the Breasts, which send forth Matter.

Helctica. See Attrahentia.

Heliosis, a Sunning.

Helix, the Exterior Brim of the Ear, so call'd from its Winding. The Interior is call'd Scapha.

Heleagnus, Mirtle of Brabant.

Helenium, or Elenium, Enula Campana, and Inula, Elecampane.

Helianthe, and Helianthemum, or Helianthon, or Helianthos, Sunflower.

Helice, a sort of Willow.

Heleochrysum, a Name whereby various yellow Flowers are call'd.

Helioscopios Tithymallus, a sort of Tithymal, that turns to the Sun.

Heliosia, is Sunning one's self.

Heliotropium, a Name given to all Plants that turn to the Sun.

Helix, is Hedera.

Helleborine, is Elleborine.

Helleborus, is Elleborus.

Hellecebra, is Illecebra.

Helminthagoga, Medicines that expel Worms, the same with Helminthica.

Helminthica, Medicines that kill Worms.

Helminthes. See Elminthes.

Helodes. See Elodes.

Helos, or Clavus, a round, white callous Swelling of the Foot, like the head of a Nail, and fix'd with Roots in the hard Skin of the Foot, commonly call'd a Corn.

Heloses, a reflex'd Inversion of the Eyelid, and a Convulsion in both the Muscles of the Eye.

Helxine. See Parietaria.

Hemeralopia, Hemeralops, or Acies Nocturna, when one sees better in the Night than in the Day.

Hemerocallis, a sort of Lilly that opens it self in a clear Day, shuts or contracts it self in the Night.

Hemicraunius, formerly the Name of a Bandage for the Back and Breast.

Hemidrachmon, half a Dram.

Hemiecton, half a Sextary; it also seems to signify a kind of Chair, whereby Women may receive Fumes.

Hemicrania, an Headach in either part of the Brain.

Hemina Italica, a Measure containing half an Attic Sextary, and nine Ounces. So much is a Cotyla Attica, and a Cotyla Italica is twelve Ounces.

Hemiobolion, the twelfth part of a Dram.

Hemiolium, ſeu Seſquiuncia, Seſcuncia, an Ounce and an half, or twelve Drams.

Hemiphragia, the ſame with Hemicrania.

Hemiplegia, a Palſy on one ſide below the Head, proceeding from an Obſtruction in one part or other of the Spinal Marrow; or from a Blow, whence it comes to paſs, that the Animal Spirits are obſtructed in their Paſſage.

Hemiplexia, the ſame with Hemiplegia.

Hemionitis, a ſort of Aſplenum.

Hemitritæus, a Semitertian Ague; but whether there be any ſuch thing, is much queſtion'd.

Hemiuncion, half an Ounce.

Hemixeſton, the ſame with Hemina.

Henophyllum, or Unifolium, an Herb call'd One-blade.

Hepar, ſive Jecur, the Liver, a Parenchymous Subſtance plac'd under the right ſide of the Diaphragm, pretty thick and large in Man; 'tis cloath'd with a thin Membrane, which proceeds from the Peritonæum and is faſten'd to other parts with three ſtrong Ligaments. 1. To the Abdomen, by the Navel-vein. 2. Upwards, to the Diaphragm, by a broad thin Membraneous Ligament on the right ſide. 3. To the Diaphragm likewiſe, by a round and exceeding ſtrong Ligament; the Bladder of the Gall, and the Ductus Hepaticus, are in a low flat part; 'tis of a reddiſh colour. Its Subſtance ſeems to be compounded of ſeveral Membranes and Cluſters, or Glandules join'd together like concreted Blood, which I obſerved from frequently waſhing it. The Blood of the Spleen, which is carry'd thither by the Vena Porta, does in ſome meaſure ferment in the Liver, with the Arterious Blood which the Cœliac Artery affords, (to wit, when, after Nutrition, it is diſcharg'd into the Veins again) and diſſolves the Contexture of the Blood, whereupon its Saline Sulphureous Particles, which conſtitute the Gall, are ſegregated by the Glandulous Cluſters, and convey'd to the Gut Duodenum by the Bladder of the Bile and the Ductus in the Liver, call'd Hepaticus. There are no Lobes in a Man's Liver, but in Brutes it is divided into ſeveral Portions, which they call Lobes. The Ancients believ'd, that the Chyle was elaborated and ſanguified in the Liver, whilſt only its Bilious Recrements are ſeparated there.

Hepar Uterinum, the ſame with Placenta Uteri.

Hepatica Vena, the ſame with Baſilica.

Hepatica, were formerly Medicines ſuppos'd to have a ſpecifick quality to cure Diſeaſes of the Spleen; but theſe ſort of Specificks are now out of doors.

Hepatica, Liver-wort; 'tis chiefly us'd in Obſtructions of the Liver and Bladder; 'tis good in the Jaundice, for the Itch, and a Gonorrhœa; outwardly apply'd, it ſtops Blood in Wounds.

Hepaticus Fluxus, vel Morbus; Dejection of a watry ſharp Blood, like the waſhing of Fleſh, when the Nervous Juice or watery Blood (being not rightly concocted, but ſharp) is diſcharg'd into the Guts. Alſo when black, ſhining, dry'd

Blood

Blood is driven into the Guts. The Diſeaſe is ſo call'd becauſe they attributed Sanguification to the Liver.

Hepatorium, is Eupatorium.

Hepiala, the ſame with Epiala.

Heptapharmacum, a ſuppurating incarnating Remedy, ſo called from the number of its Ingredients, being ſeven, as Ceruſe, Litharge, Wax, Pitch, Colophony, Suet, and Frankincenſe.

Heptaphyllum, ſeu Septifolium, the Tormentil; it drys and is very aſtringent, wherefore there is no Remedy more proper for Fluxes in the Belly and Womb, than the Roots of Tormentil; beſides, they are Diaphoretick and Alexipharmick, wherefore they are us'd in all Medicines, for the Plague, and Malignant Diſeaſes; eſpecially when Fluxes of the Belly accompany them: Moreover, they are mixt with vulnerary Potions, Ointments, and Plaiſters, for they cure old and putrid Ulcers; half a Dram, or a Dram of the Extract of Tormentil, is much commended for curing an Epidemick Dyſentery, Rhubarb being uſed before if there be occaſion.

Heptapleuron, is the greater Plantane. See Plantago.

Heraclea, this Name is given to divers Plants, but for what reaſon I know not.

Heracleios, Morbus Herculeus, a ſort of Epilepſy that is very obſtinate, and difficult to cure.

Heracleoticum, is Origanum.

Herba, a Plant leſs than a Shrub, or that which has Leaves from the Root; it comes up without a Trunk, and often bears its Seed in its Stalk; but in the Phyſical Practice it is only uſed for the Leaves.

Herba Benedicta. See Caryophyllata.

Herba Sacra. See Periſteron.

Herba Stellæ. See Coronopus.

Herculeus Morbus, the ſame with Epilepſia.

Hereditarii Morbi, are thoſe Diſeaſes which the Parents had, and have already ſeiz'd the Children, as the Gout, Conſumption, and Stone. Hereditary Diſeaſes.

Hermophroditus, ſuch are call'd Hermophrodites the conformation of whoſe Genitals are amiſs, ſo that the Pudenda or privy Parts of either Sex ſeem to be wanting, or elſe both appear in the ſame Perſon. Thoſe which have the Man's Parts moſt apparent are call'd Androgyni. But the moſt learned Authors are of Opinion, That no Hermophrodite whatever hath the perfect Genitals of both Sexes.

Hermetica Medicina, which the Ægyptians falſly fetch'd from Mercury, refers the Cauſe of Diſeaſes to Salt, Sulphur, and Mercury, and prepares moſt Noble Medicines, not only of Vegetables and Animals, but of Minerals too. Hermetick Medicines.

Hermeticè Sigillare, is often expreſt by theſe two Letters only, viz. H. S. to ſeal Hermetically, is to ſtop a Glaſs ſo as nothing can exhale, either by melting the Glaſs, or by a Lute of another kind.

Hermodactylus, a round-headed Root. 'Tis brought from Syria. It has an inſipid taſte, and purges gently.

Hernia, or Rämex, properly the falling of the Inteſtines, Caul, &c. by the Proceſſes of the Peritonæum dilated into the Groin. Alſo a Protuberance of the Navel. The falling down of the Womb is improperly so call'd. Also Swelling in the Larynx, windy Tumors of the Spermatick Vessels, Distentions from flatulent Matter. Watery Humours or Swellings.

Hernia Guttalis, the same with Bronchocele.

Hernia Scrotalis, when the Testicles grow too big, by reason of the too violent Use of Venery.

Hernia Veneris, the same with Hernia Scrotalis.

Hernia Uteri, it is rare, and chiefly occasion'd by the Relaxation and falling down of the inward Coat of the Sheath. See Procidentia Uteri. The bearing down of the Womb.

Herniaria, Herba Turca, and Polygonum Minus, Rupture-wort, Burst-wort, Knot-grass.

Herpes, a spreading and winding Inflamation; 'tis twofold, either Miliaris, or Pustularis, like Millet-seed, which seizes the Skin only, and itches; or Exedens, consuming, which not only seizes the Skin, but the Muscles underneath. The cause of it is, that the Glandules of the Skin are too much stuff'd with salt Particles, which, if the peccant Matter abound, grow into a Crust, and eat the Parts they lie upon. A Ring-worm, or Hair-worm.

Hesperis, a sort of Leucoium.

Heterocrania, a pain in one part or other of the Head; the same with Hemicrania.

Heterogeneum, five Anomeomeres, when any thing disproportionate is mix'd with the Blood and Spirits, as in Fevers, Swimmings in the Head, explosive Motions, and the Apoplexy.

Heterorythmus, a Life unsuitable to the Years of those who live it; as if a Young Man should live an Old Man's Life, and on the contrary. This Word is said of Pulses too, when in Diseases the Pulse beats diversly.

Hexagium, four Scruples. Some say it is a Dram and a half, or four Scruples and a half. The Latins call it Sextula.

Hexis, a Habit, or Habitude of Body.

Hibiscus. See Ibiscus.

Hidroa, Sudamina, Papulæ Sudorales & Sudosæ, Pimples about the Neck, Shoulders, Breast, Arms, and Hips, but especially about the Secret Parts, proceeding from a sharp Humour, most commonly in the Heat of the Summer, and among Young People.

Hidrocritica, critical Judgings of Distempers, taken from Sweating.

Hidronosus, a Fever, wherein the Patient sweats extreamly. The English call it the English Sweat, or Sweating Fever.

Hidropyretos, is Sudor Anglicus.

Hidros, the same with Sudor.

Hidrotica, seu Sudorifera, things that provoke Sweating, are those which by their fermenting and attenuating parts, penetrate the closest Pores of the Blood, cut into and ratify them, and turn 'em into a kind of Vapour; whatever they meet they carry along with 'em, and drive it into the Surface of the Body, where, being condensed into an insensible Liquor, it makes its way out. Sudorifick Medicines.

Hierobotane. See Peristeron.

Hieracium. See Hawk-weed.

Hiera Picra, an Electuary of Aloes, Lignum-Aloes, Spikenard, Saf-

Saffron, Maſtich, Honey, &c.

Hieroglyphicæ Notæ, are foldings and wrinkles in the Hand; from which vain Curioſity ſome pretend to predict ſtrange things. Chiromancy.

Hippocampus, not only a Sea-fiſh, but alſo the Proceſſes of the upper or foremoſt Ventricles of the Brain.

Hippocratica Facies. See Facies Hippocratica.

Hippocratis Manica. See Manica Hippocratis.

Hippogloſſum. See Hypogloſſum.

Hippolapathum, Rhabarbarum Monachorum, ſeu Lapathum Magnum, Monks-Rhubarb, or Garden-Patience, the Root purges Choler and watery Humours; thoſe that uſe it for Rhubarb, take a double quantity; the Root expels Gravel. This Dock is ſometimes as high as a Man.

Hippolithus Lapis, or a Stone found in the Stomach or Guts of ſome Horſes, which is not unlike the Occidental Bezoar in Figure, and the Structure of the Lamina. This Stone has been found of the ſize of an Apple, and of half a pound weight.

Hippomenes, a Word of an ambiguous Signification; it either denotes a Fruit call'd Cynocrambe, or Apocynum, which raiſes a Madneſs in Horſes, if they eat it; or it is the Juice expreſt from Tithymal. Some will have it to be the Liquor that drops from the Genitals of Mares when they are horſed.

Hippopotamus, that is, a River-Horſe, a wild Four-footed Creature, the Deſcription and Uſe of which is various and prolix in Authors.

Hippoſelinum, the Herb Alexanders, 'tis frequently uſed in Broth in the Spring-time, to cleanſe the Blood, and ſtrengthen the Stomach; the Root pickl'd is a good Sauce. Half a dram of the Seed powder'd, and taken in White-wine, provokes Urine.

Hippoſorchis, Powder of the Teſticles of Horſes, in the Deſcription of the Powder ad Dyſtaſiam, in the Auguſtine Diſpenſatory.

Hippuris, the Herb Horſe-tail.

Hippus, an Affection of the Eyes, wherein they continually ſhake and tremble, and now and then twinkle, as it happens in Riding.

Hirci Barba, Goats-beard, the Root boil'd is reckon'd delicate Food; 'tis alſo uſed in raw Sallads; it nouriſhes much, and therefore is good for conſumptive People; 'tis uſed in Diſeaſes of the Breaſt, and for a Cough, and difficulty of breathing; 'tis ſuppoſed to expel the Stone, and to force Urine; the Juice of the Root, and the diſtil'd Water of it do the ſame.

Hirculus, a ſort of Spikenard.

Hircus, Hirci, or Hirqui, the corners of the Eyes; alſo the Hairs on the Armpits, and the Prominency of the Ears. See Tragus.

Hirquus, the ſame with Canthus.

Hirudo, ſive Sunguiſuga, a Leech.

Hirundinaria, Aſclepias, ſive Vincetoxicum, Swallow-wort, it grows in Germany, Italy, and France; the Root of it is very alexipharmick and ſudorifick; 'tis chiefly uſed for the Plague and other contagious Diſeaſes; for Obſtructions of the Courſes, and for Palpitation of the Heart, Fainting, and a Dropſy; 'tis alſo commended for the Stone, and 'tis likewiſe uſed outwardly;

the Flowers, the Roots, and Seeds, cleanſe ſordid Ulcers; 'tis good for the biting of venomous Creatures, for Ulcers of the Paps of the Breaſt, and the like.

Hirundinaria, ſee Centum Morbia.

Hirundo, ſignifies a Fiſh, a Bird. And the Cavity in bending the Arm is call'd ſo by Phyſicians. Some will have it to ſignify a Woman's Privities.

Hiſpanicum Olus, is Spinachia.

Hiſtos, a wooden Inſtrument, at the top whereof is plac'd another piece of Wood tranſverſe, on which the Pulley hangs to let down a Ladder.

Holce, a Dram.

Holippæ, little Cakes or Wafers made of a Medicinal Infuſion, with Wheat-flower and Sugar.

Holmos, a Mortar, likewiſe the Trunk of the Body, without Arms and Legs.

Holotonicos, is ſpoke of an univerſal Convulſion which is a Tetanus, when the whole Body is ſtiff.

Holſebon, that is, common Salt prepar'd.

Homæomeres; ſee Seminales Partes.

Homogeneæ Particulæ, ſuch Particles as are pure, entire, unmixt, and altogether like one another. Homogeneous.

Homoplata, Scapula, Spatula, Scoptula aperta, the Shoulder-blade, a broad and triangular Bone that conſtitutes the breadth of the Shoulder, thin eſpecially in the middle, but thick in its Proceſſes, on each ſide one, lying on the upper Ribs behind like a Target; it hath three Proceſſes, Acromium, or the Shoulder-point; Coracoides or Anchoralis, and Cervix. Its Uſe is to ſtrengthen the Ribs, to joint the Shoulder and the Neck-bones, and to implant Muſcles therein.

Homotonos, a continued Fever that acteth always alike.

Hoplochriſma, is when they bind up and dreſs a Sword, Knife, or Dagger, by which they propoſe to heal the Wound given with it; but this is very ridiculous.

Hoplomochlion, a univerſal Chirurgical Inſtrument, to be uſed for the whole Body.

Hora, an Hour, ſignifies the determinate ſpace of a Year with Hippocrates.

Horæa, are ſeaſonable or Summer Fruits, as Apples, &c.

Horarii Fructus, the ſame with Horæa.

Hordeatum, a liquid Medicine taken inwardly, prepar'd of Barley beaten and boil'd, with the addition of ſuitable and ſtrain'd Liquors, to which are frequently added Almonds, and the Seed of white Poppies, &c. Barley-milk.

Hordeolum, the ſame as Crithe.

Hordeum, a Tubercle growing on the top of the Eyelid, of the bigneſs of a Barley-corn; another Species whereof is call'd Grando, a hard Tubercle, movable, pellucid, and round. But the great Tubercles that grow here are to be compar'd to Nodes, and to the Tumors call'd Meliceris, Steotema, and Cancers. All of 'em by their weight, or otherwiſe, obſtruct the motion of the Eyelid.

Hordeum, or Ordeum, Barley; the French Barley is much uſed in Fevers, and for Diſeaſes of the Breaſt, and heat of Urine. A Pultice of Barley-meal and Butter

ter is very anodine, and eaſeth painful Tumors. Barley-water and Cinamon-water with Barley are much uſed in Phyſick.

Horminum or Orminum, Clary. Wine fermented with this Herb is very agreeable to a cold Stomach; 'tis alſo good for barren Women, and for thoſe troubled with the Whites; the Herb powder'd and apply'd to the Noſtrils provokes Sneezing, cureth a Catarrh, and purges the Head; a Decoction of it in Water provoketh the Courſes, and expels the After-birth. Cakes made of it are reckon'd good to ſtrengthen the Reins and ſtimulate Venery. A Mucilage of the Seeds is proper for Diſeaſes of the Eyes, and likewiſe counted good for the Falling-ſickneſs, and Mother-fits. The Seed put into the Eye, take away Motes. See Sclarea.

Horrifica Febris; ſee Phricodes.

Horror, a vibration and trembling of the Skin over the whole Body, with a chilneſs after it.

Humectantia, moiſtning things are ſuch as can inſinuate their moiſt Particles into the Pores of the Body; likewiſe all Fluids and Liquids.

Humerus, the Shoulder, that part of the Body which appears in the Articulation, whereby the ſuperiour part of the Shoulder, Epomis and Superhumeralis, approach the Neck and behind the Scapula, but downwards to that Bone which plainly appears (and is call'd Ala) when the whole Arm is lift up. Sometimes the Humerus ſignifies the firſt part of the Arm, which hath only one Bone, and is otherwiſe call'd Brachium per excellentiam.

Humidum Primigenium, may be properly call'd the Blood and Nervous Juice, which is ſeen in generation before any thing elſe.

Humilis Muſculus, that which depreſſes the Eye; ſo call'd becauſe it draws the Eye downward to the Cheek.

Humilus, the ſame with Lupulus.

Humores Oculares, the Humours of the Eye, and they are three; 1. The Watery, which is contain'd between the Tunica Cornea and Uvea. 2. The Cryſtalline or Icy Humour, contain'd in the Tunica Uvea, and is thicker than that. 3. The Vitreous or Glaſſy one, bigger than any of the reſt, fills the backward cavity of the Eye.

Humores ſanguinei, the Ancients made four Humours in the Blood, the Bilious, Pituitous, Melancholick, and the Blood, properly ſo call'd, and that according to the four Peripatetick Elements; but this Opinion is caſhier'd ſince the diſcovering of the Circulation of the Blood. They are found when the Blood preternaturally departs from its due temperature, but they don't conſtitute an integral part of the Blood, for the Blood is only one Humour; if otherwiſe, Tartar in Wine and Dregs in Beer were conſtituent Parts of Wine and Beer. In Blood that is let there appear only three different Species of Bodies; for in the Surface you ſee a kind of Fibrous Cruſt of coagulated Blood, which ſpreads itſelf all over the whole maſs; then you ſee certain red Particles among the Fibres, that grow black about the bottom, by reaſon of their fewneſs; and laſtly, you ſee the Serum wherein it swims. But if any one will proceed more accurately, distil the Blood, and dissolve it chymically, he shall find five pure Bodies in it, viz. Spirit, Sulphur or Oil, Water, Salt, and Earth. There are three general Humours that wash the whole Body, Blood, Lympha, (a sort of pure Water) and the Nervous Juice; but there are several particular Humours, viz. Chyle, Bile, Spittle, Pancreatick Juice, Seed, &c.

Humores in Secundinis, Humours in the three Membranes that cloath the Fœtus in the Womb. There are three in those Animals which have Bladders; at the beginning, when the Eggs fall down from the Testicles into the Womb, the Humours which are to this purpose in the bottom of the Womb first sink into the Membrane call'd Chorion, and then into the Amnium; but in process of time, when the Fœtus is form'd and the Navel-Vessels are extended to the Chorion and Amnium, we imagine that the nutritious Humour being receiv'd by the opening of the Veins, is carried to the Fœtus, and thence (by the Arteries) some part of it is carried into the Amnium, as into the Child's Storehouse, so that at the same time the Liquor of the Amnium may be encreased upon this double account; at last, when the time of delivery draws near, that way of sweating thro' seems to cease, and the other take place, unless (as Wharton observes) the nutritious Humor descends from the Placenta by the Navel-string, and by the little soft Protuberances, thence pass into the Cavity of the Amnium. The use of these Humours is, to nourish the Fœtus at the Mouth. The third Humour is the Urine, which floweth from the Bladder by the Urinary Passage, into the Urinary Membrane.

Hyacynthus, the Herb Hyacinth. This Name is given also to many other Flowers.

Hyacynthus, a pellucid Gem called Hyacinth, of a pale-red colour, tho' some are darker than others. The Oriental ones have the preference to the Occidental, which are found in Bohemia and Silesia.

Hyaloides, the vitrous Humour of the Eye, contain'd within the Coats call'd Retina & Uvea.

Hybona, an Incurvation of all the Vertebres, the same with Cyphosis.

Hydatides, and Hydroæ, five Aqualæ, little watery Bladders in the Liver, Spleen, or some other Viscus, common to Hydropical Persons; also an encrease of Fat about the Eyelids.

Hydatodes Vinum, Wine mix'd with Water.

Hydatoides, the watery Humour of the Eye, contain'd betwixt the Tunica Cornea and Uvea.

Hyderos, the same with Hydrops.

Hydragogia; see Venæ Lymphaticæ.

Hydrargyrus, Quicksilver.

Hydragoga, Medicines which by fermentation, attenuation, and precipitation purge out the Watery Humours.

Hydrargyrosis, a Mercurial Unction, in order to raise a Salivation in Venereal and some other Diseases.

Hydrelæum, a mixture of Water and Oil.

Hydrentarocele, a falling of the In-

Inteſtines (together with Water) into the outward Skin of the Cods.

Hydroa, certain little, broad, moiſt, itching Pimples like Millet-ſeed; ſometimes without itching, which render the Skin ulcerous and rough. The occaſion of 'em is, that Nature endeavouring to expel the Sweat by the Skin, is hinder'd ſometimes by its thickneſs, ſo that the Matter being lodg'd there, and the ſubtiler parts being either carried back by the Lymphatick Veſſels, or evaporated, the Skin ſwells. This Diſtemper is familiar and common to Boys and young Men, eſpecially of a hot Conſtitution, when they uſe too much Exerciſe in Summer. It infects the Neck, Shoulder-blades, Breaſt, Arms, Thighs, but more frequently the Secret Parts and the Fundament.

Hydrocardia, a Dropſy of the Pericardium, ſo that the Heart ſwims in Water.

Hydrocele, a ſwelling of the outermoſt Skin of the Cod, proceeding from a watery Humour.

Hydrocephalum, a ſwelling of the Head by reaſon of a watery Humour, whence the Sutures of the Brain are forced aſunder. It proceedeth ſometimes from a burſting of the Lymphatick Veſſels; but this only happens in Children, for in other People theſe Sutures never burſt aſunder. The Dropſy of the Head.

Hydrocrithe, Barley-water.

Hydrodes Febris, the ſame with Typhodes vel Flodes.

Hydrolæum, the ſame as Hydrelæum.

Hydrolapathum, the ſame with Lapathum.

Hydromel, Mead, a Decoction of Water and Honey.

Hydromphalum, ſive Hernia Aquoſa, a Protuberance of the Navel, proceeding from watery Humours in the Abdomen. The watery Rupture of the Navel.

Hydronoſos, the ſame with Sudor Anglicus.

Hydropege, Fountain-water.

Hydrophobia, ſive Aquæ Metus, a Diſtemper highly convulſive, accompanied with fury and ſhunning of all things that are liquid and ſplendid; ſometimes with a Delirium, a Fever, and other Symptoms, not without great hazard of Life, proceeding from a Bite of a mad Dog, or a Contagion analogous to it. An Hydrophoby.

Hydrophthalmia, is when the Eye encreaſes to a wonderful bigneſs, and ſticks almoſt out of the Head.

Hydrophthalmion, is that part under the Eyes which is wont to ſwell in cachexick and hydropick Perſons.

Hydropica, Medicines that expel the watery Humours in a Dropſy.

Hydropiper, Water-pepper, or Arſe-ſmart.

Hydrops, a ſtagnation of a watery Humour in the Habit of the Body or ſome other cavity; and 'tis either general, as an Anaſarca and Aſcites, to which ſome add a Tympany, but falſly; or particular, confin'd to one Part, as a Dropſy in the Head, Breaſt, Hand, Foot, &c. of which in their proper places ſeverally. A Dropſy.

Hydrops ad Matulam, the ſame with Diabetes.

Hydropyretos, the ſame with Sudor Anglicus.

Hydroroſaton, Potio ex Roſis facta, eta, a Potion or Julep made from Roſes, uſeful to be adminiſter'd in burning Fevers.

Hydrorrhodinon, is Water mix'd with Oil of Roſes, given to cool and to procure Vomiting.

Hydroſaccharum, a Syrup boil'd of Water and Sugar.

Hydroſelinum, Water-Parſly.

Hygieia, Health, which conſiſts in a good temperature and right conformation of Parts. Saxitas, or Health, is a diſpoſition of the Parts of human Body for the performance of the Actions thereof. Signs of Health are three, due Actions, ſuitable Qualities, and when things to be retain'd or diſcharg'd keep in their due proportion and function.

Hygieina, that part of Phyſick which teaches the way of preſerving Health. Some divide it into three parts, Prophylactick, which take notice of future imminent Diſeaſes; Synteretick, which preſerve preſent Health; and Analeptick, which recover the Sick.

Hygrocollyrium, a liquid Medicine for curing the Eyes.

Hygrocirſocele, a Branch of a winding Vein ſwoln with ill Blood accompanied with other moiſture.

Hygrophobia, the ſame with Hydrophobia.

Hymen, properly a Membrane. 'Tis taken alſo for the private Membrane in a Virgin, ariſing from the wrinkling of the lower part of the Vagina; in Women with Child, as the Womb grows thicker, it diſappears. 'Tis by ſome call'd the Maidenhead or Virginity.

Hyoides, ſive Lambdoides, a Bone placed at the Baſis of the Tongue.

Hyoſcyamus, corruptly Juſquiamus, Henbane; it cools and mollifies very much, diſpoſes to ſleep, eaſeth Pain, and mitigates Acrimony; 'tis good for hot and ſharp Defluxions of the Eyes; it ſtops eruption of Blood and overflowing of the Courſes; 'tis alſo apply'd for Inflamations of the Teſticles and other Parts.

Hyothyroides, two Muſcles of the Larynx, proceeding from the Bone Hyoides into the Cartilage call'd Scutiformis, like a Shield, and deſtin'd to contract or ſhut up the opening of the Windpipe.

Hypaleiptron, an Inſtrument uſed to ſpread Plaiſters with; 'tis alſo call'd Spatha and Specillum, a Spatula.

Hypecoon, ſome call it Alcea veſicaria, others Cuminum Sylveſtre, others a ſort of horn'd Poppy.

Hypercatharſis, a Plague that works too much.

Hypercriſis, a critical Excretion above meaſure.

Hyperephidroſis, a too much Sweating.

Hypericum, St. John's Wort; it is an excellent diuretick and vulnerary Herb; a Decoction of it cures tertian and quartan Agues; it ſtops ſpitting of Blood, and expels Gravel; a Tincture of the Flowers is excellent in a Mania, and the Flowers infuſed in Spirit of Wine kills Worms; the compounded Oil of this Herb is much uſed; 'tis excellent for a Bruiſe or Ach, and for ſpitting Blood.

Hyperoon, are two holes in the upper part of the Palate, which receive the Pituitous Humours from the Mammillary Proceſſes, and after they are ſeparated, diſcharges 'em at the Mouth.

Hyperſarcoſis, ſive Eccarcoma, an Excreſcence of Fleſh in any part of the Body. A ſpongeous Excreſcence.

Hypnotica, thoſe things which by fixing the Spirits by ſtraitning and ſhutting up the Pores of the Brain cauſe Sleep. Hypnotick or Soporiferous Medicines.

Hypocatharſis, gentle Purging.

Hypocauſtum, a Place or Stove where Medicines are dry'd or kept.

Hypochæris, is Sonchus levis.

Hypociſtis Succus, a ſmall Plant (growing like Miſſeltoe on an Oak) from the Root of the Shrub Ciſtus when it flowers; from this Plant the Juice is preſt.

Hypochondriaca Affectio: See Hypochondriacus Affectus.

Hypochondriaca Medicamenta, are Medicines uſed in the cure of Hypochondriack Diſtempers.

Hypochondrium, or Subcartilagineum, the upper part of the Abdomen under the Cartilages of the Cheſt.

Hypochondriacus Affectus, ſeu Affectio Hypochondriaca, a pure flatulent and convulſive Paſſion, ariſing from flatulent and pungent Humours in the Spleen or Sweetbread, which afflicts the Nervous and Membranous Parts. The Hypochondriack Diſeaſe.

Hypochyma, a depraved Sight, whereby Gnats, Cobwebs, little Clouds, &c. ſeem to ſwim before the Eyes. The cauſe of it ſeems to conſiſt in turbid Humours, or ſometimes in the Optick Nerves, whoſe little Pores are obſtructed by the matter that is thruſt into them.

Hypochyſis, the ſame with Hypochyma.

Hypocratis Manica. See Manica Hippocratis.

Hypoclepticum Vitrum, a Glaſs Funnel to ſeparate Oil from Water.

Hypodeſis, the Bandage that is uſed before the Bolſters are apply'd.

Hypodeſmis, the ſame with Hypodeſis.

Hypogaſtrium, the outermoſt part of the Abdomen or Belly, betwixt the Hypochondres and the Navel.

Hypogloſſis, or Ranula & Batrachion, an Inflamation or Exulceration under the Tongue; alſo a Medicine that taketh away the Aſperity of the Larynx.

Hypogloſſum, ſive Laurus Alexandrina, ſeu Biſlingua, ſive Hippogloſſum, Horſe-tongue.

Hypoglottides Pilulæ, are Pills to put under the Tongue to aſſwage a Cough.

Hypopedium, the ſame with Suſplantale.

Hypophaulum, a vulgar Diet which obſerves a medium betwixt a plain and an exquiſite Diet.

Hypopheon, is Hypecoon.

Hypophoræ, deep and fiſtulous Ulcers, which gape like Ulcers and Cavities in the Fleſh.

Hypophyſis, the ſame with Cataracta.

Hypophthalmia, a Pain in the Eye under the horny Tunick.

Hypopyon, a gathering of Matter under the horny Tunick of the Eye.

Hypoſarca, the ſame with Anaſarca.

Hypoſarcidium, the ſame as Anaſarca.

Hypoſpathyſmus, an Inciſion made by three diviſions upon the Forehead, head, to the Pericranium: nor is it sufficient to make Incision by those three Lines, but the Spatula must be thrust under, for which reason this sort of Incision is so named.

Hypospadiæ, those who from their birth render their Urine under the Bridle of the Glans.

Hyposphagma, Bloodshot, from a stroke on the Eye.

Hypostasis Urinæ, that thick substance which generally subsides at the bottom of Urine.

Hypothenar, the space from the fore to the little Finger, as also one of the Muscles of the Thumb.

Hypothesis, the Supposition of a thing. A Supposition.

Hypozoma, a Membrane that parts two Cavities, as the Mediastinum in the Thorax.

Hypsiloides; see Hyoides.

Hyssopus, Hyssop; 'tis hot and acrid, it attenuates, opens, and cleanses; 'tis chiefly used in Diseases of the Lungs, frequently apply'd outwardly to remove Blood that's settl'd in the Eyes, a bunch of it being boil'd in Water, and apply'd thereto; 'tis also very good for Bruises.

Hysteria, the same as Uterus.

Hysteralgia, a Pain in the Womb proceeding from an Inflamation, or otherwise.

Hysterica Passio, five Suffocatio hypochondriaca, Uterina, uteri ascensus, Fits of the Mother, a Convulsion of the Nerves of the Par Vagum and Intercostal in the Abdomen, proceeding from a pricking irritation or explosion of Spirits. This Distemper does not always depend on the Womb, as is commonly thought; we have seen it more than once in Men, because the Spleen, Pancreas, and other adjacent Bowels, are often the cause of it.

Hysterica, Medicines against the Diseases of the Womb.

Hysterocele, the Falling of the Womb.

Hysterotomotocia, or Sectio Cæsarea, a cutting the Child out of the Womb, which is done thus: You make a Semilunar Section under the Navel, along the White Line, the cavity whereof looks toward the said Line; then, according to the leading of the Fibres, the Fœtus being extracted after the Section, the Wound in the Womb contracts itself, so that the Blood scarce flows more plentifully than in a natural Birth; but if the Mother be dead, chuse the most convenient place you can.

Hysterotomia, an Anatomical Dissection of the Womb.

J I

Jacca, a Name used for divers Plants.

Jacobæa, Ragwort; it cureth Ulcers, Inflamations, and Fistula's. Being apply'd hot to the Belly in form of a Cataplasm, it cures the Gripes.

Jalappa, the Root is blackish without, within somewhat red, with black and resinous Circles, if it be good. 'Tis also call'd Gialappa, Chelopa, Celopa, Jalapium or Gelapo, also black Mechoacan. It purgeth strongly, and comes from India.

Jambichi Sales, a kind of Salt so call'd that is compos'd of many sorts of things, the vertue whereof is to digest crude Humours. The Inventer of this Composition

tion was one Jamblicheus, the Basis of which is Sal Armoniack, Pepper, Ginger, and some of the Aperitive and Aromatick Seeds.

Janitor, the same with Pylorus.

Jasminus, or Gelseminum, Jessamin; the Flowers are chiefly used to perfume Gloves; the Oil of it heals, mollifies, and opens, and is used in contractions of the Limbs, and the like.

Jaspis, a Gem, or opace Precious Stone call'd a Jaspar, of which there are many sorts; Dioscorides reckons seven.

Iatrice, the Art of Physick.

Iatrochymicus, a Chymical Physician.

Iatros, a Physician.

Iberus, a sort of Watercresses; 'tis also call'd Lepidium, Hiberis, Nasturtium agreste, Cardamantice, and Agricardamon.

Ibiga, five Chamæpytis, the same as Abiga. See Iva.

Ibiscus, and Hibiscus, is Marshmallows. See Althæa.

Ichnos, that part of the Foot the Latins call'd Vestigium; also Solea, the Sole of the Foot.

Ichor, sometimes signifies the Serum of the Blood, and sometimes a sulphureous and watery Humour which flows from Ulcers.

Ichoroides, a moisture like Corruption.

Ictherica, Medicines for the Jaundice.

Icterus, the Jaundice, is a changing the Skin into a yellow colour, from an Obstruction of the Ductus Choledochus, or Glandules of the Liver; or because the Gall abounds more than can be conveniently excern'd, so that it stays in the Blood. It taketh its Name from ἰκτὶς, a Ferret, whose Eyes are tinged with the like colour; or from a Bird call'd Icterus, of the same colour, which the Latins call Galbulus, which if one sick of the Palsie sees, says Pliny, the Party is cur'd, but the Bird dies. The Latins call it also Regius Morbus, the Kingly Disease, because 'tis easily cured in Courts with the Pastime and Diversion there, which cheer the Mind. It is likewise term'd a Suffusion of the Gall.

Icterus Albus, the same with Chlorosis.

Ichthyocolla, the Glue of a certain Fish said to have no Bones.

Idæa. See Victorialis.

Idea Morbi, the Propriety and Essence of a Disease.

Idiopathia, a primary Disease, which neither depends on, nor proceeds from any other.

Idiosyncrasia, a Temperament peculiar to any particular Body.

Idiota, hath a double Signification; first, it signifies a private obscure Man; in the second place a rude Plebeian void of all Sense. Or more particularly, unskilful Physicians are call'd Ideots, who are despisers of true Arts, and set up for Professors of false ones, the Promoters of which are guilty of all manner of Errors, and liable to the vilest Crimes.

Idiotropia, the same with Idiocrasia & Idiosyncrasia; the proper and individual Disposition and Nature of the Constitution.

Idos, the same with Hydros, Sudor or Sweat.

Jecoraria Vena, the same with Basilica.

Jecur, the same with Hepar.

Jecur Uterinum; see Placenta Uteri.

Jejunum Inteſtinum, the ſecond of the ſmall Guts; ſo call'd becauſe 'tis frequently empty: The little glandulous Nipples in it imbibe the Chyle, and convey it to the milky Veins. Varro calls it Hilla.

Jeſeminum, the ſame with Jaſminum.

Ignis actualis, actual Fire, that which burns at firſt touch, as Fire itſelf and Searing-irons. Thus the Bones and Horns of Animals are calcin'd by an actual Fire till they become white by the exhalation of the oleaginous and ſaline Particles, call'd otherwiſe Combuſtion. Thus Lead is turn'd into Minium or red Lead, and the filings of Steel or Iron into the Crocus Adſtringens, by being expos'd on every ſide to the immediate Contact of the Fire, call'd by the Chymiſts Reverberation.

Ignis Circulatorius, ſuch a degree of heat as the Fingers can eaſily bear.

Ignis Potentialis, potential Fire, a Medicine which, after it hath been laid ſome time on the Part, exerts its Operation; as a Ruptory, and other corroſive things of that nature. Thus Metals, Minerals, and Stones may be ſaid to be diſſolv'd by a potential Fire, ſuch as are the acid Spirits of Nitre, Vitriol, &c.

Ignis Perſicus, the ſame with Gangræna. 'Tis taken alſo for a Carbuncle.

Ignis Reverberii, a deſtructive Fire, the Flame being heightned by Bellows.

Ignis Rotæ, is when the Flame in the Furnace ſurrounds the diſtilling Veſſel on all ſides.

Ignis Sacer, the ſame as Eryſipelas, yet ſome take it for an Herpes.

Ignis Suppreſſionis, is when the Retort or diſtilling Veſſel (being put into Sand in the Furnace) is ply'd with a fierce Fire both below and above the Sand; as it is practis'd in the Preparation of the Cinnabar of Antimony.

Ignis Sylveſtris, the ſame with Phlyctena.

Ignitio, calcination made by fire.

Ile, the Cavity from the Thorax to the Bones of the Thighs. Pliny obſerves, That all the Inteſtines in all Animals, except a Man and a Sheep, are call'd Ile.

Ileum Morbus, ſee Iliaca Paſſio.

Ilex, the Scarlet-Oak.

Ilia, the lateral parts of the Abdomen, betwixt the laſt Rib and the ſecret Parts.

Ilingus. See Scotomia.

Iliſcus, Amor Inſanus, or a Delirium from too much Love; the ſame with Furor Uterinus.

Ilium, the third of the ſmall Guts. It begins where the Jejunum ends, and ends it ſelf at the Gut call'd Cæcum. 'Tis one and twenty Hands breadth in length.

Ilium, a Diſeaſe for the moſt part of the Gut Ilium, and is called Volvulus when the upper part of any Inteſtine is involv'd in the under, and on the contrary.

Ilium Os, part of the Bone Innominatum, without any particular Name. 'Tis ſo nam'd becauſe it contains the Gut Ilium. Its Circumference is circular, the upper broadeſt, 'tis connected to the Os Sacrum. The upper part of it is call'd Spina, the interior Coſta, and the exterior Dorſum. 'Tis larger in Women than Men.

Iliaca Paſſio, ſive Dolor Iliacus, Miſerere mei, Volvulus, Tormen- tum,

tum, & Chordapſus, the ſame with Ileum Morbus.

Iliaca Vaſa, thoſe double-fork'd Veſſels of the Trunks of the great Artery, and the great Vein of the Abdomen, about the place where the Bladder and the Womb are.

Iliacus Muſculus, one of thoſe that bend the Thigh, 'tis inſerted by a Tendon which grows together with the Tendon of the Muſculus Pſoas; it ariſes from the whole internal Cavity of the Os Ilium, with a thin and carnous beginning.

Illambonis, Collyrium, is the Name of a Medicine for Ulcers of the Eyes.

Illecebra, Hellecebra, Sempervivum Minus Acre, Wall-pepper, Stone-crop.

Illinctus. See Eclegma.

Illutatio, vel Illutamentum, is an External or Topical Remedy, when ſome Member of the Body is to be anointed either in the Bath, or afterwards with Clay; and if it drys, to change it, and lay on afreſh, to heat, dry, and diſcuſs the Part affected. This Method is twofold, either Natural, which is done with Clay found in the bottom of Medicinal Waters; or Artificial, which is prepar'd from many things. To this belongs the anointing or Cerate of the ancient Wreſtlers.

Imaginatio, Phantaſy, is an Action or Function of the Soul, which in Brutes, as well as Men, by the aſſiſtance of the Animal Spirits, receives the Ideas of exterior Bodies, and impreſſes them firmly on the Mind ſo as to make 'em apparent and diſtinguiſh'd.

Imbecillitas, ſignifies that Degree wherein they are plac'd, which are neither fit nor ſtrong to labour, as Children, old Men, infirm People, and thoſe that are recovering. But with reſpect to thoſe that are ſick, it ſignifies a greater Proſtration of Strength.

Imbibitio, the ſame with Ablutio, when a Body is ſo often waſht that it will admit no more. The ſame with Rectification and Cohobation.

Immerſio, the putting Metals or Minerals into ſome corroſive Matter, that they may at length be reduc'd to a Calx. 'Tis alſo a kind of Lotion or Waſhing, when Matters are put into Water, in order to clear them from ſome exterior, uſeleſs, or noxious qualities. Thus Lime, Ceruſe, Tutia, are put whilſt redhot into Water, to free them from their Acrimonious Particles.

Immerſus Muſculus, the ſame with Infra Scapularis.

Impaſtatio, is when a certain Matter is mix'd with ſomething more ſolid, to reduce it into Paſte.

Impatiens Herba, or Noli me Tangere, leaping Mercury.

Imperatoria, or Oſtrutium, Maſterwort; this Herb is alexipharmick and ſudorifick; it expels Wind, and is excellent in the Cholick; 'tis chiefly uſed in the biting of venomous Creatures, and malignant Diſeaſes; it helps Expectoration, and cures a ſtinking Breath; 'tis good for Phlegm, Diſeaſes of the Head, a Palſy, Apoplexy, and the like; half a Spoonful of the Powder of it taken in Wine an Hour before the Fit comes, is ſaid to cure a Quartan Ague; 'tis alſo counted very good for the Dropſy, and long Fevers; a piece of the Root put into into an hollow Tooth, eases the Pain. Its shape and vertue is much like Angelica.

Imaginatio, the same with Phantasia.

Imperialis Corono, Crown Imperial.

Imperfecta Crisis. See Crisis.

Impetigo Celsi, the same with Lepra Græcorum. Celsus makes four sorts: The most harmless, says he, is that which is like a Scab, for it is red and hard, and exulcerated and gnaw'd; but it differs from it, in that it is more exulcerated, and is accompanied with speckl'd Pimples, and there seems to be in it certain Bubbles, from which, after a certain time, there falls, as it were, little Scales, and it returns more certainly. Another sort is worse, almost like a sort of Meezles, or hot Pimples in the Skin, but more rugged and redder, and of different figures: In this Distemper little Scales fall from the Surface of the Skin, and is call'd Rubrica. The third sort is yet worse, for it is thicker and harder, and smells more, and is cleft on the top of the Skin, and gnaws more violently; 'tis Scaly too, but black, and spreads broad and slow; 'tis call'd Nigra. The fourth sort is altogether incurable, of a different Colour from the red; for 'tis something white, and like a fresh Scar, and has pale Scales, some whitish, some like the little Pulse call'd Lintil; which being taken away, sometimes the Blood follows. Otherwise the Humour that flows from it is white, the Skin hard and cleft, and spreads farther. All these sorts arise especially in the Feet and Hands, and infect the Nails likewise. Impetigo some reckon the same with Lichen. See Lepra Græcorum.

Impetigo Plinii, Pliny's Impetigo, the same with Lichen Græcorum.

Impregnatio, when one thing is fill'd with another; for instance, when Tartar is said to be impregnated with an Emetick Vertue by Antimony; or when an Alcali is totally impregnated with an Acid. But properly Impregnation is said when a Woman has conceiv'd after Coition.

Impressio. This Word may be taken Actively and Passively. Actively, it signifies some violent Extrinsical Action, when by Chance or Art something is apply'd to a Body with Violence that forces it out of its situation; as for example, when a Chirurgeon in a Luxation or Fracture presses the prominent Bones with some force into their former place; this is call'd an Impression. 'Tis taken passively for the suffering or undergoing that violent Action.

Impulsio, signifies a violent motion, made from the thing mov'd touching upon it, so that that which moveth it remains not behind; so the Heart impels the Blood into the beginning of the Great Artery, which successively moveth forward the rest with the same Pulsation.

Imputrescibilis, incorruptible; when Heat and Moisture are equally and moderately mix'd with each other.

Inauratio, a Gilding of Pills.

Inappetentia, want of Stomach, for want of Ferment in it, or of sufficient Respiration.

Incarnantia & Incarnativa, Medicines

dicines generating Flesh, the same with Sarcotica.

Inceratio, a mixture of moisture with something that is dry, by a gentle soaking, till the Substance be brought to the consistence of soft Wax.

Incidentia, the same with Attenuantia.

Incineratio, the reducing the Bodies of Vegetables and Animals into Ashes by a violent Fire. This is perform'd sometimes also by the Sun, through the help of a Burning-Glass; as for instance, in Antimony, Vitriol, &c.

Incisio. See Encope.

Incisores Dentes, the same with Primores.

Incisorii, the same with Primores, is a sharp small Knife used by Chirurgeons to cut off what is superfluous, or to dilate a Wound, &c.

Inclinatio, when the clear liquid part is separated by a decantation from the gross Sediment, as in certain Liquors that fine themselves by standing; or when you pour off the Water after Edulcoration.

Incorporatio, a mixture, whereby moist things are contemperated with dry into one body, as into a Mass, therefore here is no lingring Nutrition, but as much moisture is added as is requisite to the consistence of the mix'd body, so that it becomes like a Pudding as it were; whence it may be call'd also Impastatio, and in some things Subactio, a Kneading. Things thus incorporated must be left in a digestive Heat, that by mutual action and suffering they may get one temperature common to both.

Incrassantia, thickening things, are those which being indu'd with thick ropy parts, and mix'd with thin liquid Juices, bring them to a thicker consistence, by joining and knitting their parts.

Incubus, Incubo, and Asthma Nocturna; the Night-mare. See Ephialtes.

Incurvatio, the same with Cyrtoma.

Incus, one of the Bones in the inner part of the Ear. It is like a Grinder, and lies under the Bone call'd Malleus. It has two Processes below; one shorter, which leans upon the scaly Bone; another longer, which sustains the top of the Stapes, or triangular Bone, that bears upon the Cavity of the inner part of the Ear, whilst it immerges it self into the place call'd the Oval Window, with a pretty broad Basis.

Index, the Fore-finger.

Indicans, is nothing else than something observ'd in the Body, upon which account something is said to be done that ought to contribute thereunto. An Indication.

Indicantes Dies; those Days which signify that a Crisis will happen on such a Day, which are therefore call'd Indicant; such are 4, 11, 17, 24.

Indicatio, that which demonstrates what's to be done in Diseases; and it is threefold. Preservatory, which preserves Health; Curative, which expels a Disease that has already seiz'd upon a Person; and Vital, which respects the strength and way of Living.

Indicator, one of the Muscles extending the Fore-finger.

Indignatorius Musculus, the Muscle that turns the Eye aside.

Indicatum, that which is signified to be done in order to the Recovery of Health.

Indices Dies; see Critici Dies.

Indicium, the same as Signum; a sign or token of the Disease.

Indicon, it signifies a kind of Pepper or Wood, as Guaiacum, or the Matter of a certain blue Colour they call now Indicum or Indigo, made from a Plant call'd Anil. But others will have it to be the Juice of a Plant which the Dyers use call'd Glastum or Woad, and by some Waid.

Inductio, a Term for anointing, or making any other Application to the Part affected.

Indurantia; see Sclerotica.

Induſium; see Amnios.

Inedia, abstaining from Meat, when one eats less than formerly.

Infectio, the same with Tinctus, from whence the Ars Infectoria is call'd Tinctoria, the Art of Staining or Dying; but with Physicians 'tis us'd for Contagion or Infection, and denotes a Malignity, Plague, or Pestilence.

Infimus Venter; see Abdomen.

Inflammatio; see Phlegmone.

Inflatio, the distention of a Part from flatulent Matter.

Influentia, the same with Influx, and is meant not only of the motion of Humours into any Part, as every Influx of Blood that is made from the Heart thro' the Arteries, but also of the Influence or Vertue of Plants, Metals, Minerals, &c.

Infraſcapularis Muſculus, or Supraſcapularis Secundus, proceeds under the Spine, from the Basis of the Scapula with the second, Supraſcapulary, carnous and thick, and runs into the Ligament of the Shoulder with a short and broad Tendon, which is reckon'd the fourth.

Infundibulum, five Enchyta, or Tritorium, a Funnel.

Infundibulum Cerebri, the same as Choana.

Infundibulum Renum, the Pelvis or Basin thro' which the Urine passes to the Ureters and the Bladder.

Infuſio, is an extraction of the Vertue of Medicines with a convenient Liquor, which, if it be purgative, may be taken at once; and to this the Name properly agrees. 'Tis also used for such Medicines as (having been infused for some time) serve for outward Applications. 'Tis likewise call'd Maceration, Dilutum, Infusion.

Ingenitus, the same with Innates, or innate. Amongst the Cures of Scabby Diseases, or the Venereal, there are reckon'd six to be Curæ ingenitæ, which relate to Warts, fungous Excrescences, &c.

Ingluvies, intemperate Eating, Gluttony: This is the cause of many Diseases, and the danger of the Sick, go from the Kitchen. Helmont calls it the Mother of three Vices of the Blood, Fulness, Stagnation, and Heterogeneity.

Ingredientia, various Simples that constitute one Compound.

Inguen, the place from the bending of the Thigh to the Secret Parts. The Groin.

Injectio Inteſtinalis, the same as Clyster.

Inguinalis; see After.

Inium, the beginning of the oblongated Marrow, which is the common Sensory, because the Spe-

Species which are receiv'd from the external Organs are convey'd thither by the Nerves.

Innominata Glandula Oculi; see Caruncula Oculi.

Innominata Tunica Oculi, the Tunick of the Eye that wants a Name, is a certain subtile Expansion of the Tendons from the Muscles, which move the Eye to the circumference of the Iris, or Honey Membrane.

Innominata Ossicula; see Cuneiformia.

Innominatum Os, others call it Os Coxæ, or Ilium, is plac'd at the side of the Os Sacrum, consisting of three Bones, Ilium, Os Pubis, Ischium, join'd by Cartilages, and appear distinct by three Lines till 7 Years old, but grow all into one Bone at riper Years. They are call'd also Cuneiformia and Ossa Innominata, Nameless Bones.

Innominatus Humor, or Insitus, a Secondary Humour, as the Ancients call it, wherewith they thought the Body was nourish'd; for those Nutritious Humours they talk of are four, Innominatus, Ros, Gluten, Cambion. The Innominate Liquor.

Inosculatio, the same with Anastomosis, a mutual connexion of Vessels that are different, or of the same kind.

Inpinguedo Porci, Costmary, singularly useful in the Phthisis or Consumption.

Inquietudo, a Convulsive Motion of the Muscles in the Loins, Neck, and Limbs, wherein the Sick throw themselves from one side to another, lifting up both their Arms and Legs; sometimes lying on their Backs, at other on their Bellies; sometimes sitting up in the Bed, then again rising. This Inquietude happens either at the beginning of a Fever, or continues so long as it lasts, and is a common Symptom in the Plague; also great Pains causing Restlesness, especially in the Cardialgia Colica and Nephritick. Besides, a Delirium oft accompanies Inquietude, but most of all when Death is near at hand, and the Patient's Strength is not quite exhausted.

Insania, or Amentia, Madness, an abolition or depravation of Imagination and Judgment.

Insessus, a Bath for the Belly, proper for the lower parts, wherein the Patient sits down to the Navel. They are for several uses, viz. for easing Pain, softening of Parts, dispelling flatulent Matter, and frequently for exciting the Courses.

Insolatio, an Infusion of things in the heat of the Sun before they are fermented.

Insomnis, that is, one who ever wakes unseasonably, and beyond Nature; so Noises, barking Dogs and ill News break Mens Sleep.

Inspiratio, an alternate dilatation of the Chest, whereby the Nitrous Air is communicated to the Blood, to accend it by the Windpipe and the Vesicular parts. The cause of Respiration does not seem to consist only in the dilatation of the Thorax, as commonly thought, but in the contraction of the Tunick, which covers the upper part of the Oesophagus, and the most close Recesses of the Windpipe.

Inspissatio, is when a liquid Substance is by Evaporation reduc'd to a thick consistence. Inspissation

Inſtinctus, Inſtinct, to which is generally added the Epithet Natural. This is a proper intrinſick Principal of Motion in Brutes, by vertue of which certain determinate Motions in their Bodies and all their Senſes are acted, ſo that in ſome of 'em it ſeems to emulate the Power of a Rational Soul in ſome meaſure, eſpecially in their internal Senſes; but whether it be Subſtance and what that is, or the Animal Spirits themſelves, or ſomething be ſeparated from theſe, or whether it be a certain coeſſential Property, is not yet ſufficiently determin'd by the Naturaliſts.

Inſtrumentum Organum, a word of great uſe in the Art of Phyſick; generally it ſignifies every thing apply'd to a certain Action, Uſe, or Operation. In Phyſiology that part of the Body is call'd an Inſtrument which can produce a perfect Action; otherwiſe 'tis call'd an Inſtrumental or Organical Part; but all Parts of the Body ought to be conſider'd by the Phyſician as Inſtrument or inſtrumental. So a Muſcle, Vein, and Artery are reckon'd among the firſt Inſtruments, but the Hand, the Foot, and the Leg among the ſecond.

Inſuccatio, the thickening of Aloes, &c. in the Juice of Violets or Roſes, or the like.

Intellectus, Cogitation, whereby a Man apprehends an Object; it ſeems to be tranſacted in the Corpus Callo ſum, for the Expanſion of Spirits is there.

Intemperies, ſeu Dyſcraſia & Acraſia, a Diſeaſe which conſiſts in inconvenient Qualities of the Body, and theſe are either manifeſt or occult; the manifeſt are either ſimple or compound; the ſimple is, when one Quality is peccant, as a hot, thin, hard, acid, ſalt Diſpoſition, &c. The compound is when more Qualities than one are peccant, as a hot and ſalt, a cold and acid Diſpoſition, &c. An occult ill Diſpoſition or Diſtemper is ſuch as proceeds from ſome poiſonous Qualities, as from the Air, from poiſonous Animals, &c. It comes from the Air when the Nitre in it becomes contagious by reaſon of ſtanding ſtinking Waters, daily Drought, Earthquakes, &c. whence malignant peſtilent Fevers, and Plagues themſelves, ariſe; for the Vapours being taken away, that which remains of the Air (by reaſon of the Sulphur and Salt in it) contracts an ill Savour, whereupon the Air and its Nitre degenerate from their due Temperature and Craſis. And I believe the ſame happens from very dry Grounds, for ſulphureous and ſaline Particles (intermix'd with the watery ones) abound, which render the Nitre of the Air ſharp and pointed like Arſenick, ſublimated Mercury, or Aqua ſtygia, which being ſuck'd into the Lungs, coagulate and corrode the whole maſs of Blood, making its Spirits vaniſh, whence proceed Quinzays, Pleuriſies, Peſtilential Swellings, &c.

Intentio, the ſame with Indicatio.

Intercalares dies, or Intercidentes, which others call Provocatorii, are thoſe Days wherein Nature, either by reaſon of the vehemence of the Fit, or from ſome external Cauſe, is excited to expel her Load unſeaſonably; ſuch are the the third, fifth, ninth, thirteenth and nineteenth.

Intercidentes dies; see Intercalares.

Intercostales Musculi, on either side 22, eleven external, and so many internal; they all are weaved between the Ribs, and have oblong Fibres crossing one another like an X. The External arise from the lower parts of the upper Ribs, and descending obliquely toward the hinder parts, are inserted into the higher parts of the interiour; the Internal proceed on the contrary.

Intercostalis Nervus, a Nerve proceeding from the Spinal Marrow added to the Par Vagum, which also branches in the Abdomen thro' all the Viscera.

Intercus; see Anasarca.

Interfemineum, the same with Perinæum.

Intermissio Febrium; see Apyrexia.

Intermittens Febris, is call'd a Fever or Ague that ceaseth and returns at certain times; 'Tis either Quotidian, Tertian, or Quartan, and some add the Quintan.

Intermittens Morbus, a Disease which comes at certain times and then remits a little. Intermittent Fevers or Agues proceed not from any fictitious Focus, but only from a wrong assimilation of the Chyle.

Internodium, the joining together of the Bones of the Fingers, their Articulation and orderly Coherence.

Internuncii dies; see Critici dies.

Interossei Musculi or Abductores, are six in the space of the Metacarpus, three outward and three inward; they somewhat help Extension.

Interpassatio, the stitching of Bags, that the Matter included should not fall in a heap. 'Tis the same with Intersuere.

Interscapularia, the Cavities betwixt the Shoulder-blade and the Vertebræ.

Interscapularium, a Process of the Scapula, in the part of it that rises, commonly call'd the Spine.

Intertrigo, or Attritus, an Excoriation of the Parts near the Fundament, or betwixt the Thighs, or a fleaing of the Skin, proceeding from a violent Motion, especially Riding. It happens frequently to Children that the Cuticula in their Thighs and Hips are separated, and as 'twere shaven off from the true Skin, which pains 'em so, that it makes 'em restless. Galling in the Skin.

Intestina; see Enteron.

Intubus & Intubum; see Endivia.

Intumescentia, the same with Tumor.

Inula Campana; see Helenium.

Involucrum Cordis; see Pericardium.

Jonthus, or Varus, is a little hard callous Swelling in the Skin of the Face.

Jos, that is Venenum or Poison.

*Josaccha*r, that is the Sugar of Violets.

Iotacismus, call'd so from an Impediment of the Tongue, when that Organ can't pronounce certain Words and Letters.

Jovis Barba; see Barba Jovis.

Jovis Flos, is Crocus.

Irio, or Irion, Bank-cress.

Iris, or Consecratrix, a Flower de Luce.

Iris, the Fibrous Circle next to the Pupil of the Eye, distinguisht with variety of Colours.

Iros, under this Name there is a certain Species of a Schirrhus of the Spleen goes.

Isada, the Lapis Nephriticus, or Nephritick Stone.

Isatis, Woad, us'd in Dying.

Isatodes, a blue Bile resembling in colour the Herb Woad, wherewith Cloth is dy'd blue.

Ischæma, Medicines that stop the Blood, which by a binding, cooling, or drying Vertue close up the opening of the Vessels, or diminish and stop the fluidity and violent motion of the Blood.

Ischæmon, a sort of Grass.

Ischas, a dry'd Fig.

Ischias, the Gout in the Hip, or Sciatica.

Ischium, the Hip, or Huckle-bone.

Ischnophonia, first it signifies a smalness or lowness of Voice, in which sense it seems to have been understood by the Ancients, but is more frequently taken for hesitation of the Tongue, or for those that stammer.

Ischuretica, Medicines that force Urine when 'tis suppress.

Ischuria, such a Suppression of Urine in the Bladder, that little or nothing of it can be discharg'd; as it happens in the Stone of the Kidneys and Bladder, in the Obstruction of the Arteries, of the Kidneys, or of the Urinal Passages or Ureters, by a slimy gross Humour, by coagulated Blood, or Gravel fix'd there; it is also sometimes a Symptom in excessive Sweating, Vomiting, Looseness, loss of Strength, Palsie of the Bladder or Yard, or Frenzies, Apoplexies, and Lethargies.

Isthmus, that part which lies betwixt the Mouth and the Gullet, like a Neck of Land. Also the ridge that separates the Nostrils.

Ithmoidea Ossa. See Ethmoides.

Itinerarium, a Chirurgeon's Instrument which, being fix'd in the Urinary Passage, shews the Neck or Sphincter of the Bladder, that an Incision may be more surely made to find out the Stone. See Catheter.

Iva Arthetica, or Moschata, the same as Chamæpytis, call'd Ajuga, five Abiga, by the Latins; as also Ibiga: see Abiga.

Juba, a hairy substance like that at the top of Reeds; as you may observe also in the Millet.

Judaicum Bitumen; see Asphalites.

Judaicus Lapis, is a Stone shap'd like an Olive, with many small streaks lengthways, of a dark Ash-colour, almost as hard as a Flint-stone; found in Judæa, from whence it receives its Name, tho' it is found also in Silesia. Some call the bigger sort the Male, and the lesser the Female. Aëtius calls it Lapis Syriacus; and some others, Phrenicites & Tecolithos. 'Tis often prescrib'd in a Nephritis.

Jugale Os, the same with Zygoma.

Juglans, the Walnut-tree, the outward Bark of the Walnut dried, vomits strongly; the Catkins are a gentler Vomit; the fresh Nuts move the Belly, the dry are hot, and hard to digest; they encrease Choler, and cause a Cough; the Juice of the outward Bark gargl'd in the Mouth, is very useful in a Relaxation of the Almonds, and for an Inflamation of the Throat;

Throat; a Decoction of the outward Bark of the green Nuts forces Worms out of their Holes; the green and unripe Nuts candied with the Bark, gently move the Belly, two or three being taken at Bed-time; the Oil of the Nut mix'd with Oil of Almonds, is excellent in the Stone, two or three Ounces of it may be taken inwardly at a time; the Nuts being infused in Water till the Skin of the Kernel comes off, and likewise two Days in Aqua Vitæ, are said to be peculiarly proper for Obstructions of the Courses; take two or three of the Nuts so infus'd daily in the Morning fasting, for ten Days before the usual time of their flowing.

Jugularis Vena, that Vein which goes towards the Scull by the Neck.

Jugulum, the same with Furcula.

Jujubæ, a sort of Prunes, of a red colour without, and a luscious taste. They are brought to us chiefly out of Italy.

Jujubs, are moderately hot and moist, they attemperate the sharpness of the Blood, and are good for Diseases of the Breast and Lungs, for Coughs, Difficulty of breathing, for Diseases of the Reins and Bladder, and for Heat of Urine. The Syrup of Jujubs are cooling, and proper for Coughs, Pleurisies, and for Ulcers of the Lungs and Bladder. Jujubs are used in the Lohoch sanans, and in the pectoral Decoction.

Julap; see Julepus.

Julapium, the same.

Julep & Juleb; see Julepus.

Julepus, a liquid Medicine taken inwardly, of a grateful taste, and clear, made of a convenient Liquor with Syrup or Sugar, without any boiling, and in the quantity of three or four doses, to alter or refrigerate. A Julep consists commonly of one pound and an half of Barley-water, or of distil'd Water, rarely of Wine, of the cooling Syrup of red Gooseberries, Berberries, Violets, &c. to which they commonly add some drops of Sulphur, Vitriol, Salt, &c. to give it a good Taste. Juleb, whence the Word Julepus comes, is a Persian Word, and signifies a sweet Potion.

Julus, Juli, the Leaves that first come out, but most properly the long Flowers of the Walnut-tree, call'd by some Catkins.

Junctura, the same with Diarthrosis.

Juncus, a Rush.

Juniperus, the Juniper-tree, the Wood of this Tree being burn'd, perfumes the Air; the Berries are good for a cold Stomach, and is good against Wind and Gripes; they provoke Urine, and expel Poison, and are good in Diseases of the Head and Nerves. The Oil of Juniper is much in Use, it helps the Tooth-ach, and is good in the Cholick, and against Gravel.

Junonis Rosa, is Lilium.

Jupiter, signifies amongst the Chymists as much as Tin. Some attribute certain Influences to the Planet of that Name, but with more Vanity than Certainty.

Jusquiamus, is Hyoscyamus.

Juvans, Auxilium, seu Remedium; Help, Remedy. The same with Indicatum.

Juxtangina, a sort of an Inflamation in the Throat, call'd Cynanche. See Cynanche and Angina.

Ixia, the same with Cirsos, or Varix.

Ixia, and Ixine, Chamæleon, a ſort of Carduus.

Ixia, Varix, a Dilatation or ſwelling of the Veins in any part of the Body, but particularly in the Legs.

Ixos, Viſcum, a glewy or concreted Juice, made from the outward Rind or Bark of certain Trees, as the Oak, Hazel, Holly, &c. by ſteeping long in Water, till the glutinous or viſcid parts are obtain'd.

Ixis, the Ilia or Loins, being the back part that lies betwixt the Iſchium and Lumbus.

Iynx, a certain Bird call'd Torquilla, which only turns its Neck about, doing nothing with the other parts of the Body.

K

Kaib, curdled Milk.

Kal, Sal, or Salt.

Kali, A Sea-herb, which when burnt or calcin'd, they make Pot-aſhes for the Uſe of Soap-boilers and Glaſſmakers; the Aſhes are call'd Cinis Clavellatus.

Katimia, or Cadmia Lapis Calaminaris.

Keiri, or Cheiri & Keirim, Wall-flower; the Flowers are cordial, and good for the Nerves; they eaſe Pain, provoke the Courſes, expel the Secundine and a dead Child. The Conſerve of the Flowers, the diſtil'd Water, and the Oil made of the Flowers by Infuſion, are in Uſe for Apoplexies and Palſies; the Oil is very anodine in Wounds, and Inflamations of the Nervous parts. 'Tis the ſame with Leucoion.

Kermes, Chermes, Coccus Infectoria, Granum & Coccus Baphica, Granum Tinctorium, Scarlatums, Chermes-berries, the Fruit of a very famous Shrub, known alſo by the Name of Ilex. They come from Candia, Spain, and ſome parts of France.

Kermes, or the Scarlet Oak, grows on ſtony Hills about Montpellier, and in other parts of France, and Italy. The Grains of Kermes are counted, by Philoſophers and Botaniſts, the ſpurious or excrementitious Fruit of the Scarlet Oak only. But the learned and ingenious Dr. Martin Liſter found ſuch kind of Grains growing in England, upon the tender Branches of Cherry-trees, and ſuppoſes that they are not Excreſcences, but the Work of ſome Inſect, for receiving, as in a Neſt, its young Ones. The Grains are aſtringent, and uſed ſucceſsfully for Wounds, and wounded Nerves, to prevent Miſcarriage, for an Apoplexy, Palſy, Palpitation of the Heart, for Fainting and Melancholy.

Kina Kinæ. See Cina Cinæ.

Kirath, ſeu Siliqua, a Weight weighing four Grains.

Kobaltum, vide Cobaltum.

L

Labella, Leporina. See Labia, Leporina.

Labdanum, idem quod Laudanum.

Labes, a Prominence of the Lips, or a Spot or Speckle.

Labia pudenda Muliebris, are thoſe two Protuberances, or the exterior part of the Women's Privities, hairy without, betwixt which is the firſt Entrance of the Men's Yards, whence they are alſo alſo call'd the Hills of Venus, being of a peculiar Subſtance, ſuch a one as is not to be met with in any other particular part of the Body. In Virgins, this opening betwixt them is inwardly, almoſt cloſed up by certain ſmall Ligaments, but after Coition becomes wider, and encreaſes in bigneſs after Child-bearing. The Lips of a Woman's Privities.

Labia Leporina, ſuch Lips as, by reaſon of their ill ſhape, will not meet together, which ſome call Roſtra Leporina.

Labia Volſella, or Forceps, an Inſtrument to extract any thing.

Labium & Labrum, is the Extremity of the Bones at either end; 'tis the Extremity of the Mouth; 'tis the outward Edges of a Woman's Privities; it is thoſe of Wounds. The Proceſſes of the Bones are alſo call'd Labia.

Labor, the ſame with Exercitium, hard Labour or Exerciſe. The Chymiſts working in Laboratories are alſo call'd Laborantes, or Labouring Men.

Laboratorium, a Place adapted by Chymiſts on purpoſe for their Operations. It belongs alſo to the Apothecaries Shops.

Labroſulcium; ſee Cheilocace.

Labrum Veneris, is Dipſacus.

Labruſca, is Bryonia; ſee Bryonia.

Laburnum, a ſort of Anagyris.

Labrum, a Veſſel for bathing. It ſignifies alſo the ſame thing with Labium.

Labyrinthus, a body full of windings and turnings, as may be ſeen in the inner part of the Ear, and in the outer Surface of the Brain.

Lac, Milk, made by ſeparating of Chyle of the Arterious Blood by the Glandules of the Breaſt. Milk begins to be made for the moſt part after the going with Young, or a little before the Birth; but it ceaſes in old Creatures, thoſe that are with Child, and in menſtruous Perſons. The Chyle it ſelf is alſo call'd Milk, as are alſo ſome white Juices flowing from divers Herbs.

Lacca, 'tis made by wing'd Emmets, as Honey by Bees. 'Tis gather'd in Bengala, Malabar, Siam, Peru, from the young Sprouts of a very large Tree, whoſe Leaves are like the Plumbtree, and in ſeveral other places. 'Tis red and diaphanous; and being caſt upon the Fire, it emits a pleaſant fume.

Lacertus; ſee Brachium.

Lackanum, is Olus.

Lachryma Chriſti, or Lachryma Jobi, is Lithoſpermum Majus.

Lachrymales Ductus: ſee Ductus Lachrymales.

Lachrymale Puctum, an Hole made in the Bone of the Noſe, by which the Matter that makes Tears paſſes to the Noſtrils. If the Holes grow hard and brawny from an Ulcer in one of the Glandules at the Corners of the Eyes, thence ariſes a Fiſtula Lachrymalis.

Lachrymæ, a moiſture which is ſeparated by the Glandules of the Eye, to moiſten the Eyes, which if it be too much, ſo that it can't be receiv'd by the Puctum Lachrymale, they fall from the Eyes, and are call'd Tears; as alſo certain Juices flowing from Vegetables naturally; as the Tears of Frankincenſe, Opium, Dragons-blood, &c.

Laconicum, five Caldarium, and Aſſa, or Balneum Aereum, was formerly a Cellar without any Water, made to provoke Sweat, which was done by a hot Vapour, or a dry dry Heat included therein. Some call it Calida Sudatio, and Cicero Aſſa. A dry Bath.

Lacrymoſus; ſee Dacryodes.

Lactatio, the ſucking of Milk from the Breaſts for the nouriſhment of the Child.

Lactea Febris, the Milk-Fever, that which comes upon Childbed Women on the firſt Days.

Lactea Vaſa; ſee Vaſa Lactea.

Lactes, ſome take for the Pancreas, or for the Meſentery, others for the Milky Veſſels, and ſerve alſo for the Guts. Lactes is alſo the ſeminal Matter of the Fiſhes, which impregnates their Eggs.

Lactuca, Lettice; it cools the Stomach, and qualifies Choler and Heat, and diſpoſes to Reſt, and encreaſes Milk, and yields good Nouriſhment. In Frenzies, Madneſs, burning Fevers, and the like, apply to the Temples, and the Coronal Suture, and alſo to the Wriſts, Rags dipt in Lettice-Water, wherein Sal Prunella has been diſſolv'd.

Lactuca Sylvatica, the ſame with Hieracium.

Lactucella, is Sonchus, ſeu Lacteo. Sow-Thiſtle.

Lactucimina, the ſame with Aphthæ.

Lactumia, the ſame with Achores.

Lacumæ, little Pores or Paſſages in the Vagina of the Womb, but no where greater than in the lower part of the Urinary Paſſage. There flows a certain Serous Pituitous Matter out of theſe Ductus's which lubricitates the Vagina, and is look'd upon as Seed. It flows out in a great quantity in the Act of Coition.

Ladanum, or Labdanum, is a fat Liquor that is receiv'd with certain Inſtruments in the Dog-days in Cyprus, Candia, Libya, and Arabia, and afterwards harden'd in the Sun. That which comes to us is hard, fryable, of a blackiſh colour, and inflamable, the Fume whereof is pleaſant, and therefore fit for Perfumes.

Lævigatio, properly is when Medicines are ground and reduced to an impalpable Powder, by the help of ſome Liquids, on a Marble Stone, or in a Marble or Stone Mortar, in the ſame manner as the Painters grind their Colours. The Chymiſts call it an Alcool.

Lagochilus, one who has cloven Lips; ſee Labia Leporina.

Lagophthalmus, five Oculus Leporinus, is when the upper Eye-lid does not quite cover the Eye it ſelf, ſo that the Eye-lids are not quite cloſed when they are aſleep. Of this there are four ſorts. 1. When they are born ſo. 2. By Cuſtom, in looking often backwards. 3. By Convulſions; and 4thly, by a hard Scar after the cure of a Wound or Ulcer in that part. Hares Eyes.

Lagopus, Hares-foot, a ſort of Trifolium, or Trefoil.

Lambdoides, the backward Suture of the Brain.

Lamina, commonly attributed by Anatomiſts to various Inſtruments accommodated for cutting of Bodies, as Scalpella, Spathomelæ, Amphiſmelæ, Specilla, &c. but more largely it hath relation to the extenſion of metallick bodies, as Plates, or thin Leaves, ſuch as thoſe of Gold, Silver, &c.

Lamium, Arch-angel, one handful of the Herb beaten up with

Hogs

Hogs Lard, and applied to the Kings-evil-ſwellings in the Neck or Throat, diſcuſſes them; a Conſerve of the Flowers is much commended in the Whites.

Lampſana, Nipple-wort; it is reckon'd good for the Nipples when they are ſore.

Lanaria, is Saponaria; ſee Struthium.

Lancetta, a Chirurgeon's little Knife, ſtrait pointed, two-edged, uſed in opening of Veins, cutting of Fiſtula's, opening of the Fundament, Yard, or Womb, that is ſhut. A Chirurgeon's Lancet.

Languor, is a weakneſs, diſſolution, or remiſſion of the Limbs or Body.

Lanugo, in Phyſiology ſignifies tender Filaments growing to the Cuticle, like Hair or Wool, as in Mullein, Cudweed, and the like.

Lanugo, the tender Hairs or Downe of the Face.

Laonica, a Cure of the Gout, which is not done by Purgatives, or univerſal Evacuations, but which is perform'd by Topical Diſcharges from the Part affected.

Lapathum, five Rumex, Dock, of this there are ſeveral kinds; the Root of ſharp-pointed Dock is of great Uſe in Phyſick, for Diet-drinks, for the Scurvy and Itch, and Jaundice; the Powder of the Seeds ſtrengthen the Liver, and ſtops all Fluxes of the Belly.

Lapides, Stones, the hard Shells including the Kernels among Vegetables, and Stones are found in Men and Beaſts. Among the Minerals we have precious Stones; and ſome Medicines, by reaſon of their hardneſs, are call'd Stones; as Lapis Prunella, Infernalis, &c.

Lapidillum, a Chirurgical Inſtrument to extract a Stone from the Bladder.

Lapis Porcinus, Lappa, or Bardana, Burdock.

Lappago; ſee Aparine.

Laqueus, a Band ſo ty'd, that if it be attracted, or preſs'd with weight, it ſhuts up cloſe. Its Uſe is to extend broken or disjointed Bones, to keep them in their places when they are ſet, to bind the Parts cloſe together. The difference of theſe Laquei, or Bands, are ſeveral, having their Names either from the Inventers, or from their Uſe, or from their likeneſs to, or ſhape of any thing, or from the manner of lying, or their Effect; which, unleſs they were here delineated, can ſcarce be underſtood by a bare Deſcription. Bands or Snares.

Larix, the Larch-tree, Turpentine diſtils from this Tree.

Laryngotomia, the ſame with Bronchotomia.

Larynx Guttur; according to Galen, Larynx is properly the Head or top of the Windpipe, which conſiſts of five Cartilages. The firſt pair is call'd Scutiforme, like a Shield, which conſtitute the Protuberance in the Neck, call'd Adam's Apple. The ſecond pair is call'd Annular, becauſe it is round like a Ring. The third and fourth Cartilage ſome reckon but one, but if the Membrane be took off, it appears to be two, and are called Guttalis and Glottis. The fifth is call'd Epiglottis, which covers the opening of the Windpipe at the top. Its Uſe is in the Voice and Reſpiration.

Laſerpitium; ſee Silphium.

Laſſitudo, Wearineſs, proceeding from ſeveral Cauſes.

Lateralis Morbus, see Pleuritis.

Lathyris, a sort of Tithymal.

Lathyrus, a sort of Pulse. A Cicheling.

Latissimus Dorsi Musculus; see Anisscalptor.

Laton, is Aurichalcum, or Copper ting'd of a Gold colour with Lapis Calaminaris, which by some ignorant Artists is call'd Electrum, and is composed of one Metal, when the Electrum is made of many. Hence Lapis Calaminaris is call'd Lapis Latoninus.

Lavamentum, the same with Fotus.

Lavatio, a washing, 'tis chiefly meant of Resinous and Earthy Minerals and Metals, cleansed from their filth by washing of them in Water, or some other Liquor.

Laudanum, meant only of a Medicine made of Opium, and that they call Opiate Laudanum, from its excellent Qualities. Authors give several Descriptions of it. It allays the most unsupportable Pains, and stops any Flux.

Lavendula, or Lavandula, or Pseudonardus, Lavender; 'tis cephalick, and good for the Nerves, and is much of the same Vertue with Stœchas; 'tis chiefly used in Catarrhs, for the Palsy, Convulsions, Giddiness, Lethargy, and the like; it provokes Urine, and the Courses, and hastens Delivery, and is used for flatulent Gripes; 'tis used outwardly in Fomentations; the distill'd Water, the Conserve, and the Oil, are in use.

Laver, or Sion, Becabunga Aquatica. See Becabunga.

Laureola or Daphnoides, Spurge-Laurel, being chew'd, it inflames the Jaws; taken inwardly, it provokes Vomiting, and hurts and burns the Stomach, and inward Parts; and therefore, by reason of its great Acrimony, 'tis seldom prescrib'd by Physicians; the Powder of it infused in Vinegar, and sprinkl'd upon Cancers, does good before they are ulcerated.

Laurocerasus, is a Shrub with Laurel Leaves, but greater and greener, and smoother, and the Fruit of it is like Cherries, and therefore 'tis call'd Laurel-Cherry.

Laurus, a Bay-tree; a Decoction of the Bark, Berries, and the Leaves, make a good Bath for the Womb and Bladder. The Berries are very useful against all Poisons of Venomous Creatures, and the stinging of Wasps and Bees, and also in the Plague, and for infectious Diseases, and therefore is an Ingredient in the London Treacle; 'tis said that seven of the Berries, taken inwardly, will hasten Delivery; being made into an Electuary with Honey, they cure old Coughs, and shortness of Breath, and stop Rheums, they expel Wind, and provoke Urine, and comfort the Stomach. The Oil which is made of the Berries is very useful in cold Diseases of the Joints and Nerves. The Electuary of it is frequently used in Clysters, to expel Wind, and ease the Pain of the Cholick; so do the Berries themselves.

Laurus Alexandrina, has got its Name because Alexander wore it after having obtain'd a great Victory; in imitation of which the Conquerors among the Ancients have chosen these Leaves as an Emblem of their Victories. It has also got the Name of Victoriola. See Hypogloſſum.

Laxantia,

Laxantia, Looſning Medicines are thoſe which with their benign Particles ſoftning and ſcouring the Inteſtines, cleanſe 'em of their Excrements.

Lazuli Lapis, 'tis of a deep Sky-colour, not pellucid, adorned with Veins; the Ultramarine Colour is made of it. One ſort is fix'd, and does not change Colour in the Fire, and is brought from the Eaſt; the other is not fix'd, and loſeth its Colour in the Fire; this ſort is brought from Germany. 'Tis given inwardly to looſen the Belly. The Lazure Stone.

Lebes; ſee Cacabus.

Ledum, Hill-Roſe.

Legumen, Pulſe.

Leiopodes, an ill Conformation of the Feet, or thoſe whoſe Feet are not hollow, but plain in the Middle or Inſtep.

Leiphæmos, ſuch as labour under a defect or want of Blood; or a vicious Diſpoſition of the Spleen, which preſuppoſes a flatulency or impurity of Blood.

Leipodermos, in general ſignifies a defect of the Cutis or Cuticula, but more ſtrictly a loſs of the Prepuce from a Diſeaſe or Section.

Leipyria, is a kind of Fever of a continued Malignity, with an Inflamation of the interior Viſcera, join'd to an Eryſipelas, where the Internals are burnt up, and the Externals tremble with cold.

Lelygiſmenos, Contortus, twiſted or bent in.

Lemnia, a kind of Medicinal Earth which is gather'd in the Iſle of Lemnos, otherwiſe call'd Terra Sigillata.

Lenientia, the ſame with Laxantia.

Leno, and Linon, that part of the Brain call'd Tercula Herophili, that place where the third Cavity of the Meninx is join'd to the firſt, ſecond, and fourth.

Lens & Lenticula, Ducks-meat. 'Tis cooling, and good in Inflamations; it alſo cures Childrens Ruptures. An Infuſion of it in Whitewine cures the Jaundice, ſix ounces of it being taken every Morning for nine Days. It grows in ſtanding Water.

Lenta Febris, whereby a Man conſumes leiſurely, occaſion'd frequently by the Obſtructions of certain Viſcera. A Conſumptive Fever.

Lenticulare Inſtrumentum, a Chirurgical Inſtrument to make the Bones ſmooth.

Lentigines, ſive Ephelides, Freckles, are little Spots, eſpecially in Women, chiefly in their Faces, but ſometimes in their Hands, Arms, and the upper part of the Cheſt, which is expos'd to the Air; the Skin is ſometimes ſpotted thicker, ſometimes thinner, with them as with ſo many Drops, but without any trouble or Pain. In ſome they appear only in Summer, not in Winter; in others they continue the Year round.

Lentiſcus, the Maſtick-tree, or rather Shrub, which produces the Maſtick. All the Parts of it are binding, the Bud, Leaf, Branch, Fruit, and the Bark of the Root. The Juice preſs'd from the Bark of the Root, and the Leaf boil'd in Water, taken inwardly, is good for a Looſeneſs, the Bloody-flux, and for the falling of the Womb and Fundament. The Oil of the Maſtick-tree is mix'd in Medicines for curing the Leproſy, and is much commended for the falling of the Hair, and for Inflamations of the Gums, the Oil being held in the Mouth moderately hot. Maſtick-trees grow only in the Iſland of Chios. Maſtick is prefer'd before all other Medicines in all thoſe Diſeaſes where there is need of Binding; and the beſt is of a light colour, clear and tranſparent, ſweet-ſcented and fryable; 'tis ſometimes adulterated with the Reſin of the Pine-tree and with Frankincenſe, but the Cheat may be eaſily diſcover'd by the Smell.

Leontiaſis, the ſame with Elephantiaſis.

Leontopetalon, Lions-blade.

Leontopedium, ſive Pes Leonis, Lions-foot.

Lepidium, vulgo Piperitis, Pepperwort; the Leaf is acrid and hot; the Herb bruiſed cures the Hip-gout; boil'd in Beer, it haſtens Delivery; 'tis commended againſt Leproſy.

Lepidoides, the ſcaley Suture of the Scull. See Mendoſa.

Lepidoſarcoma, that is a Carnous Scale-like Tumor, or an Abſceſs in the Mouth that at firſt is hard and round, but upon cutting ſhews the Bones like Scales.

Leporina Labia, the ſame with Lagochilus.

Leporinus Oculus; ſee Lagophthalmus.

Lepra, a Leproſy, a dry Scab, whereby the Skin becomes ſcaley like Fiſh. It differs from Leuce and Alphus, in that a Leproſy is rough to the Touch, and cauſeth an itching, for the Skin is the only part affected, and therefore it being flea'd off the Fleſh, underneath appears ſound and well.

Lepra Arabum, the ſame with Elephantiaſis Græcorum.

Lepra Græcorum, or Impetigo Celſi, is the higheſt degree of ſcabbedneſs; but it muſt be obſerv'd (leſt any ſhould be gravel'd in the reading of Authors) that we here ſpeak of the Leproſy of the Greeks, not the Arabian; for that which the Arabians call a Leproſy is the Elephantiaſis of the Greeks, and is nothing elſe than an univerſal Canker of the whole Body. A Leproſy is a Diſeaſe proceeding from black Bile diffuſed thro' the whole Body, whence the Temperature, the Form and Figure, and at laſt the very Continuity of the Body is corrupted, and becomes a Canker thro' the whole Body. The Arabians call the Leproſy of the Greeks Albaras Nigra, which is the ſame with a kind of Ringworm or Tetter that flea's the Fleſh, and is a rough violent Scab in the Skin, accompanied with Scales like Fiſh, and an itching. There's a greater Corruption of Humours in a Leproſy than in a Scabbedneſs, and from the latter there only fall little Flakes like Dandriff from the Head, but from the former as it were Fiſh-Scales, ſo that one paſſes from Itching to a Leproſy by the Scab; for Pruritus, or Itching, is a certain ſmall Aſperity of the Skin, wherein (unleſs you ſcratch very hard) nothing falls from thence; when it is grown to a Scab the Humour is more apparent, and certain little Particles like Dandriff fall off, whether it be ſcratch'd or no, for in a Scab the Matter is thinner, and at laſt preys upon the ſurface of the Skin, but in a Leproſy 'tis thicker, and not only feeds upon the ſurface, but the inner part of the Skin. Celſus doubtleſs meant this Leproſy of the Greeks by the word Impetigo, but not the Lichen of the Greeks, which ſome call Impetigo. The Leproſy of the Greeks.

Leptuntica, attenuating, cutting Medicines, which part the Craſs and Viſcous Humours with their Acute Particles.

Lethargus, a Lethargy; 'tis a Drowzineſs cauſing a heavy Sleep call'd Coma, accompanied with a Fever and Delirium; and 'tis nothing elſe but a heap of too much incongruous moiſt Matter within the Pores of the barky Subſtance of the Brain. This Diſtemper doth not ſeem to come of itſelf, but rather from the Demigration of Fevers.

Levator Muſculus, one of the Muſcles of the Scapulæ.

Leucacantha, is the Spina Alba, Carlina, Chamæleon. Cottonthiſtle.

Leucanthemum, the ſame with White-flower; 'tis ſometimes apply'd to the Camomile-flowers.

Leucanthon, ſignifies in general a Plant bearing white Flowers.

Leuce, ſeu Vitiligo Alba, when the Hairs, Skin, and ſometimes the Fleſh underneath, turn white, the Fleſh being prick'd with a Needle is inſenſible, emitting no Blood, but a milky Humour. It differs from Alphus, in that it penetrates deeper, and changes the Skin, ſo that the Hairs are changed too. 'Tis call'd by ſome the White Leproſy.

Leuceleƈtrum, White-amber.

Leucænus, White-wine.

Leucoion, Wall-flower.

Leucolachanum, wild Valerian.

Leucoma, a white Scar in the horny Tunick of the Eye.

Leucophagum, made of Almonds macerated in Roſe-water, and of Capon or Partridge boil'd, bruiſed and ſtrain'd thro' a Sieve made of Briſtles. 'Tis uſed in a Conſumption.

Leucophlegmatia, ſive Anaſarca pituitoſa, a pituitous Dropſy, or a Dropſy that hath ſeiz'd the whole Body.

Leucophyllon, is a kind of dry Ointment, the particular Uſe of which is for the Neck and Armpits, by reaſon of its grateful Smell.

Leucopyron, is the Name of a Malagma, or a mix'd Colour of White and Gold, much like ripe Wheat.

Leucorrhœa, Fluor Albus, or a ſimple Gonorrhœa in Women.

Leviathan Penis, the Priapus of a Whale, commended by ſome in a Fluor Albus and a Dyſentery.

Leviſticum, alſo call'd Smyrnion and Luguſticum, becauſe it grows in Liguria, Lovage. 'Tis alexipharmick, diuretick, and vulnerary; it ſtrengthens the Stomach, and doth good in an Aſthma; it opens Obſtructions of the Liver and Spleen, and cures the Jaundice; 'tis uſed outwardly in Baths and Cataplaſms. The Vertues of it are much the ſame with Angelica and Maſterwort.

Libanos and Libanotos. See Thus.

Libanotis; ſee Roſmarinum.

Liber, the inner part of the Bark of Vegetables next to the Wood.

Libra, a pound, containing 12 ounces in Phyſick, but 16 among Traders.

Liburnum, the ſame with Viburnum.

Lichen, a kind of Moſs, ſo call'd becauſe 'tis the chiefeſt Remedy in a Diſtemper that is call'd Lichen.

Lichen, barbarouſly call'd Serpigo or Zerna: Haly Abbas calls it Petigo and Sarpego; the Vulgar, Volatica. Lichens are certain Aſperities of the Skin, and as 'twere Tumors, which itch much and ſend forth Matter. The Greeks and Arabians have made two ſorts of Lichens, the one mild and gentle, the other fierce and cruel; and according to Avicen, ſome are moiſt, which being rub'd ſend forth a kind of Dew; others are dry, but the moiſt are ſafeſt; the dry is made of a ſalt pituitous Matter turn'd into a melancholy Blood. And again he writes, That one Mangineſs (Impetigo) brings off the Skin, by reaſon of its great dryneſs, but t'other doth not; and, that one is ambulatory and malignant, t'other fix'd and ſtanding; as alſo, that one is old, and t'other freſh. Hence it appears that the Scabies of Cornelius Celſus was nothing but the Lichen of the Greeks, and the Impetigo of the Arabians. It comes in any part of the Body, but eſpecially in the Face and Chin, as Galen has it; for a Lichen (ſays he) is a moſt ungrateful Diſtemper in the Chin, becauſe it makes it itch exceedingly, and ſtretcheth out the Parts affected. 'Tis not a little dangerous, it ſpreading over the whole Face, ſometimes reaching the Eyes, and at laſt rendring the Party affected extream filthy and loathſom. The Lichen of the Greeks is Pliny's Impetigo, or an Inequality of the Skin, extending itſelf to the neighbouring Parts, and accompanied with an extraordinary itching and dry Pimples; a Ringworm. Lichen is alſo the callous part in a Horſe's Foot, likewiſe a ſort of green Moſs.

Lien; ſee Splen.

Lienteria, a Looſneſs, when the Meat is ſent out before it be alter'd, not ſtaying in the Stomach, but falling immediately into the Inteſtines with a Noiſe, Diſtention and Pain.

Ligamentum, a Ligament, is a ſolid and very fibrous part, proceeding almoſt from Matter like a Cartilage, different in ſize, number, and ſituation, broad or round as it comes near the Conſtitution of a Membrane or Cartilage, dryer or moiſter, harder or ſofter, more or leſs, tough and flexible, and deſign'd by Nature for the connecting of Parts, eſpecially Bones, that they may better perform their Motions. A Ligament.

Ligamentum Ciliare, the Ligament of the Eyelid, or the Ciliar Ligament.

Ligamenta Uteri, the Ligaments of the Womb.

Ligula, the ſame with Clavicula.

Liguſticum; ſee Leviſticum.

Liguſtrum, Privet.

Liliago, a Diminutive of Lilium.

Liliaſphodelus, is Hemerocallis.

Lilium, a Lilly. The diſtil'd Water of the white Lilly is given to Women that have hard Labours, and to expel the Afterbirth; the Root is commonly uſed in Cataplaſms to aſſwage Pain and to ripen Tumors; the Oil of it ſerves for the ſame purpoſe.

'Tis

'Tis reported that many People in Dropſies have been cur'd with the Juice, mixt with Barley-flower, and made into Bread, which Bread they muſt uſe only for the ſpace of a Month or ſix Weeks. The Root, the Leaves, the Flowers, and the Seeds of the yellow and white Water-lilly, are uſed in Fluxes, eſpecially for a Gonorrhœa. The Root of the white Water-lilly moderates the Flux of the Courſes, and cures the heat of Urine.

Lilium Convallium, Lilly of the Valleys, the Flowers and Leaves are counted good in Apoplexies, Palſies, for the Falling-ſickneſs, and Giddineſs, and other cold Diſeaſes of the Head.

Lilium inter Spinas, Caprifolium, ſeu Matriſylva, Wood-bine.

Limatio, or filing, is a reducing to Powder hard bodies by the File; 'tis alſo us'd in ſharp Teeth, or Corruption or Excreſcence of the Bones.

Limodorum; ſee Orobanche.

Limonia Malus, and Limonium, Limons; they are more acid than Oranges or Citrons, and therefore it is probable the Juice is colder. 'Tis proper for all thoſe Uſes that Citrons are, but 'tis not ſo effectual againſt Poiſon, yet it is more powerful in hot Diſeaſes; it quenches Thirſt, and leſſens Feveriſh Heats. The Juice of it is very proper for the Stone, and to cleanſe the Urinary Paſſage. The Syrup of the Juice is good for Obſtructions of the Kidneys, it quenches Thirſt, is us'd in burning Fevers, and ſtrengthens the Heart and Stomach, reſtrains the Effervescence of Choler, and is uſed with good ſucceſs to ſtop Vomiting, the Hickcup, and to take off a burning Fever: The Peel is candied with Sugar for Sweetmeats. The diſtill'd Water of Limons is reckon'd an excellent Coſmetick.

Limonada, Limonade, a kind of a Mixture or Julep, made with the Juice of Limons, Water, and Sugar.

Limonium, Pyrola, and Tintinnabulum, are the ſame thing; ſee in their proper places.

Linamentum, the ſame as Motos.

Linaria, ſive Urinalis, Toad-flax, a ſmall Glaſs of the diſtil'd Water of this Herb, with a Dram of the Powder mix'd with it, evacuates Urine powerfully in the Dropſy; the Water alſo purges by Stool, and cures the Jaundice, but eſpecially the Decoction of the Herb in Wine, which alſo opens Obſtructions of the Liver; the Water, or the Juice drop'd into the Eyes, cures Inflamations, and the redneſs of them; Rags dipt in the Water, cleanſes Ulcers, and the Juice takes off Spots from the Face.

Linctus, the ſame with Eclegma.

Linea Alba, a Concourſe of the Tendons of the Muſcles of the Abdomen, excepting the Tendons of the ſtreight ones, for the Tendons of the oblique Muſcles unite, and meet ſo on both ſides, that they make a kind of Tunick that covers the Abdomen, as if they were all but one Tendon. 'Tis white, and not fleſhy, proceeding from the pointed Cartilage to the Os Pubis; and is narrower below the Navel than above.

Linæa Fatales, certain Wrinkles in the Forehead, whereby many things are vainly foretold.

Lingua, the Tongue, an oblong, broad, thick Member, and thicker at the Root, but thinner and ſharper at the end, of a moderate bigneſs, that it may move more quickly. In the exterior and upper part of the Tongue there are a great many little bodies which break out from the Surface of the Tongue, and crooking moderately, incline backwards towards the Root, ſo that they look like a Comb that cards Wool. Theſe Cartilaginous Bodies, in an Ox eſpecially, ſeem to reſemble the figure of a Boar's Tooth; in the lower part they have a certain Cavity. They are made of a thick, tenacious, fibrous matter, which ſeems like a heap of little Rods: About the ſides of the Tongue they grow ſmaller and ſmaller, ſo that they almoſt diſappear, and certain membranous Bodies are plac'd at their Baſis which reſemble a Cone, but by and by a more obtuſe and pappy Subſtance: All the little Protuberances are cloath'd with the Membrane of the Tongue, being firmly implanted in a certain tenacious Tunick thereof, and having under 'em a craſs, viſcous and nervous Subſtance, eſpecially in thoſe places where there are remarkable Pits in the Tongue diſpos'd in like order and manner, ſo that in the inner part of the Tongue there are a great many of 'em, and which are implanted in a certain viſcous ſort of Body. When the Membrane that covers the whole Tongue is taken off there appears a certain glutinous Subſtance with a nervous pappy Body ſomething yellow, which ſpreadeth as the Membrane doth, and diſcover remarkable Nervous Protuberances, diſpoſed in a wonderful order. The next thing that appears are little Nipples, in greater plenty than thoſe already mention'd, and of a different ſort, for as many little Protuberances cover the outſide of the Tongue, ſo as many Nervous Nipples of this ſort are found within: Theſe proceed from the common pappy Subſtance, grow tolerably high, and ſhoot out farther into Nervous Sprouts from the top of 'em, about which you diſcover innumerable little Protuberances proceeding from the ſame Stock, and of an equal height, only ſlenderer, like a Cone, and which go within their proper Cavities, ready-made in the craſs viſcous Subſtance before mention'd, and at laſt end toward the outermoſt Membrane; beſides, the ſubſtance of the Tongue is muſculous. The Centre of the Tongue conſiſts of ſeveral ſorts of Fibres, long, tranſverſe, and oblique, which being mutually interwoven with one-another, look like a Coverlid or Blanket. Its Motion is owing to peculiar Muſcles of its own, wherewith it is contracted or abbreviated. The pairs of Muſcles are, the Styloglofſum, Baſiogloſſum, Geniogloſſum, Ceratogloſſum, and Myogloſſum.

Lingua Canis, vel Canina. See Cynogloſſa.

Linimentum, an external Medicine of a middle conſiſtence, betwixt an Oil and an Ointment.

Linum, Flax.

Lipodermus, a Diſeaſe of the Skin covering the Glands of the Yard, ſo that it cannot be drawn back.

Lipopſychia, a ſmall Deliquium.

Lipo-

Lipothymia, Defectus Animi, Defectio Animæ, Deliquium Animi, Weakneſs, when People are inclined to Swooning.

Lippitudo, a certain roughneſs within the Eyes, as if Sand had got in 'em. Blearedneſs, Bleary'd.

Liquamen, ſignifies Fat which runs by the heat of the Fire, as by roaſting, broiling, &c.

Liquamumia, i. e. Adeps humanus, Mans-greaſe.

Liquatio, may be taken in a larger or more confin'd ſence; in the largeſt ſignification 'tis the diſſolution of any Matter into a more fluid conſiſtence, either by Fire or any other Diſſolvent, and is afterwards underſtood of Maceration; but ſtrictly 'tis the ſame with Fuſion which only Fire or the heat of the Sun performs.

Liquatio, the ſame with ——

Liquefactio, the melting of Roſin or Wax, with Oil or Fat, over a gentle Fire; or the melting of Salts in a Cellar; alſo the melting of Metals and Minerals in an open Fire.

Liquid-Ambra, ſive Liquida Ambra, ſo call'd from its odoriferous Scent, being an oily reſinous Subſtance thick at bottom, which being a kind of Sediment, is kept by itſelf, the more liquid part ſwimming like an Oil on the top. It flows from the Tree call'd Ocozol, growing in New Spain.

Liquiritia, Liquorice; it is good for the Lungs and Reins, it mitigates Acrimony, helps Expectoration, and gently looſens Childrens Bellies; 'tis chiefly uſed for Coughs, Hoarſneſs, Conſumptions, Pleuriſies, Eroſions of the Bladder, and Sharpneſs of Urine. See Glycyrrhiza.

Liquor, Liquor. Tho' this is made uſe of in all Juices or liquid Subſtances, yet it more properly belongs to thoſe made by Deliquium, ſuch as are commonly called Oil, by ſome Balſams, and frequently diſtill'd Waters.

Lirion; ſee Lilium.

Lithanthrax, Carbo Foſſilis; 'tis a kind of Gagate or Pit-coal, ſuch as we uſe for Fuel. It is a Bituminous Earth fed with Vitriolick Springs, and yieldeth both Pitch, Oil, and Sulphur.

Litharg yrium, Litharge, frothy Excrement that remains after the purification of Silver by Lead. There's two ſorts of it, golden and ſilver, tho' they differ only in boiling.

Lithiaſis, the generation of the Stone in the Kidneys or Bladder.

Lithoides, Os Petroſum, the ſtony Bone.

Lithontriptica, Medicines that break the Stone.

Lithoſpermum, (Milium Solis in Latin) Gromwel.

Lithotomia, a cutting the Stone out of the Bladder, and is thus perform'd; the Operator lays the Perſon afflicted on a ſoft Pillow (after he hath leapt from on high) in the Boſom or Lap of a ſtrong Man, then ties the Hands on each ſide faſt to the Sole of the Foot, and two People do alſo hold the Knees as far aſunder as poſſible; after this the Operator moiſtning one Finger of his left Hand (or if neceſſity require the two foremoſt) with Oil of white Roſes, he thruſts them up in the Fundament, and with his right Hand preſſes the upper parts of the Secrets lightly, that ſo the Stone may be brought to the Perinæum, which when he has forc'd thither with his Finger, he cuts with a two-edg'd Knife proportionably to the bigneſs of the Stone, in the left ſide, betwixt the Teſticles and the Fundament, near the Suture of the Perinæum, bringing the Stone toward the Knife; and if the Stone come not out, either of its own accord or by thruſting with the Fingers, he draws it out by Pincers, or ſome ſuch Inſtrument of Art. The Stone being drawn out, and all the Bands looſed, he binds up the Wound duly, applying Remedies to ſtop the Blood, and taketh care that the Wound be cloſed up, leſt the Urine ſhould continually drain through. This way is call'd Apparatus minor, and is uſed eſpecially in Boys, tho' it be frequently practic'd too in adult Perſons in theſe Countries. But in the Apparatus major, or the greater Operation, the Patient (bound as before) is ſet upon a Table, and held there, then the Chirurgeon thruſts in his Inſtrument, call'd Itinerarium, by the Urinary Paſſage into the Bladder, ſo far as the very Bladder, and cutting a hole as before, he puts another Inſtrument call'd Conductor into the hollow part of the Itinerarium thro' the Wound; then the Itinerarium being taken out of the Urinary Paſſage, he putteth in his Inſtrument call'd Forceps, (a ſort of Pincers) or any other fit to pull out the Stone through the Wound he made, that he may lay hold on't, and bring it out. This being done, the Wound is bound up and conſolidated, as 'tis in Children; but if it be large, 'tis ſtitch'd, and an Inſtrument of Silver apply'd to it for 2 or 3 Days, which is uſeful to let out concreted Blood, Phlegm, and gravelly Urine. There is yet another way of taking out the Stone, viz. by making a hole in the Abdomen, by which the Stone is taken out of the Bladder; and in this way no dribbling of Urine need to be fear'd.

Lithotomus, a Chirurgeon or Operator that is skilful in cutting out the Stone. A Stone-cutter.

Litus, is Linimentum.

Lividus Muſculus, ſive Pectineus, one of the Muſcles that move the Thigh.

Lixivium, Salt diſſolv'd in Water; moſt commonly 'tis made of Aſhes, out of which by fair Water a Salt is drawn. Lye.

Lixivium Sal, a fix'd Alcali; as the Salts of Tartar, Wormwood, &c.

Lobus Auris, the lower part or Lap of the Ear.

Lobus Hepatis, aut Pulmonis, the larger Parts, wherein the Viſceræ are divided.

Lobus, is Phaſeolus.

Lobuli Adipoſi; ſee Sacculi Adipoſi.

Localia Medicamenta, thoſe which are apply'd outwardly, as Plaiſters, Ointments, Salves, &c. Outward or topical Medicines.

Loch, and Lohoch, the ſame with Eclegma.

Loch Sanum, & Expertum, a ſort of Linctus good for the Lungs.

Lochia, thoſe things which are evacuated by Women in Childbed, after the Birth of the Fœtus, alſo the Membranes call'd Secundinæ.

Loci Chymici, Chymical Veſſels and Furnaces.

Loci Muliebres, the ſame with Uterus.

Loculamenta, the Pod of Seeds.

Locuſtæ, the ſame as Oculi or Gemmæ; it alſo ſignifies a certain Inſect.

Lohoch, the ſame with Eclegma.

Loimographia, a deſcription of contagious Diſeaſes.

Loimos, peſtilent Poiſon which proceedeth from the Nitre of the Air, too highly exalted and pointed with heterogeneous Particles, which being receiv'd into the Lungs, infect and corrupt the Blood and animal Spirits.

Lomentum, Bean-flower.

Lonchitis, Spleen-wort.

Longanon, the laſt Gut. See Inteſtinum Rectum.

Longiſſimus Dorſi Muſculus, the longeſt Muſcle of the Back.

Lopidoides, the ſame with Lepidoides.

Lordoſis, the bending of the Back-bone forward.

Loricatio, a term among Chymiſts, ſignifying the covering a Retort with Clay or ſome other Matter when 'tis to be expoſed to a naked Fire.

Loripes, crooked-leg'd; it is alſo call'd Varus.

Lotio, in a manner a particular Bath, wherein the Head, Armpits, Hands, Feet, and Natural Parts are waſh'd, and that with Phyſical Decoctions. Some Medicines are alſo waſh'd frequently with fair Water, by reaſon of their Saltneſs and Acrimony, as in Calx and the heavier Soil of Braſs, that ſtick to the higheſt part of Furnaces or Melting-houſes. Thus Herbs are waſh'd from the Sand and other Impurities adhering to 'em, and Worms with Wine, for a Medicinal uſe.

Lotium; ſee Uron.

Lotus, is uſed both for a Tree and a Plant. The Name is alſo given to the ſweet-ſcented Trefoil and the Melilot, beſide ſome other Herbs.

Lozangiæ, Lozenges, the ſame with Morſuli.

Lubricitas, Medicine or Aliment of an oleaginous or lubricating nature, that eaſily paſs thro' the Body, having a relaxing quality.

Lucius, a Pike.

Lucomoriano Dormitio, is ſaid to be a preternatural Sleep laſting for ſome days, taken from a fabulous Story of a People ſleeping half the Winter in Snow.

Ludus, it relateth either to the Exerciſe of the Body join'd with the Recreation of the Mind, or more ſtrictly taken for a Venereal Act. The Ludus of Paracelſus and Helmont is a peculiar Stone, reduced by Art into a fluid body, which (when cold) turns to a Stone again, and is a great Arcanum againſt the Stone.

Lues, in the largeſt ſenſe is taken for all manner of Diſeaſes; ſometimes 'tis reſtrain'd to contagious and peſtilential Diſeaſes, but more ſtrictly ſignifies the Venereal or French Pox.

Lues Moravica, or Pannonica; ſee Febris Ungarica.

Lues Venerea, Morbus Gallicus, Italicus, ſeu Neapolitanus, Hiſpanicus, and Siphylis according to Fracaſtorius, the French Pox, is a malignant and contagious Diſtemper communicated from one to another by Coition, or other impure Contact, proceeding from virulent Matter, and accompanied with the falling of the Hair, Spots, Swellings, Ulcers, Pains, and many other direful Symptoms.

Lumbago, a Pain in the Muscles of the Loins, clogg'd with Scorbutick Matter, so that the Patient is forc'd to stand upright.

Lumbricales Musculi, or Vermiculares, are four in each Hand, and as many in the Feet. They are so call'd because of their figure and smalness.

Lumbrici, little Worms or Animals produc'd by Corruption in human Bodies; they are of different shapes, round, &c.

Lumbus, or Lumbi, the Loins.

Luna, according to Chymists, signifies Silver.

Lunaria, five Bulbonac, Moonwort; an Ointment of it used to the Region of the Reins, is counted a certain Cure in the Bloody-flux.

Lunatici, Lunaticks, or those that have the Falling-sickness.

Luparia; see Lycoctonon.

Lupia, a Tumor or Protuberance about as big as a French Bean. Some take it for a Meliceris; others, for a Ganglio.

Lupinus, a kind of Pulse.

Lupinus, equal to half a Dram. Fernelius says it is only six Grains, but Agricola and Mercurialis make it eight Grains, or rather the third part of a Scruple, so that a Dram contains nine Lupines.

Lupinus, Lupine, they are chiefly used outwardly for Gangrenes, and malignant Ulcers, and the like, in Cataplasms.

Lupulus, Hops, they are Diuretick, good in the Jaundice, and for Hypochondriack Diseases, and expel the Gravel; the Buds of Hops eaten in Spring-time, being first butter'd, purge the Blood, loosen the Belly, and open Obstructions of the Liver and Spleen.

Lupus, is an Æquivocal Word. 1*st*, It signifies a fierce, wild, rapacious Animal, that destroys Cattel and Sheep. 2*dly*, Lupus is the Name of a Sea-fish, so call'd from its Rapaciousness. 3*dly*, It is a kind of Spider, which destroys Flies, and feeds upon them, having a broad Body. Lastly, Lupus signifies a malignant cancrous Ulcer, seizing on the lower parts, especially the Thighs, and eating away the Flesh around it, like a Wolf, that preys on all it meets with. Lupus is also meant by Antimony, because in the purification of Gold made by Antimony, this by its Sulphur corrodes, absorbes, and imbibes all the Heterogeneous parts, as well Metallick as otherwise, which the Goldsmiths understand well.

Lupus Receptitius; see Lupulus.

Lupus Salictarius; see Lupus.

Lutatio, a cementing of Chymical Vessels. A Lutation.

Luteola, Dyers-weed.

Lutum, Woad, used also by the Dyers.

Lutum, a Lute, whereby Vessels for Distillation are cemented, made of some glutinous Matter mix'd with Water, such as Flower, Whites of Eggs.

Luxatio, or Dislocatio, & Eluxatio, Disjointing, is when a Bone goes out of its own Cavity into another place, which hinders voluntary Motion.

Lycanche, a Quinzay that's mortal to Wolves; see Angina.

Lycanthropia, Rabies Hydrophobica, bica, a Madneſs proceeding from the biting of a mad Wolf, wherein Men imitate the howling of Wolves.

Lychnis, ſive Lucernula, of this there are various kinds.

Lycium, a Juice extracted from the Boughs or Trunk of the Tree Pyxyacantha. It grows in many Places; as India, Spain, Cappadocia, Lycia, and the like. 'Tis an aſtringent Medicine.

Lycoctonum Aconitum, Aconitum Ponticum, Luparia, Lupicida, vel Cænicida, Wolf's-bane.

Lycoides, a Madneſs like that of Wolves, proceeding from the Retention of Seed.

Lycopodium, Wolf's-claw; a kind of Moſs.

Lycopſis, ſeu Anchuſa, a Name ſometimes given to Bugloſs.

Lydius Lapis, Coticula, Lapis Heracleus, is the Stone that is found in the River Tmolus, and other Places; on which Gold and Silver being rub'd, the Colour is try'd. 'Tis call'd the Touch-ſtone.

Lygiſmos, a Contorſion, Luxation, or Contraction of the Joints.

Lygmos, the Hickups, a convulſive Motion of the Nerves which ſpreads up and down the Gullet, returning after ſhort Intermiſſions. It proceeds from ſome troubleſome Matter that vellicates the Æſophagus.

Lympha, a clear limpid Humour, conſiſting of the Nervous Juice and Blood; which, being continually ſeparated by the Glandules, is at laſt diſcharg'd into the Blood again by Veſſels peculiar to it. The Lympha comes not immediately from the Blood or Nervous Juice, as ſome think, but it is the Superfluity of each, which was more than enough for the Nouriſhment of a Part, like the Marrow in Bones. 'Tis taken ſometimes for that Water which flows from the pricking of Nerves, and other Wounds; and which does not really flow from the Nerves themſelves, but from the Lymphatick Veſſels which are cut and wounded.

Lymphatica Vaſa; ſee Venæ Lymphaticæ.

Lyncis Lapis, ſive Belemnites, ſeu Dactylus Idæus, 'tis round and pyramidal, and of various Colours; 'tis preſcrib'd in Nephritick Caſes. It grows in many Places of Germany, in Pruſſia, Pomerania, Switzerland, &c.

Lyngodes Febris, a Fever, accompanied with the Hickups.

Lynx, the ſame with Singultus.

Lynx, is a wild Beaſt call'd ſo, betwixt a Wolf and a Deer, having delicate Spots on the Skin, and endow'd with an exquiſite Sight.

Lyſimachia, or Lyſimachium, & Salicaria; Looſe-ſtrife.

Lyſis, ſignifies Solution, and is taken according to the Variety of the ſubject for every Removal of Diſeaſes, whether it happens from Art or Nature. Or it is oppoſite to the Criſis, and ſo is the ſlow Ceſſation of a Diſeaſe, or it ſignifies an Evacuation by Siege, &c.

Lyſſa, Rabies Canum, the Madneſs of Dogs, or that Furor to which Dogs are moſt ſubject, of all Animals, to fall into in the Dogdays. And this furious Delirium is eaſily communicated to Mankind when they are bit by mad Dogs; but how the Miaſmata becomes Venomous, is not yet determin'd; but it ſeems to conſiſt in a ſlow, viſcous, ſaline Acridity that is very heterogeneous; and ſome think there is a little Worm bred under the Dog's Tongue, which is the Cauſe of this Madneſs.

Lyſſodectos, the Bite of a mad Dog.

Lyteria, a ſign of the looſening of a great Diſeaſe.

M

M in preſcribing, ſignifies a handful; it is often written with three Letters, Man. At the end of a Recipe, it ſignifies Miſce, Mix.

Maceratio, a ſort of Infuſion, when ſome hard bodies are infuſed with Heat in Water, or ſome other Liquor.

Machina, an Engine, ſignifies in Phyſick ſome large Inſtrument; as a Bench, Ladder, Table, or ſuch like, made uſe of in ſetting of Bones after Diſlocation.

Macis; ſee Moſchata Nux.

Mace, is the covering of the Nutmeg, and is very aromatick, 'tis full of much ſpirituous heat, and is therefore good for cold Diſeaſes. 'Tis much of the ſame Vertue with the Nutmeg; but becauſe its parts are finer, it works more powerfully, and is more penetrative. Macer Veterum, or the Mace of the Ancients, was the woody Bark of a Tree, thick, and of a reddiſh Colour, brought out of Barbary, and of a bitteriſh and an aſtringent taſte. There is alſo a kind of the Macer in ſome of the Eaſtern Iſlands, which ſeems to reſemble that of the Ancients.

Macrocephalos, five Capito, a great Head.

Macrocoſmus, the whole Univerſe, as Man is call'd the Microcoſm or leſſer World, in compariſon of the Univerſe.

Macropiper, Long-pepper; ſee Piper.

Macula Epatica, a Spot of a brown, or of a ſad yellow colour, about a hand's breadth broad, chiefly ſeizing upon the Groins, the Breaſt and Back; nay, ſometimes it covers the whole Body, is attended with a certain ſlight Aſperity of the Skin, which lets fall Scales, or a ſort of Dandriff from it, which yet do not ſtick altogether, but are diſſeminated here and there, and ſometimes diſappear, ſometimes break out again. Liver-ſpots.

Macula Matricalis, five Nævus, a ſpot with which a Child is born, of a browniſh colour.

Macula Volatica, a red or purple Spot here and there in the Skin, which if it touch any Orifice in the Body, as the Mouth, Noſtrils, Eyes, Ears, &c. and pierce ſo far, it becomes mortal. 'Tis fatal to Children.

Madaroſis, a Baldneſs of the Head.

Magdaleones, pieces of Plaiſter made up in form of a Cylinder.

Magiſterium, properly ſignifies a Powder prepar'd by Solution and Precipitation, improperly a reſinous Matter made the ſame way, which is more truly call'd an Extract. Magiſteria, as they are various, ſo are they variouſly prepar'd; a ſolvent Liquor is always pour'd upon a dry Matter reduc'd to Duſt, if it can be had, or (if neceſſary) calcin'd, which is different according to the diverſity of the Magiſterium, plain or diſtill'd Vinegar, both by it ſelf, and ſharpen'd with Spirit of Nitre, Vitriol, Salt, &c. Theſe are only in Minerals and Animals; a Lixivium prepar'd of Salt of Tartar and Water in Vegetables, Spirit of Wine in things Sulphureous, that is, endu'd with an Oily part; yet theſe things belong rather to Extracts. There is a precipitating Liquor pour'd upon diſſolv'd Bodies, commonly Oil of Tartar, per deliquium, Urine, ſalt Water, Spirit of Vitriol, Nitre, &c. in Minerals and Animals, common Water, or Allom-water in Vegetables; and there will ſubſide at the bottom of the Glaſs a coagulated Subſtance which muſt be dry'd, and (if neceſſity require) firſt ſweeten'd, and then burn'd. A Magiſtery.

Magiſtralia Medicamenta, thoſe Medicines that Phyſicians uſe to preſcribe in the Shops for ſeveral Uſes, and are commonly call'd Uſualia, Uſual, becauſe they ought to be uſed frequently, perhaps once a Week, twice a Month, &c.

Magma, is a thick Ointment, as alſo the Dregs that are left after the ſtraining of Juices.

Magna Arteria, the ſame with Aorta.

Magnes, a Load-ſtone, highly uſeful in Navigation, for the diſcovery of the Poles; it attracts Iron, and is found in Germany, Norway, Sweden, and Italy. The Load-ſtone reduc'd into Powder is mix'd with ſome Plaiſters, to draw (as they pretend) Iron out of a Wound, but in vain; for this Stone powder'd, looſens, or at leaſt not exerts its Vertue. It alſo ſtops Blood, and is by ſome call'd Sideritis.

Majorana, Marjoram, it digeſts and attenuates; 'tis good in cold Diſeaſes of the Head, taken any way; the Powder of the dry'd Herb drawn up into the Noſtrils, provokes ſneezing.

Mala, ſeu Gena, that part of the Face which is betwixt the Eyes, and the inferior or lower Jaw-bone. The Cheek.

Malabatrum, according to the Deſcription given thereof by Acoſta, is a Twig or Branch of the Cinnamon Tree, with its Leaves and Berries, it being exactly the ſame with a Leaf of the Cinnamon Tree I keep by me. Dioſcorides ſays, theſe Leaves grows in marſhy Places, and ſwim upon the Water. Garcias ab Orto, with ſome others, will have them to be the Leaves of a Tree growing plentifully in India, but eſpecially in Cambaia, near the Water-ſide. Whether the Malabatrum of the Ancients be the ſame with ours, is much to be doubted. The Indian Leaf.

Mala Inſana, or Melanzana, as the Neapolitans call them, or Poma Amoris. Mad Apple.

Malacia, a deprav'd Appetite, which covets thoſe Things which are not fit to be eaten. Alſo a Tenderneſs of Body.

Malactica, or Emollientia, thoſe things which ſoften parts with a moderate heat and moiſture, by diſſolving ſome of them, and diſſipating others. Softening Remedies.

Malagma, the ſame with our Fore-fathers, as Cataplaſma.

Malagma, the ſame with Malacticum.

Malandria, the Name of a certain Diſeaſe in Horſes, call'd the Malanders, which are large Chinks, Cracks, or Ulcerous Chops under the Horſe's Knee, or behind, betwixt the Knee and the Fetlock; in Men it is a Species of the Elephantiaſis, or Leproſy, from whence thoſe who have theſe Ulcers are call'd Malandrioſi.

Malaxatio, the working of Pills, and eſpecially Plaiſters, into a Maſs with other things, either with the Hand or a Peſtil, or the like Inſtrument.

Malicorium, the Rhind of the Pomegranate.

Malignus Morbus, a malignant Diſeaſe, is that which rages more vehemently, and continues longer than its Nature ſeems to pretend to, as a Peſtilent Fever.

Malinathalla, the ſame with Cyperus.

Malleus, one of the four little Bones in the Ear.

Malleus Pedis; ſee Malleolus.

Malleolus, or Malleus, is twofold; External, which is the lower Proceſs at the foot of the Bone of the Leg, call'd Fibula. Or Internal, which is the lower Proceſs of the Bone of the Leg, call'd Tibia, theſe make the Ancle.

Malthacode, a Medicine. render'd ſoft by the mixture of Wax.

Malum Mortuum, a ſort of black Itch, with crufty Puſtules, without any Matter or Pain, appearing moſt commonly about the Hips and Legs.

Malogranatum, & Malum Punicum, or Granatum, the Cartilage call'd Xiphoides; otherwiſe it ſignifies a Plant.

Malva, common Mallow; it mollifies, eaſes Pain, looſens the Belly, and mitigates ſharpneſs of Urine; 'tis uſed outwardly in Cataplaſms and Fomentations, to ripen Humours, and to eaſe Pain, and in Clyſters, to looſen the Belly in Nephritick Pains. Three Ounces of the Decoction of the Leaves of the diſtil'd Water of them, with one Ounce and an half of Syrup of Violets, cure heat of Urine preſently.

Malvaviſcum; ſee Althæa.

Malus, the Apple-tree. The Vertues of Apples are various, according to the different taſtes of them; thoſe that are ſowre and harſh are aſtringent, and therefore are good in Fluxes of the Belly; and when they are roaſted they are proper Food for thoſe that have Fevers. Such as are a little acid are agreeable to the Stomach, and chear the Heart; Sweet Apples are ſomewhat hot and looſening; rotten Apples take off Inflamations and ſwelling of the Eyes; the Core of an Apple cut out, and a Dram of Frankincenſe put in, and roaſted with the Apple, and eaten, opens Obſtructions of the Lungs, and is good for difficulty of breathing; the ſame apply'd outwardly to the Side, eaſes the pain of it; 'tis beſt to eat Apples two or three Hours after Meals; the altering Syrup of Apples is good for melancholy People; the purging Syrup of Apples is a proper Purge for melancholy People; the Confection of Alkermes is made with the Juice of Apples, and the Ointment call'd Pomatum. The Engliſh Apples are counted the beſt in Europe.

Malus Armeniaca, the Apricock-tree. The Engliſh Apricocks are better than the French or Italian, and and more wholsom than the Peach. Oil of the Kernels is excellent for Inflamations and swelling of the Hemorrhoides, and for pains of the Ears; the Kernels eaten cure the Heart-burning.

Malus Persica, the Peach-tree; the Fruit has a sweet and pleasant smell, and refreshes the Spirits; the Leaves boil'd in Beer or Milk, kill Worms, and expel them; the Water of the Flowers takes off spots from the Face; the Syrup of the Flowers is a very proper Purge for Children.

Mamma, Mammilla, Uber, the Breast, Dugs, &c. Grammarians call the inner part Ubera, and the outward Protuberances Mammæ. A Breast or Dug is a globous, white, and soft body, lying upon the Pectoral Muscle on both sides, made up of conglomerated Glandules in the inside, by the Mediation whereof the Milk is separated from the Arterious Blood, and is convey'd out by very little Pipes, which pass thro' the Nipples.

Mammiformes Processus, two Apophyses of the Bone of the back part of the Scull; see Mastoides.

Mammilla, the same as Mamma.

Mandibula, Maxilla, the Jaw, either upper or lower. The upper is made of twelve Bones, on each side six. The first is at the external corner of the Eye; which, join'd with the fore-process of the Bone of the Temples, produces the Jugal Bone. The second constitutes the inner corner of the Eye, has a large Passage in it, by which the superabundant moisture of the Eye descends to the Nostrils. The third is within the Circle of the Eye, interposed betwixt the other two. The fourth (the greatest of all) makes the greatest part of the Cheeks and Palate, and is elaborately carv'd for the Reception of the Teeth. The fifth helps to make the Nose. The sixth, with another Bone along with it, terminates the Extremity of the Palate: And all these are join'd rather by a plain Line than by Sutures. The lower Jaw at riper Years grows into one continued Bone, extream hard and thick, and consequently very strong. It has two Processes, one acute, call'd Corone; the other in the form of a little Head, call'd Condylus. It has two Holes within, and as many without, which make way for the Nerves; the under Teeth are implanted in it, and it is jointed with the inner side of the Bone of the Temples, call'd Os Petrosum.

Mandibulares Musculi, the same with Masseteres.

Mandragora, the Mandrake; it is male and female, it grows spontaneously in hot Countries, Spain and Italy, and the like, in Woods and shady places. Mandrakes are reckon'd among Narcotick Medicines. Some have question'd whether the Apple of it be wholsom, but Faber Lynceus says, that both the Pulp and Seed may be eaten. The Bark of the Root, which is brought to us from abroad, especially from Italy, is narcotick, but 'tis seldom used inwardly; 'tis outwardly used for redness and pain of the Eyes, for an Erysipelas, hard Tumors, and the Kings-evil.

Manducatorii Musculi, the same with Masseteres.

Mania, a sort of Madness, a deprivation of Imagination and

Judg-

Judgment, with great Rage and Anger, but without a Fever and Fear. It proceeds from ſulphureous ſaline Animal Spirits, like Aqua ſtygia, which cauſe ſtrange furious Impulſes in the Body, not by conſent of Parts, but by their own Strength.

Manica Hippocratis, a Woollen Sack in the form of a Pyramid, wherewith aromatick Wines, Medicines, and other Liquids, are ſtrein'd.

Manoides, a Phrenſie, like the Madneſs meant by Mania.

Manipulus, a dry Meaſure uſed by Phyſicians in their Preſcriptions, for 'tis a determinate quantity, to wit, as much as can be held in one Hand, meant chiefly of Herbs. Faſciculus is a different quantity from Manipulus, a handful, for it properly ſignifies an armful.

Manna, is ſaid to be a fat Dew ſticking to Trees. Tho. Bartholine travelling thro' Calabria, ſays, he gather'd it from the Aſh-tree. The beſt Manna comes from Calabria; it ſweats out of the Branches (being cut) and Leaves of the Aſh-tree, growing hard thro' the heat of the Sun. 'Tis uſed to looſen the Belly; 'tis a very gentle Medicine, and may be ſafely given to old Men, Children, and Women. Some ſay, that certain ſwarms of Inſects (Bartholine ſays Graſhoppers, Chriſtian à Vega ſays ſmall Bees) ſuck this Juice out of the Trees, which they diſcharge upon the Twigs and Leaves. It grows alſo in the Eaſt-Indies, in Syria, Perſia, Goa, Ormus, and Ceilon. Whilſt liquid, 'tis call'd Tereniabin, but when hard Maſtichina vel Granata: 'Tis alſo call'd Mel Aëreum, ſeu Aëromeli, Men Siracoſt, Thereniabin, Trungibin, Terengibil, Droſomeli, &c. Some are of opinion that the Sugar of the Ancients was nothing but Manna.

Manna Chymicorum, ſomething diſtil'd from white Precipitate whiter than Snow. 'Tis alſo called Aqua Cœleſtis.

Manna Thuris; ſee Thus.

Manſorii Muſculi, the ſame as Maſſeteres.

Mantichora, is an Indian Animal that hath three rows of Teeth.

Manubrium, belongs to Chirurgeons Inſtruments, and is that part which is held in the Hand call'd the Halſt.

Manutigium, the rubbing of the Eyes with the Hand.

Manus Chriſti, vel Saccharum perlatum, a ſort of Sugar, ſo call'd becauſe 'tis put into Cordials for very weak People.

Maraſmodes, a Fever which at laſt ends in a Conſumption.

Maraſmus, the higheſt degree of an Atrophia, or a lingring Conſumption of the whole Body, attended with great variety of Symptoms. A conſuming Fever.

Marathrum, is Feniculum, or Fennel. See Fœniculum.

Marcaſita, or Biſmuthum, a Metallick Excrement produc'd in the generation of a Metal, from ſome part that was unfit for the generating it, and chang'd into a whitiſh Mineral Body hard and brittle. It differs from Cachymia becauſe that is compoſed of more volatile parts, which were ſeparated at the beginning of the generation of Metals, whereas this being more fix'd, was not ſegregate

gated till at last. Bismuth, Marcasite.

Marciaton, the Name of a Malagma, or Liniment, prepar'd for taking away Pain in the Joints.

Marcor, the same with Marasmus.

Marga, Marle, a certain fat matter contain'd in some Stones, from whence 'tis stiled the Marrow of Stones.

Margaritæ, Pearls, call'd also Perlæ, and Uniones, if they are large: They grow in certain Shells, also in the Creatures themselves living in those Shells, as we seen in English and other Oysters. They are Oriental and Occidental; the Oriental are the best, and most resplendent, especially the Persian. The Occidental ones are found in several places of Europe, in Scotland, Silesia, Friesland, Bohemia. In Physick, they are said to strengthen the Heart, but their chief Qualification is, to correct Acidity.

Margos, signifies Insanum, or Diseased.

Maris, 83 Pound 4 Ounces in weight.

Mariſca, the same with Ficus.

Marmarygæ, the glistening and coruscation of the Eyes.

Marmelata & Marmelada, Marmelade, the Juice of Quinces condensated into a Jelly with Sugar, and is either plain or spiced, for the use of Families.

Marmor, Marble-stone, is of diverse sorts, some being white, as the Alabastrites; some red, some black, as the Lydius Lapis; some of mixt colour, as the Porphyrites or Ophites. Marble-stone.

Marmoraria, is Branca Ursina.

Marmorata Aurium, Ear-wax, a certain Excrement of the Ears, laid there in the auditory Passage from the Openings of the Arteries, or sweat out from the Cartilages. See Cerumina.

Marmoreus Tartarus, a Stone found in the Body of Man as hard as Marble.

Marmoracei Veneni, are of such strong and sudden efficacy, as only with the weight of a grain of Wheat to be able to kill a Man instantly.

Marocostinum, a kind of Extract or Mass of Pills compos'd of Marum and Costus, recommended in Zwelfer's Pharmacopœia.

Marogus, by Paracelsus, a certain strong somniferous Narcotick, so powerful that any one may undergo the greatest Torture.

Marrubium, or Prassium, Horehound. The Juice of white Horehound mixt with Honey is good for those that have Coughs, and are consumptive; the Powder of it kills Worms; the Tops of it infused in Wine, and drank three mornings, is good to provoke the Courses, to expel the Secundine, to strengthen the Stomach, and to cure an ill Habit of Body. A Conserve of the Flowers made with Honey, and an ounce of it took in the morning for 40 days, cured a Nobleman of a Scyrrhus in his Liver, when Chalybeates and other Medicines would do no good.

Marrubium Nigrum; see Ballote.

Mars, the God of War, but among Chymists it signifies Iron or Steel.

Marsupialis Musculus, or Bursalis, and Obturator Internus, the ninth Muscle in order, according to

to our Anatomy, whereby the Thigh is mov'd.

Marſippon, Marſypion, or Marſupium, Sacculus, a Bag or Pouch in which any thing is kept.

Marſupiale Americanum, is a certain Exotick Animal, which Aldrovandus calls half a Fox and half an Ape; 'tis brought from Virginia hither, and Dr. Tyſon hath given us an accurate deſcription of it.

Martialis; ſee Mars.

Martiatum Unguentum, a certain Ointment conſiſting of certain aromatick Vegetables, Oils, Gums, Wax, and Greaſe.

Martius Panis, vel Paſta Regia, a Compoſition of ſweet Almonds beaten with Roſe-water into a Pulp, and being mixt with Sugar, is baked in an Oven like our Cheeſe-cakes.

Marum, an exotick Plant, like in Figure and Vertue to Marjoram.

Mas, Male, alſo an oblong and ſharp-pointed Inſtrument, which is put into the Trepan, that it may ſtand at firſt more firmly. See Modiolus.

Maſlach, a Compoſition prepar'd by the Turks of Opium, one dram whereof is the Doſe, tho' ſometimes they take three drams without any prejudice, eſpecially when they are about to fight the Battels of Mars or Venus.

Maſſa, all the Blood is commonly call'd the Maſs of Blood; and every Compoſition of Powder, and other dry things work'd into one ſubſtance with a Liquor, as of Pills, and the like, is call'd a Maſs.

Maſſeteres, Manſorii, ſeu Manducatorii, & Mandibulares, Muſcles of the lower Jaw, produced from the upper and the Jugal Bone, they are connected to the lower Jaw, and can move it right ſide, left ſide, and forward, by reaſon of the various diſpoſition of Fibres.

Maſticatio & Manducatio, chewing, an Action whereby we mince the Meat and mix it with the Spittle in the Mouth.

Maſticatorium, a Medicine to provoke Spitting. See Apophlegmatiſmus.

Maſtix, or Maſtiche, Maſtick, is the Gum, Reſin, or Tear of the Maſtick-tree, growing in Chios, Syria, Candia, Provence, Spain, &c. the beſt is yellowiſh, tranſparent, well-ſcented, and fryable. All the Parts of it are binding, viz. the Buds, Leaves, Branches, Fruit, &c. And the Bark of the Root, with the Leaves, boil'd in Water and taken inwardly, are good for a Looſneſs and Bloody-flux. The Oil of Maſtick is ſucceſsfully mix'd in Medicines for the Leproſy.

Maſtoidei, vel Maſtoides, Proceſſes like Breaſts or Dugs, which from a broad Baſis end in an obtuſe Top, and are ſhaped like Teats in a Cow's Udder; alſo Muſcles which bend the Neck, proceeding from the Neck-bone and the Breaſt-bone, terminating in the Proceſs Mammiformis, i.e. like a Dug or Pap. See Mammiformis Proceſſus.

Maſtos, the ſame with Mamma.

Mater, the ſame with Matrix, or Uterus; it ſignifies alſo a Woman who hath brought forth a Child.

Mater Dura, a Membrane that ſticks cloſe to the interior part of the the Scull in ſome places, and mediately covers both the Brain and Cerebellum or middle Brain. It hath four Cavities, which ſupply the place of Veins, and come together betwixt the Brain and Cerebellum; which Conjunction Herophilus calls Torcular.

Mater tenuis, a Membrane that immediately covers the Brain and Cerebellum, extreamly full of Sanguinary Veſſels, made to keep in the Spirits generated in the Brain and Cerebellum, that they fly not away.

Mater Perlarum, Macra Perlarum, ſeu Margaritarum, are certain Shells reſembling Pearl in their colour. Mother of Pearl.

Mater ſylva, is Caprifolium; ſee Caprifolium.

Materialiſta, a Druggiſt, or a Merchant that dealeth in Medicines.

Mathedoram, Sal Gem.

Matorium, Ammoniacum, or Galbanum.

Matracium, nothing but a little Sack, wherein is calcinated Tartar, or the like, prick'd here and there for the emition of Liquor, in a Cellar, or any other moiſt place. 'Tis alſo apply'd to an Urinal Glaſs, ſuch as is uſed to be brought to Phyſicians to inſpect and judge of Urine; call'd alſo in Latin Matula.

Matraſs, is alſo a Glaſs to diſtil, digeſt, or ſublime in a Sand Furnace.

Matricalia, ſuch things as are uſed for Diſeaſes of the Matrix or Womb.

Matricaria, Feverfew; it is much uſed in Diſeaſes of the Matrix; a Decoction of it expels the After-birth, cures Mother-fits and Fevers, and doth all a bitter Herb can do. Bees can't endure it, and if any one carries it in his Hand where they are, he need not fear being ſtung.

Matrix, the ſame with Uterus; but by the Chymiſts the Elements of all things are call'd Matrices. Paracelſus conſtitutes three, one the Water on which the Spirit of GOD reſted; the other, that of the World; and the third, Eve the Mother of all Men; therefore the Matrix is that in which natural Bodies firſt aroſe.

Matronalis Flos, ſeu Viola, Dames Violet.

Maturantia, are ſuch Medicines as have a Quality to bring Tumors and Abſceſſes to a purulent Matter.

Maturatio, the ripeneſs of Tumors; among the Chymiſts it is taken for Digeſtion, Circulation, Fermentation, and Projection.

Maxilla inferior, the lower Jawbone; 'tis that which contains the under Teeth, and has a Proceſs on each ſide, the foremoſt call'd Corone, and the hinder Condylus.

Maxilla ſuperior, the upper Jawbone; it hath eleven Bones belonging to it, five on each ſide, and one without a fellow; 1. In the leſſer corner of the Eye. 2. In the greater corner of the Eye. 3. Which is the greateſt of all, conſtitutes the whole Palate, and contains the uppermoſt Teeth. 4. With its Partner conſtitute the Ridge of the Noſe. 5. Is plac'd at the extremity of the Palate, where the holes of the Noſtrils tend toward the upper part of the Gullet. See Mandibula.

Maza, a kind of Bread made in Hippocrates and Galen's time, of roaſted Barley-flower, with Oil and Honey; but, in after-Ages, inſtead thereof, was made a kind of Bread of Almonds and Sugar, call'd Maza panes, or Macaroons.

Meatus, is call'd certain Veſſels in our Body, ſuch as Veins, Arteries, the Lymphatick Veſſels, and the Chilous Ducts, which afford a Paſſage to ſome thing or other.

Meatus Auditorius, the Auditory Paſſage, begins from the Cavity of the inner part of the Ear, and is cloath'd with a thin Skin as far as the brim of the Tympanum, or Drum of the Ear. Its Uſe is to receive the Air and audible Species, and to contain the Ear-wax.

Meatus Urinarius; ſee Urethra.

Mechanopæotica, is an Invention of Waterworks, to raiſe Springs and Fountains by the help of Pipes, Windmills, Bellows, &c.

Mechili, a certain monſtrous kind of Men, by Paracelſus underſtood to be ſuch as were reckon'd Gyants, Cyclops, &c.

Mechoacanna, a white purging Root like Briony; it is brought from the Weſt-Indies, eſpecially from New Spain. There is alſo Peruvian Mechoacan, or white Rhubarb, for there are two ſorts; the firſt comes from the Iſle of Mechoacan, whence it has its Name; and the other, which is much better, from the Continent, about Nicaragua.

Mechoacan, purges flegmatick and watery Humours from all parts of the Body, eſpecially from the Head, Nerves, and Breaſt; 'tis good for old Coughs, the Cholick, and the French-Pox; 'tis taken moſt commonly in ſubſtance, being powder'd, and taken in a proper Liquor, eſpecially in Wine; 'tis not given in a Decoction, becauſe it has been found by Experience that boiling deſtroys the Vertue of it; it is corrected by adding a third part of Cinnamon, Anniſe, or Maſtick; 'tis beſt when it is freſh, whitiſh within, and of an aſh-colour without.

Mecon, is Papaver, or Poppy.

Meconium, Opium, or the condenſed Juice of Poppies. Alſo the Excrements of a Fœtus which ſticks to the Inteſtines after the Birth, ſo call'd from the blackneſs of Poppy Juice.

Meconologia, a Deſcription of Opium.

Medea, a Proper-Name for a Witch or Enchantreſs; alſo the Name of a Medicine prepar'd of Sulphur and a moiſt Bitumen. This being ſpread upon another Body, preſently heals it. 'Tis likewiſe the Name of a Gem, ſo call'd becauſe 'tis believ'd to be firſt found by that Sorcereſs Medea; but perhaps more truly called Lapis Medus, as relating to the Country of the Medes. It is black, having a Vein of a Gold colour, yielding a Saffron Juice and a Vinous Taſte. 'Tis commended by the Magicians particularly againſt Drunkenneſs, and to reconcile Love. Rulandus thinks it a Species of the black Hæmatitis.

Medela, the ſame with Curatio.

Mediana Vena, the middle Vein in the bending of the Cubit, betwixt the Cephalick and Baſilick.

'Tis

'Tis safely open'd, because there is neither Nerve nor Artery under it; but you must have a care of hurting the Tendon that lies underneath it, which would produce Convulsions, a Gangrene, &c. The Median Vein.

Mediastinum, a doubling of the Membrane of the Pleura, which divides the Lungs, and other Viscera of the Breast into two parts. It proceeds from the Vertebres of the Back, and going on forward, reaches the Breast-bone, and makes this Partition. The Mediastin.

Mediastinum Cerebri, the same with Septum Transversum.

Medica, a sort of Trefoil, call'd by some the Hedg-hog Trefoil.

Medicamentum, a Medicine, a convenient Help, whereby Diseases are repell'd for the Recovery of Health; and it is either Actual, which affects the Body at first touch with that Quality it is endow'd with, as hot Iron, cold Water; or Potential, whose Efficacy is not perceiv'd till it be stir'd up after some stay in the Body, as Pepper, Radish, sharp Salts, &c. Again, a Medicine is endow'd with first, or second, or third Qualities, all which depend upon the Temperament and the various Motions of Particles in our Bodies. Medicine is threefold, Chirurgery, Physick (strickly so call'd) and Diet.

Medicina, Physick, it has met with Variety of Definitions, according to the various Intentions and Opinions of the several Authors that have treated of it; but properly it is an Art assistant to Nature, and preserving Health in Humane Bodies as much as is possible, by convenient Remedies. Sennertus, and others, rightly divide it into five parts. 1. Physiologia, which treats of Humane Constitution, as it is sound and well, to which belongs Anatomy. 2. Pathologia, which treats of the preternatural or morbifick Constitution of our Bodies. 3. Semiotica, which treats of the signs of Health and Diseases. 4. Hygieina, which delivers Rules of the Regimen to be observ'd in the Preservation of Health. 5. Therapeutica, which teaches Diet, Chirurgery, and the Medicinal part, properly so call'd. The general Division of Physick is only into two parts; the Theoretick, and the Practick. The subject of Physick is Humane Body, as curable; and its End and Design is Health. Hippocrates calls it a long Art, and Paracelsus a short one; but in reality it is a Long, a Great, and a Noble Art.

Medicinalis Dies. See Critici Dies.

Medicus, a Physician, a Man highly skilful in the Art of Physick; modest, sober, and courteous. Scaliger describes a Physician thus: That he ought to be a learned, honest, mild, diligent, fortunate Man, and of ripe Years, one that relies upon GOD, not arrogant with his Knowledge, Labour, or Success; nor Covetous.

Medimnus, a Measure containing One hundred and Eight Pounds. This Measure relates only to dry things.

Meditullium, that spongy substance betwixt the two Laminæ of the Scull.

Medium, the ſame with Viola Mariana.

Medius Venter; ſee Thorax.

Medulla in Mineralogia, in the Deſcription of Minerals, is that ſoftiſh part which is found in ſome Stones. In Phytologia, or Deſcription of Plants, it ſignifies the middle, ſofter, and more excellent part, which they call Cor and Matrix. In Animals it is the fat and ſoft ſubſtance contain'd within the Concavities of the Bones, call'd Marrow.

Medulla Cerebri, a white, ſoft ſubſtance, cover'd on the outſide with the barky ſubſtance, which is more of an Aſhy colour; it makes that which is call'd the Corpus Calloſum, or callous Body within. Imagination and the Diſtribution of Animal Spirits are perform'd there. Malpighius aſſerts, that it conſiſts of innumerable Threads or Filaments.

Medulla Lactis, or Lactis Flos, is Butter.

Medulla Oblongata, the beginning of the Spinal Marrow, whence ariſe the Nerves within the Scull, it deſcends to the Os Sacrum, thro' the Hole of the hinder part of the Head and the Vertebres. It ſends out ten pair of Nerves to the Cheſt, the Abdomen, and the Limbs. It is alſo call'd the common Senſory, becauſe that where the Original of the Nerves is, there is the common place of the Reception of Species from the External Senſes.

Medulla Oſſium, Marrow in the Bones, is a fat ſubſtance, laid up in the Cavities or Poroſities of the Bones by the Arteries; 'tis kept in a Membrane, and is quite deſtitute of all Senſe; 'tis red in the great Cavities, and white in the leſs, ſoft and ſucculent in ſpongy Bones. We may imagin likewiſe, that it is but a ſweating of the Bones, in that they receive more Sulphureous fat Matter than they can convert into Nouriſhment, which afterward flows to the inner part of the Bones by Ductus's and little Cavities for that purpoſe, after that is receiv'd by the Veins, and communicated to the Blood.

Medulla Spinalis, five Dorſalis; the Spinal Marrow, or the Tail of the Brain, is that part which goes down the middle of the Back by the Vertebres, and is terminated at the Os Sacrum; 'tis alſo of the ſame Nature and Uſe as the Brain. 'Tis a Coagmentation of Nerves, and has the Uſe of them; upwards it is forked: Hence, if either Part be obſtructed, there ariſes a Palſy on one ſide. It ſends out thirty pair of Nerves on each ſide to the Limbs, the Great Cavities, and other Parts of the Body. If it be waſh'd with a convenient Liquor, it will ſever into a great many little Fibres.

Megalocælos, Ventricoſus; one that hath got a great, prominent, ſtrutting Belly.

Megalophonos, he that hath a large ſounding Voice, a Vociferator.

Megaloſplauchnos, one whoſe Viſcera are ſwell'd to the hardneſs of a Tumor, and which exceed Nature by reaſon of ſome Tumor, as Schirrhus, Oedema, or Inflamation.

Mel, Honey.

Mela, a Chirurgeon's Inſtrument, call'd Specillum, the Vulgar call it Tenta, a Tent, from trying. 'Tis made for the moſt part of

Sil-

Silver, or Ivory; and that to probe Ulcers, or to draw the Stone out of the Yard, &c. 'Tis of different ſhapes, according as it is differently uſed.

Melampodium; Black Hellebore.

Melampyrum, vel Triticum Bovinum & Vaccinum, Cow-wheat.

Melanagoga, Medicines which expel black Choler.

Melanopiper; ſee Piper.

Melancholia, a Sadneſs without any evident Cauſe, whereby People fancy terrible, and ſometimes ridiculous things to themſelves. It proceeds from the Degeneracy of the Animal Spirits from their own Spirituous ſaline Nature, into an acid, like the Spirit of Vitriol, Box-tree, Oak, &c. Alſo 'tis call'd black Choler, or black Blood, Aduſt, and Salino-ſulphureous.

Melanoſmegma, black Soap.

Melanthium, is Nigella.

Melanteria, is a Juice found in Metals of a black colour; altho' (when dry'd) it often turns to an Aſh-colour; 'tis very aſtringent, but hath a cauſtick quality, as Miſy. Some call it Metallick Ink, and 'tis call'd Taylors Chalk, and Taylors Ink.

Melanthelæon, that is, Oil expreſt from black Cummin.

Melas; ſee in Alphus.

Mele; ſee Mela.

Meleagris, is Fritillaria: See Fritillaria.

Melia, is Fraxinus.

Meliceris, a Tumor ſhut up within a Tunick, proceeding from Matter like Honey, without Pain; round, yielding if preſt, but quickly returning again. It ſeems to proceed from Lympha-tick Particles, which do not circulate right, and which (when the moiſture is evaporated) leave a Honeyiſh kind of ſubſtance, as it happens likewiſe in a Steatoma, and an Atheroma.

Melicratum, Hydromel, or Mulſum, a Drink made of one part Honey, and eight parts Rain-water; Mead, Metheglin.

Meligeion, an almoſt abſolete Word, ſignifying a Sulphureous ſpreading ſwelling, attended with a Putrefaction of the Bones.

Melilotus, a kind of ſweet-ſcented Trefoil, call'd alſo Sertula Campana, Melilot; it digeſts, mollifies, and eaſes Pain; for which purpoſe 'tis commonly uſed in Plaiſters and Cataplaſms.

Meliphyllum, is Meliſſa.

Meliſſa, Baulm, 'tis reckon'd among the cordial Herbs, it removes Melancholy, and chears the Heart; 'tis much commended for fainting and beating of the Heart, for the Palſy, the Falling-ſickneſs, and for other cold Diſeaſes of the Brain.

Meliſſophyllum, five Meliphyllum, is Meliſſa.

Melitema, a ſort of Cake, work'd up with Honey and Medicines.

Melo, a Melon, 'tis cold and moiſt, and apt to putrify in the Stomach, and to occaſion Fevers and Gripes; the Seed is one of the great cold Seeds.

Melocactus, is Melocarduus.

Melocarduus, Melocactos, Pomum Spinoſum, Opontiatum, Echinomelocactos, is an exotick Plant, like a Melon.

Melotarpus, is the Fruit of Birth-wort.

Melopepon, a ſort of Cucurbita, a Medium betwixt a Melon and a Pompion.

Meloſis, is ſearching with a Probe.

Melotis, the ſame with Mela, but leſſer.

Membrana, a nervous, fibrous, broad, plain, white, and dilatable ſubſtance, which covers the Bowels, the great Cavities of the Body, the Muſcles, &c. and is endow'd with an exquiſite Senſe.

Membrana Adipoſa, the fat Membrane that comes round the Kidneys.

Membrana Carnoſa, the ſame with Panniculus Carnoſus.

Membrana Urinaria, the ſame with Allantoides.

Membranoſus Muſculus, or Faſcialis Latus, and Faſcia Lata; it moves the Tibia.

Membrum, a Member, an organical body, made up of ſeveral ſimilar parts, deſign'd for the performance of voluntary Actions.

Memoria, Memory, the Retenſion of Marks or Footſteps impreſt in ſeveral places in the barky Subſtance or folding Fibres of the Brain, by the motion of Objects. Memory reſides in the ſubſtance of the Brain call'd Corticalis, like Bark.

Mendoſa Sutura, or Squammea, a ſcaly Connexion of Bones, as may be ſeen in the Bone of the Temples, and the Bone of the forepart of the Head; ſee Lepidoides Sutura.

Meningophylax, that which preſerves the Meninx or Membrane of the Head, as thin Gold or Silver Plates, which are apply'd when the Scull is open'd.

Meninx, ſee Mater dura & Tenuis.

Menſa, the broader part of the Teeth, call'd Grinders; which chew or mince the Meat.

Menſes, the Courſes, are Excretions of Blood every Month from the Womb, and not from its Neck or Paſſage call'd Vagina. The cauſe thereof conſiſts in a fermentative matter generated in the ſubſtance of the Womb, or a Seminal matter infuſed into the Blood from the Teſticles, or Ovaria in a Woman; which being mix'd with the Maſs of the Blood, ferments it into ſuch a motion, that 'tis forc'd to diſcharge itſelf every month. They begin uſually when Young Maids grow ripe, at Twelve or Fourteen, but ceaſe naturally in Women with Child, paſt Children, and thoſe that give ſuck. They are mention'd under divers other Names, as Menſtruum, Profluvium mulierum, Lunare virus, by Ovid; Profluvium genitale, by Pliny.

Menſis Chymicus, ſive Philoſophicus, conſiſts of forty Days.

Menſtrua Alba; ſee Fluor Albus.

Menſtruum Mulierum; ſee Menſes.

Menſtruum, that which is to be diſtil'd, or a Liquor that corrodes Metals and diſſolves Stones, as Vinegar, Aqua fortis, Spirit of Wine, &c. It may be taken alſo for the Caput Mortuum which is left after diſtillation. A Menſtruum or diſſolving Liquor.

Menſura, or Meaſure, is a certain determinated quantity, relating both to dry and liquid Matters.

Mentagra, a ſort of wild Tetter or Ringworm, which was not known in Claudius's days.

Men-

Mentalis, is a kind of Muſcle that is plainly membranous, and is inſerted from the middle of the Chin to the lower Lip, according to Bidloo.

Mentha, Mint; it ſtrengthens the Stomach, taketh off Crudities and the Hickup, ſtops Vomiting, and expels Wind. Two ounces of the Water drank, ſtops Vomiting; outwardly apply'd, it takes off the hardneſs of the Breaſts, diſſolves curdl'd Milk, and prevents the breeding of it; the diſtil'd Water cures the Gripes in Children; the very ſmell of it ſtrengthens the Brain, and preſerves the Memory.

Menthaſtrum, a ſort of Mint.

Mentula, the ſame with Penis or Clitoris.

Mentulagra, is a Diſeaſe of the Virile Member of generation, when the Muſcles and Nerves erecting that Member are either convuls'd or contracted, ſo that the Patients are properly call'd Spadones, cramp'd.

Mentum, the Chin.

Mercurius, call'd alſo Hermes, Quickſilver. This Name is given by Chymiſts to all Liquids that will not take fire, whether ſpirituous, acid, or aqueous. Some take it for the Spirit drawn from Plants or Animals, or for any acid Liquor prepar'd by Chymiſtry.

Mercurialia, all things that are prepar'd with Quickſilver.

Mercurialis, a Herb ſo call'd.

Merobalineum, a ſort of Semicupium, adapted for the bathing of one or more Parts of the Body.

Meſaræum, the ſame with Meſenterium, whence its Veſſels are call'd as well meſaraick as meſenterick. See Meſenterium.

Meſaraica Vaſa; ſee in Meſaræum.

Meſenteria Vaſa; ſee Meſaræum.

Meſenterium, the Membrane of the Peritonæum double, enrich'd with Glandules, Arteries, Nerves, Veins, chyliferous and lymphatick Veſſels; 'tis in the middle of the Abdomen, and contains the Inteſtines in a wonderful manner; it hath a great Glandule in the middle, call'd Pancreas Aſellii, about which are ſeveral other leſſer Glandules, to which the milky Veſſels of the firſt rank tend from the Inteſtines and lymphatick Veſſels, the Liver, and other Parts. From theſe Glandules again the milky Veſſels of the ſecond rank aſcend to the Veſſel that carries the Maſs of Chyle, and diſcharge themſelves into it. The Meſentery.

Meſeræum; ſee Meſenterium.

Meſocolon, that part of the Meſentery which is continued to the great Guts.

Meſogloſſum, the ſame with Genioglosſum.

Meſomphalton, Umbilicus, the Navel.

Meſonuctium, the middle of the Night.

Meſopleurii, the Intercoſtal Muſcles, twenty-two on each ſide; eleven external, and as many internal. See Intercoſtales Muſculi.

Meſopotamenon, is a kind of Ointment call'd Oenautharius, prepar'd of Whitewine and white Lilly-flowers.

Meſpilus, the Medlar-Tree, Medlars; the beſt are the biggeſt, which have Pulp enough, and little Stones, let 'em be well ripen'd or mellow'd in Hay, or elſe hung up in the Air. They are pleaſant to the Taſte, comfort the Stomach and Belly, mitigate the heat of the Stomach very much, ſtop Fluxes and Vomiting, and provoke Urine. The Stones beat to powder, and drank in Whitewine, expel the Gravel. There are a ſort of Medlars without Stones, which being grafted on a Quince-tree, come to be of a notable bigneſs, and have a pleaſant taſte.

Metabaſis, the paſſing from one Indication to another, and from one Remedy to another.

Metabole, a change of Time, Air, or Diſeaſes.

Metacarpus & Metacarpium, the Back of the Hand, made of four oblong little Bones which expand the Palm of the Hand, and are call'd Poſt-Brachialia.

Metachoreſis, ſignifies a Seceſſion, or change of the morbid matter into another place, and is the ſame with Metaſtaſis.

Metacondyli, the utmoſt Bones of the Fingers next to the Nails; the middlemoſt and firſt are called Procondyli.

Metalepticus, a metaleptick Motion of the Muſcles.

Metallum, Metal, a ſolid rigid Subſtance found in Mountains and ſubterraneous Cavities. The ſeveral ſorts of 'em are comprehended in this Verſe;

Sol, Mars, Luna, Venus, Saturnus, Jupiter, Hermes.

Gold is the moſt ſolid Metal, the Tincture whereof is highly extol'd by the Chymiſts. Hermes or Mercury is reckon'd by ſome among the Metals, but all Metals being malleable, it can at the beſt be accounted but an imperfect Metal.

Metallurgus, or Metallicus, one who ſearcheth after Metals as the Chymiſts.

Metallurgia, is that Operation whereby Metals are ſearch'd after, and brought out of the Mines.

Metapedium, the ſame in the Foot that Metacarpus is in the Hand.

Metaphrenum, that part of the Back which comes after the Diaphragm.

Metaporopœia or Metaporopœeſis, is a change of the minuteſt Paſſages of the Body, from a preternatural ſtate to a natural one, and is the ſame with Metaſyncriſis; from whence that Cure is term'd ſo which is exhibited in inveterate Caſes when no other means will do.

Metaptoſis, the degenerating of one Diſeaſe into another, as of a Quartan Ague into a Tertian; or on the contrary, of an Apoplexy into a Palſy, &c.

Metaſtaſis, when a Diſeaſe goes from one Part to another, which often happens to Apoplectick People, when the Matter that affects the Brain is tranſlated to the Nerves.

Metaſyncriſis, the Operation of a Medicine externally apply'd, which fetcheth out the Humours from their cloſeſt Receſſes.

Metatarſus, the five little Bones of the Foot, connected to the Bones of the firſt part of the Foot, which immediately ſucceeds the Leg.

Methodica Medicina, that which was invented by Themiſon Laodicæus, and improv'd by Theſſalus Trallianus, who ſaid, that the Art might be learnt in ſix months time.

Methodici, were thoſe that endeavour'd to reduce Medicines by a certain method into a moſt compendious Syſtem.

Methodus, a part of Phyſick, wherewith Remedies are found out by Indications, for reſtoring Health.

Metopium; ſee Galbanum.

Metopum, the Forehead.

Metrenchytes, is an Inſtrument or Syringe wherewith Liquors are injected into the Womb. The Syphon is call'd a Womb. Syringe.

Metretes, a Meaſure containing 108 Pints (ſome ſay 120) and of Oil 105.

Metroproptoſis, procidendia, vel Prolapſus Uteri, a bearing-down of the Womb.

Meum, Spignel, ſive Fœniculum Porcinum; 'tis one of the Ingredients of Theriack and Mithridate, and bloſſoms in June and July. Wild Dill. It expels Wind, forceth Urine and the Courſes, and is uſed for Mother-fits, for the Gripes, Catarrhs, and to help Expectoration. 'Tis an Ingredient in ſeveral Compoſitions, in Treacle, and many others, but notwithſtanding that, it cauſeth the Head-ach.

Mezereum, ſeu Chamælæa, a Shrub of the Kind of the Laureola; ſome call it Pepper of the Mount, and Mezenon. 'Tis very hot and acrid; being chew'd in the Mouth, it burns the Jaws and Throat, but it purges Choler ſtrongly, being corrected by infuſing it 24 hours in Vinegar. Some correct it by infuſing it in Wine, and drying it again; but the Leaves, Bark, or Berries, howſoever they are prepar'd and corrected, are ſeldom uſed, by reaſon of their malignity; nor indeed ought they to be ſo, except in deſperate Caſes, or for want of ſafer Medicines.

Miaſma, a contagious Infection in the Blood and Spirits, as in the Plague and Scurvy.

Micleta, a Medicine to ſtop Blood.

Microcoſmus, Man is call'd the Little World, as a Compendium of the greater.

Microphthalmus, one who hath little Eyes from his birth.

Microſphyctos, one whoſe Pulſe is ſmall or weak.

Miction, vel Mictus, ſignifies an Excretion of Urine.

Migma, a mixture of divers Simples.

Migrana, the ſame with Hemicrania; a Pain ſometimes on the right, ſometimes on the left ſide of the Head.

Miliaris Herpes; ſee Herpes.

Militaris, ſeu Stratiotes, Aleopaluſtris, Sedum aquatile, & Aizoon Paluſtre, Water-Houſleek; it ſtanches Blood.

Milium, Millet.

Milium Solis; ſee Lithoſpermon.

Millefolium, Milfoil; it ſtops Blood, is uſed for bleeding at the Noſe, and for all Fluxes; 'tis outwardly apply'd for bleeding at the Noſe, and for the Head-ach, as alſo to heal Wounds and Ruptures.

Millepedes, Hog-lice.

Mina, or Mna, ſixteen ounces, according to the Athenian weight, but the Roman was only twelve ounces and a half, and that of Alexandria twenty ounces.

Minera, an Earth or Matter whereof Minerals, and eſpecially Metals, are made; as Mines of Gold, Silver, Copper, and Tin.

Mineralia, thoſe things which are neither Vegetables nor Animals, as the ſix perfect Metals, Gold, Silver, Tin, Copper, Iron, Lead; and the imperfect Metals, call'd more eſpecially Minerals, as Antimony, native Cinnabar, Sulphur, Marcaſite, Lead, Chalk, Orpine, Quickſilver, Bole, and ſorts of Stones, and the like. To theſe are added Salt-petre, Sal Gemmæ, Sea-ſalt, Alum, a ſort of Vitriol, Borax, &c. but theſe are mixed Salts, compounded of an Alcali and an Acid, together with acute Particles of Minerals. Some will add to this alſo Amber, which however ſeems to be rather the Gum of a Tree, and the Coral, which is a Submarine Vegetable.

Minuta, a kind of an acute fainting Fever that hurries on the Pulſe, takes away the ſtrength in one or another Paroxyſm, ſo that they ſcarce hold it to the fourth Day.

Mirabilis Peruviana, the ſame with Solanum Odoriferum.

Mirach, a Diſeaſe ſo call'd, or a Pain of the Guts, which proceeds from acute pungent Humours, or from an Apoſtem of the Meſentery.

Miſadir, the volatile Salt of Armoniack.

Miſamar, a white round Node or Corn in the Foot, proceeding from a Bruiſe or hard Exerciſe; likewiſe an Eryſipelas, Inflamation, &c.

Miſce, is in Preſcriptions expreſt by an M, ſignifying a mixture of two or more Medicines.

Miſerere mei, or Chordapſus, a moſt vehement Pain in the Guts, proceeding from an Inflamation of 'em, or Involution, and the Periſtaltick motion invers'd; whence the Excrements are diſcharg'd by the Mouth. 'Tis alſo call'd Volvulus, and Iliacá Paſſio.

Miſtio, the ſame with Mixtura.

Miſy, a Mineral, or rather an Efflorescence of the Chalcites, of a golden colour.

Mitella, a Swathe, which holds up the Arm when 'tis either hurt or wounded.

Mithridatium, compounded by King Mithridates, and formerly eſteem'd a great Antidote, but is now out of date. Mithridate.

Mitrales Valvulæ; ſee Epiſcopales.

Miva, the Fleſh or Pulp of a Quince boil'd up with Sugar to a thick conſiſtence. See Marmelata.

Mixtura, Miſtura, Mixtio, Miſtio, Crama, Croma, and Chrama, a ſolid or liquid Subſtance mix'd together of ſeveral Medicines. Indeed mixtures are very different, according to the ſcope of the Phyſician; they are taken eſpecially in Drops or Spoonfuls, and ſometimes in Draughts, and are made either of Liquors only, (ſuch as are diſtil'd Waters, Spirit and Oil any way mingled together, as Waters with Waters, Oil with Oil, Waters with Spirits, &c.) or of Liquors with convenient venient Syrups, Powders, Confections, Opiates, all of 'em together, or only some. A mixture.

Mneme, 'tis a sort of Cephalick Balsam, describ'd by Schroder.

Mnemecephalicus, a kind of distil'd Balsam, which, for its wonderful Vertue attributed to it, of preserving the Memory always perfect, Charles Duke of Burgundy gave ten thousand Florins for, to an English Physician. 'Tis describ'd by Sennertus and Schroder, who have given it this Name.

Mna; see Mina.

Mochlia, the restitution of Bones out of joint.

Modiolus, Trepanum, or Anabaptiston, an Instrument which is used in profound Corruptions, Contusions, Cuts, and Fractures of the Bone, not to be apply'd, unless, 1*st*, the Chips and Prominences of the Bones do prick; 2*dly*, when the upper Table is entire, but depress't, and the lower broken; 3*dly*, when the extravasated Blood would choak a man with Corruption. The manner of perforating is thus: When the Hairs are shaven off, the Skin is to be cut to the Pericranium, avoiding as prudently as may be the Muscles of the Temples and the Sutures; and for this time the Wound is to be bound up, unless there be so little Blood spilt that the Pericranium may at the same time be pull'd off from the Scull; then after a few hours you may stop the Ears of the Patient, and take one of these Instruments called a masculine Modiolus, whose Point is to be fix'd in the Scull, but so far off the Fracture that it touch it not (much less the Suture) with its Teeth; tho' some never avoid the Sutures, and assure us that they have perforated them as successfully as any other Part; then hold the Instrument fast with your left Hand, and turn it round with the right, till you have cut out a pretty deep Circle; after this, take a feminine Modiolus (which has no point in the middle) and turn it round as before. In the mean time take away the Dust that proceeds from the Perforation, and moisten the Instrument in Oil and Water to make it cool and slippery. The Blood that appears will shew that you are now gone as deep as the second Table, i. e. beyond the Scull, to the Meninx, and then you must press very gently, lest the Membrane of the Brain be unadvisedly hurt. When the Bone begins to wag, put something in betwixt the sides of the Wound, loosen it, and take it out with a pair of Chirurgeon's Pincers. A Borer or Trepan.

Modius, a measure containing 16 Sextaries.

Mogilalos, one who hath an Impediment in his Speech.

Mola Patella or Rotula, a round and broad Bone at the jointing of the Thigh and Leg, where the Knee, excepting this Bone, is begirt with a membranous Ligament.

Mola Carnea, a fleshy and sometimes a spongy Substance, without Bones or Bowels; 'tis often black, like concreted Blood, and sometimes extream hard, preternaturally brought into the World instead of a Fœtus.

Molares, or Maxillares Dentes: See Dentes.

Mollientia; see Emollientia.

Mollugo,

Mollugo, a ſort of Aparine.

Molopes, Vibices, Enchymoma, Sugillationes, all ſignifie the ſame thing, i. e. red Spots, like thoſe which remain in the Skin after beating, in malignant and peſtilential Fevers. See Enchymoma.

Moly, a ſort of Garlick.

Molybdæna, Native and Factitious; the Native is only a mixture of the Lead and Silver Mine; the Factitious is a ſort of Litharge.

Molynſis, the ſame as Miaſma.

Monoceros, the ſame with Unicornu.

Monocolum, the Gut Cæcum.

Monohemera, Diſeaſes that are cured in one day.

Monopagia; ſee ——

Monopegia, a ſharp fixed Pain in the Head, afflicting one ſingle place.

Mons Veneris, the upper part of a Woman's Secrets, ſomething higher than the reſt. The Mountain of Venus.

Monſtrum, a Monſter, is a Fœtus with a double Head, without any Hands, Feet, &c.

Mora Bacci; ſee Rubus.

Mora Bati; ſee Rubus.

Mora Vacinia; ſee Rubus.

Mora Vaccinia; ſee Rubus.

Morbilli, the Meaſles, red Spots which proceed from an Aerial Contagion in the Blood; they neither ſwell nor are ſuppurated, and differ only in Degree from the Small-pox.

Morbus, a Diſeaſe, ſuch a Conſtitution of Body as renders one unapt for the due performance of our Actions; or 'tis an ill Conſtitution in a Man which hurts any of the Faculties, according to Sylvius de le Boe. Diſeaſes are twofold, either from an ill Conformation or an Indiſpoſition: An ill Conſormation is ſixfold, for it conſiſts in Number, Magnitude, Figure, Cavity, Surface, and Situation. Indiſpoſition is either occult or manifeſt; the occult is poiſonous, contagious, and peſtilential; the manifeſt is either ſimple, as hot, cold, moiſt, dry, &c. or compound, when more Qualities than one are peccant at once, as cold and moiſt, hot and moiſt, and the like. There's a Diſeaſe by Idiopathia peculiar to ones ſelf by Protopathia, when one has it firſt by Deuteropathia, at ſecond-hand, and by Sympathy. Alſo Diſeaſes are ſimple or compound, gentle or malignant, ſhort, long, acute, continued, intermittent, hereditary, native, pituitous, bilious, melancholy, Summer, Winter, Autumnal, Epidemick, &c.

Morbus Gallicus; ſee Lues Venerea.

Morbus Hiſpanicus; ſee Lues Venerea.

Morbus Indicus; ſee Lues Venerea.

Morbus Regius, the ſame with Icterus.

Moretum, a ſort of Drink that our Women uſe much when they think they have conceiv'd, for they are firmly perſwaded that it ſpoils a falſe Conception, and ſtrengthens a true one. 'Tis ſo call'd from the Mulberries they put in it.

Moria, Dulneſs, Folly, or Stupidity, is a defect of Judgment and Underſtanding, and proceedeth chiefly from want of Imagination and Memory.

Moroſis, the ſame with Moria.

Morphæa, the ſame as Alphus.

Mor-

Morſelli, the ſame with——

Morſuli, Morſelli, Tabellæ; they are Medicines of a ſquare figure for the moſt part, made of Powders, &c. mix'd with Sugar diſſolv'd, and poured on a wooden, ſtone, or brazen Table, to be conſolidated. Morſels or Tablets.

Morſus Canis rabidi, the ſame as Cynanthropia.

Morſus Diaboli, the ſame with Ornamentum Foliatum, Devils-bit.

Morſus Gallinæ, Chickweed, Henbit.

Morſus Ranæ, a leſſer ſort of Water-lilly.

Mortariola, ſeu Cavernæ, are the Caverns wherein the Teeth are lodg'd.

Mortarium, a Mortar, made either of Marble, Braſs, Iron, Wood, or Glaſs.

Mortificatio, or Sphacelus, a Mortification; being the extinction of the native Heat, and privation of Senſe, not only in the Skin, Fleſh, Nerves, and Arteries, but in the very Bones. 'Tis diſtinguiſh'd from a Gangrene by the total Corruption and Stink, it being alſo inſenſible both of the Knife and Fire. In dreſſing of Mortifications the Chirurgeon ought to conſider well the application of Medicines, that he does not in the extinguiſhing one Gangrene raiſe another, by the too long uſe of ſharp Medicaments; therefore when he feels the Ulcer warm, and findeth it to ceaſe gleeting, he ought to forbear the uſe of them, and to dreſs it with warm Digeſtives, as Baſilicon, Oil of Turpentine hot, and the like.

Morum, the ſame with Pladaroſis vel Thymus.

Morus, the Mulberry-tree; the Leaves are much uſed in Italy, Sicily, Spain, and France, to nouriſh Silk-worms. The Fruit of the black Mulberry, before 'tis ripe, cools, drys, is very aſtringent, and therefore proper for a Looſeneſs, the Bloody-flux, the Flux of the Courſes, and for ſpitting of Blood; 'tis likewiſe good for Inflamations, and Ulcers in the Mouth or Throat: When it is ripe it looſens the Belly, quencheth Thirſt, and excites Appetite. The Syrup of it is much uſed for Gargariſms, as is alſo Honey of it. The Fruit are windy, and cauſe Pains in the Stomach, and are ſoon corrupted; being waſh'd in Wine, they become leſs hurtful. Thoſe that eat ſowre Mulberries muſt eat with 'em a little Sugar, but in hot weather they agree with young men, eſpecially if ſanguine and cholerick, and with other People, provided their Stomachs are clean, and free from ill Humours.

Moſchata Nux, a Nutmeg; 'tis alſo call'd Nux aromatica, Moſchocaryon, Moſchocarydion, Nux myriſtica, or Unguentaria; the male is oblong, and the female round; it comes from the Eaſt Indies, and Mace grows round it: The Tree grows in the Iſland Banda, ſituate near the Æquator; 'tis about the bigneſs of a Pear-tree, its Leaves not unlike the Peach-tree, but ſomewhat ſhorter, rounder and broader: The Fruit alſo reſembles a Peach, whoſe exteriour Rhind, when come to full maturity, ſplits like the green Shell of our Walnuts, and is eaten by the Inhabitants; after this comes the Mace, conſiſting of many reddiſh

Leaves;

Leaves; these grow over another hard Rhind, in which is enclosed the Nutmeg. I keep one by me entire, with the exterior Rhind about it: 'Tis somewhat astringent, stomachick, cephalick, and uterine; it discusses Wind, helps Concoction, mendeth a stinking Breath, prevents Fainting, doth good in the Palpitation of the Heart, lessens the Spleen, stoppeth a Looseness and Vomiting, provokes Urine, and quickeneth the Sight. Nutmeg is of great use in the Bloody and other Fluxes, for it hath all the Vertues necessary for a Remedy fitted to these Diseases; the Oily Substance of it defends the Guts from sharp Humours, easing the Pain; the Aromatick Quality consisting in the Airy Spirit, penetrates the noble Parts, and comforts 'em; the Earthy Part binds, drys up Ulcers, and cicatrizes 'em. Candy'd Nutmegs are used in all cold Diseases of the Head, for a Palsy and other Diseases of the Nerves and Womb; besides, they are reckon'd cordial. It has been found by Experience, that the frequent and excessive use of the Nuts occasion sleepiness, for they are very narcotick; indeed they are good for Wounds, and for a Palsy in the Parts that serve for swallowing. The best Nutmegs are those that are weighty. The Oil of Nutmegs is very stomachick, being used either inwardly or outwardly.

Moschelæum, is a Composition of Musk and Oil.

Moschus, Musk, a sort of matter flowing from the Navel of a certain Animal, as some will have it, but others positively affirm, that it cometh out of the Testicles.

Motos, a piece of Linnen teaz'd like Wool, which is put into Ulcers, and stoppeth a Flux of the Blood.

Motus Convulsivus, a Convulsive motion, or Convulsions, relates chiefly to the Epilepsis.

Motus Peristalticus; see Peristalticus.

Moxa, a certain Downe growing on the lower part of the Leaves of Mugwort; it cometh from Japan and China.

Muccus, the same with Mucus.

Mucago, Mucilago, and Mucus, a viscous Extraction made of Seeds, Gums, Roots, &c. with Water.

Mucarum, the same with Mucharum.

Mucharum, a barbarous Word, some will have it signifie Infusion of Roses by itself; others, the Infusion boil'd up to a Syrup with Sugar.

Mucilago, the same as Mucago.

Mucro Cordis, or Apex, the lower pointed end of the Heart.

Mucronatum Os; see Ensiformis Cartilago.

Mucronata Cartilago; see Ensiformis Cartilago.

Mucus, we call it Snot, a liquid, thick, and viscous Excrement that flows from the Processus Papillares by the Os Cribriforme to the Nostrils and Palate.

Mucus Intestinorum, the Slime of the Guts; 'tis a sort of viscous matter that flows from the Glandules, whereby the Guts are sufficiently defended from all sharp and hard things that pass thro' them.

Muliebria; see Cunnus.

Mulo Medicina, the same with Veterinaria.

Mulsum, the same with Hydromel.

Mumia, Mummy, of this there are four sorts. 1*st*, The Arabian, being a liquid substance, issuing forth out of the Sepulchres, from the Carcases embalm'd with Aloë, Myrrh, and Balsam. 2*dly*, The Egytian, being a Liquor issuing from the dead Bodies embalm'd with Pissasphaltus, or a sort of Pitch gather'd in Palestine; with this they used to embalm the dead Carcases of those of less note, being the same that are sometimes sold in Europe. The 3*d* sort is a factitious Pissasphaltus, being a mixture of Pitch and Rosin, which they sell for the true Mummy. The 4*th* sort is the dead Carcases dry'd under the Sands by the Heat of the Sun, especially in the Country of the Hammonians, betwixt Cyrenaica and Alexandria, where Travellers are bury'd in the Sands by the Violence of the Winds. The first sort is the best.

Mumisatio, is a preserving of dead Bodies from Putrefaction, or Corruption. An Embalming of the Dead.

Mundatio, a Purification.

Mundificativum, a Medicine that cleanseth Ulcers.

Muralis Herba, is Parietaria.

Muria, Salsilago, a Liquor or Pickle of Salt and Water, as Brime; the natural Muria is a Sea-water, or that from which our Salt is boil'd.

Murrha, the Lapis Calcedonius, the Chalcedonian Stone, or a Gem particularly found in Carmania, concreted from a Juice in the Earth by means of the Sun's Heat.

Muscæ Caput, the same with Myocephalum.

Muscari, a sort of Hyacinth.

Muscerda, Mouse-dung, the use whereof is noted in Physick; being apply'd to the Glands, it stimulates or provokes to Stool.

Muscosus, is a sort of conglobate Glands, among some modern Anatomists they are call'd Vasculosæ, or Vasculous, as Nuck mentions in his Adenographia.

Musculous, a Muscle, an organicle part furnish'd with two Tendons, and a fibrous or fleshy Belly, or middle part. Its Office is to move the Members that are contiguous to it. This Motion or Contraction is perform'd by the Animal Spirits from the Brain to the Tendons by the Nerves, and thence to the middle of the Muscles, where they contract them, and when that is done, recede to the Muscles again. The Ancients divided the body of a Muscle into the Head, Belly, and Tail, in which Division they call'd the Extremity of the Muscle, connected to that part towards which the Contraction was made, the Head; the end or part of the Muscle inserted into that part which was to be mov'd, the Tail; and lastly, the intermediate part of the Muscle, which is more swell'd with Flesh, they called the Belly; and then, in the performance of motion, they suppos'd the Muscle was swell'd about the Head and Belly, and consequently shorten'd in its length, so that it drew the Member to which it was fasten'd near to it: But how this was done they say not. Muscles are destin'd either to the Use of Cavities or Limbs, and are di-

Diet provokes Urine, opens the Orifices of the Veins, and aſſiſts in the Dropſy; tho' others add Onions, Leeks, &c.

Myurus, a multilated Pulſe, encreaſing or decreaſing gradually.

Myxorrhoos, is applicable to ſuch as abound with Mucus, as Infants that excern a great deal of Saliva and Mucus, and conſequently are not ſo liable to the Epilepſy.

Myxa, Snot, a pituitous Humour, which deſcends from the Extremity of the Olfactory Nerves to the Noſtrils.

N

N°, with Phyſicians ſignifies Number; for inſtance, take of Jujubes N° vj. that is, Six in number.

Nævi, Moles, certain native Spots; they are twofold, either plain or protuberant, different in ſhape and colour. They happen to Childbearing Women from a falſe Imagination, Drunkenneſs, Extaſie, &c.

Nakir, a flying Wind, or running Pain, from one Limb to another.

Napellus, Wolf-bane.

Naphtha, is a kind of Bitumen, of a white colour, ſomething finer than common Brimſtone, which will draw the Fire to it from afar. There's a natural and a factitious Naphtha, the white anſwers to Petroleum, but the black is call'd Devil's Dung, or Aſſa Fœtida.

Napta, the ſame with Natta.

Napus, Turnep; it forces Urine, the Juice and Broth wherein they are boil'd cure the Quartan Ague: Raw Turneps cure the Scurvy. Turneps roaſted under Aſhes and apply'd behind the Ears, cure the Head-ach and the Pain of the Teeth. They are apply'd to Ulcers of the Legs, Swellings of the Breaſt, and to ſcrophulous and ſcorbutick Tumors, with good ſucceſs. The Broth of 'em make a good Gargariſm for ſore Mouths. Half a dram of the Seed is us'd at a time in malignant Diſeaſes, to expel the Venom.

Napy; ſee Sinapi.

Narcaphthon, is reckon'd among the Aromaticks which was formerly brought from India; 'tis of the nature of a Bark like the Mulberry-tree, and is ſaid to be the Frankincenſe Bark.

Narciſſus, Daffodil; the Root is vomitive, and the Leaves bruiſed are proper for an Eryſipelas.

Narcoſis, a privation of Senſe, as in a Palſy, or in taking of Opium.

Narcotica, Medicines that ſtupifie, and allay Pain.

Nardus Celtica; ſee Spica Celtica.

Nardus Indica, Spica Indica, Indian Spikenard; great quantities of it grow in Java; and it grows like an Onion. 'Tis Hepatick, and good for the Jaundice, and the Stone in the Kidneys. Nard Oil heats, attenuates, digeſts, and binds moderately, and is good for cold and windy Diſeaſes of the Brain, Stomach, Reins, and Liver. Celtick Nard heals and drys, provokes Urine, ſtrengthens the Stomach, and diſcuſſes Wind; 'tis frequently uſed in Lotions for the Head.

Nares, the Noſtrils.

Naſa, the ſame with Natta.

Naſalia, the ſame with Errhina.

Naſcalia, little globular Bodies that are put into the Neck of the Matrix, made of the ſame ſubſtance as Peſſaria. See Peſſaria.

Naſturtium, Creſſes, the Garden Creſs flowers in May or June, and when the Seed is ripe it withers quite away; the Seed is acrid and hot, for which reaſon it opens, attenuates, and cleanſes; 'tis chiefly uſed for the Swellings of the Spleen, for Obſtructions of the Courſes, and to expel a dead Child; it cures the tartareous mucilage of the Lungs, and is good in the Scurvy; 'tis outwardly uſed (beat up with Lard) to cure Scabs in the Head and other parts of the Body; for Lethargies and ſleepy Diſeaſes there is nothing better than Creſſes, either boil'd or eaten in Sallads; for Childrens Scabs, or ſcal'd Heads, there's nothing ſo effectual as Garden-creſſes beat up with Hogs-lard, for it makes the Scales fall off in 24 hours, and perfectly cures 'em, if they continue the uſe of it. Garden-creſs is uſed every where in Sallads, with Lettice and other Herbs; it qualifies the coldneſs of the Lettice, comforts the Stomach, and likewiſe promotes Concoction by its heat.

Naſturtium Aquaticum, Water-creſſes; they are much uſed in Spring-time in Broth, to purifie the Blood; they are good in the Stone, for they provoke Urine; they open Womens Obſtruction, and relieve thoſe that are in Dropſies. They grow frequently in Brooks and watery places, and flower in July and Auguſt, ſometimes before.

Naſturtium Indicum, Indian-creſs; the Flowers of it ſmell, and look very pleaſantly in Sallads; 'tis good for a weak and cold Stomach, and expels Wind. It grows in Peru.

Naſus, the Noſe.

Nata, the ſame with Natta.

Nates, are the lower and hindermoſt fleſhy part of the lower Belly, upon which we ſit. The Buttocks.

Nates Cerebri, two round Prominences behind the beds of the Optick Nerves, which grow to the upper part of the marrowy Subſtance. They are ſmall in Men, but large in Brutes.

Natta, a great ſoft Tumor without pain and colour, which grows eſpecially in the Back, yet ſometimes in the Shoulders. Its Root is ſlender, yet it encreaſeth ſo prodigiouſly that it will grow as big as a Melon or a Gourd. It is made of a fat Matter, and therefore ought to be reckon'd amongſt the Steatomata. See Steatome.

Natura, the ſame with Cunnus, or the Genital Parts of both Sexes. Some alſo call Nature the Temperature and Conſtitution of any living Creature.

Naturalis Facultas, a Natural Faculty, is an Action depending chiefly on the Cerebellum, whereby the Body, without our notice, is nouriſh'd, encreas'd, and preſerv'd by the Blood and Animal Spirits, upon which likewiſe all Excretions, Digeſtions, and Generations depend.

Naviculare Os, call'd alſo Cymbiforme, is the third Bone in each Foot, in that part of it which immediately ſucceeds the Leg.

Nauſea, a loathing of Victuals, with an inclination to vomit, as it happens in many Diſeaſes, as alſo to thoſe that are Sea-ſick.

Necroſis, a black and blue mark in any Part, produced by ſucking the Skin.

Nectar, the Drink of the Gods, as Ambroſia is their Food; but with Phyſicians it ſignifies rather a Medicinal Drink; it hath a moſt delicious Colour, Taſte, and Smell.

Nedys, ſignifies the lower Venter, and more particularly the Ventricle or Stomach.

Nedyſſa, is a kind of Thirſt, or violent Drought, fix'd deep in the bottom of the Viſcera.

Nefrens, Toothleſs.

Nemomena; ſee Nomas.

Nenemie, a ceſſation of Wind, a ſerenity or calmneſs of the Air.

Nenuphar, ſive Nenufar, is Nymphæa.

Neogala, is new Milk.

Nepenthes, Opiate Laudanum, a Medicine worthy indeed of being had in great eſteem; it ſignifies without Pain and Trouble, and by reaſon of the incomparably admir'd Effects it produces, highly deſerves the Name of Laudanum, a Word importing Praiſe. Nepenthes (ſome ſay) was Helen's Remedy, wherewith ſhe expel'd all Sorrow from her Heart, and made her ſelf merry and cheerful.

Nepeta, is Cattaria.

Nephelæ, ſmall white Spots on the Eyes; alſo little Clouds as it were that ſwim in the middle of Urine; likewiſe ſmall white Spots in the ſurface of the Nails, like little Clouds.

Nephritica, Medicines againſt Diſeaſes of the Reins.

Nephriticum Lignum, call'd alſo Santalum Cæruleum, groweth in New Spain, and is uſed in Nephritick Caſes, and likewiſe for Diſeaſes of the Reins, and difficulty of Urine. The Water of it is good for Obſtructions of the Liver and Spleen, and is made in the following manner, viz. Firſt they cut the Wood ſmall, infuſe it in clear Fountain-water, and keep it in the Veſſel till all the Water be drank; then they put on freſh Water, and repeat it till at length the Wood will tincture the Water; in the ſpace of about half an hour the Wood imparts a light Sky-colour to the Water, but it grows deeper in time. It is alſo good in Fevers, and for the Cholick.

Nephriticus Lapis, comes from Spain, and is uſed in Nephritick Pains.

Nephriticus, one who is troubled with a Diſeaſe in the Reins.

Nephritis, ſeu Affectio Nephritica, & Nephriticus Dolor, a Pain in the Reins, proceeding either from an ill Diſpoſition, or an Inflamation, or from the Stone and Gravel, accompanied with Vomiting, and a ſtretching of the Thigh.

Nephros, a Kidney, on each ſide of the Abdomen one, placed about the Loins, under the Liver and Spleen. 'Tis ſhaped like a Kidney-Bean; its Subſtance is made up of abundance of little Conduits. On both ſides it receives the Serum from the Glandules which border upon the Arteries, carrying it to the little Bodies in the Reins call'd Caruncula culæ Papillares, (which see) that so it may be discharg'd by the Pelvis, the Basin, the Ureters, the Bladder, &c.

Nephrotomia, the cutting of the Kidneys in case of a Stone or Exulceration, but 'tis seldom put in practice.

Nerion, sive Rhododendron, sive Rhododaphne, sive Oleander, Rose-bay.

Nervalia Ossa, the Bones of the Sinciput.

Nervina, are such Medicines as are used for Distempers of the Nerves.

Nervus, a Nerve; 'tis a fibrous, round, long, white, porous Substance, like an Indian Cane, and it conveys the Animal Spirits, to make the Parts of the Body movable and sensible. Ten pair of Nerves proceed from the oblongated Marrow within the Scull, as the Odoratory and Opthalmic Nerve, that which moves the Eyes, the Pathetick, the Gustatory, or that which perceives Tasts; the Nerve call'd Timidus or Fearful; that which serves the Organ of Hearing; the Par Vagum; that which moves the Tongue, and the Muscles of the Neck. The Ancients acknowledge only seven pair within the Scull; below the Scull they reckon thirty pair, viz. seven from the Spinal Marrow in the Neck, twelve from the same in the Back, five from the Loins, and six from the Os Sacrum. All the Nerves below the Scull proceed from the Spinal Marrow, which passing thro' the holes in the sides of the Vertebres, are design'd for the use of the Limbs and great Cavities. A Nerve, a Tendon, and a Ligament are impertinently taken for one and the same thing by Chirurgeons.

Neuritica, the same with Neurotica.

Neurodes, a sort of lingring Fever so call'd, by the most learned Willis, because the Nervous Juice departing from its own natural Crasis, becomes the occasion of an Atrophy.

Neurologia, an elegant Description of the Nerves, which Willis and Mr. Raymund Vieussen have perform'd beyond any Person whatsoever.

Neurometores, the Muscles called Psoas.

Neuron, the same with Nervus.

Neurotica, Remedies against Diseases of the Nerves.

Neurotomia, an Anatomical Section of the Nerves, also a pricking of Nerves.

Neurotomus, one who is troubled with a pricking of the Nerves, or one that dissects 'em Anatomically.

Neurotrotos, he that hath a Nerve wounded.

Neutha, is a Pellicle, or thin Skin cleaving to the Eyes or Ears of Children, or sticking to the whole Face in the Birth-part of the Amnios.

Nicotiana, is Tabacum.

Nidorosa Dyspepsia; see Dyspepsia.

Nidus, the same with Focus.

Nigella, seu Melanthium, vel Papaver Nigrum, Guiny-pepper. The Seed is chiefly in use; it expectorates, encreaseth Milk, and provokes Urine and the Courses; 'tis good for the biting of venomous Creatures, and is reckon'd Specifick for Quotidian and Quartan Agues; 'tis uſed outwardly in Epithegms, and the like, or the Headach, and likewiſe to dry Catarrhs. An Oil is preſt out of it, the which many ignorant Apothecaries do uſe inſtead of Nard-Oil.

Nihili Album, the ſame with Pompholyx.

Nitrum, five Sal petra, a Salt of a bitteriſh taſte, Saltpetre, whereof there are three ſorts, (not to mention that of the Ancients, which is ſcarce known to us) the firſt is by Lixivium, from the Earth; the ſecond grows upon Stone-walls; the third grows upon Rocks. 'Tis a Salt impregnated with abundance of Spirits, out of the Air, which do render it volatile, and is taken from among the Stones and Earth of old ruin'd Buildings; ſome of it is likewiſe to be found in Cellars and ſeveral other moiſt places, becauſe the Air does condenſe it in thoſe places. Saltpetre is alſo ſometimes made by the Urine of Animals falling upon Stones and Earth. The native Nitre of Alexandria is inclining to a Roſe-colour, and ſo is the Neapolitan, but that of Pozzuolo is yellowiſh. The more tranſparent it is, the purer 'tis; that is reckon'd the pureſt which contains the leaſt ſhare of common Salt, which you may try by throwing a little upon burning Coals, to ſee whether it is conſum'd without leaving any thing behind it. Of Nitre is made Sal Prunella, and Aqua fortis.

Noctambulo, or Noctambulus aut Somnambulus, one who walketh in his ſleep, opens Doors and Windows, and goes over high and moſt dangerous places without perceiving it. The Cauſe of it is hardly to be given, unleſs Sleep be divided into total and partial; the total is common ordinary Sleeps, but the partial takes place in this caſe, becauſe Objects are ſeen indeed, and offer'd to the common Senſory, but penetrate not to the place of Imagination, ſo as they may be perceiv'd.

Nodulus, Nodus, a Bag of ſuitable Ingredients, what the Diſeaſe requires, put into Beer or Wine, the Tincture whereof the Patient is to drink.

Nodus, the ſame with Ganglion and Nodulus.

Noli me tangere, a ſort of Canker in the Face, eſpecially above the Chin. There ariſes a Tumor or Ulcer about the Mouth and Noſe like an exulcerated Canker, which grows ſlowly at the beginning, like a little Pimple; it remains a whole Year, elſe 'tis leſs troubleſome than a Canker, which gnaws and eats more in one Day than a Noli me tangere doth in a Month.

Nomas, and Noma, a putrid Ulcer that feeds upon the glandulous parts of the Mouth, attended ſometimes with a Corroſion or Corruption of Bones.

Noſocomium, an Hoſpital for poor ſick People, wherein they are attended and cured, if poſſible.

Noſologia, the ſame with Pathologia.

Noſos, the ſame with Morbus.

Notæ Maternæ, the ſame with Nævus.

Nothæ Coſtæ, are the five loweſt Ribs on each ſide, call'd Baſtard Ribs,

Ribs, and are ſo nam'd becauſe they do not join with the Breaſt-bone as other Ribs, nor are they boney, as the other are, but cartilagineous. Diſeaſes are likewiſe call'd Nothi (or Baſtard) that exceed the ordinary and common Rule, as Tertian, Quartan, or Quotidian Baſtard Agues. A Baſtard Pleuriſie, &c.

Nothus, the Back, the back-part of the Cheſt.

Novacula, a Chirurgeon's Knife, the ſhape whereof differs according to the difference of Operations, and therefore can hardly be deſcrib'd. A Razor.

Nubeculæ, little light Particles that mutually, but looſely, cloſe with one another, and ſwim upon the Urine.

Nubes; ſee Nubeculæ & Enæorema.

Nucamenta, Catkins, or Cats-tail, on Nut-trees.

Nucha, the hinder part or Nape of the Neck, call'd Cervix.

Nucioſitas, the ſame as Myopia.

Nucleus, the Seed included in Nuts or Fruit.

Numero, not only Fruits and Seeds are meaſur'd by number, but likewiſe the parts of Animals, as Yolks of Eggs. 'Tis commonly noted thus, N° or Num.

Nummularia, Money-wort; it is dry, aſtringent, and vulnerary. The Flowers and Leaves beat, and apply'd to Wounds and Ulcers, eſpecially of the Lungs, cure 'em. But it is moſt of all commended for Ruptures in Children, the Powder of it being taken inwardly, or the Herb being outwardly apply'd: See Centum Morbia.

Nutrimentum, the ſame with Alimentum.

Nutritio, a natural Encreaſe, whereby that which continually decays of any corporeal Subſtance is repair'd by convenient Nouriſhment.

Nux, a ſort of Pain in the Head which afflicts a Place about as big as a Nut; as an Ovum, a Clavus, and ſeveral other ſorts. It likewiſe ſignifies a Fruit, the Kernel whereof is encloſed in a hard Shell.

Nux Unguentaria, the ſame with Balanus Myrepſica.

Nychthemerum, four and twenty Hours ſpace.

Nyctalopia, is twofold; the firſt is a dimneſs of Sight in the Night or in dark places, without any Impediment in the light; the other is a dimneſs in the Light, and clear Sight in the Night, or in Shades.

Nymphæ, little pieces of Fleſh in a Woman's Secrets; ſo call'd becauſe they ſtand near the Water that cometh out of the Bladder; alſo the hollowneſs or void ſpace in the nether Lip.

Nymphæa, or Nenuphar, Water-Lilly.

Nymphomania, the ſame with Furor Uterinus.

Nymphotomia, a cutting out of the Nymphæ, the too great Protuberance whereof (eſpecially in thoſe Virgins that are marriageable) ſometimes hinders the Enjoyment, or at leaſt renders it difficult. The Egyptians cut 'em frequently.

O

Obelæa, the Sagittalis Suture in the Scull (see Sagittalis) which touches the Coronalis Suture forward, and the Lambdoides backward; for it is made of the mutual Conjunction of the Bones of the Forehead.

Obesitas, is Corpulency, or Fatness.

Oblæsio, a Privation or Impediment of some natural Function.

Oblata Laxativa & Purgantes, are made of Meal with Sugar and purging Ingredients.

Oblivio, Forgetfulness, a loss of the Ideas of Things once perceived out of the Brain, which happens when things make but a light Impression upon the Brain; as a light Motion is scarce perceiv'd, so a light Impression easily decays.

Obolus, half a Scruple, it weighs ten Grains: Physicians mark it thus ℈; but now the Hollanders do not use this Character.

Obsessus, one possest by the Devil. If this is to be understood of any Distemper, it must relate to Madness, and the Falling-sickness.

Obstetrix, an experienc'd Woman to lay Women in Child-bed, and to assist the Birth of the Infant by manual Operation.

Obstipitas, the same with Scoliasis; 'tis generally meant of all crookedness, obliquity, or bending, but particularly applicable to the distortion of Bones in Rickets, and the like cases.

Obstructio, a shutting up of the Passages of the Body, either by Contraction, or by some foreign body which has enter'd within them. An Obstruction.

Obstruentia, things that stop or condense the Pores of our Bodies, or allay the too swift Motion of the Blood.

Obturatores Musculi, some of those that bend and turn about the Thigh.

Obulus, the same with Obolus.

Occiput, the hinder part of the Scull.

Occulta Qualitas, a hidden quality, much spoken of by the Ancients, but now almost out of date.

Occulti Morbi, hidden Diseases, are such whereof we either know not the cause, or at least lye hidden within our Bodies; as Cankers, Inflamations of the Brain, &c.

Ochema, a Liquor or Vehicle wherewith Medicines are mix'd.

Ocheteumata, by some call'd the Foramina, or Nostrils.

Ochetos, generally signifies a Passage, Way, Duct, Canal, by which any thing flows or passes. It hath relation to the Urinary Passages, Veins, Arteries, Pores, &c.

Ocheus, by some the Scrotum, or Cod.

Ochra, is a Species of Earth, of a yellowish Colour, from whence it takes its Name, and is either Native or Factitious; the first is found in Chalybeate Springs, Coal-Mines, &c. the other is made of burnt Lead extinguish'd in Vinegar, and is frequently used by Painters.

Ochrus, Ochrum, and Ochra, seu Pisum Minus, Ervilia, a sort of Pulse.

Ochthodes, Ulcers whose sides are callous, or of the nature of Warts, but not malignant.

Ocimastrum, a diminutive of Ocimum.

Ocimum, or Ocymum, or Baſilicum, Baſil; it comforts the Heart, and expels Melancholy; it cleanſes the Lungs, and moves the Courſes; it is an Ingredient of three Compound Waters in the London Diſpenſatory; namely, Gilbert's Water, Briony Water, and the Cœleſtial Water.

Ocium, is reckon'd among the Non-Naturals, as a Species of Reſt, the Procataritick Cauſe of Health and Sickneſs.

Ocrea; ſee Tibia.

Octunx, a Weight of 8 Ounces.

Oculares Dentes, the Eye-teeth, the ſame with Cinodentes.

Oculus, the Eye, the external Organ of Sight; 'tis compounded of ſix Muſcles, to wit, of two Direct, and as many Tranſverſe, to which a ſeventh is added in Brutes. It has ſeven Tunicks, the Adnata, Innominata, Cornea, Uvea, Retiformis, Cryſtallina, and Vitrea. It hath alſo the Optick Nerve, the Iris, and the Pupilla. See them ſingly in their proper places.

Oculi, the Fore-runners of Flowers, which are alſo call'd Gemmæ, Buds.

Odaxiſmus, the itching of the Gums when Children breed their Teeth; ſee Dentitio.

Odontagra, an Inſtrument for the drawing out of Teeth; ſee Forfex.

Odontalgia, ſive Dentium Dolor, the Tooth-ach, which is caus'd by black rotten Teeth, or an Effervescence of fixt and acid Salt, and therefore 'tis call'd the Gout in the Teeth. Cold alſo will occaſion it.

Odontiaſis, the ſame with Dentitio, and Odontophyia.

Odontica, Medicines againſt Pains in the Teeth. Remedies againſt the Tooth-ach.

Odontoides, that which is like a Tooth, as the Tooth of the ſecond Vertebre, and other Bones.

Odontolithos, that kind of ſtony Tartar that grows to the Teeth.

Odontophyia, the breeding of Teeth; ſee Dentitio.

Odontotrimma, the ſame with Dentrificium.

Odoramentum, a Medicine apply'd for its ſmell. 'Tis compounded of Labdanum, Storax, Benzoin, Muſk, Civet, &c.

Odoratus, ſive Olfactus, the Smell, a Senſe whereby odoriferous Effluviums are offer'd and repreſented to the common Senſory, from the Motion and Irritation of Nerves implanted in the Membranes of the Noſe.

Odoriferum, the ſame with Odoramentum.

Oeconomia, the management of Family Concerns; as alſo the ordering and management of a Patient. The Diſtribution of the Juices of our Bodies is alſo call'd Animalis Oeconomia.

Oedema, ſeu Undimia; ſometimes taken in a larger ſenſe by Hippocrates for any Tumor, but ſtrictly for a white, ſoft, inſenſible Tumor, proceeding from pituitous Matter heap'd up together. It has no Pulſe, and yields eaſily to the Fingers. It may proceed likewiſe in ſome meaſure from the Lympha, or nutritious Juice extravaſated and turned into a Jelly. It has divers Names, according to its various kinds; as Oedema, Phlegmonodes, Eryſipelatodes, Scirrhodes.

Oedemaſarca, the Nature of a

Sarcoma, or carnous Tumor.

Oenantharion, a ſort of Ointment which yields a delicious Flavour, prepar'd from Wine and Lilly-flowers.

Oenanthe, Water Drop-wort; what is ſaid of the Vertue of this Plant (namely, that it forces Urine, and expels Gravel) is not certain; there is another ſort of Oenanthe, call'd Hemlock Drop-water, the Roots whereof are ſaid to be venomous; and therefore Johnſon ſays, the Ignorance of thoſe is inexcuſable, who uſe the Root of this Herb for the Root of Peony; and he affirms, that the London Herb-Women ſell this Root for the Root of Water Lovage.

Oenarea, a kind of Aſhes made from Vine-branches.

Oenelæon, a mixture of Wine and Oil.

Oenos, that is, Vinum, or Wine.

Oenoides, diluted Wine, or a Liquor analogous to Wine.

Oenogala, a compoſition of Milk and Wine.

Oenomel, Wine and Honey.

Oenothera, it is ſuppoſed to be Lyſimachium, or Onagra.

Oeſophagæus, is the Muſcle that ſtraitens the Gullet, call'd otherwiſe Sphincter.

Oeſophagus, the Gullet, a membranaceous Pipe, reaching from the Palate to the Stomach, whereby the Meat chew'd in the Mouth, and mix'd with the Juice there, paſſeth to the Venticle. It hath three Tunicks; the outermoſt or membraneons Tunick, which comes from the Peritonæum, or inner Rind of the Belly, or rather from the Pleura, and cloaths the Venticle; the innermoſt is Muſculous. The whole Oeſophagus ſeems to conſiſt of two Muſcles, which with their oppoſite Fibres croſſing one another, make four Parallelograms. The third is altogether Nervous, which is cover'd on the inſide with an hairy ſort of Coat, and which may paſs for the fourth Tunick.

Oeſtrum Veneris, the ſame with Clitoris.

Oeſypus, the filth and greaſineſs of Sheep, proceeding of Sweat, and cleaving faſt to their Wool; therefore they are miſtaken who take it to ſignify the little Clods of Dung which ſticketh to their Wool.

Officina, the Apothecaries, the Chymiſts, or the Chirurgeons Shops.

Olea, the Olive-tree; it grows in Italy and France, and in other places. The Leaves of Olives cool, dry, and is aſtringent; they are chiefly uſed outwardly for Fluxes of the Belly, of the Courſes, for an Herpes, and the like, and with Medicines for the Eyes. The Olives, when they are ripe, are black, and taſte acrid, bitter and nauſeous; yet the Oil that is preſs'd from them is moſt commonly pellucid, and a little yellowiſh, it taſtes ſweet and pleaſant; but that which is freeſt from Colour and Taſte is reckon'd the beſt; ſo great is the Uſe of the Oil for Meat and Medicine, that it would take up too much Time to mention all. Galen, Dioſcorides, Pliny, and others, both ancient and modern, have treated largely of it. The Oil beſt for the Recovery of Health, is that which is made of Olives before they are ripe, and then 'tis call'd

Om-

Omphacinum. Of this Ointments and many other Compoſitions are made. Oil of ripe Olives is hot, and moiſtens moderately; the Old is better than the New, it mollifies, digeſts, is vulnerary, and looſens the Belly; an Ounce of it being taken hot in Beef, takes off the dryneſs of the Breaſt, cures the Gripes, opens the Urinary Paſſages, cleanſes and heals 'em when they are ſore; 'tis outwardly uſed for Clyſters and hot Tumors, and the like; mix'd with warm Water, and taken inwardly, it vomits, and therefore is uſed againſt Poiſons.

Oleaginoſus, a Fatneſs in any body of the Nature of Oil, and from whence that may be preſt.

Oleander; ſee Nerion.

Oleaſter, the wild Olive.

Olecranum, or Ancon, the greater Proceſs of the firſt Bone of the Cubit call'd Ulna; alſo the upper part of the Shoulder.

Olecranus, the ſame with Anconæus.

Olene, Cubitus, or the greater Focile.

Oleum, Oil, is a fat liquid ſubſtance expreſs'd out of Fruits or Seeds; as the Oil of Olives, Almonds, Rape-ſeed, &c. or diſtil'd from ſome fattiſh ſubſtance, as of Cinnamon, Cloves, Anniſeed; or compounded, as the Oil of Jeſſamin, Camomile, &c.

Oleum Petræ; ſee Petrolæum.

Oleum Terræ, is of a ſtrong ſmell like Petrolæum, but more pleaſant, and of a bright-red colour; it is brought from the Eaſt-Indies, where they ſay it flows out of a certain Mountain. 'Tis found alſo in Bohemia.

Oleum Amygdalarum Dulcium, Oil of Sweet Almonds; 'tis often uſed for Coughs and Hoarſeneſs, for the Stone, and outwardly for Pleuriſies, the Side being anointed with it; 'tis alſo very good in the Cholick, and Gripes of Children. Oil of Bitter Almonds is chiefly uſed for Deafneſs, and Diſeaſes of the Ears.

Oleum ex Vitellis Ovorum, Oil of the Yolks of Eggs, it cures chaps in Womens Nipples, Tetters, and Ring-worms.

Oleum Roſarum Omphacinum, Oil of Roſes Omphacine, it cools and eaſes Pain.

Oleum Abſynthidis, Oil of Wormwood; it ſtrengthens the Stomach and helps Digeſtion, the Stomach being bath'd with it.

Oleum Anethinum, Oil of Dill, it diſcuſſes, and ſtrengthens the Stomach, and is good for Convulſions, and eaſes Pains of the Head, Nerves, and Joints.

Oleum Camomelinum, Oil of Camomile; 'tis anodine, gives eaſe in the Cholick and Pleuriſy, by bathing the affected Part; or 'tis given in Clyſters for the ſame purpoſe.

Oleum Cherinum, Oil of Wall-flowers; 'tis good for the Palſy, the Cramp, and ſtrengthens the Nerves and Joints.

Oleum de Caſtoreo, 'tis good in cold Diſeaſes of the Brain, Back, and Nerves; being drop'd into the Ears, it cures Deafneſs, and Noiſe; 'tis good for the Rickets, Convulſions, Palſy, and for the Lethargy.

Oleum Irinum, Oil of Orris; it digeſts, diſſolves hard Swellings, mollifies, diſcuſſes, and eaſes pain.

Oleum

Oleum Euphorbii, Oil of Euphorbium, is much of the ſame Vertue with Oil of Caſtor.

Oleum Lumbricorum, Oil of Worms; it gives eaſe, and is good in all cold Diſeaſes of the Joints and Nerves, is good for Bruiſes, Wounds, and Rickets.

Oleum Marjoranæ, Oil of Marjoram; 'tis good for cold Diſeaſes of the Head, for the Stomach, and Diſeaſes of the Nerves.

Oleum Maſtichinum, Oil of Maſtich; it ſtops Vomiting and Fluxes, and is uſeful in Diſeaſes of the Head and Nerves.

Oleum Meliloti, Oil of Melilot, it eaſes Pain.

Oleum Myrrhæ, Oil of Myrrh; it cleanſes the Skin from ſpots, and taken inwardly, 'tis good for Hoarſeneſs, and a Cough.

Oleum Menthæ, Oil of Mint; it ſtops Vomiting, and ſtrengthens the Stomach, it being anointed with it.

Oleum Myrtinum, Oil of Myrtles; 'tis very aſtringent, it ſtops Vomiting and Fluxes, hinders the falling off of the Hair, and ſtrengthens the Limbs.

Oleum Nenupharinum, Oil of Water-Lillies; 'tis very cooling, and cures Inflamations, and procures Sleep, the Forehead and Temples being anointed with it.

Oleum Nardinum, Nard-Oil; it heats and ſtrengthens, and is good for Convulſions, and ſleepy Diſeaſes.

Oleum Rutaceum, Oil of Rue; it warms and ſtrengthens the Joints and Nerves.

Oleum Sabinæ, Oil of Savin; it cures and cleanſes Ulcers, and Childrens ſcabby Heads.

Oleum Sabucinum, Oil of Elder-flowers; it diſcuſſes, mollifies and reſolves.

Oleum Scorpionum, Oil of Scorpions; 'tis good for the King's-Evil, Cancers, old Sores; it cures Inflamations, and Vices of the Skin; it gives eaſe in the Stone of the Kidneys, the Reins being anointed with it; and cures the biting of poiſonous Beaſts.

Oleum Violaceum, Oil of Violets; it moiſtens, cools, and mollifies.

Oleum Hirundinum, Oil of Swallows; 'tis good for Lameneſs, and for old Aches, and for Pains and Weakneſs of the Joints.

Oleum Hyperici, Oil of St. Johnswort; 'tis an excellent cleanſing and healing Oil, and comforts the Limbs and Joints; 'tis good for Bruiſes and old Aches.

Oleum Vulpinum, Oil of Foxes; 'tis good for Pains of the Joints, Sciatica, Aches, Convulſions, and Palſies.

Oleum Succini, Oil of Amber; 'tis uſed inwardly for the Falling-ſickneſs, Apoplexy, Palſy, and Hyſterick Diſeaſes.

Oleum Cinnamomi, Oil of Cinnamon; 'tis an admirable Corroborative, and ſtrengthens the Stomach, it eaſes Womens Delivery.

Oleum Guiaci, Oil of Guiacum; 'tis an excellent Remedy for Rottenneſs of the Bones, the Tooth-ach, and to cleanſe old Ulcers.

Oleum è Baccis Juniperi, Oil of Juniper-berries; 'tis excellent for the Stone in the Kidneys, the Cholick, and to expel Wind.

Oleum Nucis Moſchatæ per Expreſſionem, Oil of Nutmeg by Expreſſion; 'tis very Stomachick, being taken inwardly, or outwardly apply'd.

Oleum

Oleum Lateritium Philoſophorum, Oil of Bricks; it ſoftens hard ſwellings, eaſes pain of the Spleen and Reins, and is excellent for a Sciatica, and all cold Diſeaſes of the Nerves and Joints.

Oleum Sulphuris per Campanam, Oil of Sulphur by the Bell; 'tis uſed in Juleps, to give them an Acidity, to qualify the heat of continued Fevers; 'tis alſo good to force Urine.

Oleum Terebinthini, Oil of Turpentine; 'tis excellent for cold Pains, to cleanſe Ulcers, and to recover the natural heat of the Parts when decay'd; 'tis alſo good in Gangrenes and Mortifications; and 'tis excellent for ſtopping of Blood in Wounds, being apply'd hot.

Oleum Ceræ, Oil of Wax; it diſcuſſes Tumors, and is good for cold Pains.

Olfactus, the ſame with Odoratus.

Olibanum; ſee Thus.

Oligophoros, ſmall Wine with few Spirits in it.

Oligotrophia, a Decreaſe of Nutrition.

Oligotrophus, Meat that nouriſhes little, to which is oppoſed Polytrophus, that which affords much Nouriſhment.

Oliva, an Olive.

Oloſteum; ſee Holoſteum.

Olus; ſee Lachanum.

Olus Atrum, is Hippocelinum.

Olyra, a ſort of Bread-corn.

Omaſus; ſee Abomaſus.

Omentum, Reticulum, the Caul, a double Membrane ſpread upon the Inteſtines, interwoven with Fat and Veſſels, like a Fiſher's Net, enrich'd alſo with two or three Glandules annex'd to the Stomach, the Gut Colon, and the Pancreas, and uſeful to cheriſh the Inteſtines with its warmth. It hath ſome Milky and Lymphatick Veſſels, as alſo a great many Ductus's and little Bags of Fat; concerning which, ſee our Reform'd Anatomy.

Omocotyle; ſee Acetabulum.

Omogeron, a green or youthful Old-age.

Omogra, the Gout, or rather Rheumatiſm in the Shoulder.

Omolinon, that is Linum Crudum, ſuch as the Chirurgeons uſe to make Lint of, or to apply in Fiſtula's; or ſometimes 'tis uſed for a Barber's Cloth, the which is tuck'd round the Shoulders while the Hair is cutting, to prevent it from falling down the Neck.

Omoplata, and Homoplata, the ſame with Scapula. The Shoulder-blade.

Omphacium, the Juice of unripe Grapes, as alſo of unripe Olives.

Omphalocarpus, is Aparine.

Omphalocele, a Rupture about the Navel, to wit, when the Caul or Inteſtines are protuberant in that Part, which happens from a relaxation or burſting of the Peritonæum, the inner Rhind of the Belly.

Omphalos; ſee Umbilicus.

Onagra, or Onothera; ſee Oenothera.

Onitis, a ſort of Origanum.

Onobrychis, Medick-vetchling, or Cocks-head. This Herb breeds a great deal of Milk in Cows and other Animals.

Onoloſat, an Arabick Word ſignifying half a Scruple.

Ononis; ſee Anonis.

Onyx; ſee Unguis.

Oocicles, the Aqueous or Albugineous Humour in the Eyes.

Oon, Ovum, this is both Medicine and Food, and in Anatomy ſignifies a peculiar Conception in Animals, eſpecially Birds; it conſiſts of five Parts when excluded, viz. the Shell, the Membranes, the White, the Yolk, and the Treadle.

Ope, ſignifies a Foramen or Hole; as the Foramen of the Cranium, &c.

Operatio, the ſame with Actio, an effective Motion, Proceſs, or Operation in Pharmacy, Chirurgery, or Chymiſtry.

Ophioglossum, or Lingua Serpentaria, Adders Tongue; 'tis an excellent Wound-herb, either taken inwardly, or outwardly apply'd, for Ruptures or burſten Bellies. An Oil is made of it: The Leaves being infuſed in Oil of Olives, is much commended for all Wounds and Ulcers, and is not inferior to Oil of St. Johns-wort.

Ophiſcorodon, Serpents Garlick.

Ophites, the Serpentine-ſtone, is a kind of Marble, as hard as a Porphyrite, of a deep green colour, but ſpeckl'd with Spots of a lighter green. There are alſo ſome of an Aſhcolour. They are found in Italy and Germany, and eſpecially in Myſnia; but this laſt is ſomewhat ſofter than the reſt.

Ophiaſis, when the Hairs grow thin and fall off here and there, inſomuch that they leave the Head ſpotted like a Serpent. See Alopecia.

Ophris, ſeu Ophrys, is Bifolium.

Ophthalmia, vel Lippitudo, is an Inflamation of the Tunicks of the Eyes, caus'd by the gathering and extravaſation of certain Juices. An Inflamation of the Eyes.

Ophthalmica, are Medicines uſed in Diſtempers of the Eyes; hence the Euphraſia, or Eyebright, is call'd Ophthalmica.

Opiata, or Electuarium, a Medicine taken inwardly, of a conſiſtence like to thoſe Opiates in the Shops, (Treacle or Mithridate) and is made up into ſeveral Doſes of ſeveral Ingredients, mixt with Honey or Syrup.

Opiatum, a Medicine in form of an Electuary, with Opium mix'd in it, as Treacle, Mithridate, Diaſcordium, &c.

Opifer, (generally ſpeaking) means any Operator or Artificer, but more particularly an Apothecary or Medicine-monger.

Opiologia, a deſcription of Opium.

Opiſthocyphoſis, the ſame with Cyphoſis or Opiſthotonos.

Opiſthotonos, or Tetanus, a kind of Cramp, or ſtretching of the Muſcle of the Neck backward; which proceeds ſometimes from a Palſie of the Muſcles in the Neck, whereupon the Antagoniſts or oppoſite Muſcles move the intermediate Parts too much; or from a ſharp and ſerous Matter in the Tendons; or elſe from the Animal Spirits which enter the fleſhy Pipes more than is uſual, and will not eaſily recede, ſo that the Parts are indeed ſwell'd and wrinkled up.

Opium, the condens'd Juice of Poppies. Some confound Opium and Meconium. Opium is that which diſtils out of the Poppy-heads after inciſion whilſt they are growing, but Meconium is the Juice extracted out of 'em. The pureſt Opium is made of white Drops, Drops, and is found frequently in Greece, in the Kingdom of Cambia, and the Territories of Grand Cairo in Egypt. There are three ſorts of it, the black, the white, and the yellow: The Inhabitants of thoſe Countries keep the beſt Opium for themſelves, and ſend us only the Meconium, which is nothing but the Juice of Poppy-heads drawn by Expreſſion, and is not near ſo good as the True Opium. The beſt Opium comes from Thebes; you muſt chuſe it black, inflamable, bitter, and a little acrimonious: Its Smell is very diſagreeable and ſtupefying. 'Tis the moſt certain Soporifick we have in Phyſick, allaying all Pains which proceed from too great an activity of the Humours. It is good for the Tooth-ach, being apply'd to the Tooth, or elſe to the Temple-Arteries in a Plaiſter; 'tis uſed likewiſe to ſtop ſpitting of Blood, the Bloody-flux, the Flux of the Courſes and Hemorrhoides, for the Cholick, for hot Defluxions of the Eyes, and to quiet all manner of griping Pains.

Opobalſamum, the true natural Balſam; it hath been famous in all Ages for curing Wounds, and ſo effectual hath it been accounted, that other vulnerary Oils and Ointments have taken their Names from it; for which reaſon Quacks and Mountebanks do grace their Medicines with the Name of Balſam, to make 'em more acceptable to the People. There are many Obſervations of dangerous Wounds which have been cured in a ſhort time by the uſe of this Balſam; it alſo cleanſeth fordid Ulcers, and doth much good in the biting of Serpents and Scorpions, inwardly taken or outwardly apply'd: Half a dram of it taken every Morning, is a good Preſervative againſt the Plague; it clears the Sight, and is good in Diſeaſes of the Ears; beſides, it is uſeful in Convulſions that proceed from Cold and Moiſture, alſo for Giddineſs, Falling-ſickneſs, Palſies, and the like; for Coughs that proceed from a cold Humour, for difficulty of breathing, and Catarrhs, or Crudities and Wind in the Stomach; for a moiſt and cold Intemperature of the Womb; alſo for Barrenneſs, the Whites, and difficulty of Urine, occaſion'd either by Wind or Gravel. Women alſo make uſe of it to beautifie the Face. Lobelius wrote a whole Book of the Vertue of it. It grows only in the Land of Judea.

Opochriſma, the Weapon Ointment, wherewith they pretend to cure Wounds, by applying it to the Inſtrument that gave 'em.

Opodeldoch, the Name of a certain Plaiſter that cureth Wounds and Ulcers, the Compoſition of which you may ſee in Paracelſus, Wurtz, Mindererus, and others. 'Tis a fictitious Name, without any real Signification.

Opopanax, a Gummy Juice diſtilling from the Roots and Leaves (after inciſion made) of the Herb call'd Panax Heraclei. At firſt it is whitiſh, but when dry'd it turns yellow, almoſt like Saffron without, though it remaineth white within.

Opopyron, is a Remedy of Paracelſus or Laudanum, whereby Fevers are cured.

Oporice, the Name of a Medicine

cine compounded of Fruits, and boil'd to the consistence of Honey.

Opos Succus, the Juice of Plants, whether expres's'd or flowing of their own accord.

Oppilatio, the same with Obstructio.

Optica, Medicines against Distempers of the Eyes.

Opticus Nervus, or Visorius, the Optick Nerve, that which carries the visible Species from the Eye to the common Sensory. The Nerves of both Eyes proceed from the Thalami of the Optick Nerves, afterwards these Nerves come together, and separate again as they enter the Scull.

Opuntia, a sort of an Indian Figg.

Orbiculares Crepitus Lupi, a sort of a Mos or Mushroom; they are either round or half round, of an uncertain bigness; they are spongy within, and when they are dry and dusty Chirurgeons use 'em to stop Blood.

Orchis, a Testicle, whose Substance in Men is nothing else but a contexture of very little Vessels which make the Seed; but it is quite otherwise in Women, where they are made of several Membranes and little Fibres loosely united to one another, betwixt which several white Bodies are found, plac'd there either naturally or preternaturally. The Testicles of Women breed Eggs, and therefore they are rightly call'd Ovaria. They are also called Testes, Colei.

Orchis, Satyrion, and Testiculus; there are various sorts of this Plant, the Roots of all of 'em stimulate Venery; they also take off Inflamations, discuss Tumors, and cleanse Ulcers.

Orchotomia, the cutting out of the Testicles. See ——

Orchotomus, a Gelder, one who gelds Animals, that they cannot copulate.

Ordeolum, the same with Crithe and Hordeolum.

Oreoselinum, is Petroselinum.

Orexis, a natural Appetite to Meat, proceeding from an acid Ferment in the Stomach, which comes from the Cæliac Arteries, wherewith the Nervous Tunick of the Stomach, and its Nerves, are extraordinarily mov'd to covet Nourishment.

Organica pars, that which consists of various Parts different from one another; thus a Muscle consists of Flesh, Membranes, Tendons, and divers other Vessels; the contrary to which is Similaris pars; but of this in its proper place.

Organum, a Part which requires a right, determinate, and sensible conformation to its Constitution and the performance of its Actions, as an Arm, a Muscle, the Heart, &c.

Orgasmus, an Impetus and quick motion of Blood or Spirits; as when the Animal Spirits do rush violently upon the Nerves.

Orificium, signifies the Mouth or Opening of any Part. There are two Orifices in the Ventricle, one call'd Stomachus, (from the Greek word στόμα Os) the other Pylorus; so the Apertures of the other Vessels of the Body, as Veins, Arteries, &c. are call'd Orificia, or Orifices.

Origanum, English wild Marjoram: It cleanses and binds, it is used chiefly in Obstructions of the Lungs, Liver, and Womb; 'tis good for a Cough, an Asthma and the Jaundice; it encreaseth Milk, is sudorifick, and is outwardly used in Baths for the Head, Womb, and Itch.

is

Orizeum, the same with Aurum, Gold; so Orizeum foliatum signifies Leaf-Gold.

Orminum; see Horminum.

Ornamentum Foleaceum, the fringed Extremity of the Fallopian Tube.

Ornithogalum, Star of Bethlehem; 'tis a sort of Asphodil.

Ornithogloſſum, Ashen Keys.

Ornithopodium, Birds-foot.

Ornus, wild Ash.

Orobanche, or Rapum Geniſtæ; the Herb candy'd, or a Syrup made of the Decoction of it, is of great use in Splenetick and Hypochondriac Diseases; an Ointment made of it with Lard is good for hard Tumors, and a Scirrhus.

Oroboides, a Subsiding in Urine, like to a kind of Pulse call'd Vetches.

Orbus, a sort of Pulse.

Orrhopiſſa, is the Serous Excrement of liquid Pitch.

Orrhogygion, the last part of the Spine, where the Vertebræ end.

Orrhos, Serum; the aqueous part of the Milk and Blood.

Orrhos, the Extremity of the Os Sacrum.

Orthocolon, a preternatural Rectitude of a Joint.

Orthopnæa, an ill Respiration, when the Person affected cannot breathe, but only with his Neck erect.

Orvietanus, the Name of a certain Mountebank, who was famous for the invention of the Alexipharmick Electuary call'd Orvietan, from the Town of Orvieto in Italy, where it was first prepar'd and publish'd.

Os, a Bone; 'tis a hard, dry and cold Substance, consisting especially of earthy and saline Particles, design'd for the upholding of the Body, to render its Motion easie, and for a Fence for several Parts: Some make their number 249, others commonly 304, and others as many as the Days of the Year; yet the number of 'em is uncertain, because the Bones of Infants differ from those of adult Persons; also because the Bones call'd Seſamoidea (which see in their proper place) and the Teeth are not determined to a certain number in old Men and adult Persons. They are of different shapes, some are round, others plain, acute, obtuse, hollow, spongy, solid, triangular, oblong, &c. A Nutshell is also call'd Oſſiculum; and the Word Os belongs also in a peculiar manner to that part of our Face which we commonly call the Mouth.

Oſcheon, Scrotum, the Purse, Bag, or Cod of a Man.

Oſcitatio, yawning, a certain light convulsive motion of Muscles, which open the lower Jaw of the Face; some look upon it as a light motion, whereby excrementitious and halituous matter which irritates the neighbouring Parts is expel'd.

Oſcula, the openings of Vessels at the end.

Oſculum Uteri, the cavity where Conception is made, and the Man's Man's Yard enters; 'tis so small in Maids, that it can only receive the bigness of a small Pen we use for Writing Tables, and you cannot thrust your least Finger into it by any means. The Courses flow out of it; it sticks out in the Vagina, and is like the Mouth of a Tench, or, as Galen will rather have it, like the Nut of a Man's Yard, it having a transverse cleft, in Virgins very small, but grows bigger in Women who have had Children. If it be too much stretch'd or exulcerated, cover'd over with a Scab, or too moist, Barrenness follows thereupon: The Mouth of the Womb.

Osmunda, 'tis call'd Regalis, Palustris, Aquatilis, Florida, Osmund Royal.

Ossa, the hard and stony Bark that encompasseth the Kernels of Nuts.

Os Sepiæ, the Cuttle-fish.

Ostaga, a Forceps to take out Bones.

Osteocolla, a white or Ash-colour'd Stone, shap'd like a Bone; it grows in Saxony, Silesia, and other places. 'Tis suppos'd to join broken Bones suddenly, and therefore mix'd with divers Plaisters.

Osteologia, a Description of Bones.

Osteon; see Os.

Ostocopi, Pains in the Bones, or rather in the Membranes and Nerves about the Bones; for Bones, as such, are insensible.

Ostracodermon, every Animal that hath a Shell for its covering instead of a Skin; from whence they are call'd Testaceous.

Ostrutium, or Astrantia, vel Magistrantia & Laserpitium, Pellitory of Spain, 'tis reckon'd an excellent Remedy for the Palsy of the Tongue, and loss of Speech, the Root is very biting and hot; being chew'd in the Mouth, it cures the Tooth-ach.

Osyris, is Linaria; see Auxyris.

Otalgia, a Pain in the Ears, 'tis sometimes so excessive that it turns to a kind of Madness; sometimes it turns to an Abscess, when you see a purulent Matter issue out of the Ears.

Otenchytes, Sypho Auricularis, an Ear-Syringe, or Chirurgical Instrument or Pipe, whereby any thing is convey'd or injected into the Ears.

Otica, Medicines against Distempers in the Ears.

Ova, the first Rudiments of living Creatures, as well as of Vegetables. Eggs.

Ovarium, a Woman's Testicle.

Oviductus, the same with Tuba Fallopiana.

Oviparum, any Animal that, for the Propagation of its Species, lays its Eggs, in opposition to Viviparous Animals that produce theirs alive.

Ovum, a sort of Pain in the Head, affecting a place about the bigness of an Egg.

Ovum Philosophicum, or Chymicum, a Glass round below, and has a long Neck, us'd by the Chymists in circulating and volatilizing their Spirits. 'Tis also call'd Hermes's Vessel, or the Philosophical Egg.

Oxalis, Wood-sorrel; it has the same Vertues as common Sorrel; the Syrup, the Conserve, and the distil'd Water is us'd to wash the Mouth in St. Anthony's Fire, and to cleanse sordid Ulcers; 'tis observ'd that when this Plant bears a great a great many Flowers, the Year will be rainy, but dry when there is few.

Oxelæum, a mixture of Vinegar with Oil.

Oxycantha; see Berberis.

Oxycantha, vel Spina Acuta, five Vallaris aut Sepiculares, is the Haw-Thorn.

Oxycratum, a mixture of Vinegar with Water, call'd Pusca, or Posca.

Oxycroceum, a Plaister made of Saffron and Vinegar, and other things.

Oxydercina, Medicines which quicken the Sight.

Oxygala, sour Milk.

Oxylapathum, a sharp-pointed Dock.

Oxymel, a Composition of Vinegar and Honey, like a Syrup. See Apomeli.

Oxyngion, Axungia, Adeps, generally signifies Lard, or Hogsgrease.

Oxyphlegmasia, an acute and violent Inflamation, from overheated and too acrid Blood.

Oxyregmia, an acid sour Belching from the Stomach.

Oxyrhodium, Vinegar of Roses, mix'd with Rose-water, or so.

Oxus, Trifolium Acetosum, Alleluya, & Panis Cuculi, the same with Oxytriphyllum.

Oxysaccharum, a Composition of Sugar and Vinegar. Sometimes the Glass of Antimony is first infus'd in the Vinegar, and then 'tis call'd Vomitivum; sometimes the Scilla, and then 'tis call'd Scilliticum, or prepar'd with Squills.

Oxynosema, is Morbus Acutus.

Oxytriphyllum, Wood-sorrel.

Ozæna, an Ulcer in the inside of the Nostrils that smells ill.

Oze, a stench in the Mouth.

Ozeman, the White of an Egg.

Ozo, Arsenick.

P

P by it self, signifies a Pugil, and sometimes a Pound weight.

P. æ. or Part. æq. Equal parts.

P. N. Præter Naturam.

Parm, signifies Paria, a pair or two.

Pachuntica, Medicines of a thickning Nature, but withal cold, and full of thick and ramous parts; which, if they are mix'd with a thin Juice, by joining and stiffning the Parts one with another, make a more dense and firm Composition; as Bole-armoniack, Mill-dust, Water-lillies, Almonds, Poppies, &c.

Pædarthrocace, signifies a Caries of the Bone, especially in Young People; proceeding frequently from the Scurvy. See Caries and Teredo.

Pædotriba, Minister Gymnastæ; the Master that understands how to instruct all Boys in the Exercises of the Field, as Wrestling, &c.

Pædotrophica, that part of Physick that treats of the Method of educating and nursing of Boys.

Pæonia, Peony; the Roots of Male Peony are much used in Physick, they are used for Diseases of the Head, and for Obstructions of the Courses, and Childbed Purgations, and to ease the After-pains. The Roots are hung round the Neck to cure the Falling-sickness. The compounded Peony-water, and the Syrup of it, are much in use.

Palætyrus, old Cheese.

Palatum, the Palate, the upper part of the Mouth, which becauſe it ſomewhat reſembles the upper part of an Houſe, is thence call'd the Roof of the Mouth.

Palimpiſſa; ſee Pix.

Palindrome, a Recidive or Relapſe of a Diſtemper.

Paliurus, Chriſt-Thorn; the Roots and Leaves are aſtringent, they ſtop the Flux of the Belly, digeſt and cure a Phyma; the Fruit is ſo inciding, that it is ſaid to leſſen the Stone of the Bladder; the Seeds bruiſed are commended for a Cough, for the Gravel and Stone. Some report that theſe were the Thorns our Bleſſed Saviour was crown'd with in Contempt, by the unbelieving Jews, juſt before his Crucifixion.

Palliatio, or Cura Palliativa, a Medicine which helps (as much as is poſſible) incurable Diſeaſes, by the Application of preſent Remedies.

Palindromia, is a preternatural Regurgitation or Return of peccant Humours to the inward or nobler Parts.

Palirrhœa, that is, a retrograde Flux of Humours.

Palma, the inſide of a Man's Hand, which we call the Palm.

Palma Chriſti, is Ricinus.

Palmaria, a Plant that reſembles the Palm of the Hand.

Palmaris Muſculus, is the Muſcle that contracts the Palm of the Hand; ſee Coſtæ & Palma.

Palmus, a ſhivering or palpitation of the Heart, caus'd by a Convulſion, or Irritation of the Nerves, the cauſe whereof conſiſts in the Blood or nervous Juice, or in the Water in the Membrane that covers the Heart.

Palpebræ, the Coverings of the Eyes, made up of a Skin, a fleſhy Membrane, Muſcles, a Tunick, and another little Skin call'd Tarſus, with Hair upon the uppermoſt Skin. They are either the upper or the under Eyelids.

Palpitatio Cordis Naturalis, the natural Palpitation of the Heart, is the Syſtole thereof, whilſt the Cone and the Sides are preſt together, the Baſis and the Roots of the Veſſels being blown up with the Blood that gathers there, grows and ſwells. It often proceeds from an extraordinary contraction of the Heart, or a thick and irritating Matter that ſticks in the Heart.

Pampiniforme Corpus, or Varicoſum, or Pyramidale, is the Veins and Arteries that paſs to the Teſticles, which are included in a common Coat, and make a body reſembling curled Leaves. See Varicoſum Corpus.

Panacæa, a general ſort of Phyſick for all Diſeaſes indifferently; but I queſtion if there be any ſuch thing. Many People brag much of Tobacco, Tincture of the Sun, the Philoſopher's Stone, Vitriolated Tartar, &c. A Panace or Univerſal Medicine.

Panaritium, the ſame with Paronychia.

Panata, the ſame with——

Panatella, and Panata, Panade, is a mixture made of Crumbs of Bread and Wine, boil'd to the conſiſtence of a Pap. Sometimes they add a little Wine, ſometimes Eggs; ſometimes the Seeds of Melons, when it is to be more than ordinary cooling.

Pancœnus, the ſame with Pandemius.

Panchreſtos, is good for every thing.

Panchryſos, all Gold.

Panchymagoga, Purgative Medicines that purge or diſcharge all ſorts of Noxious Humours.

Pancratiaſta, a Champion or Combatant that is skill'd in all manner of Exerciſes.

Pancration, is not only the Name of a bulbous Plant, but alſo comprehends the double Exerciſe of Wreſtling and Boxing.

Pancreas, the Sweet-bread, Pancration, Pancreon, Callicreas, Callicreon, & Lactes, are all ſynonymous. It is a conglomerated Glandule in the Abdomen, plac'd behind the Stomach, and faſten'd to the Gut Duodenum, and reaches as far as the Liver and Spleen. The Uſe and Office thereof is to convey a Volatile, Inſipid, and Lymphatick Juice; or as others will have it (for it is a diſputable Point) a ſomething-acid Juice, by its own Ductus to the Gut Duodenum, in order to a farther Fermentation and Volatilization of the Chyle, and to attemperate and allay the Qualities of the Gall. 'Tis the biggeſt Glandule in the whole Body, but bigger in a Dog than a Man. See Callicreas.

Pandalea, as the modern Phyſicians call it, is the ſame with a ſolid Electuary, but it remains entire; for the Sugar being rightly boil'd, is let to grow hard. The Patient takes a piece of it like a Lambitive. It only differs in ſhape from Rolls and Morſels.

Pandalitium, the ſame with Pandaritium.

Pandemius, a Diſeaſe which is rife in ſome place or other.

Pandiculatio, a certain Dilatation and convulſive Diſtenſion of the Muſcles, by which the Vapours that annoy them are caſt off.

Panicum, a kind of Milium or Millet.

Panicus, a ſudden Fear or Conſternation.

Panniculus Adipoſus, the ſame with Panniculus Carnoſus.

Panniculus Carnoſus, a fat ſort of Membrane, in ſome parts thick and Muſculous, in other parts thin, with many Ductus's of Fat in it; it covers the whole Body. The Fleſhy Membrane.

Panniculus Nervoſus, the ſame with Panniculus Carnoſus.

Panis Cuculi; ſee Oxus.

Panis Porcinus; ſee Cyclamen.

Pannus, a Diſeaſe of the Eye, when the Sanguineous Veſſels, running to the Angles of the Eyes, ſwell with Blood, by reaſon of an Obſtruction or Inflamation; afterwards the Diſeaſe encreaſing, a carnous Web, as it were, covers either all or part of the Eye.

Pannus, alſo ſignifies a Spot or Breaking-out, of the bigneſs of a Man's Hand, ſometimes of a red, ſometimes of a yellowiſh or blackiſh colour, owing its Cauſe to the Venereal, or ſome other malignant Diſeaſe.

Panus, a ſort of Botch or Sore under the Armpits or Jaws, Ears and Groins, to wit, in the Glandulous Parts. 'Tis alſo taken for Phygethlus.

Papaver, Poppy; the Flowers of the red Poppy cool and aſſwage Pain, and diſpoſes to ſleep; they are chiefly uſed in Fevers, for Pleuriſies, Quinzays, and other Diſeaſes (eſpecially of the Breaſt) that need cooling Medicines, and for immoderate Fluxes of the Courſes; the Powder, the diſtil'd Water, the Syrup, and the Conſerve of them, are in Uſe, but the Syrup is moſtly us'd.

Papillæ Inteſtinorum, little Glandules wherewith the inmoſt Tunick of the Entrails is full, they ſoak in the percolated Chyle, and diſpenſe it to the Lacteal Veins.

Papilla, a red Excreſcence in the midſt of the Breaſts, the Pores whereof receive all the Milky Tubes or Pipes proceeding from the Glandules of the Breaſts. The Nipple of the Breaſt.

Papillare Os, the ſame with Sphenoides.

Papillarum Proceſſus, the Extremities of the Olfactory Nerves, which convey the ſlimy viſcous Humours by the Fibres which perforate the Os Cribriforme, to the Noſtrils and Palate.

Papulæ, vid. Puſtulæ, alſo a kind of Small-pox; ſee Exanthemata.

Paracelſiſtica Med. vid. Hermetica.

Paracenteſis, or Punctio, a Perforation of the Cheſt and Abdomen, thro' a cuſpidate Channel. It happens in the Breaſt when it is ſtuff'd with putrified Matter or Water, and then there's a pricking in the Side between the the fifth and ſixth Vertebre. It happens in the Abdomen, when 'tis ſwell'd by a Dropſy, near the white Seam in the Abdomen, in the Muſcles that either aſcend right or oblique. If a Man be ſtrong, and has taken a Purge, and alſo his Lungs and the reſt of his Entrails be uncorrupted, when the Navel doth protuberate, don't look another way, for there make the Inciſion; don't let Purulency and Water come out both together, for that were to kill the Patient, but one after the other, as in ſeven Days a Pound, or a Pound and an half, as the Patient can endure it. After the Operation is finiſh'd, draw the Wound up with an aſtringent Plaiſter. If the inward Veſſels and Paſſages be broke thro' this pricking, 'tis to no purpoſe to endeavour the Cure. A Perforation of the Abdomen or Belly.

Paracheteuſis, vid. Derivatio.

Paracmaſtica, a daily declining Fever, alſo declining Age.

Paracme, vid. in Acme.

Parachynanche, an Inflamation, with a continual Fever, and difficulty of Breathing, excited in the outward Muſcles of the Larynx.

Paradiſi Grana; ſee Cardamomum.

Paralyſis, ſive Reſolutio, an Abolition of voluntary Motion or Senſe, or both, either in all the Body, or only ſome Part. It comes either by an Obſtruction, Abſciſſion, Contuſion, or preſſing of the Nerves, or by an Indiſpoſition, or ill Conformity of the Muſcles.

Paralyſis Herba, ſeu Paralytica, is Primula Veris; vel Betonica Alba.

Parameſus, the next Finger to the middle one, call'd the Ring-finger.

Paraphimoſis, & Periphamoſis, is when the Præputium is too ſhort to cover rightly the Head of a Man's Yard; alſo the Narrowneſs and Contraction of the Womb.

Paraphora, ſignifies a ſmall Delirium.

Paraphrenitis, Madneſs, accompanied with a continual Fever, thro' the Inflamation of the Midriff, with difficulty of Breathing, as the Ancients dream'd. But Dr. Willis has confuted this Opinion of it, and ſays, the Matter of it lies in the Cerebellum, whereby the Animal Spirits cannot flow, and thence the Midriff and Lungs are troubled.

Paraphroſyne, ſive Delirium, a ſlight ſort of doating in the Imagination and Judgment.

Paraplegia, a Palſy which ſeizes all the Parts of the Body below the Head, thro' an Obſtruction of the Spinal Marrow.

Paraplexia, idem quod Paraplegia.

Pararthrema, a ſmall Luxation, by which the Joint lightly bears off from its natural ſituation.

Pararythmus, a preternatural beating of the Pulſe.

Paraſcene, Apparatus, or a readineſs of Inſtruments, &c. for the perforating any Chirurgical Operation; or Præparatio, in relation to the artificial making up of Medicines, or any Preparation in the Materia Medica.

Paraſchides, the Fragments of Bones, or the Splinters of Bones that are broke.

Paraſigma, a Concuſſion of the Body.

Paraſphagis, that part of the Neck call'd the Collar-Bone.

Paraſtatæ, vid. Epididymis.

Paraſynanche, an Inflamation of the Muſcles of the upper part of the Æſophagus, with a continued Fever.

Paregorica, anodine Medicines.

Paremptoſis, a falling, as when Blood ſlides from the Heart into the great Artery; ſee Coincidentia.

Parencephalos, idem quod Cerebellum.

Parenchymata; Entrails by which the Blood paſſes for better Fermentation and Perfection; as the Lungs, Heart, and Spleen, &c. Sometimes Parenchyma is taken in a larger ſenſe, for all the Entrails.

Pareſis, a ſort of Palſy, often ſucceeding the Cholick; ſee Paralyſis.

Parietale Os, the ſame with Bregma, or Sinciput.

Parietaria, Muralium, Pellitory; it cleanſes and cools, it is us'd for the Stone, and difficulty of Urine, and for Coughs, and in Clyſters, for Pains in the Belly, Womb, and Reins; 'tis outwardly us'd for Tumors, St. Anthony's Fire, and Burns.

Paris Herba, ſeu Uva Lupina, & Uva Verſa, True-love, or One-berry, the Berries and Leaves are cooling and drying; the Berries are us'd inwardly in the Plague and malignant Diſeaſes; the Leaves are us'd outwardly in peſtilential Buboes, and other hot Tumors, and in cold Ulcers.

Pariſthmia, or Amygdalæ, or Tonſillæ; two Glandules tied together by a broad ſlender Production, they have one common Cavity large and oval, opening into the Mouth; the Uſe they ſerve for is, to tranſmit a certain ſliny or pituitous Matter into the Jaws and Mouth. The Almonds.

Paronychia, Panarium, ſive Reduvia, a preternatural Swelling in the Finger, and very troublesome. It ariſes from a ſharp malign Humor, which can gnaw the Tendons, Nerves, the Membrane about the Bone, and the very Bone it ſelf. A Whitlow.

Paronychia, an Herb ſo call'd, that cures Whitlows.

Paronychia foliis Rutaceis, Rue, Whitlow-graſs; this Herb infus'd in Small-beer, and drank for ſome days, cures King's-evil-ſwellings without any ſenſible Evacuation.

Paropiæ, the leſſer Angles of the Eye; ſee Canthus.

Pareptoſis, an ancient kind of burning us'd in Diſeaſes.

Parotides, Glandules behind the Ears; alſo a preternatural Swelling of thoſe Glandules.

Paroxyſmus, a Fit, is part of the Period of Diſeaſes, whereby they encreaſe and grow worſe. 'Tis either ordinate, which returns at certain times, as in a Tertian Ague; or inordinate, that has no certain time, but comes ſometimes one day, ſometimes another, as the Erratick Ague. 'Tis call'd alſo Periodus, Acceſſio, Exacerbatio, & Invaſio.

Pars, a Part, a piece of the whole ſerving each for their proper Uſes. The Parts are either ſenſible or inſenſible, ſpermatick or bloody, ſimilar or the contrary, organical or inorganical, principal or inſervient.

Parthenos, properly ſignifies a Virgin, or ſuch a Woman as hath not known a Man.

Partus, the bringing forth of a mature Fœtus, or Young, in natural Births. The Fœtus having broken the Membranes, turns its Head forward, and inclining it towards the Neck of the Womb, ſtrives to get forth; the uſual manner is after nine Months: Yet I have known ſome at Amſterdam born at ſeven Months, who have liv'd to Fifty or Sixty.

Partus Cæſareus, is when Children are forc'd, for want of Paſſage, to be cut out of their Mother's Womb, as 'tis ſaid Scipio, Africanus, and Manlius were. The Imperial Cut.

Partus difficilis, idem quod Dyſtocia.

Parvibibulus, one that drinks little becauſe he is afraid of Water.

Parviviſcerulus, he that hath ſmall Bowels, and oft diſeas'd.

Parylis, an Inflamation, Rottenneſs, or Excreſcence beſide the Gums.

Paſma, the ſame with Diapaſma.

Paſſa & Paſſula Uva, a dry Fig, having been expos'd to the Sun.

Paſſerina, is Alſine; Sparrows are greatly delighted with the Herb, and therefore 'tis call'd Paſſerina.

Paſſio, vid. Pathema.

Paſſio Bovina; ſee Phthiriaſis.

Paſta Regia, the ſame with Martius Panis.

Paſtillium, a ſweet Ball compoſed of ſweet Duſt, Wax, the Gum Storax, and Indian Balſam, with a little Goats-Flower and Turpentine. It ſerves for ſmelling.

Paſtinaca, Parſnip; the Root is very nouriſhing and palatable, it fattens, and is a provocative to Venery, it opens, attenuates and cleanſes. The Root of Cow-parſnip is emollient, and aſſwages Tumors; the Seed is excellent for Hyſterick Fits.

Patella, vid. Mola Genu.

Pathema, a preternatural conturbation wherewith our Body is molested.

Patheticus, the Nerve of the fourth Pair within the Scull, as Dr. Willis saith, tho' Fallopius reckons it one of the eighth Pair.

Pathognomonicum, a proper inseparable sign, which agrees only to such a thing, and to all of that kind, telling the Essence of its subject, and also lasts from the beginning to the end; as in a true Pleurisy there is always a continued Fever, hard Breathing, Stitches, and a Cough.

Pathologia, that part of Physick which teaches the morbifick Constitution of our Bodies.

Patientiæ Musculus, the same with Levator.

Pathos, vid. Pathema.

Patientia, the Word Patience.

Pechiagra, the Gout or Rheumatism about the Articulation of the Cubitus; see Arthritis.

Pecten Veneris, Acula, Venus-Comb, Shepherd's-Needle; it grows among Corn, 'tis said to strengthen the Stomach, and to force Urine, but 'tis seldom us'd in Physick now-a-days.

Pectinis Os, the same as Os Pubis.

Pectoralis Musculus, this Muscle moves the Arm to the Breast.

Pectoris Os, the same as Sternum.

Pectoralis, seu Bechica, pectoral Medicines, such as either by attenuating, or thickening, or allaying, render the Matter which causes Coughing fit to be expectorated.

Pectus, the foremost part of the Thorax, reaching from the Neck-bone down to the Midriff.

Pedicula, and Pedicularis, yellow Rattle Cocks-Comb; this Herb makes Cattel that feed on it louzy.

Pedicularis; see Alectorolophos.

Pedicularis Morbus, vid. Phthiriasis.

Pediculus, a Louse; also the Stalk whereon the Leaf, Fruit, or Flower hangs.

Pediculus Elephantis, is Anacardus.

Pedium, vid. Tarsus.

Pediluvium, a sort of Bath for the Feet. A Foot-bath.

Peganum; see Ruta.

Pelicanatio Chymica, vid. Circulatio Chymica.

Pelicanus, an Instrument to draw Teeth; as also a Chymical Vessel, wherein they circulate their Liquors.

Pelidnus, a black and blue Colour in the Face, frequent in melancholy Persons.

Pellicula, the same with a Membrane or Coat.

Pellis, the Skin of Beasts with the Hair or Wool on; for after it has been cleans'd, 'tis call'd Corium, or Leather.

Peltalis Cartilago, the same as Ensiformis Cartilago.

Pelvis, the place at the bottom of the Belly, wherein the Bladder and Womb are contain'd.

Pelvis Aurium, vid. Cochlea.

Pelvis Cerebri, vid. Coana.

Pelvis Renum, a Membranous Vessel, or Receptacle in either Rein, which receives the Urine, and pours it into the Bladder.

Pemphingodes Febris, a spotted Fever, some say a windy, a flatulent Fever.

Pemptæos, an Ague that comes every fifth Day; but whether there be any such thing, is question'd by some.

Penis, the Yard, made up of two nervous Bodies, the Chanel, Nut, Skin, Fore-skin, &c. It has gotten variety of Names among the ancient Greek and Latin Authors, to mention all which would be superfluous. A Man's Yard.

Penicilla, the same with Turundula.

Penicillus, a Pencil.

Penidium, a sort of clarified Sugar.

Penis Cerebri, the same with Conarium, or Glandula Pinealis.

Penis Muliebris; see Clitoris.

Pensilis Verruca; see Verruca.

Pentacula, seu Periapta, the same with Periamma, things hung about the Neck to prevent People from evil Spirits, or certain written Characters. See Periamma.

Pentadactylon; see Palma Christi.

Pentamyron, an Ointment compounded of five Ingredients, viz. Mastick, Storax, Opobalsamum, Wax, and Nard Ointment.

Pentapharmacum, a Medicine consisting of five others, as also of five nourishing things.

Pentaphyllum, Cinque-foil, or Five-leav'd Grass. 'Tis vulnerary and astringent, it stoppeth Fluxes of the Belly, bleeding at the Nose, and the Hemorrhoids; 'tis good for spitting of Blood, and a Cough; it is also commended for a Palsie, a Consumption, the Gout and Jaundice; 'tis likewise good for the Stone, and Erosions of the Kidneys; 'tis us'd outwardly for the Eyes when they are inflam'd, the Juice of it being dropt into 'em; also for Looseness of the Teeth, and for putrid Gums; it cleanses also malignant Ulcers: The astringent Vertue of it is most remarkable, by means whereof it does what it does. One dram of the Powder of the Root, taken before the Fit, cures Agues. Spon, in his Book of Fevers and Febrifuges, says. That the Cinque-foil is a Plant somewhat bitter, and very astringent, whereby it strengthens the Fibres of the Stomach, relaxed by a Fever, and fixes and sweetens its Acid. Hippocrates used with this Plant to cure Fevers; but without doubt it was more effectual in Greece than here, for most Plants have more Vertue in hot Countries than in cold, especially those that are somewhat aromatick. It has also been found by Experience, that the Root of it cures Ulcers of the Mouth.

Pentapleurum, is the lesser Plantane, call'd likewise Quinque Nervia.

Pentatheton, a Plaister for Bruises and Excoriations.

Pepansis, rectifying and bringing into order the vitiated and corrupt Humours.

Pepasmus, a Concoction, or rather a Fermentation or ripening of preternatural Humours, which is twofold; one tends to an end, as in an Inflamation; the other hath no Fermentation, as when it can't conquer the Disease. See Coctio and Fermentatio.

Pepasticum, a Medicine that allays and digests the Crudities. A Digestive.

Peplion, Peplis, & Peplus, small purple Sea-spurge; it grows on the Sands near Penzans in Cornwall plentifully, and no where else in England; 'tis a sort of

Ti-

Tithymal, and has the same Vertues.

Pepo, a Pompion, a sort of Melon; 'tis cold and very moist, it provokes Urine, and the Seed of it is one of the greater cold Seeds.

Pepsis, the Concoction or Fermentation of the Humours and Meat in a Man's natural Constitution, as when Meat is turn'd into Chyle, and that into Blood. See Coctio and Fermentatio.

Peracutissimus Morbus; see Acutus M.

Peracutus; see Acutus.

Percipiolum, an approv'd Remedy.

Percolatio, a straining.

Perdicium, is Helxine.

Pereterion, is an Instrument call'd a Trepan or Borer.

Perfecta Crisis; see Crisis.

Perfoliata, Thorow-Wax; the Decoction of this Herb in Wine, or the Leaves powder'd, are given for Ruptures and Contusions; 'tis also used for the Kings-Evil, for Fractures, and an Erysipelas.

Perforans Musculus, the Perforating Muscle.

Perforata, a sort of St. Johns-wort.

Perforatus Musculus, the former Muscle sticking to the Fingers, bound to the inner Tubercle of the Shoulder-bone about the Carpus; it dispersèth four strong Tendons, which near the end, by a Cleft, make a passage for the Muscle Perforans, and at length they are united to the second Joint of the Fingers, and with the Perforans bend the Fingers. The Perforated Muscle.

Periamma, Periapton, Amuletum, Xenechton, a Medicine that (being ty'd about the Neck) is believ'd to expel Diseases, especially the Plague. An Amulet.

Periaptum; see Periamma.

Pericardium, Involucrum, Capsula, Bursa, Scrotum seu Sacculus Membraneus Cordis, a Membrane which surrounds the whole Substance of the Heart, and contains a Liquor in it to refrigerate the Heart.

Pericarpium, the Husk of the Seed.

Pericholus, very cholerick.

Periclymenum, is Caprifolium.

Pericranium, a Membrane that enfolds the Scull.

Perinæum, vel Interfemineum, the ligamentous Seam betwixt the Cod and the Fundament.

Perinyctides, Pustules, Tubercles, like Wheals.

Periodus Morborum, the space betwixt the coming of Fits of Sickness in intermitting Diseases.

Periodus Sanguinis, seu Circulatio & Cyclophoria, a continued circulation of the Blood thro' the Body, which is thus; The Blood is carried out of the Arteries by Fibres, either of Flesh, or of the Entrails, or the membranous Parts, to the Mouths of the greater Veins. Now we say that those Fibres are terminated at the Mouths of the Veins, and implanted in 'em, as we see many other little Chanels in the Veins, so the Blood passing thro' these out of the Arteries, is presently sent to the Veins, that it may be carried back again to the right Ventricle of the Heart, and from thence by an arterious Vein to the Lungs, thro' which (after the Blood hath been accended by some some nitrous Particles breath'd in thither by the Air) it goes into the Venous Artery, and from thence into the left Ventricle of the Heart, which again empties itself into the Aorta, or great Artery; so, that the Body may be enliven'd, it goes into every part of it.

Perioſteum, a thin Membrane encloſing immediately the Bones, except a few.

Peripheria, the Circumference of the Body, or any Entrail thereof.

Periphimoſis; ſee Phimoſis.

Periploca, or Apocymum, Dogsbane; 'tis a ſort of Convolvula.

Peripneumonia, an Inflamation of the Subſtance of the Lungs, accompanied with a ſharp Fever, hard Breathing, a Cough, and a heavy Pain.

Periptoſis, ſignifies a Fall or Accident, or ſometimes 'tis uſed for a lucky or accidental Cure.

Peripyema, a collection of Pus about any Part.

Perirrhedes, a Part that's broke through.

Perirrhepſis, a round-about declination of a Ligament, when it leans to another Part.

Perirrhexis, ſignifies an Abruption which is made round, when the corrupted Bones or dead Fleſh are pluck'd off all about the Part.

Perirrhœa, a circumfluous Flux of Humours, when from the whole circuit of the Body.

Periſcyphiſus & Periſchyphiſmus, a ſort of Chirurgical Section in the fore-part of the Head, to the Scull.

Periſtalticus Motus, a crawling as 'twere of the Entrails whereby the Excrements are voided; alſo the Motion of the Veſſels whereby Humours, as Water, Chyle, the Blood, &c. aſcend and deſcend.

Periſteron, vel Columbina, vel Columbaris, vel Sacra Herba, vel Sagminalis. See Verbena.

Periſtromata, the Sick-man's Bed-cloaths; alſo the Tunicks about the Entrails.

Periſyſtole, the time of Reſt between the Contraction and the Dilatation of the Heart.

Peritonæum, a Membrane that cloaths the whole Abdomen on the inſide, as alſo its Entrails on the outſide. It conſiſts of two Tunicks.

Perittoma, an Excrement in the Body left after digeſtion; as alſo the Relicks of Diſeaſes.

Perizoma, a ſort of Girdle fit for People that are burſten. See Amma.

Pernio, a preternatural Swelling caus'd by the Winter Cold, eſpecially in the Hands and Feet, which at laſt break out. Kibes, or Chilblains.

Perla; ſee Margarita.

Perona, alſo call'd Fibula, becauſe it joins the Muſcles of the Leg, whence the firſt and ſecond Muſcle in the Leg is call'd Peronæus. 'Tis the leſs and ſlenderer Bone, which is faſten'd outwardly to the greater Bone of the Leg, call'd Tibia. It is alſo call'd Sura, Canna minor, Focile minus. See Fibula.

Peronæus; ſee Perona.

Perperacutus; ſee Acutus.

Perſica Malus, the Peach-tree.

Perſicaria, it is plainly hot and dry, and chiefly uſed outwardly in Wounds, hard Swellings, and old old Sores. The Water of Arſe-ſmart (for that is the Engliſh Name of it) is of great uſe in the Stone of the Kidneys or Bladder, a draught of it being taken every Morning for two or three months together; a certain Gentleman in the Country uſed a whole Load of this Herb in a Year, to make the Water, wherewith he cured abundance of the Stone. The Root or Seed put into an aching Tooth, takes off the Pain. There's hardly any thing that more effectually drives away Flies, for whatever Wounds or Ulcers Cattel have, if they are but anointed with the Juice of this Herb, the Flies will not come near 'em, tho' it be in the heat of Summer.

Perſicus Ignis; ſee Anthrax, or Carbunculus. 'Tis alſo taken for a Gangrene.

Perſolata, is Bardana.

Perſonata, and Perſonatia, is Lappa or Bardana. See Lappa.

Perſpiratio, the ſame with Diaphoreſis.

Perſultatio, the ſame with Diapedeſis.

Pervigilium, the ſame with Agrypnia.

Pervinca, is the ſame as Vinca.

Pes, the Foot; 'tis taken largely for the Thigh, Leg, and Foot; or elſe only for the Foot alone.

Pes Anſerinus, Gooſe-foot, is a ſort of Atriplex.

Pes Columbinus, Doves-foot, is a ſort of Geranium.

Pes Cornicis; ſee Coronopus.

Pes Leonis, the ſame with Alchimilla.

Pes Leporis; ſee Lagopus.

Peſſarium, an oblong Medicine which being made in ſhape like the middle Finger, is thruſt up into the Neck of the Womb, and is good againſt ſeveral Diſeaſes incident to it.

Peſſulus, the ſame.

Peſſus, the ſame.

Peſtis, the Plague, an epidemick contagious Diſeaſe, ariſing from a poiſonous and too much exalted Nitre in the Air, which ſecretly and ſuddenly takes a Man, extinguiſhing the Spirits, clotts the Blood, deadneth the ſound Parts, and is accompanied with Botches, Boils, and a train of other dreadful Symptoms.

Petale, the ſame with Phthiriaſis.

Petaloides, a ſort of Urine that ſeems to have little Leaves or Scales in it.

Petechialis, ſive Petechiæ, a malignant Fever, call'd alſo Pulicaris, becauſe it makes the Skin look as tho' it were Flea-bitten. A Spotted Fever.

Petia, Stuff that certain Bags are made of for Medicinal uſes.

Petigo; ſee Lichen.

Petrefactio, the changing of a Body into a ſtony Subſtance.

Petrolæum, or Oleum Petræ, Stone-Oil.

Petroſelinum, Parſly; the Root and Herb expel Wind, provoke Urine and the Courſes, and open Obſtructions of the Liver and Spleen; they are good alſo in the Dropſy and Jaundice; the Seed is good for the ſame Diſeaſes, for an old Cough, and againſt Poiſon. The whole Herb outwardly apply'd diſſolves hard Tumors, and drys away Milk, being apply'd to the Breaſts. Take of Parſly-ſeeds three drams, of Winter Cherry-berries N° 6, boil 'em in

in a pint of Milk, and make Posset-drink; take six ounces at a time sweetned with an ounce of Syrup of Marshmallows; you will find this very good in the Gravel. Parsly-piert, call'd in French Percepier, forceth Urine violently, and expels Gravel, a dram of the dry'd Herb being taken in Whitewine; it may be also eaten raw as a Sallad, and likewise pickled and eaten in Winter for Sauce. It grows among Rocks and Stones, and therefore is called Petroselinum.

Petrosum Os, the inside of the Bones of the Temples, so call'd from the hardness thereof.

Petum, is Tabacum, call'd Petun by the Indians. See Tabacum & Nicotiana.

Peucedanum, seu Peucedanus, Hogs-fennel, Sulphur-wort; the Ancients attributed many Vertues to this Herb; it expectorates and evacuates Choler, but is chiefly used for Diseases of the Breast, a Cough, Inflations, and for Obstructions of the Liver, Spleen, and Reins; it provokes Urine, expels Gravel, and is used outwardly for Pains in the Head arising from Catarrhs, for Tumors, and for cleansing old Ulcers. A Conserve made of the Roots is an excellent Pectoral, and very good for hysterick Diseases.

Pexa, the Malleolus of the Foot.

Phace, a Lentil.

Phacoides, that is, having the form or shape of a Lentil, as the Crystalline Humour of the Eye.

Phacoptisana, a Food compos'd of Pulse and Ptisan, so that it contain more of the first than the last.

Phacia; see Lenticula.

Phacos, a Spot in the Face like a Nit, whence 'tis call'd Lenticula and Lentigo. A Freckle.

Phacotos, a Chirurgical Instrument.

Phenomena, Appearances in the Body.

Phagedæna, an exulcerate Cancer, call'd a Wolf; item Voracity, as in the Bulimia.

Phagedænica, are Medicines that eat down the superfluous Flesh of Ulcers, and their callous Lips. Phagedenick Water is a mixture of Mercury sublimate and Lime-water: Put a pound of Quick-lime into a large earthen Pan, and quench it with seven or eight pints of Water; after the Lime hath been infus'd five or six hours, and is sunk to the bottom, pour off the Water by Inclination, and filtrate it; this is call'd Lime-water: To each pint of this Water are added fifteen or twenty grains of sublimate Corrosive in powder, and the Water presently turns yellow. They are stirr'd together a good while in a Glass, or Marble Mortar, and this Water is used for cleansing old Ulcers; it eats proud Flesh, and is used likewise in a Gangrene, by adding of Wine to it, and sometimes Spirit of Vitriol. The Precipitate of the Phagedenick Water being wash'd and dry'd, is esteem'd by some to be a good Purgative in Venereal Cases; 'tis given in Pills, for fear of blacking the Teeth. The Dose is from one grain to three, and it purges both upwards and downwards.

Phalacrosis, a falling off of the Hair.

Phalangium, and Phalangites, is a Plant ſo call'd, becauſe it is ſaid to cure the biting of a Tarantula.

Phalangoſis, a fault of the Eye-lid, as when there is two rows of Hair, or when the Hair grows inward and offends the Eyes.

Phalanx, the Order and Rank obſerv'd in the Finger-bones.

Phalaris, Canary-ſeed; it is alſo call'd Gramen Tremulum, Quacking-graſs.

Phantaſia, an internal Senſe or Imagination, whereby any thing is repreſented to the Mind, or impreſt on it. It ſeems to be a certain undulation, or waving of the Animal Spirits in the middle of the Brain, which are afterwards expanded towards its circumference.

Phantaſma, the ſame with Phantaſia.

Pharmacum, any ſort of Medicine againſt a Diſeaſe.

Pharmaceutica, the ſame with Pharmacia.

Pharmacia, an Art of collecting, chuſing, and compounding Medicines; the Apothecary's Art of preparing Medicines.

Pharmacopœia, the Doctrin or Deſcription of things phyſical, in order to Cure. See Diſpenſatorium.

Pharmacopœius, ſive Seplaſiarius, a Man that underſtands how to make up Medicines. An Apothecary.

Pharmacochymia, is that part of Chymiſtry which only treats of the Preparation of Medicines for the recovery or preſervation of Health, and therefore differs in this reſpect from that part which is call'd Metallurgia, Spagyrica, & Chryſopoietica, which relate to the tranſmutation of Metals.

Pharmacopola, is he that ſells Medicines.

Pharmacum, is a Remedy or Medicine that by its contrary Quality cures a Diſeaſe, and is either Actual or Potential, Simple or Compound, Dogmatick or Empirick, External or Internal, Natural or Artificial.

Pharyngetrum, ſometimes uſed for the Pharynx, ſometimes for the Bone Hyoides.

Pharyngotomia; ſee Laryngotomia.

Pharynx, the upper part of the Gullet, conſiſting of three pair of Muſcles.

Phaſeolus, & Phaſelus, Kidney-Beans; they provoke Urine, and are good for the Gravel, a dram of the Powder of 'em being taken in Whitewine. They are of an eaſie digeſtion, and excite Venery.

Phegophyrum, the ſame with Fagopyrum, Buck-wheat, Brank or Crop, 'tis uſed for Bread among poor People; 'tis alſo good to fat Chickens. They draw an Oil from it in Holland.

Phegus, the ſame with Fagus.

Phellandrium, a Water-plant like Hemlock.

Phellodrys, the Cork-tree; the Bark of it rub'd in hot Water ſtops a Flux of Blood; the Aſhes of it do the ſame. It grows in Spain and ſome other places.

Phellos, the ſame with Suber.

Phiala, a Viol.

Philadelphus, is Aparine.

Philanthropos, is Aparine.

Philiatros, a Lover of Phyſick.

Philipendula, the ſame with Filipendula.

Phillyrea, & Phillyra, Mock-privet, the Leaves are aſtringent, and a Decoction of them cures Ulcers of the Mouth; and being taken inwardly, it provokes Urine, and the Courſes.

Philochymicus, an opiate Medicine or Compoſition, which has ſome Opium in it, tho' there are ſeveral different Preſcriptions of its Compoſition.

Philtrum, the Hollow dividing the upper Lip; alſo a Love-cup, call'd in Latin, Amatorium Virus, Amatorium Poculum.

Phimoſis, the ſame with Paraphimoſis; alſo the Inverſion of the Eyelids through an Inflamation.

Phleborrhagia, the breaking of a Vein.

Phlebotomia, an opening of a Vein.

Phlebotomus, the Blood-letter; alſo an Inſtrument call'd a Phlegm, wherewith to let Blood.

Phlegma, ſive Pituita, a ſlimy Excrement of the Blood, caus'd often by too much nitrous Air. 'Tis likewiſe a watery diſtill'd Liquor, oppoſite to Spirituous Liquor; alſo thoſe Clouds which appear upon diſtill'd Waters. Hippocrates uſes it often for an Inflamation. 'Tis alſo the Diſeaſe of Hens, call'd the Pip, and is ſometimes taken for a viſcous Excretion.

Phlegmagoga; Medicines to purge away the Phlegm.

Phlegmaſia, an Inflamation, Heat or Burning. See Phlegmone.

Phlegmatici, thoſe that are much troubled with Phlegm.

Phlegmone, ſive Inflamatio; a Tumor of the Blood in the Fleſh or Muſcles, cauſing Heat, Redneſs, Beating, and Pain.

Phlegmonodes, an Inflamation like the former.

Phlemelia, or Flemina, little Tumors that ariſe about the Tabus of the Toe by hard walking.

Phleps Vena, vel Arteria, by this Name alſo all the Veſſels of the Body are call'd, as the Lacteals, Lymphaducts, &c.

Phlogiſtos, is a term whereby we conceive every thing that is Flame.

Phlogodes, ſignifies an intenſe red Face.

Phlogium, a ſort of Violet.

Phlogoſis, the ſame with Phlegmone.

Phlogmos, vel Phlomos, & Phlox, is Verbaſcum.

Phlyctæna, ſive Papula, a Bliſter rais'd, or a Pimple in the Skin; alſo a little Ulcer in the corneous Tunick of the Eye.

Phlyctænodes, hot watery Puſtules, like the former.

Phlyſacium, the ſame with Phlyctæna.

Phlyſis, the ſame with Phlyctæna.

Phœnicius Morbus, the ſame as Elephantiaſis.

Phœnygmus, a Medicine that makes the Skin red like Dropax, and that Medicine call'd Sinapiſmus.

Phœnix, the Date-Tree, or Palm-Tree.

Phoſphorus, a Stone that gives light in the Night.

Phragmites Arundo, a Reed ſo call'd.

Phrenes, vid. Diaphragma.

Phreneſis, the ſame with Phrenitis.

Phrenitiaſis, the ſame.

Phrenetici Nervi ; are those Nerves which belong to the Midriff.

Phrinitis, Phrenetiasis, five Phrenesis, a Dotage, with a continual Fever, often accompany'd with Madness and Anger, proceeding from too much Heat in the Animal Spirits, not from the Inflamation of the Brain, as the Ancients thought. Willis thus defines it, namely, an Inflamation of the whole sensitive Soul and Animal Spirits. A Frenzy.

Phrice, the same with Horror.

Phricodes, a dreadful Fever, whereby, besides the Heat, Men find themselves shivering with Cold.

Phryganium, five Cremium ; Brush-wood, soon on a flame.

Phtharticum, a corrupting Medicine.

Phtheirocenon, is Staphys Agria, so call'd because the Seed of it kills Lice.

Phthiriasis, five Morbus Pedicularis, the louzy Disease ; also a scaly Scab on the Eyebrows ; as also Crab-lice.

Phthirion, as Phtheirocnonon.

Phthisicus, a Man in a Consumption, whose Lungs are spoil'd.

Phthisis, a Consumption of the whole Body, rising from an Ulcer in the Lungs, accompany'd with a slow continu'd Fever, smelling Breath, and a Cough.

Phthora, a sort of hurtful Napellus. See Staphys Agria.

Phthoe, the same with Phthisis.

Phu, or Phy, is Valeriana.

Phygethlon, five Panis, a Swelling proceeding from an Inflamation of the Glandules, wherein Nature expels something ; as in the Plague about the Groin.

Phylacterium, a sort of Amulet to be worn, for the Cure of Venomous Diseases.

Phyllitis, Hart's-Tongue ; 'tis chiefly us'd in Swellings of the Spleen, for the Flux of the Belly, and for spitting of Blood ; outwardly apply'd, it cleanses Wounds and Ulcers ; the Powder of it is of great Use for the Palpitation of the Heart, for Mother-fits and Convulsions, being taken in Small-beer or Posset-drink ; a Conserve of the green Leaves is also us'd for the same purpose.

Phyllum, is Mercurialis.

Phyma, five Tuberculum, a Swelling. There are five sorts, Verrucæ, Calli, Vari, Furunculi, & Hydroa, or Desudationes ; of which in their proper place. Others reckon it a Tumor in the Glandules only, which quickly suppurates.

Phymatodes, like the former.

Phymosis, the same as Phimosis.

Phymus, & Phymosis, the same with Phyma.

Physalis, is Lupulus.

Physalos, is Bufo.

Physema, seu Physesis, an Inflamation in any part of the Body, as a Tympany ; also the Rosin of the Pine.

Physesis, the same.

Physiognomica, Signs whereby we conjecture something by the Countenance.

Physiognomia, the Art of knowing Natures.

Physiologia, a part of Physick that teaches the Constitution of the Body, so far as 'tis in its healthy natural state.

Physis, Nature.

Physocele, vid. Pneumatocele.

Physodes, that which is very flatulent.

Phyceuma, a ſort of Linaria.

Phytologia, the Knowledge of Vegetables and Plants.

Pia Mater, vid. Mater Tenuis.

Pica; ſee Citta.

Picatio, vid. Dropaciſmus.

Picea, a ſort of Abies, which produces Pitch.

Picra, vid. Hiera picra.

Picris, is Cichoreum.

Pichrocholus, a Man troubled with a black Bile.

Pieſtrum, a Chirurgical Inſtrument to beat in pieces the Bones of the Head, in extracting a dead Child. 'Tis alſo call'd Piſſorium, Contuſorium, Embryothlaſtes.

Pigritia, Slothfulneſs.

Pila, a ſort of Mortar.

Pilaris Morbus, the ſame with Phalangoſis and Tricheaſis.

Pilula, ſive Catapotium, a ſolid Medicine, made like a little Ball of Powders, Gums, Extracts, &c. mix'd with a glutinous Liquor. Pills.

Pili, the Hairs, they are round, oblong, ſlender Bodies, conſiſting of much Sulphur and Earth, and of different Colours, according to the difference of the Conſtitution. They grow out at the Pores of the Skin, that the Vapours may more eaſily exhale thro' them, as thro' ſo many little Tubes or Pipes. I have diſcover'd thro' my Microſcope ſeveral little Knots or Valves in 'em. They are alſo call'd Crines & Capilla, tho' the laſt relates only to the Hairs of the Head.

Piloſella, Mouſe-Ear; 'tis very aſtringent, drying, and vulnerary; wherefore 'tis us'd ſucceſsfully in Wound-drinks, Plaiſters, and Ointments; it cures Dyſenteries, and other Fluxes of the Belly, and ſtops Vomiting, and cures Childrens Ruptures, and is excellent in the Stone. Some commend it for the Jaundice, and ſwellings of the Spleen, and at the beginning of a Dropſy; 'tis alſo commended for the Chin-cough. See Filago.

Pilulæ de Agarico, they are good for purging of the Breaſt and Lungs.

Pilulæ Aggregativæ, a general purging Pill.

Pilulæ Aloëſanguinæ, they purge the Head, and cleanſe the Stomach, and procure an Appetite.

Pilulæ Aureæ, they purge the Head, expel Wind, and are good in a Dropſy.

Pilulæ Cochiæ Majores; they purge the Head, Breaſt, and Stomach.

Pilulæ Cochiæ Minores; they purge Water powerfully.

Pilulæ de Cinogloſſa, they are good for Rheums and tickling Coughs, and cauſe ſleep.

Pilulæ ex Duobus, they purge very ſtrongly, and therefore are to be uſed only in ſtrong Bodies; they purge the Head, are good in the Pox and Running of the Reins.

Pilulæ Fœtidæ, they are peculiarly proper for Womens Obſtructions.

Pilulæ de Hermodactylis, Pills of Hermodactyles. They are a proper Purge for the Gout, and Pains of the Joints.

Pilulæ de Hiera cum Agarico, Pills of Hiera with Agarick.

Pilulæ Imperiales, Imperial Pills; they purge gently, cleanſe the Stomach, and likewiſe ſtop Vomiting.

Pilulæ de Lapide Lazuli; they are peculiarly proper for mad and melancholy People, for the Itch, Leprosy, and the like.

Pilulæ Macri, they are good for the Stomach and Breast.

Pilulæ Mastichinæ, Pills of Mastich; they strengthen the Head, and strengthen and cleanse the Stomach.

Pilulæ Rudii, they are a general Purge.

Pilulæ de Ruffi, they help Digestion, and are good in Surfeits.

Pilulæ Stomachicæ cum Gummi, the Stomach-Pill; they open Obstructions, cleanse the Lungs, and strengthen the Stomach.

Pilulæ è Styrace, they are us'd for Coughs and Catarrhs.

Pilulæ de Succino, Pills of Amber; they purge the Head and Womb.

Pilulæ Tartaricæ, Pills of Tartar; they are good in Melancholy, and for Diseases of the Skin.

Pilum, the same with Pistillum.

Pimpinella, Pampinella, Bipinella, seu Bipennula, seu Pompenella, Pimpernel; 'tis moderately hot and dry, 'tis counted Vulnerary, and is useful inwardly and outwardly; it does much good in the Plague, being boil'd in Wine, but the Sick must go to Bed, and must be well cover'd as soon as he has drank a moderate Draught of it, that he may sweat. A Woman cur'd many that were troubled with a Pin and Web in their Eyes, with the distil'd Water of it. In a Consumption, and for purulent Spitting, let the Sick drink every Day, Morning and Evening, twelve Spoonfuls of the distil'd Water mix'd with an equal quantity of red Cows Milk sweeten'd with fine Sugar; 'tis frequently us'd for the Gripes of new-born Children, it also moves the Courses. Willis commends the Decoction of it as a Specifick for Madness.

Pinealis Glandula, vid. Conarium.

Pinguedo, vid. Adeps.

Pinna Auris; the upper and broader part of the Ear, call'd the Wing.

Pinna Nasi; see Ala & Pterygium.

Pinus, the Pine-tree; the Bark and Leaves cool and bind, wherefore they are good in Dysenteries, and Fluxes of the Courses; a Decoction or Infusion of the Tops in Beer, or some other proper Liquor, is reckon'd very good for the Stone of the Kidneys and Bladder, and for the Scurvy, and Diseases of the Breasts. The Nuts have a delicate taste, and are good for Consumptions and Coughs, also for heat of Urine; and they encrease Milk.

Piper, Pepper; there are three sorts of Pepper; the common black and round, call'd Melanopiper; the white, call'd Leucopiper; and the long Pepper, call'd Macropiper. It grows in most of the Provinces of India, especially Malacca, Java, and Sumatra; there is so much of it in those Places, that it serves the whole World. The Plant is so weak that it cannot stand by it self, and if it has no Tree to climb upon, it falls upon the Ground like Hops. White round Pepper grows upon the same Plant, as there is no difference betwixt the Vines that bring white and red Grapes. All ſorts of Pepper heat, provoke Urine, Concoction, and diſcuſs; being taken inwardly, it takes off the Gripes; it draws Flegm from the Head, being chew'd with Raiſins, and excites Appetite; mixt with Pitch, it diſcuſſes King's-Evil-ſwellings, and is good for cold and crude Stomachs; there is great difference betwixt taking it Whole and in Powder, for the Powder cauſes the Hickup, and inflames the Bowels; they therefore that take it to help their Stomachs, ſhould ſwallow it whole. 'Tis uſed outwardly in Gargariſms; the Oil of Pepper outwardly us'd is an excellent Remedy for the Palſy. Pepper aſſwages the ſwelling of the Uvula, and is good for cold Diſeaſes; mix'd with Honey 'tis good for a Quinzay. The white is ſtronger than the black, and this laſt is better than the long Pepper.

Piperitis, Pepper-wort; the Leaf is acrid and hot; the Herb (bruis'd and apply'd) cures the Hip-gout, boil'd in Beer it haſtens Delivery, and is commended for a Leproſy.

Piſo, the ſame with Mortarium.

Piſſaſphaltus, is Bitumen Judaicum, and is either Natural or Factitious.

Piſſeleon; ſee Pix.

Piſtacia, and Piſtacium, the Piſtach-Tree; the Nuts are very grateful to the Stomach, whether they are eaten or drank in Wine; they do good for the biting of Beaſts; they are bitteriſh, they open Obſtructions, eſpecially of the Liver, and alſo of the Breaſt and Lungs. They are reckon'd very nutritive, and provocative to Venery, for which reaſon they are frequently us'd with other Reſtoratives by the Spaniſh, Italian, and French Phyſicians; and they ſo much depend upon them, that they ſcarce make any ſtrengthening Medicine without them. Oil of Piſtach Nuts eaſes inward Pains that proceed from viſcid Flegm and Wind; 'tis alſo uſeful in Convulſions and the Palſy.

Piſtillum, an Inſtrument wherewithal to beat things in a Mortar. A Peſtle.

Piſum, Peaſe; the freſh and tender are the beſt, they beget good Nouriſhment, and they are eaten as Beans; but they are different in this, that Peaſe are not ſo Windy or Abſterſive, and therefore are not ſo eaſily evacuated out of the Body; but Beets boil'd with them looſen the Belly; the freſh or green Peaſe are very pleaſant to the taſte, ſtir up the Appetite, cleanſe the Breaſt, cures Coughs, and are good for an Aſthma and all the Diſeaſes of the Breaſt; but all ſorts of Peaſe are windy, and therefore are injurious to all that have windy Stomachs, and are troubled with the Spleen. Raw Green-peaſe are good for the Scurvy.

Pittacium, a little Cloth ſpread with a Medicine apply'd to the Part affected.

Pituita, vid. Phlegma.

Pituitaria Glandula, vid. Glandula Pituitaria.

Pituitaria, is Staphys Agria.

Pityriaſis, vid. Furfuratio.

Pityroides, a Settling in the Urine like Bran.

Pitys, is Pinus. See Pinus.

Pityuſa, is Eſula.

Pix,

Pix, is Pitch.

Pix Græca, is Colophonia.

Placenta Uterina, ſeu Hepar Uterinum, a red Subſtance like the Liver, full of Glandulous Kernels. It has an Artery and a Vein from the Navel-ſtring, and perhaps Lymphatick Veſſels from the Neighbouring Parts; it outwardly ſticks to the Womb, to either ſide indifferently; yet more commonly to the middle: Within it is cover'd with the Chorium. It has its nouriſhing moiſture from the Poroſities of the Womb (as it happens with the Papillæ of the Guts which drink in the Chyle, and communicate it to the Milky Veſſels) which, thro' the Navel-vein, feeds the Young; the ſuperfluous part whereof thro' the Arteries lodge in the Amnion, that the Young may be nouriſh'd by its Mouth. The Placenta, together with the Membranes, is expell'd after the Birth, and are call'd Secundinæ, Secundines.

Pladaroſis, little ſoft Tumors which grow under the Eyelids.

Plados, every ſuperfluous Humidity that renders any Part languid and flabby.

Plaga, in the largeſt ſenſe is taken for any Diſeaſe; and more ſtrictly for ſome external Diſeaſe.

Plagula; ſee Splenia.

Planetica Arthritis, the ſame with Arthritis Vaga.

Planta, a Plant; whether a Tree, Herb, or Shrub.

Planta Noctis, vid. Sudamina & Hydroa.

Planta pedis, the Sole of the Foot.

Plantago, Plantain; 'tis a vulnerary Herb, 'tis us'd in Fluxes of the Belly, for ſpitting of Blood, running of the Reins, involuntary Urine, and for immoderate Fluxes of the Courſes; 'tis outwardly us'd to cleanſe and heal Wounds and Ulcers; the Juice by it ſelf, or mix'd with the Juice of Limons, is an excellent Diuretick; half a Dram of the Seeds taken in Broth, or in an Egg, is good to prevent Miſcarriage; ſee Arnogloſſum.

Plantaris Muſculus, covers all the Sole of the Foot, its Office is to extend backward.

Plaſtica Virtus, that which has a Power or Vertue to form or faſhion any thing. 'Tis an old Saying, and a ſure Refuge of Ignorance, for what the Ancients could not explain, they call'd a plaſtick Vertue, an attenuating, expelling Vertue, &c.

Plantanaria, red Graſs.

Platanus, the Plane-tree; the tender Leaves, boil'd in Vinegar, has been formerly us'd for pains of the Teeth; but now-a-days, neither the Leaves nor the Bark are us'd in Phyſick.

Platys, vel Latus, broad.

Platyſternos, one that hath a broad Breaſt or Cheſt.

Platyſma, a broad Linen-cloth put upon Sores.

Platyſma Myodes, vid. Myodes.

Plectrum, the oblong and acute Appendix of the Os Petroſum, called Belenoides, and Graphoides.

Plenitudo, when a Man has too much Blood; the ſame with Plethora. See Plethora.

Pleonaſmus, an Exceſs in Diviſion or Number of Species and Differences.

Pleres Archonticum, a Cephalick Powder.

Plerotica, Medicines that breed Fleſh, and fill up Wounds. Incarnatives; ſee Sarcotica.

Plethora, when there is more good Blood than is requiſite. It happens either to the Veſſels, when they are ſtretch'd out and cannot hold all; or to the Strength, for ſometimes (tho' the Veſſels be not over-full) the Strength is over-loaded.

Plethoricus, a Man troubled with a Plethora.

Pleura, ſive Membrana Subcoſtalis, a Membrane that encloſes the Breaſt and its Entrails.

Pleuritis, a Pleuriſy, an Inflamation of the Membrane Pleura and the intercoſtal Muſcles, attended with a continual Fever and Stitches in the Side, difficulty of Breathing, and ſometimes ſpitting of Blood; and it is either a true Pleuriſy, this which we have deſcrib'd, or a baſtard Pleuriſy.

Pleuritis Notha, ſeu Spuria; a baſtard Pleuriſy, that differs in ſome things from the other.

Pleuropneumonia, a Compoſition of a Pleuriſy and a Peripneumonia, and happens to thoſe whoſe Lungs, being affected, adhere to the Ribs.

Pleurorthropnœa, a Diſeaſe of the Side, wherein the Sick cannot breath unleſs he ſits upright.

Plexus Choroides, ſeems to hang over the Pineal Glandule, as it were over a Button. 'Tis an admirable Contexture of ſmall Arteries in the Brain like a Net.

Plexus Gangriformis, is when divers Nerves meet together, as it were in one Knot.

Plexus Nervoſus, when two or three Nerves meet together, and jut out.

Plexus Reticularis, vid. Choroides.

Plica, an epidemical Diſeaſe in Poland, when their Hairs grow together like a Cow's Tail. Beſides, they are crook-back'd, have looſe Joints; it wrenches their Limbs, and looſens them, breeds Lice, with other Symptoms. I keep ſuch a twiſted Lock of Hairs by me for a Rarety, being preſented to me by Mr. Ruiſch.

Plumaceola, vid. Splenia.

Plumbago, the ſame with Molybdæna.

Plumbago, is Perſicaria.

Pneumatocele, a windy Rupture, when the Skin of the Cods is diſtended with Wind.

Pneumatodes, a ſhort Breathing.

Pneuma, Spiritus, Breath, Life; it denotes a certain, very ſubtile, thin Vapour, eſſentially neceſſary to the Conſtitution or Make of our Body. 'Tis either Univerſal or Particular. Univerſally it relates to the Subſiſtence of every thing in the World, Animal, Vegetable, and Mineral; but more particularly to every created Being that hath the Breath of Life.

Pneumatocele, a windy Rupture, or a Hernia of the Scrotum or Navel, occaſion'd by Wind.

Pneumatoſis, the Generation of Animal Spirits, which is performed in the barky ſubſtance of the Brain. The little Arteries there are empty'd, and the Spirits diſtil, which after they are come as far as the middle of the Brain, they actuate and invigorate all the Nerves.

Pneumatomphalus, a ſwelling in the Navel, got by Wind.

Pneumon, the Lungs; ſee Pulmones.

Pneumonanthe, is Campanula (Bell-flower) Autumnalis.

Pneumonica, things that help and facilitate Breathing.

Pnigalium, vid. Epialtes.

Pnigmus, Strangling or Choaking.

Podagra, vid. Arthritis; the Gout in the Feet.

Podagra Dentium, is Odontalgia.

Podagra Lini, is Cuſcuta.

Podex, the ſame with Anus.

Pœnia, Peony.

Polemonium, wild Sage.

Polium, Pole; it provokes Urine and the Courſes; 'tis good in the Dropſy, and the biting of venomous Creatures; 'tis an Ingredient in Treacle and Mithridate: Sylvius commends it much for the Falling-ſickneſs, becauſe it abounds with Volatile Salt.

Pollex; ſee Digitus.

Pollutio Nocturna, an involuntary Pollution in the Night, or an involuntary emition of the Seed with Titillation, proceeding from laſcivious Dreams.

Polyacanthus, a ſort of Carduus.

Polyanthemum, a Plant with many Flowers.

Polycreſton, a Medicine fit for many Diſeaſes.

Polychronicus, a Diſeaſe that holds a Man many Years or Months.

Polygalactos, thoſe Women that abound with Milk.

Polygala, Milk-wort; an handful of it infus'd in Wine all Night, purges Choler by Stool very much.

Polygalum, the ſame with Polygala.

Polygonatum, Solomon's-ſeal; 'tis aſtringent and vulnerary; it ſtops all Fluxes, it cements broken Bones; the Root boil'd in Whitewine, and drank, is excellent for Contuſions and Ruptures; us'd outwardly it takes off Spots, and whitens the Skin. Fourteen or Fifteen of the Berries purge Flegm upwards and downwards. For the Whites, take candy'd Roots of Solomon's-ſeal, and 'tis an excellent Remedy; 'tis alſo counted good for the Falling-ſickneſs.

Polygonum, ſeu Centum Nodia, ſeu Proſerpinaca, Seminalis, Sanguinalis & Corrigiola, Knot-graſs; it is vulnerary, drying, and aſtringent, and is chiefly us'd for ſtopping of Fluxes; outwardly it is us'd for Wounds and Ulcers, and for Inflamations of the Eyes. A Perſon that vomited Blood, and had us'd other Medicines in vain, was much reliev'd by the Juice of this Herb in a little Styptick Wine.

Polygophora, Drinks or Wines full of excellent Spirits.

Polymorphum Os, the ſame with Os Sphenoides and Cuboides.

Polyneuron, is Arnogloſſum.

Polyphagia, the taking of much Aliment.

Polypharmacon, the ſame with Polycreſton.

Polypodes, Aſelli & Millepedes, Sows, Hog-lice.

Polypodium, Polypody; the Root is reckon'd among purging Medicines, but it purges very gently; 'tis very proper in Obſtructions of the Meſentery, Liver and Spleen, for the Scurvy, and Hypochondriack Diſeaſes; 'tis generally us'd in Decoctions, with other purging Medicines.

Polypus, a ſwelling in the hollow of the Noſtrils; and 'tis twofold, either like a Tent, and goes by the general Name of Sarcoma; or ſuch a one as hath a great many diſtinct Branches or Feet, which extend either to the outſide of the Noſe, or the inſide of the Mouth. Their Colour is white, oftentimes reddiſh, and ſometimes black and livid. Excreſcences of this Nature happen not only in the Noſtrils, but ſometimes in the Heart, and Cavities of the thicker Membrane of the Brain.

Polyſarcia, Corpulency.

Polyſpaſton, a Machine for reducing of Joints.

Polyſpermos, abounding with Seed.

Polytrichum, is Capillus Veneris, Maiden-hair; there is alſo a Gold-colour'd Moſs call'd Polytrichum.

Polytrophia, is much Nouriſhment.

Pomambra, a Musk-ball, conſiſting of divers ſweet-ſcented Ingredients, ſuch as Ambergreaſe, Musk, Civet, Benzoin, Oil of Cloves, and Cinnamon, made up into Balls with ſome glutinous or reſinous Matter.

Pomatum, an Ointment made of Apples, it has a pleaſant ſmell.

Pompholyx, a fine ſubtil Matter, which ſticks to the upper part of the Furnace whilſt they are making Braſs. White Tutty.

Pompholigodes, Urine with many Bubbles upon it, which is frequent if the Body be puff'd up or pain'd.

Pomum & Pomus, is a more general Word than Malum, becauſe it ſignifies all ſorts of Fruit with a ſoft Rind.

Pomum Adami, a Protuberance in the foreſide of the Throat; ſo call'd becauſe it is commonly thought a piece of the Apple ſtuck in his Throat, as part of his Puniſhment, and hence deriv'd to his Poſterity.

Pomum Adami, a ſort of Orange.

Pomum, an Apple.

Pomum Amoris, and Pomum Aureum, ſeu Maleum Aureum; ſo call'd from its fair and lovely Aſpect.

Pomum Odoriferum, the ſame with Pomambra.

Pondo, a Pound Weight. John Rhodius writes, That of all the Roman Weights and Meaſures a Pound was the chief, and Standard of the reſt.

Pons Varolii, certain globous Proceſſes of the Cerebellum, call'd ſo by reaſon Varolius firſt found them.

Ponticum Abſynthium, Roman Wormwood, 'tis very good for a Dropſy. Matthiolus ſays, he has known ſome that have been given over in a Dropſy recover'd by the uſe of this Herb.

Poples, the Articulation whereby the Thigh is join'd to the Tibia.

Poplitæus Muſculus, one of thoſe whereby the Tibia is mov'd.

Poplitæa Vena, a Vein that conſiſts of a double crural Branch, which, being cover'd with Skin, reaches down the back of the Leg, even to the Heel.

Populago, is Tuſſilago.

Populeum, the Name of an Oint

Ointment made of Poplar Buds, with many other Ingredients.

Popularis Morbus, the ſame as Epidimius.

Populus, or Farfarus, the Poplar-tree, or Aſp-tree; the Bark of Poplar, eſpecially of the white Poplar, is us'd inwardly and outwardly for the Hip-gout, for the Strangury and Burns. Women uſe the Buds of black Poplar to beautify and thicken their Hair; the Ointment is good for hot Swellings, to eaſe the pain of them; and being apply'd to the Noſtrils and Temples, it diſpoſes to ſleep.

Porcello, Millepedes.

Pori, Pores, little unperceptible Holes in the Skin, through which Sweat and other vaporous Effluviums perſpire out of the Body.

Porocele, a Rupture, proceeding from callous Matter, or the Stone.

Poromphalus, a brawny piece of Fleſh, or a Stone protuberant in the Navel.

Poroſis, the breeding of callous Matter.

Porotica, Medicines which by drying, thickning, and aſtringent Qualities, turn part of the Nouriſhment into brawny callous Matter.

Porphyrites, a Porphyry-ſtone, us'd to grind upon.

Porracea Bilis; ſee Bilis.

Porrigo, vid. Furfuratio.

Porrum, a Leek; the beſt ſort is that which grows in marſhy Places, and is ſmall; they provoke Urine and the Courſes, and cleanſe the Lungs and the Stomach, cure a Cough, ſhortneſs of Breath, and an Aſthma, clear the Voice, and make Women fruitful; but being eaten raw, they are windy, offend the Head, cauſe frightful Dreams, offend the Stomach, are injurious to ſuch as have Ulcers in the Reins and Bladder, and alſo corrupt the Gums.

Porrus, vulgo Oculus Gallinæ, a ſort of Wart.

Porus Bilarius, or Hepaticus, a Channel which tranſmits the Bile from the Liver, by the common Ductus or Paſſage, into the Gut Duodenum, which Bile is ſegregated in the Liver by the intervention of ſome ſmall Glandules.

Portæ Vena, vid. Vena.

Portulaca, Portella, Porticula, Purſlain; 'tis cold and moiſt, provokes Appetite, cures heat of Urine, and the running of the Reins; the Juice mix'd with Oil of Roſes, cures Burns and Inflamations. 'Tis eaten with good ſucceſs by ſuch as are troubled with the Bloody-flux, and immoderate Flux of the Courſes, and is an excellent Remedy for the heat of the Stomach; it cures a Cough and ſhortneſs of Breath, but being eaten too often, it weakens the Stomach, offends the Sight, and takes away the Appetite; 'tis therefore beſt to eat it with hot Herbs, as Onions, Rocket, Tarragon, and the like; but young and ſanguine Men may eat it alone. The Garden Purſlain is the beſt.

Poſcha, vid. Oxycratum.

Poſſetum, Poſſet-drink.

Poſtbrachiale, vid. Metacarpus.

Potamogeiton, Pond-weed.

Potentilla, is Argentina. See Anſerina.

Poterium, a ſort of Carduus.

Potio, vide Hauſtus, a Draught or Potion.

Præcipitantia, are call'd thoſe Medicines which check the Acids in our Bodies, and as it were precipitate 'em; the word is borrow'd from the Chymiſts, who by Precipitation alter the Qualities of Things. See Abſorbentia.

Præcipitatio, a certain Subſiding and Reviviſcence of very ſmall Particles, diſſolv'd in a convenient Liquor by the infuſion of another Liquor. Thus Corals, Pearls, Crabs-eyes, Quickſilver, &c. being diſſolv'd in ſome ſtrong Liquid Menſtruum or Aquafortis, if you add to the Solution ſome alcalious Salt, thoſe Particles which were inviſible before will immediately fall to the bottom; ſo, if you diſſolve ſome ſulphureous matters, as Amber, Lacca, &c. in Spirit of Wine, ſome fair Water will produce the ſame Effect. A Precipitation.

Præcordia, all the Entrails in the Cheſt or Thorax.

Præfocatio Uterina; ſee Hyſterica paſſio.

Præparantia Med. ſee Digerentia.

Præparantia Vaſa, or rather Teſticularia, the preparing Veſſels, are Veins and Arteries which go to the Teſticles and Epididymides, ſo call'd by the Ancients, thinking that they prepar'd the Seed. The Vein hath ſeveral Branches and Anaſtomoſes; the Artery goes ſtreight on but for two, or at the moſt three, Diviſions or Branches.

Præputium, the Fore-skin; alſo the Prominency of the Clytoris.

Præſepia, the holes of either Jaw, wherein are contain'd the Teeth.

Præſervatoria Indicatio, a way whereby we prevent Diſeaſes.

Præſidium, a Remedy; idem quod Auxilium, Remedium, aut Indicatum.

Præt. Nat. and P. N. ſignifie Preternatural.

Praſſina Bilis; ſee Bilis.

Praſſum, is Porrum.

Praſum, and Praſſium, is Marrubium.

Pregma; ſee Bregma.

Prehenſio, is Catalepſis.

Presbytia, a dimneſs of Sight in things nigh at hand, tho' a Man ſee tolerably well things at a diſtance; 'tis very uſual with old Men.

Priapiſmus, or Tentigo, a continual Erection of the Yard without Luſt; alſo the Yard itſelf.

Priapus, the ſame with Penis, or a Man's Yard.

Primores Dentes, five Anteriores, the fore-Teeth, wherewith we chew our Meat, and which we ſhew in Laughter.

Primula Veris, five Betonica Alba, aut Herba paralyſeos, Primroſe; 'tis hot and dry, and of an aſtringent taſte; 'tis very good for flegmatick Diſeaſes, and for Fluxes of the Belly, as alſo to ſtrengthen the Stomach. A Decoction of the Roots of common Primroſe taken in Poſſet-drink, is a preſent Remedy for Giddineſs. Vinegar impregnated with them, and drawn up the Noſtrils, wonderfully eaſes the Tooth-ach.

Primula veris flore rubo, or Paralyſis minor, Cowſlips; 'tis common in Paſtures, and flowers in April. The Leaves and Flowers are uſed among Pot-herbs, and in Sallads, and are very agreeable to the Head and Nerves; they are are uſed in Apoplexies, Palſies, and Pains in the Joints. The Juice of the Flowers takes off Spots and Wrinkles from the Face and other Vices of the Skin; the Water of the Flowers, the Conſerve, and the Syrup are anodine, gently provoke Sleep, and are very proper Medicines for weak People. The Juice of the Leaves and Flowers mix'd with an equal quantity of a red Cow's Milk, cured an inveterate Head-ach, when other Medicines would do no good.

Principes dies; ſee Critici dies.

Principia; ſee Elementa.

Probole; ſee Apophyſis.

Proboſcis, that long flexible part of the Elephant we call a Trunk, ſeated where the Noſe ſhould be, and uſeful to that Creature as a Hand.

Procatarctica, the pre-exiſtent Cauſe of a Diſeaſe, which co-operates with others that are ſubſequent, whether it be external or internal, as Anger or Heat in the Air, which beget ill Juice in the Blood, and cauſe a Fever.

Procatarxis, the ſame.

Proceſſus; ſee Apophyſis.

Proceſſus Chymici, whole Chymical Operations.

Proceſſus Ciliares, certain muſcular Fringes in the Eye, whereby the Pupil of it is dilated and contracted.

Proceſſus peritonæi, two oblong Pipes or Chanels reaching to the Skin of the Cod thro' the holes of the Tendons of the oblique and tranſverſe Muſcles, in which Productions (or Didymi, as the Ancients call'd 'em) the Seminary Veſſels deſcend, and return toward the Stones; they grow under and cover 'em.

Prochyma, call'd Muſt.

Procidentia Ani, a falling of the Gut Rectum, by reaſon of its too great looſeneſs, thro' the Fundament.

Procidentia Uteri, a relaxing of the inner Tunick of the Vagina of the Womb, which falls thro' the Privities, and was cut off by Phyſicians. Formerly, and even ſtill, ſome think the Womb may fall down, but the Ligaments thereof hinder any ſuch Diſaſter, unleſs it be thro' the careleſneſs of the Midwife, who, inſtead of the After-burthen, may pull down the Womb.

Proclesis, a provocation or invitation of the Senſes to the external Parts.

Procondylos, the firſt Joint of the Fingers next the Hand, as the Condylos is the middle Joint, and the Metacondylos the laſt.

Proctos, the Anus or Podex.

Prodromus, a Diſeaſe that comes before a greater, as the ſtraitneſs of the Breaſt predicts a Conſumption or the Rickets. The Forerunner of a Diſeaſe.

Productio; ſee Apophyſis.

Proegumena, an antecedent internal Cauſe of a Diſeaſe in the Body occaſion'd by another, and ſo cauſing a Diſeaſe which (tho' that be taken away) may ſtill continue; as, a Plethora, or ill Juice in the Blood, produc'd by an ill way of Diet, whence proceeds an Obſtruction of Veſſels and Paſſages, and a Conſtipation of the Entrails.

Profluvium, is taken either in a large or confin'd ſignification, with or without the addition of any affluent matter, as it ſignifies a Diarrhœa, Dyſentery, Hæmorrhage, Gonorrhœa, &c.

Profundus Muſculus, the ſame with Perforans Muſculus.

Prognoſis, & Signa prognoſtica, Signs whereby we know what will become of the Patient.

Projectio, is a Chymical term, ſignifying when a Matter to be calcin'd is gradually (as it were by ſpoonfuls) put into the Crucible.

Projectura; ſee Apophyſis.

Prolabia, the outermoſt prominent parts of the Lips.

Prolapſus Uteri; ſee Procidentia Uteri.

Prolepticus, a Diſeaſe always anticipating, ſo as if the Ague come to day at four of the Clock, then to morrow one hour ſooner, and ſo on.

Pronatores Muſculi, one is round, t'other four-ſquare; both move the Radius.

Propago, is when the Branch of an old Vine is laid in the Ground for the production of a new one.

Prophaſis, a fore-knowledge in Diſeaſes, alſo an Occaſion or antecedent Cauſe.

Prophylactica, a part of that part of Phyſick call'd Hygieina, (or what reſpects the preſervation of Health) which gives notice of future, but imminent, Diſeaſes.

Prophylaxis, the ſame.

Propolis, a certain thick, yellowiſh, reſinous Subſtance adhering to the Honey-comb, but has no reſemblance to Wax.

Propoma, a Drink made of Wine and Honey or Sugar.

Propotiſma, the taking a Doſe.

Proptoſis, the falling down of ſome Part, as of the Eye, the Caul, &c.

Proræ Os; ſee Baſilare Os.

Proſerpinaca, is Polyganum.

Proſpheromena, Meats or Medicines taken inwardly.

Proſphyſis, a coalition or growing together, as when two Fingers are connected to each other.

Proſtatæ, Adſtantes, or Corporæ Glanduloſa, two Glandules under the Seminal Bladders, near the paſſage of the Seed, which (as may be gueſs'd) lubricitate the common paſſage of the Seed and Urine; their moiſture is a Vehicle to the Seminal Matter, and is ſaid to provoke the titillation in Coition. Their Moiſture being convey'd by certain little Tubes which terminate in the paſſage near where the Seed is ejected, is emitted at the ſame time with it. The Learned Bartholine has obſerv'd ſome ſuch thing in Women.

Proſtethis, the fore-ſide of the Breaſt; alſo a fleſhy part in the hollows of the Feet and Hands, and betwixt the Fingers.

Proſthеſis, a part of Chirurgery that fills up what is wanting, as we ſee in hollow and fiſtulous Ulcers, fill'd up with Fleſh by Chirurgery.

Proſthion, pudendum virile, a human Penis.

Protmeſis, by ſome call'd the Navel.

Protogala, the firſt Milk that is drawn after the Birth.

Protogonos, primigenous.

Protopathia, a primary Diſeaſe, not caus'd by another.

Protoplaſtus, the firſt Man.

Protuberantia; ſee Apophyſis.

Provocatorii dies; ſee Critici dies, and Intercalares.

Pruna, the ſame with Anthrax.

Pru-

Prunella, is sometimes taken for Aphthæ, white, black, or red; sometimes for a Quinzay, or the Hungarick Fever.

Prunella five Brunella, Self-heal. 'Tis much of the same Vertue with Bugles; 'tis used outwardly in Wounds, and often in a Quinzay, and other Diseases of the Mouth and Jaws, a Gargarism being made of the Decoction or the distil'd Water of it.

Prunus, the Plum-tree; there are several Kinds of Plums; the sowre bind, the sweet move the Belly. The Electuary of Plums, call'd Electuarium Diaprunum, is cooling and moistening, good in Fevers, and is made of Damascenes. The English Plums, both white and black, are cooling and astringent; they are very good for Fluxes of the Belly; the Flowers are purging; the Gum of 'em dissolv'd in Vinegar cures Tetters. Ropy Wine is cured by putting the Plums into the Vessel, and stirring them well about.

Prurigo; see Scalpurigo.

Pruritus, the Itch, a dry unevenness of the Skin, caus'd by saline fix'd Particles pricking the Skin, and kept in by others more retentive, which cannot exhale. Itching itself seems to participate both of pleasure and pain.

Psammismus, a Bath of dry and warm Sand, wherewith the Feet of those in the Dropsy are dry'd. A Sand-bath.

Psammodea, sandy and gravelly Matter or Sediment in Urine.

Psammos, a Gravel which breedeth in mens Bodies, and is voided in Fits of the Stone.

Pseudodictamnum, false Dittany.

Psilothron, is Bryonia.

Psilothron, seu Depilatorium, a Medicine wherewith Hairs are either taken out of the Body, or thinned, if they be extreamly rough.

Psoas, Muscles of the Loins, which proceed from about the two lowermost Vertebres of the Thorax, and the three uppermost Vertebres of the Loins or Flank; they descend obliquely upon the Rotator minor of the Thigh, and bend the Thigh.

Psora, a wild Scab that makes the Skin scaley. A Scurf.

Psoriasis, a dry itching Scab of the Cods, which is often accompanied with an Exulceration.

Psorica, Medicines against the Scab.

Psorophthalmia, an itching Scab of the Eyes.

Psychagogica, Medicines which recall the Spirits, and put the internal Senses in motion, such as cure the Apoplexy and Syncope.

Psychrolusia, a cold Bath.

Psychroluthron, a Bath of cold Water.

Psychrophobos, one that dreads the use of cold Water.

Psychroposia, cold Drink.

Psyctica, cooling Medicines.

Psydracia, according to Paulus and Alexander, are little Ulcers of the Skin of the Head, like those which use to burn the Skin. Celsus says, they are a hard sort of Pustule, something whitish and acute, out of which is squeez'd a moist matter.

Psydraces, according to others, are little Pustules and Pimples, which break out upon the Skin like Bubbles, by reason of the Winter-cold.

Pſylium, Flea-bane.

Pſylothrum; ſee Pſilothron.

Ptarmica, or Sternutatoria, thoſe things which, being endow'd with a more piercing Acrimony than the Errhinaceous Medicines, do ſo extreamly irritate and ſhrivel up the Membranes of the Brain, that it ſends forth the pituitous Humour at the Noſtrils in an extraordinary meaſure.

Ptarmica, Sneezewort; it taſtes hot and acrid; the Powder of it provokes ſneezing; the Root chew'd, eaſes the pain of the Teeth, by evacuating Phlegm; the Herb is mix'd with Sallads to correct cold Herbs.

Pteris, the ſame as Filix.

Pterna; ſee Calx.

Pterygium, the Wing or round Riſing of the Noſe or Eye, or the Proceſs of the Bone Sphenoides, which is very like a Wing; alſo a membranous Excreſcence above the horny Tunic of the Eye, called Unguis and Ungula, growing for the moſt part from the inner corner towards the Apple of the Eye, and often obſcuring it; alſo the Nymphæ of a Woman's ſecret parts.

Pterygoides, the Proceſſes and Muſcles of the Wedg-like Bone.

Pteryſtaphylini, Muſcles of the piece of Fleſh in the Roof of the Mouth, call'd Gargareon, which proceed from the Wing-like Proceſſes, and are terminated in the ſides of the Uvula or Gargareon.

Ptiloſis, when the Brims of the Eyelids being grown thick, the Hairs of the Eyebrows fall off.

Ptiſana, Ptiſan, a Decoction of Barley husk'd, Liquorice, and Raiſins.

Ptyaliſmus, a too great ſpitting.

Ptyalon, Spittle, or that Matter which is brought up from the Lungs by coughing; for Saliva (which we Engliſh Spittle) properly ſignifies the moiſture which is excern'd by the Ductus Salivales. See Saliva.

Ptiſma; ſee Ptyalon.

Ptiſmagoge, an evacuation by Spitting, or ſuch Medicines as procure a Salivation.

Pubes, the Hair on the privy Parts, being tokens of the Age of Puberty, in Males about fourteen Years, and in Women about twelve.

Pubis Os, or Pectinis Os, the Share-bone.

Pudendagra, the ſame with Lues Venerea.

Puerpera, a Woman in Childbed.

Pugillus, a handful of any Herbs. Others interpret it, as much as may be taken up with three Fingers. A Pugil or ſmall handful.

Pulegium, Peony-royal; it is uſed to provoke the Courſes, and to help Delivery; 'tis good for Coughs, for the Gripes, the Stone, Jaundice, and Dropſy. A ſpoonful of the Juice given to Children, is an excellent Remedy for the Chin-cough, and for a Hoarſneſs, taking ſix ounces of the Decoction of it ſweetned at bedtime. The freſh Herb wrapt in a Cloth, and laid in a Bed, driveth away Fleas, but it muſt be renew'd once a week.

Pulicaria, and Pulicaris, the ſame as Pſyllium.

Pulmones, the Lungs, are Organs of Reſpiration. The famous Malpighius makes the Subſtance of the Lungs (excepting the Nerves, a few Veſſels, and the

Bran-

Branches of the Windpipe) to be nothing but a heap of little Bladders, the contexture whereof is so order'd that there is a passage into them from the Windpipe, and into one-another, till they all open into the Membrane which cloaths the Lungs. The Use of the Lungs is to breathe withal, and to mix and accend the Blood with the Nitre they suck in.

Pulmonaria, the same with Peripneumonia.

Pulmonaria, a Plant that cures Diseases of the Lungs.

Pulpa, the fleshy part of Fruit, Roots, or other Bodies, which is extracted by infusion or boiling, and passing thro' a Sieve, as the Pulp of Tamarinds, Cassia, Althæa, Dates, &c. or by beating 'em, as in the Seeds of Cucumbers, Melons, &c.

Pulsatilla, is a vulnerary Herb, the distil'd Water whereof is excellent for cleansing and curing Wounds; the Root of it is much commended by some for a preservative from the Contagion of the Plague, against Poison, and for biting of venomous Creatures. Two drams of it being taken in Wine, is also mix'd with Antidotes. Tragus says, that the Root dry'd provokes Sneezing; and, that it being chew'd in the Mouth raw, evacuates Flegm.

Pulsatio; see Palpitatio.

Pulsatio Cordis; see ——

Pulsus, five Pulsatio Cordis & Arteriarum, the Pulse, is the immediate Index of the Heart, by the mediation whereof the Blood is diffus'd thro' the whole Body, and is differently affected thereby, according to the different influx of the Animal Spirits, the motion whereof is chiefly to be attributed to the circular and direct Fibres. Others affirm it to be the dilatation and contraction of the Heart and Blood. A Pulse is either natural or preternatural; of the former we have spoke already, the latter is such as is different, according to the different circumstances of the Fibres and animal Spirits, to wit, strong, weak, swift, slow, equal, unequal, intermittent, &c.

Pulverisatio, a bringing a thing to a powder by beating it.

Pulvilli, the same with Splenia.

Pulvis; see Species.

Pulvis Radicum ari Compositus, 'tis reckon'd an excellent powder for the Scurvy; 'tis said to be good to provoke the Courses, and to expel Malignity.

Pulvis è Chelis Cancrorum Compositus, Compound powder of Crabs-claws; 'tis good to expel Malignity, and to revive the Spirits; 'tis commonly call'd Gascoign's powder.

Pulvis Cardiacus Magistralis, the Cordial Magisterial powder; 'tis good for malignant and pestilential Diseases, stops Fluxes, is cordial, cures Melancholy, and revives the Spirits.

Pulvis Haly, it is good for heat of Urine, a Pleurisie, Ulcers of the Lungs, and is excellent for Coughs and Catarrhs.

Pulvis Thuraloes, 'tis good to be used in Wounds to stop Blood.

Pulvis Sennæ Compositus major, Compound powder of Senna; it is a gentle Purge, and expels Wind.

Pulvis Comitis Varvicensis, the Earl of Warwick's powder: It purges watery Humours, and is good good for Rheumatisms, Dropsies, and the Pox.

Pumex, the Pumice-stone.

Punctum Aureum, a Term us'd by Chirurgeons in the cure of a Burstenes, when they keep close with a gold Thread the Paunch-flesh they are about to divide and sever.

Punctum Lachrymale; see Lachrymale punctum, and Colliciæ.

Punctus Saliens, in the growth of an Egg you see a little Speck (or Cloud as it were) in the innermost Tunick of it, call'd Ammos, which growing gradually thicker, acquires a kind of slimy matter, in the middle whereof you see first this Punctum Saliens, (a little Speck that seems to leap) afterward the rude Body of an Embryo, just like a shapeless kind of Maggot, which tends every day more and more to perfection.

Punctura Nervorum, a pricking of the Nerves, Tendons or Membranes with some sharp and pointed thing, which often produces mortal Symptoms.

Punicum Malum, is Malum Granatum.

Pupilla, or Pupula, the opening of the Tunick of the Eye, call'd Uvea or Choroides; 'tis round in a Man, and is wont to be contracted or dilated like a Muscle, according to the different influx of the Animal Spirits.

Puppis Os, the same with Os Frontis.

Pupula; see Pupilla.

Purgantes Aquæ, purging Waters. There are many purging Waters in England, but the most celebrated are Barnet, North-hall, Acton, Cobham, Dulwich, Ebesham, and Stretham. The Mineral Waters near Ebesham in Surrey were the first purging Waters that were found out; they were discover'd by a Countryman about the Year 1620. For the first ten Years they were only us'd outwardly, by the Neighbouring Country-people, to wash Sores: Afterwards the Lord North drank them, and soon after the Queen-mother, and others of great Quality. As to the Vertue of the Waters, they encrease Appetite, promote Digestion, and are very agreeable to the Stomach. They take off Heart-burning, prevent Vomiting, and cure Pains of the Stomach; they are also good for hot Hypochondriack Diseases, for the Cholick, Worms, Gravel, and Nephritick Pains. The Waters are also good for a Heat or Suppression of Urine, and for Diseases of the Head, as Headach, Giddiness, and the like; for Hysterick Diseases and the wandring Gout, and also for the Itch, open Obstructions of the Liver, Spleen, Meseraick Veins, Pancreas, the Passages of the Choler, Urine, and Womb. Dulwich Waters are of the same Vertue with these, only they are thought to purge more strongly; and the Waters are said to cure Barrenes, for they are furnish'd with such apt Qualifications for Fruitfulnes, that they seem design'd by Nature as an universal Remedy against Barrenness, by vertue of diverse Mineral Impregnations, wherewith Nature, by its powerful Ferments, hath endu'd it. This Water, outwardly us'd, is very good for moist Diseases of the Skin; as Leprosy, Itch, Scabs,

Pim-

Pimples, Ring-worms, and the like; it also dissolves Tumors, and cures old Ulcers, if the Parties affected be wash'd or bath'd therewith, or if the Curd made by boiling Milk therewith be apply'd. This Water extinguishes all manner of inward Inflamations, it sweetens sharp Humours, is good for salt Distillations, it helps scalding Urine, the running of the Reins, whether simple or virulent, and for other Diseases which have Analogy with these. The time for drinking these Waters is to be understood either in reference to the Season of the Year, or to the time of the Day; as to the time of the Year, the Summer Months are undoubtedly most proper, though they may be drank Summer or Winter, Spring or Fall, as there is occasion; but in general, the cleareſt Weather ought to be chosen; the fitteſt time in the Day, especially in Summer, to drink these Waters, is any time betwixt Sun-rising, and till it be an Hour high, or thereabouts; and so you will be sure to receive it in its full Strength, but to take it oftner than once a Day is injurious to Nature, and prejudicial to most Constitutions; as to the drinking of it cold or warm, the Patient may take it either way, according to his own Mind. As to the Quantity of the Water to be taken at one time, is a thing that cannot possibly be justly appointed, in regard of several differences of Age, Sex, Strength, and other manifold Circumstances; some may not drink above a Quart, and others may safely drink two or three Quarts; but in general, 'tis best to proceed daily by degrees, encreasing the quantity, till you come to that Dose as you think, or you shall be advis'd, is convenient for you; take care you do not over-charge the Stomach, by taking the Water too hastily; after every draught or two of Water, it may be convenient to take a few Caraway-comfits, Angelica candied, and the like; but above all, Temperance in respect of Diet is to be observ'd, all the time of drinking the Waters. As for the quality of Meat, let such be us'd as may not hinder the Effects of the Water; such as be of good Nourishment, of easy Digestion, and may pass freely through the Vessels which serve for its distribution; good succulent Beef, Mutton, Lamb, Veal, Chickens, Pullets, Partridges, Pheasants, young Rabbets, and the like, are to be us'd; as for Drinks, Beer or Ale that is not stale, nor too small, may be us'd; and such as are accustom'd to Wines may drink White-wine or Rhenish-wine. But you are to take notice, that Ebesham, Dulwich, and suchlike Waters, are not to be us'd in some Cases; for instance, they are injurious to all Hydropical People, whose native Heat is languid; nor are they proper for Fevers or Agues, for such as spit Blood, and for the Cholera Morbus; nor for the Palsy, if it proceed from a Defect of natural Heat and Vigour; but if it proceed from a hot Cause, as from drinking Wine, or other spirituous Liquors, the Waters may be safely and successfully us'd: Women with Child ought not to drink drink these Waters without great Caution, nor such as are afflicted with a suppression of Urine.

Purgantia, purging Medicines, are those which by reason of a peculiar disposition of their parts, irritate the fleshy Fibres of the Ventricle, which become swoln, and consequently contracted at the right end, so that the whole substance of the Stomach is drawn up together, and inclin'd towards the Pylorus, whence follows an Excretion downwards.

Purgatio, seu Catharsis, & Caprophoria, purging; an Excretory Motion, quick and frequent, proceeding from a quick and orderly contraction of the Carnous Fibres of the Stomach and Intestines, whereby the Chyle and Excrements, and corrupted Humours, either bred or sent there from other parts, are protruded from part to part, till they be quite excluded the Body.

Purpurea Febris, the purple Fever.

Pus; see Pyon.

Pusca, the same with Posca.

Pustulæ, Pimples, are Recrements of ill Blood that shoot forth in the Skin, and for want of Perspiration, or too viscous a Matter, stick there and cause an unequal Surface.

Putrefactio Chymica, the Dissolution of a concrete Body by natural Rottenness, in a moist Heat which corrupts the very substance of it, and penetrates the most intimate parts.

Putrido Febris; see Synochus.

Pycnosis; see Pycnotica.

Pycnotica; see Incrassantia.

Pyelos; see Choana.

Pylorus, or Janitor, the right Orifice of the Ventricle which sends the Meat out of the Stomach.

Pyon, or Pus, putrified Blood concocted into white Matter.

Pyosis, a Collection of Pus in any part of the Body.

Pyracantha, is Oxycantha.

Pyramidales Musculi, are plac'd in the Abdomen, and lie upon the lowest Tendons of the right Muscles. They are not parts of the right Muscles, as Vesalius and Columbus are of opinion, but distinct, as Fallopius proves, tho' with some pertinent and some impertinent Arguments. The peculiar Membrane wherewith they are cloath'd, as also the Order of their Fibres, shew them to be different from the right ones. They proceed from the external Os pubis, and the higher they climb the narrower they grow, ending about the Navel in the white Seam. Sometimes they are wanting, or the left is less than the right, or the right than the left.

Pyramidalia Corpora, Vessels that prepare the Seed, of which in their proper places; likewise Muscles of the Nostrils and of the Abdomen, call'd Pyramidales, of a pyramidical figure; also two Strings of Marrow about the Basis of the oblongated Marrow.

Pyramis; see Conus.

Pyrenoides Processus, the Tooth of the second Vertebre, call'd Dentiformis.

Pyrænus, is Alcohol Vini.

Pyrethrum, sive Salivalis, Pellitory of Spain.

Pyretica, Medicines that cure Fevers; the same with Antipyretica & Febrifuga.

Py-

Pyretologia, a Deſcription of Fevers; of which Dr. Willis has wrote moſt accurately.

Pyriformis Muſculus; ſee Quadrigeminus.

Pyrimachus, is Antimony boil'd, and concreted into the hardneſs of a Stone.

Pyriphleges, a Feveriſh Perſon that burns like Fire.

Pyrites, a ſort of Fire-ſtone ſo call'd, that abounds with Sulphureous Particles; it is often found in digging for Coals, and whereever there are Mineral Springs, ſuch as we call Chalybeate.

Pyrius, Gunpowder; which is prepar'd from Nitre, Sulphur, and Charcoal.

Pyrola, Limonium, Tintinnabulum, Terræ, Winter-green; 'tis an excellent vulnerary Herb, either taken inwardly, or outwardly apply'd.

Pyros; ſee Triticum.

Pyroſis, a burning redneſs of the Face.

Pyrotechnia, the ſame as Chymia.

Pyrotica, or Urentia, Medicines vertually hot, which, being apply'd to Humane Bodies, grow extreamly hot, becauſe that having Particles and Pores ſo order'd that Vapours and Humours inſinuating into them the ſubtile Matter finds ſuch Paſſages, that it being mov'd extreamly or violently, forces certain earthy, hard, and acute Particles, which float in the Paſſages upon the neighbouring parts with great impetuoſity, and ſo excites a Heat, which corrupts or changes differently, according to the diverſity of its Motion and the Particles which are mov'd. Such are things that cauſe redneſs, that bliſter, that ripen or rot, that cloſe up and bring Wounds to a Cruſt, and that pull Hairs out of the Body.

Pyrum and Pyrus, the Pear-tree. Pears are agreeable to the Stomach, and quench Thirſt; but they are beſt bak'd and dry'd. They ſtop Fluxes of the Belly.

Pyulcon, an Inſtrument wherewith Pus or corrupted Matter is evacuated.

Pyxacantha, Box-thorn.

Pyxis, an Apothecary's or Chirurgeon's Box; the Cavity of the Hip-bone, which is call'd Acetabulum.

Pyxidis Os; ſee Baſilare Os.

Q

Q. PL. ſignifies, as much as you pleaſe.

Q. V. as much as you will.

Q. S. as much as is ſufficient.

Quadrans, Phyſicians reckon a Weight of three Ounces, that is, the fourth part of a Roman Pound.

Quadratus Muſculus, bends the Loins. There is another Quadratus that moves the Chin obliquely downwards. See Quadrigeminus Muſculus, & Pronator.

Quadrigeminus Muſculus, one of thoſe that move the Thigh, whereof Quadrans is another, there being four in all.

Quadrilatera, the Bones are ſo call'd which bear a ſquare figure, tho' they do not conſiſt of equal parts.

Quadrupeds, Fourfooted Beaſts.

Quæ ex quibus, a Phraſe of Hippocrates, which indicates the viciſſitude, ſucceſſion, and change of Diſeaſes, which Knowledge is neceſſary to a Phyſician; there are four kinds of this, Epigeneſis, Metaptoſis, Metaſtaſis, and Apoſtaſis.

Qualitas, a Diſpoſition or Contexture of little Particles, whence our Bodies may be any way denominated of ſuch a Quality. Quality is manifeſt, hidden, poiſonous, contagious, peſtilent, &c.

Quartana Febris intermittens, a Quartan Ague, which the Ancients call'd Saturn's Daughter. 'Tis at this Day a Scandal to Phyſicians, becauſe 'tis ſo hard to be cur'd by thoſe who follow the old way. 'Tis a preternatural Efferveſcence of the Blood, which ſeizes a Man every fourth Day, and then leaves him. 'Tis caus'd by an acid auſtere Blood and nutricious Juice, hinder'd in its Aſſimilation.

Quartarium, the ſame with Quadrans.

Quartio, Talus, or Aſtragalus; ſee in its proper place.

Quercera, the ſame with Phricodes, & Epiala.

Querquera, is the Name of a Fever which is call'd Horrifica, from the Horror, Trembling, and Noiſe; ſee Phritodes.

Querula; ſee Chamedrys.

Quercus, the Oak-Tree; the whole Oak is aſtringent, but eſpecially the Bark; a Decoction of it is given for the Bloody-flux, and for ſpitting of Blood. The Acorns are diuretick. The Water diſtill'd from the Leaves of a young Oak cures the Whites. Thoſe that cut for the Stone uſe a Bath made of the Bark to heal the Wound. Galls grow on Oaks, but not in England.

Quid pro Quo, alias Succedaneum, dicitur & Antiballomenon; when a Medicine of one Nature and Quality is ſubſtituted for another, which is not to be done without the Conſent of Phyſicians.

Quincunx, half a Decuſſis, or the ſeventh part of an Ounce. Alſo five Trees ſo order'd and ſet together, that a regular Angularity and thorow Proſpect is left on every ſide.

Quinque Nervia; ſee Pentapleuron.

Quinta Eſſentia; ſee Eſſentia Quinta.

Quotidiana Febris intermittens, an intermitting Quotidian Ague, is that which returns every Day; and proceeds from crude Blood and an ill Aſſimilation of Chyle.

R

R Take, which alſo repreſents Jupiter's Arms, as if Phyſicians would firſt of all invoke the Deity. 'Tis mark'd thus ℞ at the beginning of a Preſcription.

Rabdoides, the ſame with Sutura Sagittalis.

Rabiel, Dragon's Blood.

Rabies Hydrophobica; ſee Hydrophobia.

Raira Stannum, Tin-Oar.

Rachitæ, and Rachiæi, Muſcles belonging to the Back.

Rachitis; ſee Rhachitis.

Radicales dies; ſee Critici dies.

Radicula; ſee Raphanus.

Radiæus, a Muſcle of the Carpus. 'Tis external and internal, one bends, and the other extends.

Radius, the leſſer Bone of the Cubit call'd Focile Minus. 'Tis more oblique than the great Bone call'd Ulna, and is diſtant a little from it in the middle, where there occurs occurs a ſmall Ligament. Above, the Ulna receives the Radius, and below, the Radius receives it. The upper part of the Radius is jointed with the outward Proceſs of the Arm, by a Diathroſis (which ſee;) the lower by way of Appendix with the Wriſt-bone, at the middle Finger. Its upper end is ſmall, and the lower thick. 'Tis alſo the greater Bone of the Leg.

Radix, is the Root of a Plant, that part that lies under ground.

Radix; ſee Raphanus.

Radix Cava, a ſort of Ariſtolochia.

Ramentum, the ſame with Strigmentum; a little Filament or Thread from the Coats of the Guts, Bladder, &c.

Ramex; ſee Hernia and Cirſos.

Ramus, the Branches of the greater Veſſels, and of a Plant.

Ranulæ, thoſe Veins that plainly appear under the Tongue.

Ranula, five Rana & Batrachium; ſee Hypogloſſis.

Ranunculus Bulboſus, this is called the Devil's Crow-foot; the Water of the Root, or the Infuſion made in Spirit of Wine, is prais'd in the Plague; but becauſe the Root of it burns violently, I think it ought to be us'd externally. 'Tis of excellent uſe in eating down and drying up hard Tumors. It takes off long Warts.

Ranunculus Repens, is creeping Crowfoot; this ſort is not at all acrid, and therefore may be apply'd to the Body without danger; and ſome eat them in April when they are tender with other Herbs.

Rapa, & Rapum, Turnep; it forces Urine; and being roaſted under the Aſhes and apply'd to the Ears, it cures the Head-ach, and the pain of the Teeth. Turneps are alſo apply'd to Ulcers in the Legs, and to Swellings of the Breaſt, and for ſcrophulous and ſcorbutick Tumors, with good ſucceſs. The Broth of 'em make a good Gargariſm for ſore and ulcerated Mouths. Half a dram of the Seed being us'd at a time, expels Malignity. Take of ſliced Turneps and white Sugar each half a pound, put 'em into an earthen Pot, making a lay of one and a lay of t'other, cover it with Paper, and then bake it in an Oven with Bread; when it is drawn preſs out the Juice, and keep it for uſe: A ſpoonful taken Morning and Evening is good for Coughs, and at the beginning of a Conſumption.

Raphanus, Raddiſh; 'tis oftner us'd in the Kitchen than in Apothecaries Shops, but 'tis good for the Stone, and likewiſe to force Urine.

Raphanus Ruſticus, Horſe-radiſh; it provokes Appetite, but hurts the Head; it expels Gravel, forces Urine, and is commended for Coughs; 'tis likewiſe reckon'd a Specifick in the Scurvy. The compound Water of it is much in uſe.

Raphe; ſee Sutura.

Rapiſtrum, is Rapa ſylveſtris, wild Turnep.

Rapum Terræ; ſee Cyclamen.

Rapunculus, is a diminutive of Rapa.

Rarefacientia, rarefying Remedies, ſuch as by diſſipating a little the Vapours and Humours, make the Pores of Bodies larger.

Raſetta, the ſame with Carpus or Brachiale.

Raſpatorium, or Scalprum Raſorium, a Chirurgeon's Inſtrument to ſcrape or ſhave filthy or ſcaley Bones with.

Raſpatorium, ſeu Radula, is alſo call'd a Raſp, wherewith they raſp Horn, Wood, Roots, &c.

Raſura, actively 'tis taken in Patheology for a gnawing and corroſion of the membranous part of the Stomach, &c. by acrid Humours; and in Pharmacy, for the raſping of Harts-horn or Ivory; in Chyrurgery, when the Bones are raſp'd, or the Hair is ſhav'd off.

Rationis Os, the ſame with that of the fore-part of the Head.

Raucedo, Hoarſneſs.

Raved Seni, Oriental Rhubarb.

Realgar, is taken for the Fume of Minerals of an Arſenical Nature; or 'tis a Preparation of Sulphur, Quicklime, and Auripigmentum. It is us'd to cure Worms and fiſtulous Ulcers in Horſes, and to eat away all ſuperfluous Fleſh.

Receptaculum Chyli, the ſame as Sacculus Chyliferus.

Receptaculum Chymicum, a Receiver, is commonly a large Veſſel, wherein is receiv'd the Vapours and Drops diſtilling from the Alembick; 'tis alſo call'd Recipiens and Excipulum.

Receptum, the ſame with Formula.

Recidivus Morbus, a Relapſe, when the morbifick matter that was left in the firſt Diſtemper begins to work and ferment again.

Recipiens, the ſame as Receptaculum.

Recrementum, as the Recrement of Minerals or Metals, and theſe are call'd the Scoriæ, Cynders from Coals, Glaſs, Iron, &c.

Recrudeſcentia, when a Diſeaſe is about to end, and then invades again.

Recti Muſculi, are reckon'd among the external Muſcles of the Abdomen. There are alſo two pair of right Muſcles of the Head, the greater and the leſſer; both gently draw the Head backward, and to one ſide.

Rectificatio, a repeated Diſtillation of Liquors, to exalt and purifie 'em the more.

Rectum Inteſtinum, the laſt Gut.

Recutitus, or Apella, circumciſed, as the Jews and Mahometans, who have part of the Prepuce or Fore-skin cut away.

Reducia, the ſame with Paronychia.

Reductio, is when a Metal or Mineral, being diſſolv'd by an acid Corroſive, is by means of an Alcali reduc'd to its former ſubſtance.

Reduvia, a certain light Cleft or Chap in the Skin at the roots of the Nails.

Refectiva, the ſame with Analeptica.

Reficientia, the ſame with Analeptica.

Refrigeratorium, a wooden Veſſel full of Water, with a ſtreight or ſpiral Pipe in it of Tin or Lead, which diſtil'd Water is to flow thro' to cool it.

Regimen, relates in Phyſick to the Diet chiefly of Patients. The Chymiſts appropriate it to the degrees of their Fires.

Regina Prati; ſee Ulmaria.

Regiſteres, Regiſtra, & Ventilla, are are certain holes in Chymical Furnaces whereby to govern the degrees of the Fire.

Regius Morbus; see Ictterus.

Regnum, is threefold among Physicians, viz. the Kingdom of the Vegetables, of the Metals, and of Animals or living Creatures.

Regulus, is by the Chymists call'd that part of a Metal which in or after melting settles at the bottom of the Crucible.

Reiteratio, the same with Repetitio, doing a thing over again, as in distilling and subliming several times.

Relaxantia; see Chalastica.

Relaxatio, is a dilatation of the Parts, as of Muscles, Vessels, Membranes, &c. beyond their natural position.

Remedium, signifies both Advice and Medicine, and comprehends under it not only the Nonnaturals, Medicines and Chirurgical Operations, but also Food and Diet. The right use of Medicines is the Life and Essence thereof, and that is discover'd two ways, by Reason and Experience; the first is dangerous and deceitful, the last difficult and hard to come at.

Reminiscentia, Remembrance.

Remissio Febrium, is an intermission or ceasing of the Heat in Fevers; the last takes place in Agues only, but the first in Fevers.

Remora, a Chirurgical Instrument so call'd by Hildanus, used in setting the Thigh-bone.

Remora Aratri, is Ononis.

Remulus; see Costæ.

Renes, the Reins or Kidneys. There are two of 'em in the Abdomen, plac'd under the Liver and Spleen; the right Kidney is lower in a Man than the left; they are chiefly made up of little Chanels or Conduits, which arise from the Glandules that lie about the Extremities of the Arteries, whence they receive the Serum, which passes on to the Caruncula Papillares, (little pieces of pappy Flesh) to the Pelvis or Basin, to the Ureters and Bladder, and so out of doors.

Renes Succenturiati; see Capsulæ Atrabilariæ.

Repellentia, such things as by stopping the heat and afflux of Humours, and by shutting up the Pores with their cold or binding qualities, decrease the swelling of a Part, driving the Humours another way, according to the Notions of the Ancients.

Repercutientia, the same with Repellentia.

Repositio, the Reduction of a dislocated Member.

Residentia, are the Fæces at the bottom of Liquors.

Resina, Rosin, the Tears of Trees or Herbs sticking together, being hardned by Time and the Heat of the Sun.

Res Naturales, five Res Debitæ aut Ordinatæ, Natural Things, and they are three, viz. Health, the Causes of Health, and its Effects. Others reckon seven, as, the Elements, Temperaments, Humours, Spirits, Parts, Faculties, Actions; but Elements and Temperaments belong to natural Philosophy; Humours, Spirits, and Parts are reckon'd amongst the Causes of Health, which consist of a good Temperature and a due Conformation; Faculties and Actions are comprehended under the Effects of Health.

Res non Naturales, Things not Natural are ſix, viz. Air, Meat and Drink, Motion and Reſt, Sleep and Waking, the Affections of the Mind, Things that are let out of, and Things retain'd in the Body. They are ſo call'd, becauſe that if they exceed their due Bounds, they often occaſion Diſeaſes; and thus they ought rather to be call'd Res Neceſſaria, Neceſſary Things. Air is the firſt of the ſix, and good Air is the beſt thing to preſerve Health; we ought therefore to chuſe that which is moſt clear and ſerene, toward the Eaſt, ventilated with wholſom Winds, and free from naſty Exhalations, from Carcaſes and Stinks, and the like. But when any Quality exceeds its contrary, it requires an Air that is exceſſive in the contrary; ſo a hot Air is proper for a Perſon of a cold Conſtitution, and a cold Air for thoſe that are of a hot one; and for diverſity of Ages, diverſity of Air is proper, for with them the Temperament of the Air is chang'd; and therefore with the virile Age, which is moſt temperate and perfect, a temperate Air beſt agrees. To the Air are to be reduc'd Wind, (for Wind is Air) together with Exhalations and Vapours agitated about the Earth; for the Wind is uſeful in moving the Air about, and thereby preſerving it from Putrefaction. The North Wind is cool and dry, the South hot and moiſt; the Eaſt is hot and dry, the Weſt cool and moiſt. The South Wind is the moſt unwholſom, the North is bad, next to that the Weſt; the beſt of all is the Eaſt, eſpecially breezing in a morning, for then 'tis pureſt, becauſe it breezes from a place where the Sun is. Weſt is alſo good, if it blow in the Evening. The ſecond of the Non-naturals is Meat and Drink; of Bread, that which is made of Wheat is beſt; of the Fleſh of Quadrupeds, Veal is beſt; of Fowl, Chickens, Capons, Pigeons, Partridges; of Sea-fiſh, Codd; of River-fiſh, a Perch, a Gudgeon, a Pike; of thoſe things that come from Animals, Eggs and Milk are the beſt; of Fruit, Raiſins and Figs. But thoſe that are ſuppos'd to be the beſt and moſt healthful are not good for all Conſtitutions, every one therefore muſt endeavour to find out what beſt agrees with himſelf; for thoſe that labour much, and have a good Stomach, Beef and Pork are beſt. Such as are cholerick may eat thrice a day moderately, ſuch as are phlegmatick may eat once a day, and thoſe that are melancholy twice a day. 'Tis proper to eat ſo much at a time as will take off Hunger, without burthening the Stomach, but the quantity is according to the Conſtitution, and the quality according to the diverſity of the Temper, Age, Time, and Cuſtom. Drink muſt be order'd to the Conſtitution and Age; for Children and young People, Water or Wine, but Water is beſt; for old Men, Wine. Sleeping and Watching are the third of the Non-naturals; Sleep corroborates, concocts, encreaſes the natural heat, fattens the Body, and heals the Infirmities of the Mind; but long and ſuperfluous Sleep weakens the natural heat, breedeth phlegma-phlegmatick Humours, and is indeed very pernicious. Motion and Reſt are the fourth; ſee Exercitium. Things to be evacuated and retain'd are the fifth of the Non-naturals; they are the Excrements of the Belly, Urine, inſenſible Tranſpiration, the Courſes, and the like; theſe being evacuated in due time, and in due quantity, conduce very much to the preſervation of Health. The laſt of the Non-naturals are Paſſions of the Mind, as Mirth, Sadneſs, Anger, Love, Hatred, Shame, Hope, Deſpair; theſe Paſſions have great power, and do much contribute to the Changes of the Body.

Res præter Naturam, things beſide Nature, as Diſeaſes, their Cauſes, their Symptoms, and their Effects.

Reſolventia, diſſolving Remedies, ſuch as are apt to diſſipate or ſcatter Particles that are driven into the Body, or any part of it, with their own ſpirituous and ſulphureous Particles.

Reſolutio, the ſame with Paralyſis.

Reſpiratio, Breathing, an alternate dilatation and contraction of the Cheſt, whereby the Nitrous Air is taken in by the Windpipe for the accenſion of the Blood, and by and by is drove out again with other vaporous Effluviums. The Cauſe of Reſpiration does not ſeem to conſiſt in the dilatation and contraction of the Thorax, as is commonly thought, but in the contraction of the Tunick which covers the upper part of the Oeſophagus and the Windpipe, as far as its cloſeſt Receſſes.

Reſtauratio, Reſtoration or Renovation of Health after Sickneſs.

Reſtitutio, this hath relation more particularly to a Chirurgical Operation, wherein a Member or Joint, being diſplac'd, is reſtor'd to its former ſituation.

Reſtis Bovis, is Ononis.

Reſumptiva, five Reſtaurantia, things that reſtore Nature. Reſtoratives.

Reſuſcitatio, is a Spagyrical Term, and ſignifies the raiſing of a Body again, as giving new Life and Fermentation to a Body that is flat and vapid, and hath loſt it.

Retentio, the Retentive Faculty, as holding Water its due time.

Rete Mirabile, the wonderful Net in the Brain; 'tis ſo call'd becauſe of its admirable ſtructure. It conſiſts of ſeveral ſmall Arteries, is under the Baſis of the Brain, and comprehends the Pituitary Glandule by the ſides of the Bone Sphenoides. The Uſe of it is, that the Blood may caſt off its ſerous Parts into the Pituitary Glandule, that ſo it may afford finer and purer Spirits. Secondly, leſt the Blood, by ruſhing too ſuddenly upon the Brain, ſhould in ſome meaſure ſuppreſs it. 'Tis not ſo found in a Man and a Horſe, which perform noble things.

Reticularis Plexus, the ſame with Choroides.

Reticulum, the ſame as Omentum & Epiploon.

Retiformis Plexus; ſee Plexus Retiformis.

Retiformis Tunica, a certain expanſion of the inner Subſtance of the Optick Nerve in the Eye, which ſeems to the Eye like a whited Wall in a dark Room; it receives and repreſents the viſible Species that are let in by a hole in a darkned Room.

Retina Tunica; ſee Retiformis and Amphibleſtroides.

Retorta, Cornuta ſive Matracium, a Retort, a Chymical Veſſel made of Glaſs, Stone, or Iron, of a round figure, to the ſide of which there is faſten'd a bent, retorted, and hollow Beak or Noſe, whereby the things that are to be diſtil'd are put in and out.

Reverberatio Chymica, a burning, whereby Bodies are calcin'd by an actual Fire in a Furnace, call'd Reverberium. See Ignis Actualis.

Reverberium, a Chymical Oven or Furnace, wherein Bodies that are to be burnt or diſtil'd are calcin'd. A Reverberatory Furnace.

Revulſio, the ſame with Antiſpaſis.

Revivificatio, or Revivification, is when (for inſtance) Quickſilver being turn'd into Cinnabar, is extracted thence and receiv'd again by the addition of Salt.

Revulſoria V. S. is ſaid to be when the Blood that guſhes upon one Part is diverted a contrary way, by the opening a Vein in a remote and convenient place; a thing not allow'd of in that ſenſe by any of the moſt modern Phyſicians.

Rha, Rheum, Rhaponticum, a purging Root, yellow, and longer than Rhubarb.

Rhubarbarum, Rhubarb; there is two ſorts of it, that which comes from the Levant, or the Eaſtern Rhubarb; and that which is brought out of Muſcovy. The firſt is yellow, and the beſt, the other of a darker colour. It grows in China, purges gently yellow Choler and Phlegm, and is a Specifick for the Liver; it cures the Jaundice, a Looſeneſs, and the Bloody-flux; 'tis reckon'd to purge firſt, and bind afterwards; 'tis commonly order'd to be torrified, but that moſt certainly diminiſhes the Vertue of it. See Rhaponticum.

Rhabdoides Sutura, the ſame as Sagittalis.

Rhachis, the ſame with Spina dorſi.

Rhachiſagra, the Spinal Gout.

Rhachitæ, the Muſcles of the Back.

Rhachitis, the Spinal Marrow, (which ſee in its proper place) alſo a Diſeaſe common amongſt the Engliſh, which is an unequal nouriſhing of Parts, accompanied with a Looſneſs of the ſame, ſoftneſs, weakneſs, faintneſs, drouſineſs, a great ſwelling Head, with Leanneſs below the ſame, and Protuberances about the Joints, crookedneſs of Bones, ſtraitneſs of the Breaſt, ſwelling of the Abdomen, ſtretching of the Hypochondres, a Cough, &c. The Engliſh call it the Rickets; but becauſe the occaſion of it often lies in the Spinal Marrow, the famous Gliſſon calls it properly enough Rhachitis.

Rhacos, and Rhacoſis, Rags.

Rhagades, the Latins ſay Sciſſuræ, Fiſſuræ, Rimæ, Chinks, Clefts, which as they happen in other parts of the Body, Hands, Feet, Lips, the entrance of the Womb, ſo they may alſo happen in the Fundament, in the Extremity of the the Gut Rectum, and in the Sphincter or Muſcle which cloſes the Fundament. Rhagades in the Fundament are certain oblong little Ulcers without a Swelling, like thoſe which are ſometimes occaſion'd in the Hands by great cold. Some are ſuperficial, others deep; ſome are not hard nor callous, others are; ſome are moiſt, and ſend forth Matter, others dry and cancrous.

Rhagoides, the ſame with Uvea Tunica.

Rhamnus Catharticus, Buckthorn; the Berries are a ſtrong Purge, and are not to be given to weakly People; the Syrup of it is moſt in uſe.

Rhanteres, the inward Angles of the Eyes. See Canthus.

Rhape; ſee Sutura.

Rhaphanus, the ſame as Raphanus.

Rhaponticum, Rhapontick; ſee Rhabarbarum.

Rhegma, a breaking or burſting of any Part, as of a Bone; alſo the inner Rhind of the Belly, the Eye, &c.

Rheuma, Rheum, a defluxion of Humours from the Head upon the Parts beneath, as upon the Eyes, Noſe, &c.

Rheumatiſmus, a wandring Pain in the Body, often accompanied with a ſmall Fever, ſwelling Inflamation, &c.

Rhexis, the ſame with Rhegma.

Rhicnoſis, a wrinkling of the Skin from leanneſs of the Body, to which is oppos'd the diſtention of the Skin from fulneſs.

Rhigos, Rigor, a thorow coldneſs of the whole Body, eſpecially the carnous Membranes, with a ſpaſmodick or convulſive ſhaking, the cauſe whereof the Ancients aſſign'd to a glaſſy Phlegm, or a vicious diſpoſition of that part of the Serum we now call Lympha; but the true cauſe conſiſts in the corruption of the nutritious Nervous Juice by ſubtile acid Particles, or at leaſt ſome acid, vitriolick, nitrous Effluvia, vellicating and irritating the Fibres of the Cutis, the Cuticula, and the Carnous Membranes.

Rhinenchytes, a little Syringe to inject Medicines into the Noſtrils.

Rhizotomum Medicamentum, a Medicine that eradicates a Diſeaſe.

Rhodelæon, Oil of Roſes.

Rhodia Radix, Roſewort.

Rhodinum, Roſe-Vinegar, or any thing made of Roſes.

Rhodium Lignum, it ſmells like Roſes; it grows in the Iſland of Rhodes, and the Fortunate Iſlands. 'Tis alſo call'd by ſome Agallochum, and Olea Æthiopica. Roſewood.

Rhododaphne, is Oleander; ſee Nerion.

Rhododendrum, the ſame with Rhododaphne.

Rhodon, or Roſa, a Roſe; there are ſeveral ſorts of Roſes; the red Roſe is aſtringent and bitter, but it comforts the Heart, and ſtrengthens the Stomach, it cures the Whites and an immoderate flux of the Courſes, it ſtops Eruptions of Blood and Fluxes of the Belly. A Decoction of it is us'd for the Head-ach and Pains in the Eyes, Ears, Throat, and Spirits. The following Medicines are made of red Roſes; firſt Vinegar of Roſes, which being mixt with the diſtil'd Water, is good for for Redneſs or Inflamations of the Eyes, and is us'd to bathe the Temples in the Head-ach, and to procure Sleep. Secondly, Aromaticum Roſatum, which is Cordial. Thirdly, Conſerve of Roſes, which is much in uſe for ſtopping Catarrhs, Running of the Reins, and Fluxes of the Belly. Fourthly, Tincture of Roſes, which is us'd for a Rheumatiſm. Fifthly, Honey of Roſes, which is good to waſh the Mouth and Throat when they are ſore, or any other part. Sixthly, Sugar of Roſes, which is good for Coughs. Seventhly, Syrup of dry Roſes, which is much in uſe, and is indeed an excellent Medicine; it comforts the Heart, reſiſts Putrefaction, and ſtops Fluxes of all ſorts. Eighthly, Oil of Roſes. Ninthly, Electuary of Roſes. Tenthly, Ointment of Roſes. Of Damask Roſes are made Syrup of Roſes ſolutive, a diſtil'd Water, Aloes Roſarum, and Honey of Roſes ſolutive.

Rhoes, Erratick Poppy, good in Pleuriſies.

Rhodomel, Honey of Roſes.

Rhodoſaccharum, Sugar of Roſes.

Rhodoſtagma, Roſe-water.

Rhoe; ſee Rhus.

Rhoeas, is an Indiſpoſition of the Eyes, oppoſite to an Eucanthidis, conſiſting in too great a diminution of the Caruncula Lachrymalis in the larger Angle of the Eye.

Rhœas, red Poppy.

Rhomboides, a pair of Muſcles proceeding from the lowermoſt Vertebre of the Neck, and as many Spinal Proceſſes of the Vertebres of the Back; by and by they deſcend, and being fleſhy at the beginning and end, go as far as the Baſis of the Shoulder-blade, which they move backward and obliquely upward.

Rhombus, a Chirurgical Bandage reſembling a Rhombus.

Rhonchus, Stertor, a Snoring, or Noiſe about the Throat, and eſpecially thro' the Noſtrils, the cauſe whereof is yet unaccountable.

Rhus, Rumach, it grows in Spain and elſewhere.

Rhyptica, ſcowring Medicines, which cleanſe away Filth. Some apply it alſo to Ruptories.

Rhythmus, a certain proportion of Pulſes, Time, Life, Age, &c.

Rhytidoſis, a wrinkling of any Part.

Ribes, Currant-buſh; Currants are cold and moiſt, and provoke Appetite, allay the heat of the Stomach, quench Thirſt, and therefore are good in Fevers; they temper the heat of the Liver and Choler, and reſiſt Putrefaction.

Ricinus, vel Cataputia major, vel Palma Chriſti, as alſo a ſort of Inſect under our Skin.

Rigor, a vibration and concuſſion of the Skin and Muſcles of the whole Body, accompanied with Chilneſs.

Rima, the Fiſſure of a Bone.

Rima Pudendi, or Fiſſura magna, ſo call'd becauſe it reaches from the lower part of the Os Pubis almoſt as far as the Fundament, ſo that the ſpace betwixt one and t'other (which is call'd Perinæum or Interforamineum) is hardly a Finger's breadth, but by frequent Coition it grows larger. The Uſe of it is for Generation, excretion of Urine and other Excrements, crements, and for the bearing of Young. The Split or Opening of the Privities in Women.

Rimula Laryngis, that which is cover'd by the Cartilage of the Epiglottis, leſt any part of Meat or Drink ſhould fall into the Larynx, which would occaſion a continual Cough, with danger of Suffocation.

Riſigallum; ſee Arſenicum.

Riſus Sardonius, a convulſive contraction of each Jaw.

Riſus Apium, a ſort of Ranunculus, call'd alſo Apiaſtrum and Citrago.

Rob; ſee Apochyliſma.

Robertiana, ſive Roberti Herba, a ſort of Geranium.

Robigo, the ſame with Rubigo.

Roborantia, the ſame with Cordialia.

Robub; ſee Apochyliſma.

Rochetta, a Powder, or rather a lump-like or hard Stone, the Foundation of the Art of making Glaſs, formerly brought from the Eaſt and Syria; 'tis the Aſhes of a Herb abounding with Salt, called Kali.

Rochum Alumen, ſive Rupeum, Rock-Alum.

Robob; ſee Apochyliſma.

Rorella; ſee Ros Solis.

Roriferus Ductus, the ſame with Ductus Chyliferus.

Ros, in the account of the Ancients, was the firſt Moiſture that falls from the Extremities of Veſſels, and is diſpers'd upon the ſubſtance of the Members. Ros, ſays Galen, is a third ſort of Moiſture whereby the Parts of our Body are nouriſh'd, and is contain'd in all the Parts of an Animal, like a certain Dew ſprinkl'd upon them. This is the Opinion of the Ancients.

Ros Solis, Rorella, Droſum & Salſirora, Sun-dew.

Roſa, the ſame with Eryſipelas; ſee Rhodon.

Roſmarinum and Roſmarinus, Roſemary; the Leaves, the Flowers, and the Seeds are in uſe; they are cephalick, uterine, and proper for the Nerves; they are chiefly us'd for Diſeaſes of the Head and Nerves, for Apoplexies, Palſies, Falling-ſickneſs and Giddineſs, quicken the Sight, help the Memory, and cure a ſtinking Breath; they are us'd for Whites and Jaundice, and comfort the Heart, and open Obſtructions of the Liver, Spleen and Womb. The Herb burn'd corrects the Air, and renders it wholeſome in the time of the Plague. A Decoction of it in Water taken before Exerciſe, cures the Jaundice; the Seed taken in Wine does the ſame. The tops of it infus'd in Wine or Beer, and taken daily, cures the Palſy, and other Diſeaſes of the Nerves. The Flowers dry'd, and taken in a Pipe like Tobacco, are good for a Cough and Conſumption. The Queen of Hungary's Water is made of the Flowers, infus'd in Spirit of Wine. A Chymical Oil is likewiſe made of it.

Roſſalia and Roſſania, vel Purpuræ & Rubores, red fiery Spots breaking out all over the Body at the beginning of a Diſeaſe, or in the fourth or fifth Day of it, and afterwards appear red and fiery like one continu'd Eryſipelas, till at the declination of the Diſeaſe they by degrees fall off and vaniſh.

Roſtriformis Proceſſus; ſee Coracoides.

Roſtrum, the Pipe to convey the Liquor diſtilling into the Receiver.

Roſtrum Porcinum; ſee Dens Leonis.

Roſtrum, a Chirurgical Inſtrument, or rather Sciſſars, ſomewhat crooked at the Extremities.

Rotator Major & Minor, two Apophyſes in the upper part of the Thigh-bone, call'd Trochanteres, in which the Tendons of many Muſcles are terminated.

Rotula, the ſame with Mola Genu.

Rotula; ſee Tabellæ.

Rotundus Muſculus Major Brachii, it draws the Arm behind downward. Some diſtinguiſh this Muſcle into the Rotundus Major & Minor.

Rubeola, a ſort of Small-pox or Meaſles.

Rubia, Madder; 'tis us'd in vulnerary Potions; but whether 'tis aſtringent or opening, is diſputed. They that count it aſtringent, preſcribe it for the Bloody-flux, the Flux of the Courſes, and the Hemorrhoides; they that ſuppoſe it opens, uſe it in the Jaundice, for the Dropſy, and Obſtructions of Urine; and perhaps it partakes of both Qualities, firſt opening and then binding, as is the Nature of Rhubarb.

Rubigo, Robigo, Uſtilago, blighted Corn.

Rubinus, a diaphanous Gem of a ſcarlet Colour; a Ruby.

Rubrica; ſee Impetigo.

Rubus, a Buſh, but more particularly the Blackberry-buſh.

Rubus Idæus, the Berries are very cordial, and taſte very well; the Syrup of it is very good in Fevers. Rasberry-buſh, Rasberries.

Ructatio, Belching, a deprav'd Motion of the Stomach, occaſion'd by an Effervеſcence there, whereby Vapours and flatulent Matter is ſent out at the Mouth; and 'tis either acid or ſtinking, or ſavours like ſomething burnt or roaſted.

Ructus; ſee Bombus and Ructatio.

Rugitus, an Effervеſcence of Chyle and Excrements in the Blood, whereby Wind and ſeveral other Motions are excited in the Guts, and roul up and down the Excrements when there is no eaſy Vent neither upwards nor downwards.

Rumex, a ſort of Dock.

Ruminans, Ruminant, a Term given to ſuch Animals as chew the Cud, whence they have more Venters than other Creatures, and conſequently a more perfect Digeſtion; though the Hare and Rabbet, both which chew the Cud, have but one Ventricle in 'em.

Rupicapræ, Wild or Rock-Goats.

Ruptio; ſee Rhegma.

Ruptorium, a cauſtick Medicine, us'd for the opening of Abſceſſes.

Ruſcum and Ruſcus, Butchers-Broom.

Ruta, Rue; it digeſts and cuts clammy and groſs Humours; it expels Wind, and is a Preſervative againſt the Plague, and other malignant Diſeaſes; it quickens the Sight, and is good for a Pleuriſy; it ſtrengthens the Stomach, and cures the Cholick, and the biting biting of a mad Dog; 'tis Uterine, and forces the Courſes; 'tis us'd outwardly for the biting of Serpents, for Carbuncles, and to drive away the Fits of Fevers. The diſtil'd Water of it is much in Uſe for Hyſterick Fits, and Uterine Diſeaſes.

Rutabulum, or Coal-rake, wherewith you ſtir up or rake the Fire.

Ryas, a too plentiful and preternatural falling of Tears.

S

S N. according to Nature.

S. S. a Characteriſtick Note of Weight and Meaſure, ſignifying half what went before.

Sabina, ſeu Savina, Savine; the Leaves dry and heat much; being powder'd and mix'd with Honey, and apply'd, they cure Ulcers that run much, cleanſe thoſe that are ſordid, and ſtop thoſe that are eating; mixt with Cream, they cure Childrens ſcabby Heads. Savine forces the Courſes, and cauſes Miſcarriage, upon which account they are too much known, and too much us'd by Wenches. The Water of it takes off ſpots from the Face; the Leaves of it bruis'd, and apply'd to Childrens Navels, kills Worms. The Oil of it us'd to their Bellies does the like. A ſpoonful of the Juice of it mix'd with Milk, and ſweeten'd with Sugar, has been given with great ſucceſs to Children that have had Worms; and 'tis an extraordinary Medicine, and no ways dangerous; 'tis frequently given to Horſes, and other ſorts of Cattle, for the ſame purpoſe.

Sabulum, Arena, Arenula, Gravel in the Kidneys or Bladder.

Saccharum, Sacchar, Zuccharum, Zachar, Zaccharum, Succharum, Mel Arundinaceum, Mel Cannæ, Sugar. Sugar-Cane grows ſpontaneouſly in both the Indies; 'tis alſo planted in many other Places, as in the Canary Iſlands, Spain, Sicily, Crete, and Cyprus; it loves a fat moiſt Ground, and is fit to make Sugar in the ſpace of a Year. Sugar partly diſtills from the Cane (after an Inciſion is made) which is the beſt and whiteſt; or by toaſting or boiling the Pith, till the purer ſort of the Sugar remains at the bottom in form of a Salt. In the common Sugar, the Juice is preſt out in a Mill, which is very ſweet, but will not keep above 24 Hours; afterwards it turns to Vinegar: They boil it up in great Furnaces, but if any Oil be mixt with it, it will never come to a Sugar. Sugar is much us'd both in Food and Phyſick; but the immoderate Uſe of Sugar, as is ſuppos'd, is the Cauſe of the encreaſe of the Scurvy and Conſumption in England; 'tis certain that it encreaſes the Scurvy, for by the frequent Uſe of it, the Teeth grow black and rotten. Moreover, it contains in it a very corroſive Salt, which appears by Diſtillation; but it is to be noted, that Sugar is better to be mix'd with Medicines peculiar to Women's Diſeaſes than Honey, for Honey is injurious to the Womb. There is alſo prepar'd a ſort of Salt out of Lead, with Vinegar, which is call'd Saccharum Saturnia, or Sugar of Lead.

Sacculi, or Ductus Adipoſi, or Veneris Adipoſæ, or Lobuli; they are chiefly found about the Skin, and and in the ſpaces betwixt the Muſcles.

Saccus, the Gut call'd Rectum.

Sacculus Chyliferus, or Roriferus, the lower part of the Paſſage of the Chyle, into which are inſerted all the Lacteal Veins of the ſecond ſort, and a great number of the Lymphatick Veſſels.

Sacculus Cordis. See Pericardium.

Sacculi Medicinales, ſeveral Simples, according to the Nature of the Diſeaſe, compounded and beaten together, and tied up in little Bags, to be apply'd to the Part affected. The Bags are to be ſew'd or quilted down in ſeveral places, that the Ingredients run not altogether in a Lump.

Sacer Ignis; ſee Herpes Exedens.

Sacer Morbus; ſee Epilepſia.

Sacerdotis Penis; ſee Arum.

Sacra Fiſtula, the ſame with Medulla Spinalis.

Sacrolumbus, the Name of a Muſcle ſeated at the back part of the Thorax; of the Uſe of which Anatomiſts are not yet agreed.

Sacrum Os, the holy Bone, conſiſts of the ſix lower Vertebres, to which are join'd the Oſſa Coccygis, or Hip-bones. In the hinder part of the Abdomen, it makes that Cavity which is call'd Pelvis, or the Baſin.

Sagadenon, the ſame with Opobalſamum.

Sagapenum, vel Sacoponium, vel Serapinum, vel Sacopenium, Gum Sagapen; ſee Gummi.

Sagitta, Adder's-Tongue; a marſhy Plant.

Sagittalis Sutura, or Veruculata, that Suture of the Scull which begins at the Coronal or Crown-Suture, and ends in the Lambdoidal Suture.

Sagminalis; ſee Periſteron.

Sakmunia, in Arabick it ſignifies Scammony.

Sal, Salt, is threefold, Fixed, Volatile, and Neutral: Fixed, is that which abſolutely reſiſts the force of the Fire, as Salt of Tartar, Carduus. The Volatile flies away from the leaſt Fire; the Neuter is Allum, Nitre, Vitriol, Sea-ſalt, Rock-ſalt, &c.

Salacitas; ſee Satyriaſis.

Salamandra, is propely the Name of a Quadruped of the Lizard kind.

Salicaria; ſee Lyſimachia.

Salicornia; ſee Kali.

Saliva & Salivum, ſive Sputum, as ſome will have it, is Spittle, an inſipid Liquor, which being ſeparated in the Maxillar Glandules, or Glandules of the Jaws, and by proper Paſſages flowing into the Mouth, ſerves to moiſten the Mouth and Gullet, and aſſiſts to the chewing of Meat, and in ſome meaſure to the Digeſtion and Fermentation of it in the Stomach.

Salivantia, are ſalivating Medicines which cauſe much ſpitting.

Salivatio, Salivation, an Evacuation of Spittle by ſalivating Medicines, of which ſort principally are Mercurial Preparations. Salivation is ſometimes taken for a preternatural Encreaſe of Spittle.

Sal Nitrum, the ſame as Nitre.

Saliunca, the ſame with Spica Romana.

Salix, a Willow-tree.

Sal Petra, the ſame as Nitrum.

Salſamentum, every thing that is ſeaſon'd with Salt, as ſalted Fiſh, Bacon, &c.

Salvatella, that Vein which, from the Vein of the Arm, is terminated in the little Finger.

Salvia, Sage; 'tis counted very wholeſome, and therefore the Leaves are eaten in the Spring with Butter to purifie the Blood, and to preſerve Health; but becauſe Toads are wont to harbour under it, it ought to be well waſh'd before it be eaten; and to drive them away, and other Venomous Animals, the Italians plant Rue among it; 'tis Diuretick, and provokes the Courſes; 'tis excellent for Diſeaſes of the Head; being given with Honey, it ſtops ſpitting of Blood: Sage, Sarſaparilla, and Baloſtians, each one dram, taken in Broth in the Morning for ſome days, cures the Whites. A Palſy in the Hands has been cur'd by waſhing them with Wine wherein Sage was infus'd. A Palſy of the Muſcles ſerving for ſwallowing, is cured by waſhing of the Mouth and Throat with a Decoction of Sage made in Wine; the ſame cures Heart-burning; taken inwardly, it provokes Urine, and the Courſes, and is us'd in the French-pox; 'tis a good Wound-Herb, either taken inwardly, or outwardly apply'd; 'tis excellent for the Scurvy.

Sambucus, Elder. Martin Blockwitz wrote a whole Book of the Vertue and Uſe of this Plant; the Title of it is, The Anatomy of Elder. The inner Bark of the Elder purges watery Humours; wherefore 'tis good in Dropſies; the tender Leaves boil'd in Wine are likewiſe very good for the ſame purpoſe, and more convenient for weakly People; the inner Bark apply'd to Burns, takes out the fire; the Flowers diſcuſs, mollify, and diſſolve, and are ſudorifick and anodine. Vinegar wherein the Flowers have been infus'd, is very agreeable to the Stomach, and excites Appetite, and cuts and attenuates groſs and crude Humours. The Berries are alexipharmick and ſudorifick; the Spirits drawn from the Berries provoke Sweat, and therefore is good in Fevers; the Wine made of the Juice of them, or the Juice mix'd with White or Rheniſh Wine, does much good in Dropſies. The Seeds cleanſe and purge violently, by vomiting and ſtool. A Decoction of the middle Bark with Syrup of Poppies, promotes Sweat. For ſwellings in the Feet, take of the Leaves as much as is ſufficient, boil them in Oil with Salt, and foment them with it. In St. Anthony's-fire, a Fomentation is frequently us'd to be made of two parts of Elder-water, and one part of Spirit of Wine.

Sampſuchum, & Sampſucus, is Marjoram.

Sanamunda, is Caryophyllata; ſee Caryophyllata.

Sandaracha Arabum, ſive Vernix, is Gum of Juniper, reſembling Maſtich.

Sandaracha Græcorum, Arſenicum Rubrum.

Sancti Viti Chorea; ſee Chorea Sancti Viti.

Sanguificatio; ſee Hæmatoſis.

Sanguinalis; ſee Coronopus.

Sanguinaria; ſee Coronopus.

Sanguis, Blood, a red florid Li-

Liquor contain'd in the Veins and Arteries, and consists of all those parts of the Chyle which pass thro' the Papillæ, or little soft risings of the Intestines. This is that which gives Nourishment, Life, and Strength to all the parts of the Body. The Microscope discovers that the Parts of the Blood are round or globular naturally, but that in Fevers 'tis full of Worms.

Sanguis Draconis, Dragon's Blood, is the Tears or Gum of a Tree, which flows thence in the Dog-days, either spontaneously, or after Incision made, and is afterwards dry'd up. Some will have this to be the Cinnabar of Dioscorides.

Sanguisorba; see Pimpinella.

Sanguisuga, is Hirudo.

Sanicula, Sanicle; 'tis an excellent Wound-herb, and is boil'd in vulnerary Decoctions for outward and inward Wounds, for Eruptions of Blood, for Ulcers, and the Bloody-flux.

Sanies, a thick and bloody Pus or Matter.

Sanitas; see Hygieia.

Santolina, is Chamæcyparissus.

Santonicum, seu Sementina, Wormwood.

Sapa; see Apochylisma & Defrutum.

Saphæna, the Vein of the Leg, or Crural Vein.

Saphatum, a dry Scurf in the Head. See Achor.

Saphirus, a Saphire. There are three sorts of 'em, one of a deep-blue colour, and those are call'd the Males; another of a pale-blue, and they are the Females; but the third sort are white. The Oriental ones grow in Calecut, Cananor, Bisnagor, Ceylon, but the best in Pegu. The Occidental ones are frequently found on the Borders of Silesia and Bohemia.

Sapientiæ dentes; see Dentes.

Sapinus, is Abies, or rather the lowest part of it.

Sapo, it is made of a Lixivium of Lee of Pot-ashes, compounded with Oil or Tallow.

Saponaria, Soapwort; the Root and Leaves are us'd in Physick, but that is very seldom; 'tis us'd for an Asthma, and to provoke the Courses; a Decoction of it is much commended in the French Pox; outwardly apply'd, it discusses Tumors.

Saponea, a Lambitive made of Almonds.

Sapor; see Gustus.

Saracenica Solidago, vel Herba Fortis, Confound of Saracens.

Sarcites, is Anasarca & Leucophlegmatia.

Sarcocele, a Rupture that consists in a fleshy Excrescence of the Testicles.

Sarcocolla, a Gummy Tear that is said to join Bones together; 'tis brought from Persia.

Sarcoma, a fleshy Excrescence.

Sarcomphalum, a fleshy Excrescence of the Navel.

Sarcophagum; see Cathæreticum.

Sarcoepiplocele, a Carnous Omental Rupture, when the Omentum grows hard, and into a fleshy Substance.

Sarcosis; see Sarcoma.

Sarcothlasis, or Sarcothlasma, contus'd Flesh, upon which there's frequently a suffusion of Blood under the Skin.

Sarcotica, those Medicines that fill up the Wounds with Flesh, or such as by their moderate Heat and cleansing Qualities keep Wounds and Ulcers free from filth, and preserve the natural temper of the Parts, so that the Aliment easily supplies the solution of the Parts.

Sardius Lapis, a semidiaphanous Gem, of the Colour of bloody Flesh, whence 'tis also call'd Carneolus and Corneolus.

Sardonius Risus, is Laughter without Will, a sort of a Convulsion.

Sare; see Essere.

Sarmenta, the long Twigs of Vines.

Sarsaparilla, a Root almost insipid, woody, fibrous, and uniform; it comes from New Spain, Peru, and other Places in America. It consists of fine parts, and is sudorifick; 'tis a Specifick for the French Pox, Pains in the Limbs, and for curing of Ulcers, and Chronical Diseases that proceed from gross and clammy Humours, and for such as depend on the Nerves; 'tis also us'd for the King's-Evil, and the like. Sarsaparil Root.

Sartoria Costa, according to some, the Ribs of a Whale; but others will have it to be the Mandible of the Whale, in which the Teeth are set.

Sartorius Musculus, or Fascialis Musculus, one of those that move the Tibia.

Sassafras, five Paname, a large Tree that grows in Florida, and in other Regions of America. A Decoction of the Wood, of the Root, and of the Bark, is much us'd; 'tis good for the Hip-gout, for Obstructions, and is counted excellent for pale Virgins; 'tis much us'd for the French Pox, it expels Wind from the Womb, takes off Crudities, provokes the Courses wonderfully, and cures Barrenness. Many use the Water or the Decoction of it to prevent the Plague, and other contagious Diseases; 'tis good for Wind, and cold Diseases of the Stomach; it helps Concoction, stops Vomiting, and is very good for cold Diseases of the Breast; it cures the Head-ach, expels Gravel, takes off heat of Urine, cures a stinking Breath, and stops Catarrhs. The Electuary of Sassafras is an excellent Medicine.

Saxifragus, vel Lithontripticus, every thing that breaks the Stone in the Bladder, or a certain Stone that dissolves and breaks Tartar in the Body of Man.

Santalum, Sanders; there are three sorts of it, White, Yellow, and Red. The Woods are epatick and cordial, they are chiefly us'd for fainting, Palpitation of the Heart, and Obstructions of the Liver; they are us'd outwardly in Epithems, for Catarrhs, Head-achs, Vomiting, and for a hot Intemperies of the Liver. The Arabians, and most of the modern Physicians, hold that Sanders are cold; but John Bauhinus and others judge they are hot, by their effects and taste. Red Sanders cool and bind; white Sanders powder'd, and taken in an Egg, or infus'd all Night upon hot Ashes in red Wine, and taken inwardly, stops Fluxes; the Species of the three Sanders are us'd for Obstructions of the Liver, for the Jaundice, and for Weakness of the Stomach and Bowels.

Saturantia; see Absorbentia.

Satureia, five Cunila, Savory; 'tis hot and acrid, it provokes Urine and the Courses; 'tis good to season Meats and Broths, and provokes Appetite; 'tis good for Diseases of the Breast and Womb, and it quickens the Sight; 'tis used outwardly to discuss Tumors, and to ease the Pain of the Ears.

Saturnus, the Chymists understand Lead by it; whence Saturninæ are call'd, Medicines prepar'd out of Lead.

Satyriasis, five Priapismus, five Satyriasmus, vel Salacitas; an immoderate desire of Venery, which upon Coition vanishes. 'Tis sometimes also a convulsive Erection of the manly Yard, not attended with a Venereal Appetite, and not ceasing after Coition; unto this may also be refer'd the Nocturnal Erection and Pollution in our sleep. 'Tis taken sometimes for the Leprosy, because in that Disease the Skin acquires the roughness of a Satyr, and they are much addicted to Venery. 'Tis likewise us'd for the swelling of the Glandules behind the Ears.

Satyrismus; see Satyriasis.

Satyrion; see Orchis.

Saure, 'tis suppos'd to be Nasturtium.

Saxifraga, Saxifragium, & Saxifragia, Saxifrage; the Juice, the distil'd Water, and the Powder of the Seed provoke Urine, expel Gravel and Wind, and ease the Cholick. It grows in Meadows and moist Pastures.

Scaber, vel Scabrities, any unusual roughness of the Skin.

Scabies, the Itch; 'tis of two sorts, moist and dry; the moist is an inequality or roughness of the Skin, with moist and purulent Pustules, accompany'd with a constant itching. The dry Itch is fourfold, Pruritus, Impetigo, Psora, and Lepra; which see in their proper places.

Scabiosa, Scabious; the Herb boil'd in Wine, cures Impostumes, Pleurisies, Coughs, and other Diseases of the Breast; 'tis also good for a Quinzay and the Plague, and it cures the Itch, and little pocky Ulcers in the Fundament.

Scala, a Ladder; 'tis also a Chirurgical Instrument, us'd for the setting of dislocated Bones.

Scalenum, that pair of Muscles which extend the Neck. They are perforated to make way for the Veins and Arteries, and the Nerves of the hinder part of the Neck, as they go to the Arm.

Scalpellum Umbilicarium, the Knife with which the Midwife cuts off the Navels of Children.

Scalprum Chirurgicum, a Lancet.

Scalprum Rasorium; see Raspatorium.

Scammonium, Scammoneum, Scammonia, & Scammonea, is the inspissated Juice of a Root of the kind of a Convolvulus; Scammony, the best comes from Antioch.

Scamnum Hippocratis, Hippocrates's Bench, an Instrument of six Ells long, 'tis us'd in setting of Bones.

Scandix; see Pecten Veneris.

Scapha, the inner Rim of the Ear. 'Tis also a Band us'd on the Head, when Blood is to be let in the Forehead.

Scaphoides, the third Os Tarsi in the Foot; 'tis join'd to the Ancle-bone,

bone, and the three hinder Bones. 'Tis called alſo Os Naviculare, from ſome reſemblance it has of a Boat.

Scapula; ſee Homoplata.

Scarificatio, Scarification; an Inciſion of the Skin with a Penknife or Lancet; this is either with or without Cupping-glaſſes; without Cupping-glaſſes, if there be any Mortification or Gangrene, becauſe the ſeparation is by all means to be haſten'd; with Cupping-glaſſes, if there be a neceſſity of taking away Blood.

Scarificatorium, is the Inſtrument wherewith they make the Inciſions in Scarifications.

Scarlatina Febris, the Scarlet Fever, which is join'd with ſpots like the Meaſles, as it frequently happens in Summer-time, eſpecially among Children.

Scarlea, the ſame with Sclarea.

Scaurus, one whoſe Ancle ſtands out, Club-footed.

Scelerata; ſee Betrachium.

Sceletum, a Skeleton, when the Bones are dry'd and put together according to Art, in their natural Order and Poſition.

Scelotyrbe, a wandring Pain in the Legs, proceeding chiefly from the Scurvy. Hence the Water proper for this Diſtemper is called Aqua Scelotyrbitis.

Scheſis, the Diſpoſition of the Body.

Schetica Febris, oppos'd to the Hectick Fever, becauſe 'tis ſeated moſtly in the Blood, and is eaſily cur'd; but a Hectick Fever is fix'd in the very Habit of the Body, and not to be remov'd without great difficulty.

Schidacedum, a Fracture lengthways in the Bone; ſee Cauledon.

Schiſma, a Cut in any part, either hard or ſoft.

Schœnanthum, Scœnanthum, an Arabian Shrub call'd Camels-hay; it heats, diſcuſſes, and is of fine parts; 'tis chiefly us'd for Obſtructions of the Liver, Spleen, and the like; 'tis alſo us'd for Vomiting, and the Hickups, Wind in the Stomach, difficulty of Urine, for Pains of the Kidneys, Bladder, and Womb. It cures a ſtinking Breath, ſtrengthens the Head, diſcuſſes the ſwelling of the Uvula, and ſtrengthens the Stomach, being outwardly us'd in a Lotion. A Dram of it powder'd may be taken inwardly in hot Wine, or it may be boil'd in Water; 'tis reckon'd a Specifick for Ulcers of the Body.

Schœnos, ſee Juncus.

Schœnopraſum, the ſame with Porrum Junceum, Porret.

Sciatica, ſee Arthritis.

Scirrhoſis, ſee ——

Scirrhus, & Scirrhoma, vel Sclirоſis, a hard livid ſwelling that reſiſts the Touch, and is without Pain.

Scilla, the ſame with Squilla.

Scirpus, is Juncus; ſee Juncus.

Sclarea, ſeu Scarlea, ſeu Horminum, Clary.

Scleriaſis, vel Scleroma, a Hardneſs.

Schlerophthalmia, a hard Bleareдneſs of the Eyes, accompanied with Pain; alſo a ſlow Motion of the Eyes, with redneſs and dryneſs of 'em.

Scleroſarcoma, is an Abſceſs generated chiefly in the Gums; it is fleſhy and hard ſometimes, reſembling a Cock's Comb.

Sclerotica; ſee Cornea.

Sclerotica, or hardening Medicines, such as unite the Parts more firmly amongst themselves, and that either by dissipating the thin and soft parts, or else sometimes by retaining them; the first by hardening the Matter into a Scirrhus by too hot Medicines; the latter is done when the Part affected acquires a hardness by cooling and astringent Medicines; such are Sengreen, Nightshade, Porcelane, and Water-Lintels.

Scleruntica, the same with Sclerotica.

*Scliros*is, and Scliroma, the same with Scirrhus.

Scolecoides, that is Vermiformis, Worm-like. This is said of a certain Process of the Brain, and is a Body of many Particles connected together by five Membranes, differently and strongly made up, and which is brought from the middle Ventricle of the Brain to the fartheſt end.

Scoliasis, a Distortion of the Back-bone to one or the other side.

Scolopendria, five Scolopendrum, five Asplenium, Harts-tongue.

Scolopomacherion, a Chirurgeon's Knife, or an Instrument wherewith Wounds of the Thorax are widen'd; 'tis us'd also in opening larger swellings, likewise in opening the Abdomen.

Scolymus, is Cinara; see Articocalus.

Scoptula, is Scapula.

Scorax, the Gum of the Olive-tree.

Scorbutica, are Medicines that by attemperating Acids, and procuring Sweat, are proper in the cure of the Scurvy.

Scorbutus, the Scurvy, a Disease that is epidemical to the Hollanders, besides some other Nations living near the Sea. The Symptoms of it are generally livid Spots on the Hands and Feet, weakness of the Legs, a stinking Breath, looseness of the Teeth, bleeding of the Gums, Convulsions, Pains, running Gout, Cholick, &c. It is of two kinds, either Salino-sulphureus, when the Sulphur is predominant to Salt; or Sulphureo-salinus, when the Salt is predominant to the Sulphur: This is likewise either in the Blood or Nervous Juice, or in both. This Distemper was not unknown to the Ancients; see Hippocrates, lib. 2, cap. 42.

Scordium, Water-Germander. 'Tis alexipharmick and sudorifick, is chiefly us'd in the Plague, for malignant Diseases, and for Obstructions of the Liver, Spleen and Lungs: Outwardly apply'd, it cleanseth Wounds and Ulcers, and eases the pain of the Gout. Diascordium is made of it, and has its Name from thence. Many pestilential Buboes have been broken and cured with Scordium. The Compound Scordium-water is much in use. The Leaves of it smell like Garlick, and taste bitter.

Scordotis, is a Plant like Marrubium.

Scoriæ, metallick Recrements, Dross.

Scorodon, is Allium; see Allium.

Scorodoprasum, is a Plant betwixt Garlick and Leeks. Leek-schallot, or Rocobole.

Scorpio, Scorpius, or Doronicum, is a sort of Aconite.

Scor-

Scorpiodectos, a Bite of a Scorpion.

Scorpioides, a ſort of Pulſe.

Scorpiurus, a ſort of Heliotrope.

Scorſonera, Scorzonera, vel Viperina, Viperaria, and Serpentaria, Vipers-graſs.

Scortum, the ſame with Scrotum.

Scotodinos, the ſame with Scotomia.

Scotoma, the ſame as ——

Scotomia, a dizzineſs or ſwimming of the Head; 'tis when the animal Spirits are ſo whirl'd about, that the external Objects ſeem to run round.

Scriptulus; ſee Scrupulus.

Scrobiculus Cordis; ſee Anticardium.

Scroffa, the ſame with Scrophula.

Scrophula, ſeu Struma, Chæres, preternatural hard Glandules, or preternatural Swellings of the Glandules of the Neck and Ears. They are contain'd in a proper Tunick.

Scrophularia, ſive Scrofularia, Figwort. This Herb is good for the Kings-evil, and is us'd for Cancers or eating Ulcers. The Powder of the dry'd Root apply'd to the Piles, drys 'em up; a dram of it taken inwardly, expels Worms; and the Water diſtil'd from this Root cures a red Face. It grows in Hedges, and among Buſhes frequently.

Scrotocele, a Rupture of the Scrotum. See Hernia.

Scrotum, ſive Burſa, the Cod, a Bag which contains the Teſticles of the Male, conſiſting of a Skin, a fleſhy Panniculus, and the two Tunicks Erythroïs and Elythroïs. In the middle of it is a Line extended in the length, which divides the right part from the left. For more eaſie Diſtention or Contraction, it is void of Fat.

Scrotum Cordis; ſee Pericardium.

Scrupulus, a Scruple; 'tis the third part of a Dram, and contains twenty Grains. 'Tis alſo call'd Scripulus and Scriptulus.

Scutalis Cartilago, the ſame as Enſiformis and Thyroides.

Scutiforme Os; ſee Mola Genu.

Scutiformis Cartilago; ſee Enſiformis and Thyroides.

Scutum, Mola Genu; 'tis alſo a Plaiſter apply'd to the Region of the Heart, Stomach, &c.

Scybala, Sheep, Goats, &c. Buttons or Excrements.

Scypho, is the Infundibulum in the Brain; alſo thoſe Paſſages which convey the Spittle from the Os Cribriforme to the Palate.

Scytalides, ſive Internodia, ſo are call'd the three Bones belonging to each Finger, the Thumb excepted, which has only two.

Scythica Radix; ſee Glycyrrhiza.

Scytos Corium, in general is the Skin or Hide, but particularly ſeems to be reſtrain'd to the Skin upon the Head.

Sebel, the ſame with Pannus Oculorum.

Sebeſten, an Aſſyrian Plum; it grows alſo in Egypt and Aſia. It is much us'd in Diſeaſes of the Lungs, for Coughs, difficulty of breathing, a Pleuriſie, a Peripneumonia, a Hoarſneſs, and for a Catarrh; 'tis likewiſe an Ingredient in the Pectoral Decoction of the London Diſpenſatory, and in the Syrup of Hyſop.

Secacul, is Sigillum Solomonis.

Secale, Rye; the biggeſt, fulleſt, and moſt heavy is the beſt. 'Tis hot and dry, hotter than Barley, yet not ſo hot as Wheat; 'tis frequently mix'd with Wheat becauſe 'tis ſo very ſweet and moiſt, but it is harder to concoct than that, and cauſes Wind and Gripes.

Sec. Nat. according to Nature.

Sectio Cæſarea; ſee Hyſteratomotocia.

Secretio, is a Word of a large ſignification, but in the Animal Oeconomy is to be underſtood of a natural ſeparation of the fluid Matter, whether uſeful or excrementitious, from the maſs of Blood, thro' certain Chanels or Organs diſpos'd for that purpoſe, and theſe are call'd Glands.

Secundæ, the ſame with Secundinæ.

Secundinæ, the Secundine or After-birth, are the three Membranes, Chorion, Alantois, and Amnion, which with the Placenta are excluded after the Birth.

Secundum Naturam, according to Nature, i. e. when all things are duly perform'd, as in the ſtate of Health. Præter Naturam on the contrary ſignifies, that all things are in an ill ſtate. See Natura.

Securida, Axwort.

Sedimentum Urinæ, the Sediment of Urine, are parts of the nutritious Juice, which being ſeparated from the Blood with the Serum, becauſe of their gravity, they ſink to the very bottom of the Urine.

Sedum, ſive Semper Vivum, ſeu Barba Jovis, Houſeleek; it is very cooling and aſtringent, is us'd inwardly in bilious Fevers, it quencheth Thirſt by moderating the Heat, the Juice of it being mix'd with Sugar. Rags being dipt in the Juice, or in the diſtil'd Water of it, and apply'd to any Inflamation, eſpecially in the Phrenzy, are very beneficial; the Juice likewiſe cures Corns and Warts. For Ulcers of the Matrix and Urinary Paſſage, take of the Juice four ounces, one ounce of Litharge, and the Yolks of two Eggs; rub 'em a long time in a leaden Mortar, and then make application. In Fevers, when the Tongue is dry and chapp'd, dip a Leaf of it in Roſe-water, and apply it to the Tongue, repeating it oft. Take of the Juice one ſpoonful, of Whitewine two ſpoonfuls, mix 'em together, drop one or two drops into the Eyes, and apply a double Linen Rag thereon, you'll find it good for a hot Inflamation in the Eyes.

Selenitis, is Lunaria.

Selinum, is Apium; ſee Apium.

Selibra, half a pound, or ſix ounces.

Sella Equina, ſeu Turcica; it is compounded of four Proceſſes of the Bone Sphenoides, or Wedg-like Bone; it contains the Pituitary Glandule, and in Brutes the Rete Mirabile.

Sella Sphenoides, the ſame with Sella Equina.

Sella Turcica, the ſame.

Semeioſis; ſee Diagnoſis.

Semen, Seed, a white, hot, ſpirituous, thick, clammy, ſaltiſh Humour, which is made out of the thinneſt part of the Blood in the Teſticles and Epididymides, and by proper Paſſages is ejected into the Womb of the Female.

There

There is also in the Female a Matter that is call'd Seed, which proceeds from the Prostates, and frequently in their Lechery is emitted forth. The Use of this is to raise Titillation, and render the Coition more pleasant; for the rest of the Female Seed (if it may be so call'd) lies in their Ovaria's or Testicles. The word Semen relates also to the Seed of Vegetables, which each produces in its own kind.

Semicongius, half a Gallon, a Measure for Liquids, containing five Pints of Water, and four and a half of Oil.

Semicotyle, half a Cotyla. See Cotyla.

Semicubium, is Insessus. See Balneum.

Semilunares Valvulæ; see Valvulæ.

Semimembraneus, or Semimembranosus Musculus, one of those Muscles that move the Tibia.

Seminalis, is Polygonum.

Seminervosus Musculus, the Seminervous Muscle, another of the Muscles that with the Semimembranosus moves the Tibia.

Semiobolus, half an Obolus; see Obolus.

Semis, or Semissis, half an Ounce.

Semisideratus, the same with Hemiplegia.

Semispeculum, a Chirurgical Instrument to dilate a Wound in the Neck of the Bladder.

Semissis; see Semis.

Semispinatus Musculus, it helps to move and extend the Back.

Semiuncia, or Semuncia, half an Ounce.

Semper vivum; see Sedum.

Semper vivum Marinum; see Aloes.

Senecio, Groundsel; the Juice of the Herb taken in Beer, or a Decoction of it with Honey, vomits gently. Outwardly apply'd, 'tis very good for Inflamations of the Paps, as also for the Kings-Evil.

Senna, it grows in Syria, Persia, and Arabia, and from thence 'tis carried to Alexandria in Egypt, from whence 'tis brought to us; it grows also in Italy. It purges Choler, Phlegm, and Melancholy, but 'tis flatulent, and apt to disturb the Stomach and Bowels. 'Tis corrected with Galangal and Ginger, and is given in quantity from half a dram to a dram and half; also in Infusion from two drams to five. Great Vertues are attributed to it by both ancient and modern Physicians: It cures the Head-ach, and is good for Madness, the Falling-sickness, a Palsie, the Itch, and the like; it cheers the Heart, quickens the Sight, helps the Hearing, and opens Obstructions of the Bowels. 'Tis an Ingredient in the true and rightly prepar'd DAFFY's Famous Elixir Salutis. The following Medicines of the London Dispensatory are made of, and take their Names from it, viz. the greater Compound Powder of Senna, the Powder call'd Diasenna, and the Decoctum Sennæ Gereonis.

Sensorium Commune, or the Seat of Common Sense, is that part of the Brain wherein the Nerves from the Organs of all the Senses are terminated, which is in the beginning of the Medulla Oblongata, gata, and not of the Pineal Gland, as ſome would have it. See Aiſtheterium.

Senſus, Senſe, is when the Motion impreſs'd by the outward Objects upon the Fibres of the Nerves is convey'd (by the help of the Animal Spirits reſiding in the Nerves) to the common Senſory of Medulla Oblongata. See Aiſtheſis.

Sentis; ſee Rubus.

Separatio, or Separation, is called by the Chirurgeons that Operation when the Fleſh or Bone that's corrupted is ſeparated from the ſound.

Separatio, is alſo the ſame with Secretio.

Separatorium, ſeu Hypoeleptiçum, a Chymical Veſſel to ſeparate Oil from Water.

Sephyrus, a hard Inflamation of the Womb, or of any other Part.

Sepiæ Os; ſee Os Sepiæ.

Seplaſiarius, he that ſells Perfumes and perfum'd Ointments.

Septa, the ſame with Septica.

Septana, a Fever that finiſheth its Courſe in ſeven Days.

Septica, ſive Putrefacientia, thoſe things that thro' malignant heat and ſharpneſs rot and corrupt the Fleſh.

Septifolium; ſee Heptapleuron.

Septum Auris, the Membrane of the Tympanum. See Tympanum.

Septum Cordis, the carnous part that divides the right Ventricle from the left.

Septum Lucidum, a Partition, upon the account of its thinneſs diaphanous, which diſtinguiſhes the Ventricles of the Brain.

Septum Narium, that Part that ſeparates the Noſtrils one from another.

Septum Tranſverſum; ſee Diaphragma.

Septunx, ſeven Ounces.

Serangodes, Antroſus, hollow, cavernous, or like a Pipe.

Serapias Orchis, a ſort of Satyrion.

Serapium; ſee Syrupus.

Sericum, Silk.

Serides, Sallad, or Eſculent Herbs, as Succory, Endive, &c.

Seriola, the ſame as Seris.

Seriphium Abſinthium, is Sea-Wormwood.

Seris, Seriola Intubus, Endive. See Endivia.

Seroſus, Watery, Serous, or Whey-like.

Serpentaria; ſee Dracontia and Centum Morbia.

Serpentarium Lignum, is commended for expelling Poiſon, the Wood, Bark, and Root is given mix'd together for that purpoſe, but the Root is beſt. It grows in Malabar. See Colubrinum.

Serpentina, a ſort of Stellaria.

Serpigo; ſee Lichen.

Serpillum, Wild Thyme; it grows on Hills and dry Grounds; 'tis hot and dry; it forceth the Courſes and Urine; 'tis cephalick, uterine, and ſtomachick, is good for ſpitting of Blood and Convulſions, alſo for the Gripes. Being outwardly apply'd, it cures the Head-ach and Giddineſs, and diſpoſes to Sleep.

Serra, a Chirurgeon's Saw, wherewith he ſaws the Bones aſunder.

Serrata; ſee Chamædrys.

Serratula; ſee Chamædrys.

Serratus Muſculus, is fourfold, two two forward, and as many backward; they serve to move the Scapula.

Serriola, is Endivia, as also Lactuca Sylvestris. See Endivia.

Sertula Campana; see Melilotus.

Serum, a watery, thin, yellowish and saltish Humour, which consists chiefly of Water, with a moderate quantity of Salt and a little Sulphur. The Use of it is to dilate, and to be a Vehicle to the Blood.

Sesamœidea Ossa, are sixteen, nineteen, twenty, and sometimes more little Bones, so call'd from the likeness they have to Sesamum Seeds, which are found in the Joints of the Hands and Feet.

Sesamum, Sesamy.

Sescuncia, five Sesquiuncia, an Ounce and a half.

Sesquihemina, one Hemina and a half.

Sesquilibra, a Pound and a half.

Sesquiobolus, an Obolus and a half.

Sesquicyathus, the fourth part of a Hemina.

Sesquiplum, a Pound and a half.

Sesquisextarium, a Sextary and a half.

Sesquiuncia, the same with Sescuncia.

Setaceum, is when the Skin of the Neck is taken up and run thro' with a Needle, and the Wound afterwards kept open by Bristles, a Skein of Silk, &c. that so the ill Humours may vent themselves. 'Tis call'd a Seaton.

Seutlomalache, vel Seutlomalichium, is Spinachia.

Sevum, Suet, relates only to the Fat of four-legg'd Creatures.

Sexcunx, the same with Semiuncia.

Sextans, the sixth part of a Pound, containing two Ounces.

Sextarius, a Roman Measure, containing the sixth part of a Gallon: Some say it contain'd thirty Ounces of Honey, of Oil eighteen, and of Water twenty Ounces; others say it contain'd a Pint and eight Ounces of Wine, and half a Pint of Oil.

Sextula, is four Scruples.

Sexunx, six Ounces, or half a Pound of Physick-weight.

Sexus, or Cunnus, the difference of Sex betwixt a Male and a Female.

Siagonagia, the Gout of the Jaws.

Sialismus; see Ptyalismus.

Sialochus; see Ptyalismus.

Sialon; see Sielos & Saliva.

Sibilus Auris, the same with Tinnitus Auris.

Sicilicus, or Sicilium, half an Ounce, or four Drams.

Sicys, and Sicyos, is Cucumer.

Sida, is Althæa.

Sideratio; see Sphacelos & Apoplexia.

Sideritis, five Ferraria, is Millefolium.

Sief Album, is a dry Collyry; see Collyrium.

Sielismus, the same with Salivatio.

Sielocinetica, the same with Salivantia.

Sigillum Solomonis, Solomon's Seal.

Sigmoides, the Apophyses of the Bones, representing the Letter Σ of the ancient Greeks; also the three Valves of the great Artery, that hinder the Blood from returning back to the Heart.

Signum Morbi, the Symptoms or Signs of a Disease.

Siler, a ſort of Liguſticum Montanum.

Siligo, a ſort of the fineſt Wheat.

Siliqua, half a Lupin, of which ſix weigh a Scruple. This is to be underſtood of the Seed contain'd in it, for Siliqua is the Husk that contains the Grain or Seed.

Siliquæ dulces, St. John's Bread, a certain oblong Fruit of a Cheſnut colour, of a Tree call'd Ceratonia, growing in Naples, Candia, Syria, and Spain.

Siliquaſtrum, is Piper Braſilianum, Braſile Pepper.

Silo, Ape-noſed.

Silphium, is Laſerpicium; ſee Laſerpicium.

Similares Partes, ſimilar Parts, ſuch as are throughout of the ſame Nature and Texture.

Simplices Partes; ſee Similares Partes.

Simplicia, Simples, Medicines unmix'd and uncompounded.

Simus, or Simitas, has a double ſignification, one natural, which is ſpoke of the concave part of the Liver, from whence the Vena Portæ proceeds, the oppoſite part whereof is convex and round; the other is preternatural, which denotes a deformity of the Noſe, when the Middle or Bridge of it is flatted down.

Simotrachelos, is ſaid of a Man who, lifting up his Shoulders, contracts his Neck, and looks arrogantly.

Sinapi, and Sinapis, Muſtard; it provokes Appetite, is good for Mother-fits, the Falling-ſickneſs, Lethargy, Palſie, and all other Diſeaſes of the Head, being put up the Noſtrils, or apply'd in the manner of a Clyſter; it provokes Urine and the Courſes, and is an incentive to Venery; it cures Catarrhs, and removes Hoarſeneſs; it looſens the Belly, and diſcuſſes Tumors. The Seed of it beat in a Mortar, and mix'd with Whitewine, preſerv'd the Lives of many hundreds that were highly ſcorbutical and in a languiſhing condition, in a certain Town that was long beſieg'd and reduc'd to great Want, inſomuch that the Inhabitants were forc'd to eat naſty and unwholſom things, whereby they became diſeas'd, and many died before they thought of Muſtard, which then grew in great plenty in the Town-ditch; the which being us'd as aboveſaid, recover'd 'em all.

Sinapiſmus, a Medicine apply'd to the Head, and is prepar'd of Muſtard, wild Radiſh, Salt, and Leven.

Sinapium, a ſharp Sauce, prepar'd with Muſtard-ſeed.

Sinciput, the fore-part of the Head.

Singultus; ſee Lygmus, the Hick-cough, which is ſometimes attended with a Fever, and then is very ſevere.

Sinomoros, malignant and dangerous.

Sinus, is when the beginning of an Abſceſs or Ulcer is narrow, but the bottom large.

Sinus Meningis, thoſe Cavities which Galen calls the Ventricles of the thick Membrane. The firſt and ſecond, or the lateral Sinus's, are ſeated between the Brain and the Cerebellum, ending in the Vertebral Sinus's. The third begins from the Os Cribriforme, and ends in the middle of the the former Sinus's. The fourth ariſes from the Pineal Glandule, and ends in the middle of the lateral Sinus's. The inſertion of theſe Sinus's is call'd Torcular Herophili. The Sinus's, after they have paſs'd thro' the Scull, are partly continued with the Jugular Veins, and partly deſcend thro' the whole length of the Spinal Marrow, down to the Os ſacrum. The Uſe of 'em is to ſupply the place of Veins, for they convey the Blood from the Brain and Cerebellum, partly into the Jugular Veins, and partly into the Vertebral Sinus's.

Sinus Oſſium, thoſe Cavities of the Bones which receive the other Bones.

Sion, and Sium, is Becabunga.

Siriaſis, an Inflamation (or rather great Heat) of the Brain and its Membranes, occaſion'd by the heat of the Sun. This is frequent in Children, becauſe of the thinneſs of their Sculls.

Sirenes, the ſame as ——

Sirones, a ſort of Puſtules that ariſe in the Palms of the Hands and Soles of the Feet, containing in 'em a very little ſort of Worms or Lice.

Siſarum, and Siſer, Skirrets; they are ſown in Gardens, but the uſual way of propagating 'em is, to ſet the leſſer Roots in February or March, before they ſpring up, the greater being to be eaten at that time boil'd and diſh'd with Butter, Pepper, and Salt, the hard Pith in the middle being firſt taken out. Cordus ſays, that it is the moſt wholſom Root that is eaten. 'Tis hot and moiſt, concocts eaſily, and nouriſhes pretty well, but is windy.

Siſymbrium, Mentha aquatica, & Corona Veneris, is Cardamine.

Siſynrichium, and Siſyrichion, a ſort of Iris.

Sitanion, a ſort of Bread-corn.

Sitis, Thirſt, a Defect of the ſalival Juice, which occaſions the fancy and deſire of Drink.

Sium, is Sion.

Smaragdus, a certain precious Stone or pellucid Gem, call'd a Jaſper.

Smegma, the ſame with Sapo, Soap.

Smegmatopæus, a Soap-boiler.

Smilax, Bindweed.

Smile, a Knife with two Edges uſed by Chirurgeons.

Smiris, a hard ſharp Stone that Lapidaries and Glaſiers uſe to cut Glaſs and other hard Bodies with.

Smyrna, the ſame with Myrrha.

Smyrnium, is Leviſticum, or Liguſticum.

Socotorina Aloë, there are three ſorts of Aloes, Succotrine, Hepatick, and Caballine. Succotrine is ſo call'd from the Iſland Socotora in India; this ſort is the beſt of all, 'tis clear and tranſparent, and colour'd ſomewhat like the Liver; it has an aromatick Smell like Myrrh, upon which account it was formerly mix'd with Perfumes; it has a bitter, an aromatick, and an aſtringent taſte; 'tis light, yet the ſubſtance of it is compact; being handled in the Sun, or near the Fire, it grows ſoft, and when 'tis cold it breaks eaſily, which are the ſigns of the beſt Aloes. The Hepatick is ſo call'd, it being like the Liver in colour and conſiſtence; 'tis not ſo pure as the former, nor ſo tranſparent; it ſmells ſtronger, and taſtes taſtes more bitter, and is more aſtringent. The Caballina is more impure, ſandy, and filthy, and fit only for Horſes. Aloes, beſides its purgative Vertue, is hot and drying, and opens Obſtructions; it purges Choler and Flegm. Aloes, contrary to all other purging Medicines, ſtrengthens the Stomach; but 'tis to be noted, that the frequent Uſe of Aloes opens the Hemorrhoidal Veins, and the Orifices of other Veins; wherefore, thoſe that are ſubject to Piles, and to Hemorrhagies, muſt not uſe Aloes; but outwardly apply'd, they are very aſtringent. Aloes kill and expel Worms; being mix'd with Vinegar, and the Gall of an Ox, and apply'd to the Navel, it does the ſame. It cures the Jaundice, and prevents Putrefaction; and mix'd with Myrrh, it preſerves dead Bodies a long time from Corruption; ſome think the Vertue of Mummy proceeds wholly from the Aloes, wherewith Bodies were wont to be embalm'd; the Powder of it us'd outwardly ſtops the Fluxes of the Hemorrhoidal Veins; diſſolv'd in Wine, it prevents the falling of the Hair; mixt with Medicines for the Eyes call'd Collyria, it quickens the Sight; mixt with Honey, it cures Ulcers of the privy Parts, and a Fiſtula, and ſore Mouths, and a ſtinking Breath; it ſhuts the Orifices of the Veins, and ſo ſtops bleeding; outwardly apply'd, it thickens and drys, and the Powder of it conglutinates all freſh Wounds, and skins them. In preſcribing of Aloes, the following Cautions are to be obſerv'd. 1ſt, 'Tis not to be given to thoſe whoſe Diſeaſes proceed only from a ſimple Intemperies without Matter; but 'tis us'd with good ſucceſs in thoſe that are of a cold and moiſt Conſtitution. 2dly, It ought not to be preſcrib'd to old People. 3dly, It ought not to be us'd too frequently. 4thly, and laſtly, Women with Child muſt not take it. Thoſe things which are added for the Correction of it, are Mace, Nutmegs, Cinnamon, Spikenard, ſweet-ſmelling Flag, Saffron, and the like. The Operation of it is quicken'd by waſhing it in a Decoction of Rhubarb, or in an Infuſion of Roſes; 'tis ſaid, that Maſtich, Tragacanth, Bdellium, and the like, mix'd with it, prevent its opening the Orifices of the Veins; or if it be waſh'd in Endive or Succory Water, the ſame may be prevented. Many excellent Medicines are compounded of Aloes.

Soda, the ſame as Cephalalgia.

Soda, the ſame with Ardor Ventriculi.

Soda, the Aſhes of the Herb Kali burn'd, whereof Glaſs is made.

Sol, the Sun, alſo Gold among the Chymiſts; whence their Medicines prepar'd of Gold are called Solaria.

Solanum, Night-ſhade; there are various ſorts of it, but moſt diſpos'd to ſleep, and are call'd Solatrum, Cuculus, Uva Lupina, Uva Vulpis & Morella.

Soldanella, & Soldana, Convolvulum, Braſſica Marina; Sea-Bindweed.

Solen, is an oblong Chirurgical Inſtrument, hollow within, in which a broken Leg or Thigh is placed.

Soli-

Solenarium, a Surgeon's Inſtrument like a Pipe, which is apply'd to the Penis as the Solen.

Soleus, a Muſcle of the Foot ſo call'd.

Solidago Saracenica; ſee Saracenica Solidago.

Solidago, an Herb that conſolidates Wounds.

Solidum, a Weight of the Ancients, weighing four Scruples.

Solomonis Sigillum; ſee Sigillum Solomonis.

Solutio Chymica, a reſolving of any body into its Chymical Principles; which are, Spirit, Salt, Sulphur, Water, and Earth.

Solutio Continui, a Diſſolution of the Unity and Continuity of the Parts; as in Wounds, Ulcers, Fractures, &c.

Solutiva, the ſame with Laxantia.

Somatomacheo, it denotes an athletick or vigorous Exerciſe of the Body, ſuch as Wreſtlers uſe when they contend with their whole Strength.

Somnambulo; ſee Noctambulo.

Somnifera, or ſleeping Medicines, ſuch which, conſiſting of fætid ſulphureous parts, diſſipate and extinguiſh the Animal Spirits, and hinder their encreaſe, whence follows ſleep.

Somnium, a Dream, when we fancy to ſee Things we actually ſee not.

Somnolentia Continua, a conſtant Drowzineſs and Inclination to ſleep. This comes to paſs when the Pores of the outward or cortical ſubſtance of the Brain are quite clos'd up by ſome viſcous Matter, ſo that the Animal Spirits cannot paſs freely.

Somnus, Sleep; a ſtreightning of the Pores of the Brain, caus'd by the Reſt of the Animal Spirits, by which means the outward Senſes reſt from their Operations. 'Tis either Natural or Preternatural.

Sonchites; ſee Hieracium.

Sonchus, Sow-Thiſtle, call'd alſo Cicerbita, Lactuca Leporina, Lactucella & Lactero.

Sophia Chirurgorum, Flix-weed, a Dram of the Seed is very good for a Looſneſs; and not only the Seed, but the whole Herb is commended for Fluxes of the Belly, and the Bloody-flux; 'tis us'd in Plaiſters for Wounds and ſordid Ulcers; in Yorkſhire they uſe the Seed to expel Gravel with good ſucceſs.

Sophroneſteres, the Teeth of Wiſdom; ſee Dentes.

Soporariæ Arteriæ, the ſame as Carotides.

Soporifera, the ſame with Somnifera.

Sora, ſee Eſſera.

Sorbet, 'tis a Potion or Drink common among the Egyptians, prepar'd of Sugar, Juice of Limons, Muſk, Ambergriſe, and Roſe-water, which they preſent to their Gueſts after drinking of Coffee.

Sorbus, and Sorbum; the Sorb, or Quicken-Tree; the Berries yield an acid Juice which purges Water excellently well, and is very good for the Scurvy. The Liquor that drops from the wounded Tree in the Spring cures the Scurvy, and any Diſeaſe of the Spleen.

Sorgum, a ſort of Milium, or Millet.

Sory, a ſtony Mineral more compact than the Chalcitis or Mi- ſy.

ſy. 'Tis found in the Dukedom of Brunſwick.

Spadon, Caſtratus, an Eunuch, or one whoſe Genital Member, that ought to be erected, is ſo convuls'd or contracted, that it cannot perform its Function.

Spagyrica Calcinatio; ſee Calcinatio Philoſophica.

Spagyrica Medicina; ſee Hermetica.

Spanachia; ſee Spinachia.

Sparadrapum, ſive Sparadrap, a piece of Linnen ting'd of both ſides with either a thick Ointment or Plaiſter, and is made this way; after you have melted your Ointment or Plaiſter, dip your Linnen in it, extend it, and keep it for Uſe.

Sparagus, the ſame as Aſparagus.

Sparganium; ſee Plantanaria.

Sparganoſis, a diſtention of the Breaſts, occaſion'd by too much Milk.

Sparganum; ſee Faſcia.

Spargiria, the ſame with Spargyrica.

Sparſi Morbi; ſee Sporadici.

Spartum, Spartium, a ſort of Broom.

Spaſma; ſee Spaſmus.

Spaſmodica, Medicines againſt Convulſions.

Spaſmologia, a Treatiſe of Convulſions.

Spaſmus, & Spaſma, a convulſive Motion. Cardan makes two ſorts of convulſive Affections, viz. Totanus and Spaſmus; by the former he underſtands a conſtant Contraction, whereby the Member becomes rigid and inflexible; by the latter he underſtands ſudden Concuſſions and Motions, which ceaſe and return alternately; the firſt, being very painful, is call'd the Cramp, the latter properly Convulſions.

Spaſmus Cynæcus, or Canina Convulſio, the Dog-cramp.

Spatha, an oblong Inſtrument, broad at the lower end; its Uſe is to take up Conſerves and Electuaries without fouling the Hands; a Spatula. Spatha is alſo call'd the Rhind of the Fruit of the Palm-Tree.

Spathomela, ſive Specillum Latum, an oblong Inſtrument, made of Silver or Iron, which Surgeons and Apothecaries uſe. 'Tis alſo call'd Spatha, a Spatula.

Spatula, or Spathula, an Inſtrument like a Spatha, but leſs.

Spatula Fœda, a ſort of Iris.

Species, or Powders, are thoſe Simples which are deſign'd to make Compounds with; ſo Species of Treacle are thoſe Ingredients of which Treacle is compounded: By the ſame Name are call'd the Species of ordinary Decoctions. This Name is chiefly given to ſome aromatick and purging Powders, perhaps becauſe heretofore they were made up into Electuaries, Bolus's, &c.

Specifica Medicamenta, thoſe Medicines which have a peculiar Vertue againſt ſome one Diſeaſe; as Cephalicks, Hepaticks, &c.

Specillum, a Probe, wherewith they ſearch Wounds, Ulcers, &c.

Speculum Ani, is an Inſtrument of Steel, wherewith the Surgeons dilate the Fundament in order to extract Bones, &c.

Speculum Lucidum; ſee Septum Lucidum.

Speculum Matricis; ſee Dilatatorium.

Spe-

Speculum Oculi, the Apple or Pupil of the Eye; see Aranea Tunica Oculi.

Speculum Oris; see Dilatatorium.

Speragus, the same with Asparagus.

Spergula, Spurry.

Sperma, is Semen.

Sperma Ceti, 'tis commonly reckon'd among Bitumens, but 'tis certainly taken out of the Heads of Whales in Greenland. 'Tis an excellent Remedy for dissolving coagulated Blood; 'tis us'd in Pleurisies, Peripneumonia's, Bruises, and the like; 'tis also excellent for Inflamations, and the like, and for swellings of the Paps, and for the Gripes in Children, and for the Cholick in grown People, being dissolv'd in some proper Water; 'tis also us'd for Diseases of the Breast, and for a suffocaticious Catarrh.

Spermaticæ Partes, those Arteries and Veins which bring the Blood to, and convey it from the Testicles. Also those Vessels through which the Seed passes. Likewise all whitish Parts of the Body, which, because of their whiteness, were anciently thought to be made of the Seed. Of this sort are Nerves, Bones, Membranes, Gristles, &c.

Spermatocele, a Rupture caus'd by the Contraction of the Vessels which eject the Seed, and its falling down into the Scrotum.

Sperniola, or Sperniolum, the Spawn of Frogs.

Sphacelodes, like to a Sphacelus.

Sphacelus, is a perfect Mortification, with the extinction of the Native Heat, and Privation of Sense, not only in the Skin, Flesh, Nerves, Arteries, &c. but in the very Bones. A Sphacelus is distinguish'd from a Gangrene by the total corruption and stink, it being also insensible both of Knife and Fire. In dressing of a Mortification, you ought to consider well, in application of the Medicament, that you do not in the extinguishing of one Gangrene raise another, by the too long Use of sharp Medicaments.

Sphærion, globulous; also a Ball, Pill, or any other round Body.

Sphæristicos, the Name of a Master or Teacher of Tennis, or the use of the Ball.

Sphæromata, round carnous Protuberances.

Sphacelus; see Salvia.

Sphæritis, a Plant that hath round Heads.

Sphærocephalus, a sort of Carduus that has round Heads.

Sphagitides, the Jugular Veins in the Neck.

Sphatula Fœtida, the same as Spatula Fœtida.

Sphendamnos, the Maple-tree.

Sphenoidea Ossicula; see Cuneiformia.

Sphenoides; see Sphenois.

Sphenois; see Os Cuneiforme.

Sphenopharyngæus, a pair of Muscles that arise from the Sinus of the inner Wing of the Os Cuneiforme, or Wedge-like Bone, and going obliquely downward, are extended unto the sides of the Gullet; they dilate the Gullet.

Sphincter, a Muscle that contracts the Gullet, Anus, Bladder, &c.

Sphin-

Sphingonta, Medicines that are reported to be aſtringent or binding.

Sphodros vehemens, apply'd to the violent action or motion of the Pulſe.

Sphondylium, the ſame as Spondylium.

Sphragidonychargocomites, a ſort of ſupercilious haughty Phyſician or Medicaſter, that dreſſes in Diamonds and Embroidery without Learning, like a Mountebank.

Sphygmica, that part of Phyſick which treats of Pulſes.

Sphygmus, ſive Pulſus, the Pulſe.

Spica, the long tops of Herbs, as of Lavender, &c.

Spica Celtica, or Nardus Celtica, Celtick Spikenard, grows in Liguria, Carinthia, Stiria, in the Mountains of Tirol, the Alps, and the Apennine, Spica Indica; ſee Nardus Indica.

Spica, is when one or both Shoulders are ty'd up, after a luxation or disjointing.

Spina; ſee Acantha.

Spina Dorſi, the hinder Prominences of the Vertebres; ſee Acantha.

Spina Ventoſa, call'd by ſome Flatus, ſeu Ventus ſpinæ, and Ventoſitas ſpinæ, an Ulceration in which the Bones are eaten by a malignant Humour, without any pain of the Perioſteum or Membrane; that Swelling being riſen without any pain, the Part affected is quite eaten out with the Ulcer, from whence frequently follows a neceſſity of Amputation. See Caries.

Spina, the acute part of the Scapula.

Spina Alba, the white Thorn.

Spina Chriſti, ſive Spina Judaica, is Paliurus.

Spina Judaica, is Spina Chriſti.

Spinachia, and Spinacia, Spinach; 'tis much us'd within the Kitchin; 'tis good for Fevers, and looſens the Belly; it cools and moiſtens, and is good in a dry Cough.

Spinalis Medulla; ſee Medulla Spinalis.

Spinati Muſculi, two Muſcles of the Neck; their Uſe is to extend and bend the whole Body backwards, and to move it obliquely.

Spiracula, are cutaneous Ducts or Paſſages thro' which inſenſible Tranſpiration is made and Sweat is excluded.

Spiritus, Spirits, are reckon'd of three ſorts, the Animal Spirits in the Brain, the Vital in the Heart, and the Natural in the Liver; but our modern Authors diſtinguiſh 'em into two kinds only, the Animal in the Brain, and the Vital and Natural (which are reckon'd the ſame) in the maſs of Blood. The Animal Spirits are a very thin Liquor, which diſtilling from the Blood in the outward or cortical ſubſtance of the Brain, are by the proper ferment of thereof exalted into Spirits, and thence thro' the medullar ſubſtance of the Brain, the Corpus Calloſum, and the Medulla Oblongata, are deriv'd into the Nerves and Spinal Marrow; and in them are perform'd all the Actions of Senſe and Motion. The Vital or Natural Spirits are the moſt moſt ſubtile parts of the Blood, which both actuate and ferment it, and make it fit for Nouriſhment.

Spiritus Chymici, are Liquors which, by Diſtillation, are rendered not only very thin, but are incorruptible, and moſt effectual. They are threefold, ſulphureous, acid, and ſalt; the Sulphureous eaſily burn, and conſiſts of Oily Particles, as Spirit of Wine, and the like. Acid Spirits conſiſt of acid Particles and Water, as Spirit of Vitriol, Sulphur, Salt, and the like, and they are not truly Spirits. Saline Spirits conſiſt of a volatile Salt and Spirit, as Spirit of Sal-Armoniack, Spirit of Urine, Soot, and the like. There are alſo compound Spirits; Compound ſulphureous Spirits are Aqua fortis, Spirit of Nitre dulcify'd, Aqua Regia, and the like; Compound ſaline Spirits are Sal-volatile, Oleoſum, and the like.

Splanchnica, Medicines proper againſt Diſeaſes of the Inteſtines.

Splanchnon; ſee Inteſtina.

Splen, ſive Lien, the Spleen; a Receptacle for the ſalt and earthy Excrements of the Blood, that there (by the aſſiſtance of the Animal Spirits) it may be volatiliz'd, and returning into the Blood, may concur to its farther fermentation. The Spleen conſiſts of a great number of little Bladders, betwixt which the Glandules are ſcatter'd up and down, and ſupply the place of Veins. The Spleen has likewiſe an Artery, Nerves, and Lymphatick Veſſels, firſt diſcover'd by Francis Ruiſch: 'Tis very much like the Sole of the Foot, and in Cows is exactly like a Beeve's Tongue.

Splenetica, ſuch Medicines as are good againſt the Diſeaſe called the Spleen.

Splenia, Plumaceoli, ſeu Plagulæ, Bolſters made of Linnen, three, four, or five times doubled, even to the thickneſs of the Spleen; they are us'd upon Wounds, Ulcers, and Fractures. The figure is threefold, according to the manner of application, viz, at length, obliquely, or tranſverſly.

Splenica, ſplenical Medicines, are ſuch as, by attenuating and volatilizing the groſſer parts, remove the Diſtempers and Obſtructions of the Spleen; the ſame with Splenetica.

Splenii Muſculi, ſeu Triangulares, theſe two Muſcles ariſe partly from the Neck, and partly from the points of five of the upper Vertebres of the Thorax; the Fibres of theſe Muſcles tend obliquely, and are faſten'd to the hinder part of the Head. The Uſe of them is to draw the Head backward.

Splenion, a ſort of Scolopendria.

Splenites, a little Vein in the left Hand; otherwiſe call'd Salvatella: This term is alſo apply'd to Diſeaſes of the Spleen and Liver, eſpecially a Tumor or Obſtruction.

Spondylolithos, a ſort of Stones in Tyrol, that exactly repreſent the Vertebres of the Back of leſſer Animals.

Spondylus, ſeu Vertebræ, Verticillus, the Back-bone, conſiſting of thirty Bones, whereof they assign seven to the Neck, twelve to the Back, five to the Loins, and six to the Os Sacrum.

Spongia, Sponge; 'tis much of the Nature of a Mushroom; it grows upon Rocks, Shells, and the Sands; it has several Uses; 'tis us'd in Fomentations, for it retains the Heat much longer than Cloths. Anatomists and Chirurgeons use it to suck up Blood, and to dilate Ulcers, also to keep them open, and to dry them. The ancient Physicians us'd the Ashes of it in Medicines for the Eyes. Many modern Physicians prescribe the Ashes to be taken in Wine, for the space of a Month, for the cure of a Bronchocele.

Spongia, a sort of Sea-Moss, growing to Rocks.

Spongiosum Os, the same with Cribriforme Os.

Spongoeidea Ossa; see Cribriformia Ossa.

Spongoides, that is, spongy or porous Parts of the Body, like a Sponge, as the Lungs, the Reins, the Glands especially, the Pancreas, the Bones of the Nose, &c.

Sporadici Morbi, those Diseases which, though different in their Nature, seize several People at the same time, and in the same Country.

Spuma, a Froth, which is caus'd by an agitation or working of the Fluids. 'Tis the Off-spring of Heat and Fermentation; from hence arise many Diseases, and by this many are discharg'd: Spuma Lupi is also the Name of a Stone. Spuma, in the Language of the Chymists, signifies Ashes: Spuma Maris, that is, Halcyonium: Spuma Vitri, is Aphronitum: Spuma of the two Dragons, is Butter of Antimony.

Spurii Morbi, as spurious Fevers, a Pleurisy, a bastard Quinzay, and the like. The short Ribs are also call'd Spuriæ; see Nothæ Costæ.

Sputum, a Liquor thinner than ordinary Spittle.

Squammosa Sutura; see Lepidoides.

Squilla, & Scilla, & Cæpa Marina, Squills, or Sea-Onions. It grows in Spain, and elsewhere; it incides, opens, and discusses; 'tis us'd in Obstructions of the Liver, for the Spleen, and for Obstructions of the Courses and Urine, for Coughs, and Mucilage of the Lungs. There are two Oxymels of Squills us'd in the Shops, simple or compound; they are chiefly us'd for Diseases of the Breast, proceeding from gross Flegm. There is also a Wine call'd Wine of Squills, us'd for Vomiting gently, being mixt with Oxymel of Squills. They are also one of the Ingredients in the Trochisch pro Theriaca.

Squillinum, Fimus Equinus, is Horse-dung.

Squinanthia, a Quinzay; see Angina.

Squinanthum, the same with Schænantæum.

Srint, a Disease common among the Hungarians.

Stachys; see Spica.

Stacte, the Drops of some Gum; as of Storax, Myrrh, &c.

Stagma, the Juices of Plants mix'd together in order to Distillation.

Sta-

Stalagma, that which is diſtil'd from the Stagma.

Staltica; ſee Sarcotica.

Stapes; ſee Incus.

Staphis Agria, Staves-acre; it grows in Dalmatia, Apulia, and Calabria; 'tis violently acrid and cauſtick, therefore 'tis us'd for a Maſticatory; it alſo purges, but being not a gentle Medicine, it is ſeldom us'd. Twelve Grains, or a Scruple of the Seed purges upwards and downwards, and raiſes Salivation; wherefore 'tis very good in the French Pox, ſays Sylvius, but it inflames the Jaws, and occaſions a violent heat in them, bringing the Patient in danger of Suffocation, and therefore ſurely ought not to be us'd inwardly.

Staphyle; ſee Cion.

Staphylepartes, an Inſtrument wherewith Chirurgeons lift up the relaxated Uvula.

Staphylinos, is Paſtinaca.

Staphylodendron, is Nux Veſicaria; the Bladder-nut.

Staphyloma, a Diſeaſe of the Eye, in which the two Tunicks of the Eye, Cornea and Uvea, being broke, fall outward in the ſhape of a Grape.

Staſis, is when a Perſon ſtands upright, and endeavouring to go, remains motionleſs. But beſides, it ſignifies a preternatural ſtoppage of the Flux of Humours in the Body, and is the ſame with Stagnation. In ſpaſmodick Motions this Staſis is a meer paſſive reſt of the Blood.

Statur, an Ounce and an half.

Status Morbi; ſee Acme.

Steatocele, a Rupture or Tumor in the Scrotum, of a fat or Suet-like conſiſtence.

Steatoma, a preternatural Swelling, which conſiſts of a Matter almoſt like Suet, of the ſame colour throughout, ſoft, and tho' it eaſily yieldeth to the Touch, yet it ſuddenly returns, the Fingers being remov'd, to its proper ſhape and bigneſs.

Stegnoſis, a contraction and ſtopping up of the Pores.

Stegnotica; ſee Aſtringentia.

Stella Herba, the ſame with Coronopus.

Stercus, that Excrement which is voided by ſtool. It conſiſts of thoſe parts of the Aliment and Bile which is unfit for Nouriſhment.

Sterilitas; ſee Agonia.

Sternohyoeides, that pair of Muſcles which, from the uppermoſt part of the Breaſt-bone, goes outwards, and aſcends up to the Baſis of the Os Hyoeides.

Sternoidei Muſculi, the ſame with Triangulares.

Sternothyroeides, a pair of Muſcles of the Cartilago Scutiformis, which draw it downward. They ariſe from the uppermoſt and inward part of the Breaſt-bone, and are inſerted into the lower ſide of the Cartilago Enſiformis.

Sternum Os, the Breaſt-bone; 'tis join'd to the Ribs in the foremoſt part of the Breaſt; it conſiſts of three or four Bones, and frequently in thoſe that are come to ripeneſs of Age, grows into one Bone; to this is join'd, in the lower part of it, the Cartilago Enſiformis.

Sternutatio, Sneezing, a forcible driving out of the Head ſome ſharp Matter, which vellicates and disturbs the Nerves and Fibres. 'Tis defin'd likewise an involuntary Motion of the Brain, which also contracts the Muscles of the Thorax and Abdomen, to the intent that the Matter which vellicates the Nostrils and Brain may be driven out.

Sternutatorium, five Sternutamentum, compos'd of such Ingredients as, being put into the Nostrils, raise a convulsive Motion in the Tunicks of the Brain, so that the Impurities are discharged by sneezing. Sneezing Powder.

Stertor, Snorting.

Stibialia, are Antimonial Preparations.

Stibium, vel Stibi & Stimmi, the same with Antimony.

Stichas, the same as Stœchas.

Sticha, are external Astringents, as Bole, Dragons-blood, and the like.

Stictícum Emplastrum, is vulnerary, strengthening, drying, and consolidating.

Stigma, a Scar.

Stillicidium supra Partem; see Embroche.

Stillicidium Urinæ, the same as Stranguria.

Stimulans, the same with Pungens. Medicines that work upon the Stomach or Guts are said to stimulate or prick their Fibres, by that means accelerating their Motion of Evacuation.

Stipes, the same with Caulis.

Stipulæ, the Leaves about the Stalk.

Stœbe, a sort of Scabious.

Stœchas, & Stichas, & Stachys, it grows plentifully in Mount Peliar; it heals and drys, and is diuretick and vulnerary; it is chiefly us'd for Obstructions of Urine, Liver, Spleen, and the Courses; it resolves coagulated Blood, it drys Catarrhs, and kills Worms; being taken in Wine, 'tis also commended for drying up of sharp Defluxions of the Lungs; 'tis us'd outwardly to mollify hard Swellings of the Womb in Fomentations; it drys and discusses Defluxions of the Head, the Herb being burnt and smelt to. Matthiolus says, that the whole Herb cures all Diseases of the Brain, proceeding from a cold cause, namely, flegmatick Fluxions, Pains of the Head, the Falling-sickness, the Palsy, and the like. Syrup of Stœchas of the London Dispensatory, is frequently us'd for Diseases of the Head.

Stoma, the Mouth; as also the Mouths of any Vessels, are call'd Stomata & Ora.

Stomacace, a scorbutical Symptom, being a stinking Breath.

Stomacacia, the same with Stomacace and Scelotyrbe.

Stomachica, Medicines good for the Stomach.

Stomachus, is often taken for the whole Stomach; but is properly the left Orifice of the Ventricle or Stomach, by which Meats are receiv'd into it. To this Part descend Nerves from the Par Vagum, and intercostal Nerves, and are mix'd and interwoven with one another.

Storax; see Styrax.

Strabilismus; see ——

Strabismus, seu Strabilismus, & Strabositas, Squinting; 'tis occasion'd by the relaxation, contraction, traction, distortion, too great length, or too great shortness of the Muscles which move the Eye.

Strabositas; see Strabismus.

Stramonia, Pomum Spinosum, Malum Spinosum, & Nux Methel, Thorn-Apple; an Ointment made of the Juice of the Leaves and Lard, is very good for Burns and Scalds; the Seed powder'd and taken in Beer, occasions Madness for 24 Hours. Thieves give it to those they intend to rob; and Wenches give half a Dram of it to their Lovers, in Beer or Wine. Some are so well skill'd in dosing of it, that they can make Men mad for as many Hours as they please.

Stranguria, the Strangury; a difficulty of Urine, when the Urine comes away by Drops only, accompany'd with a constant Inclination of making Water.

Stratificatio, a corroding of Metals by corrosive Powders. The Operation is perform'd in this manner: Put first in the bottom of the Crucible some of the corroding Powder; then some of the Metal you are to corrode, beaten into thin Plates; then some of the Powder, and upon them some more Plates of your Metal, and so on till the Crucible be full; then make Ignem Rotæ, or a Fire round your Crucible to the top, or else place it in a Reverberatory, according as the Operation shall require.

Stratiotes; see Millefolium and Militaris.

Stratum supra Stratum, the same with Stratificatio.

Striæ, parts of Plants jutting out, hence a camphir'd Stalk.

Strictor, or Constrictor, the same with Sphincter.

Strobulus, an Artichoke.

Strombos, a general Name for Sea-Cockles.

Strophos, a griping Pain of the Guts; 'tis also call'd Dolor Strophasus, and is a concomitant Symptom of the Iliack Passion, and the Cholick.

Struma, the same with Scrophula, or the Evil; 'tis a scirrhous Tumor of the Glands, which is in the Neck, the Armpits, or the Groins, proceeding from a Collection, Stagnation, and Induration of coagulated Nutritious Matter; neither will he be amiss who reckons a fleshy or scirrhous Hernia of the Testes to the Struma. 'Tis a kind of Bronchocele when the Struma arises in the Neck.

Struthium, sive Ostruthium; see Saponaria.

Strychnos, Strychnon; see Solanum.

Stryphna; see Astringentia.

Stupefacientia; see Narcotica.

Stupha, seu Stupa, a piece of Linnen dipt in a Liquor, and apply'd to the Part affected; 'tis the same as Laconicum Balneum, vel Sudatorium, aut Vaporarium.

Stupor, Numbness.

Stuppa, or Stupa, the same with Stupha.

Styloceratohyoides, the Muscles of the Os Hyoeides which draw upwards, they arise from the outward Appendix of the Os Hyoeides.

Styloglossum, that pair of Muscles which lift up the Tongue; they arise from the Appendix of the Os Styliforme, and are inserted about the middle of the Tongue.

Styloeides, Proceſſes of Bones faſhion'd backward like a Pencil, faſten'd into the Baſis of the Scull it ſelf.

Stylopharyngæus, a pair of Muſcles that dilate the Gullet, deſcending from an Appendix of a Bone in faſhion of a Pencil, and which reaches the ſides of the Gullet.

Stymma, that thick Maſs which remains after the ſteeping of Flowers, Herbs, &c. and preſſing out their Oil.

Styptica, the ſame with Adſtringentia, aſtringent Medicines.

Styrax, or Storax, is either dry or liquid; the dry is call'd Calamita. It comes from Syria, Cilicia, Pamphylia, and the like. It heats, drys, concocts, mollifies, and is good for Diſtillations and Hoarſeneſs; 'tis good alſo for an Hardneſs and Obſtruction of the Womb; 'tis much us'd for Perfumes. That is beſt which is fat, and has whitiſh Fragments. The red Storax of the Shops, which the Jews frequently uſe for Perfumes, comes from India. Liquid Storax is a fat Liquor like a Balſam, it has a ſtrong ſmell, and is of the conſiſtence of Honey. The Pill of Storax of the London Diſpenſatory is very much us'd for tickling Coughs, proceeding from Rheums, and Defluxions on the Lungs.

Subactio, the working of things with the Hands; 'tis a Word us'd about the mixture or ſoftening of Plaiſters in a Mortar by a Peſtle.

Subcartilagineum; ſee Hypochondrium.

Subclavia Vaſa, the Veins and Arteries that paſs under the Clavicle.

Subclavius Muſculus, it draws the firſt Rib upward and outward.

Subcutaneus, whatever is contain'd under the Skin, whether natural or preternatural.

Subductio, the ſame with Dejectio per Alvum, a Motion to ſtool, by the Chymiſts 'tis call'd Abſtractio. Bellinus gives a peculiar Signification to the Word, calling the Syſtole of the Arteries, or the interior Motion, when by Dilatation they return to their former ſtate, a Subduction, becauſe they yield to the touch of your Fingers.

Suber, the Cork-Tree.

Subeth Avicennæ; ſee Coma.

Subligaculum, the ſame as Bracherium; ſee Amma.

Sublimamentum, the ſame with Enæorema.

Sublimatio, a dry Extract, conſiſting of the more ſubtile parts rais'd above the Maſs, and ſticking to the ſides and neck of the Veſſel. It ſignifies alſo, when Preparations are meliorated by Exaltation, or rendering them more ſubtile. A Sublimation.

Sublimatorium, is the Veſſels wherein Sublimations are performed by the Heat of the Fire. A Sublimatory.

Sublimatum, is the thing ſublimated.

Sublimis Muſculus, the ſame as Perforatus.

Sublinguales Pilulæ, ſive Hypoglottis, are Pills to be kept under the Tongue, to allay a Cough, or ſtinking Breath.

Sub-

Subluxatio, a beginning of a Diſlocation, or putting out of Joint.

Subſcapularis Muſculus; ſee Inſcapularis Muſculus.

Subſidentia; ſee Sedimentum & Hypoſtaſis.

Subſultus, is call'd a ſpaſmodick Affection, that is frequent in malignant and ſcorbutick Fevers belonging to convulſive Motions, when the Limbs of the Sick, the Legs and Hands, cannot be govern'd, but are forc'd, by reaſon of the coming on of the Elaſtick Matter in the Nervous Parts, to extend themſelves, and be agitated ſometimes here, and ſometimes there, by leaping, dancing, running, and various other Motions; undergoing all the while an exceeding Fatigue.

Subtiliſatio, is call'd Diſſolution by the Chymiſts, in order to render a thing more ſubtile by Elevation, Digeſtion, &c.

Subvola, the ſame with Hypothenar.

Succago; ſee Apochyliſma.

Succedaneum; ſee Antiballomenon.

Succenturiata Renes; ſee Capſula Atrabilares.

Succidus, the ſame as Oeſypus.

Succinum, Amber. There is found in ſmall Currents (near the Baltick Sea, in the Dutchy of Pruſſia) a coagulated Bitumen, which, becauſe it ſeems to be a Juice of the Earth, is call'd Succinum and Carabe, becauſe it will attract Straws. Several little Animals, ſuch as Flies and Ants, do ſtick to it, and are bury'd in it. Amber is of different colours, as White, Yellow, and Black: The White is moſt eſteem'd, though it be no better than the Yellow; the Black hath the leaſt Vertue of all. Amber ſerves to ſtop ſpitting of Blood, the Bloody-flux, the immoderate Flux of the Hemorrhoids, Terms, and a Gonorrhœa; the Doſe is from ten Grains to half a Dram; 'tis likewiſe us'd to ſtop the Violence of Catarrhs, the Fume of it being receiv'd at the Noſe. Some think Petroleum, or Oil of Peter, is a Liquor drawn from Amber by the means of Subterranean Fires, which make a Diſtillation of it, and that Coals are the Remainder of this Diſtillation. Tincture of Amber is good for an Apoplexy, Palſy, Epilepſy, and for Hyſterical Women; the Doſe is from ten Drops to a Scruple, in ſome proper Liquor. Spirit of Amber is an excellent Aperitive, and is given in the Jaundice, ſtoppage of Urine, Ulcers in the neck of the Bladder, and in the Scurvy; the Doſe is from 10 to 24 Drops, in ſome convenient Liquor. The Oil is given inwardly in Hyſterical Diſtempers, in the Palſy, Apoplexy, and Epilepſy; the Doſe is from one Drop to four, in ſome appropriate Liquor. The black Oil may ſerve for outward Uſes, to chafe the Noſe and Wriſts of Women in Hyſterical Diſeaſes. Some have reckon'd it among the Minerals, but erroneouſly, it being the Gum of Trees growing near the Water-ſide. It has got various Names; as Electrum, Chryſolectrum, Carabe, Gleſſum, &c.

Succisa, Morsus Diaboli, Devils-bit.

Succollata; see Chocolata.

Succotrina, Aloë, Aloes; they come from the Island Succotra, where it grows in abundance.

Succubus, the same as Incubus; see Epialtes and Ephialtes.

Succus, is Juice.

Succus Cerebralis; see Spiritus.

Succus Nervosus; see Spiritus.

Succus Nutritius, the same with Chylus.

Succus Pancreaticus; see Callicreas & Ductus Pancreaticus.

Sudamina, little Pimples in the Skin like Millet-Grains, they are frequent in Children and Youth, especially those that are of a hot Temper, and use much Exercise. They break out in the Neck, Shoulders, Breast, Arms, and Thighs; but mostly about the Privities.

Sudationes, the same with Sudamina.

Sudor, Sweat; a watery Humour, which consists of Water chiefly, with a moderate quantity of Salt and Sulphur. This is driven thro' the Pores of the Skin by the Heat and Fermentation of the Blood, and sometimes by its Weakness and Colliquation.

Sudor Anglicus, five Hydronosos & Hydropyretos; the sweating Fever.

Sudorifera; see Hydrotica.

Sufferfuræ, Pustules, occasion'd by heat in Children.

Suffimentum, the same as——

Suffitus, a thickish Powder, prepar'd of odoriferous Plants, Gums, &c. which thrown upon Coals produce a pleasant smell. 'Tis also call'd Suffimen & Suffitio; a perfuming Fumigation.

Suffocatio Hysterica, & Hypochondriaca; see Hysterica Passio.

Suffocatio Uterina; see Hysterica Passio.

Suffumigabulum, a Censer.

Suffumigium; see Suffitus.

Suffusio; see Hypochyma & Cataracta.

Sugillata; see Enchymoma.

Sugillatio; see Enchymoma.

Sulphur, Brimstone, native and factitious. 'Tis a kind of Bitumen that is found in many Places in Italy and Spain; the Natural is greyish, and call'd Sulphur Vivum. The artificial is nothing but the natural melted, purify'd from its grosser Earth, and made into Rolls, which we do commonly use; some think that Sulphur is a Vitriol sublim'd in the Earth, because these mixt are very often found near one another, and there is a great deal of Sulphur in the Mass of Mineral Vitriol, and the Spirits which are drawn from both are wholly alike. The Flower of Sulphur is us'd in Diseases of the Lungs and Breast; the Dose is from ten to thirty Grains, in Lozenges, or in an Electuary; 'tis us'd also in Ointments for the Itch; the Magistery or Milk of Sulphur is also good for Diseases of the Lungs or Breast. Balsam of Sulphur is excellent for Ulcers of the Lungs and Breast. All oleaginous, resinous, and salt Substances, whether of Vegetables or Animals, come also under the denomination of Sulphur among the Chymists. Thus they call the Alcool Vini, or high-rectify'd Wine, Sulphur Cœleste.

Sumach, the ſame with Rhus.

Summitates, ſeu Comæ aut Corymbi, the Tops of Herbs.

Supercilium; ſee Cilium.

Superfœtatio, ſeu Epicyema, is when after one Conception another ſucceeds by a ſecond Coition, ſo that both are in the Womb together: Sennertus makes mention of frequent Inſtances of this nature.

Superficies, it is properly the length and breadth of any Body; 'tis alſo underſtood of a kind of organical Diſeaſes, which are call'd ſuperficial or ſlight.

Superfluitas, an abounding of Excrement; 'tis every ſuperfluous Matter, whether in quantity or quality.

Supergeminales, the ſame with Epididymis.

Superhumeralis, the ſame with Epomis.

Superimpregnatio, the ſame as Superfœtatio.

Superligamen, the ſame with Epideſmus.

Superligula, the ſame with Epiglottis.

Supernatantia, a Term at this Day very emphatically us'd in Phyſick, denoting ſuch an Exceſs of vitiated Juices that want Excretion; for it is not every Abounding or Plethora of Blood that preſently requires Excretion, but only that which is turgid; neither does every Cacochymia need purging.

Superpurgatio; ſee Hypercatharſis.

Superſcapularis Superior; the ſame with Supraſpinatus. Superſcapularis Inferior, is the ſame as Infraſpinatus.

Supinator Muſculus, is twofold, Longus & Brevis, both move the Radius.

Supplantalia, Plaiſters apply'd to the Feet; theſe, for the moſt part, are made of Leven, Muſtard, wild Radiſh, Salt, Soap, Gunpowder, &c.

Suppoſitorium, a Suppoſitory; 'tis compounded of Honey, Salt, and purging Powders.

Suppreſſio Menſium, a Suppreſſion of the Courſes.

Suppreſſio Urinæ, the ſame with Iſchuria.

Suppreſſionis Ignis, a Fire above the Sand.

Suppuratio; ſee Abſceſſus.

Sura, the ſame with Os Fibulæ.

Surculus, a Sprig of a Tree.

Surditas, the ſame as Cophoſis.

Suſpirium, a Sigh.

Suſurrus, the ſame with Tinnitus.

Sutorium Atramentum, the ſame with Vitriol.

Sutura Oſſium, a Suture, is the Juncture of Bones (of the Scull) like the Teeth of Saws meeting together.

Sutura, a Connexion of the ſides or lips of a Wound. This is of two ſorts: Actual, which is done with a Needle of a triangular point, a Pipe, or Cane, and wax'd Thread; firſt in the middle of the Wound you muſt ſew it together with a double Thread, and, having made a knot, cut it off; the reſt of the Wound muſt be ſew'd up with a ſingle Thread. Care muſt be taken that the Stitches be not ſet too wide, nor too cloſe, eſpecially the latter; that there may be room for any corrupt Matter to work out.

The

The other ſort of Suture is much like the way that Skinners uſe to ſew Skins together; this is proper in Wounds of the Inteſtines, and in Cuts of the Veins and Arteries.

Sycaminos, & Sycominea, is Morus; ſee Morus.

Syce, the Fig-Tree.

Sycoma, the ſame with Sycoſis.

Sycomorus, the Sycomore-tree.

Sycoſis, Sycoma, Mariſca, ſeu Ficus, an Excreſcence of the Fleſh about the Fundament. 'Tis alſo an Ulcer ſo call'd, from the reſemblance of a Fig; this is of two ſorts, one hard and round, the other ſoft and fat; out of the hard iſſues a very ſmall quantity of glutinous Matter; out of the moiſt proceeds a great quantity, and of an ill ſmell. Theſe Ulcers grow in thoſe Parts which are cover'd with Hair; the hard and round chiefly in the Beard, the moiſt for the moſt part in the Scalp.

Syderatio; ſee Apoplexia.

Sylvæ Mater; ſee Matriſylva.

Symbecota, Accidents which happen to thoſe that are well, to diſtinguiſh them from Symptoms which happen in Diſeaſes.

Symparataxis, a Conflict of Nature with the Diſeaſe.

Symperateresis, is call'd an Indication of the Appearances.

Symmetria, a good Temperature or Conſtitution of the Body.

Sympaſma; ſee Catapaſma.

Sympathia, is when one Diſeaſe actually depends on another; as Vomiting in the Stone, ſhortneſs of Breath in the Pleuriſy.

Sympatheticus Pulvis, the Sympathetick Powder, being nothing but Vitriol, by which they pretended to cure Wounds, by touching only the Blood that iſſued thence.

Sympepſis, a Concoction of thoſe Humours which are growing into an Impoſthume.

Symphonia, the ſame with Harmonia.

Symphyſis, the joining of two Bones, of which neither has a proper diſtinct Motion. This is either without any Medium, or elſe with it, as with a Cartilage or Griſtle, a Ligament or Fleſh.

Symphyton; ſee Emphyton.

Symphytum, vel Solidago; ſee Conſolida.

Sympleſiaſmos, Conjunctio, vel Copulatio, the Action of procreating Children.

Symptoma, ſive Accidens, a preternatural Diſpoſition of the Body, occaſion'd by ſome Diſeaſe. This is either a Diſeaſe caus'd by another Diſeaſe, or elſe the cauſe of a Diſeaſe proceeding from another Diſeaſe, or elſe ſimply a Symptom. This laſt is either ſome Action of the Body hinder'd or diſturb'd, ſome fault of the Excrement, or change of the natural Temper.

Symptoſis, a waſting, or falling away.

Synactica, Medicines that contract any Part.

Synaitia, vel Synætia; ſee Continens Cauſa.

Synanaſtomoſis, that is, a Connexion of ſeveral Blood-Veſſels.

Synanche, a ſort of Squinancy, which quite ſtops the Breath; or a preternatural Inflamation of the Muſcles of the Jaws.

Sy-

Synarthroſis, a joining of Bones by a Griſtle; ſee Articulatio.

Synathroeſmos, a Coacervation or Accumulation of Humours, the cauſe of Tumors.

Syncampe, the flexure, or place where the lower part of the Arm is join'd to the upper.

Syncauſis, the Excrements harden'd by a Feveriſh Heat.

Synchondroſis, the joining of Bones by a Griſtle; ſee Articulatio.

Synchyſis, a preternatural Confuſion of the Blood and Humours in the Eye.

Synciput; ſee Sinciput.

Syncope, a ſudden Proſtration or Swooning, with a very weak or no Pulſe, and a Depravation of Senſe and Motion, call'd alſo Defectio Animæ, Deliquium Animi, Præceps Virium Lapſus; ſee Deliquium Animi.

Syncritica, relaxing Medicines.

Syndeſmus; ſee Ligamentum.

Syndrome, a Concurrence of ſeveral Symptoms in the ſame Diſeaſe.

Syndyaſmos, ſignifies a Combination; or is particularly taken for a Venereal Conjunction or Coition of Male and Female.

Synedreuonta, common Symptoms which accompany the Diſeaſe; and yet neither flow from the Nature of the Diſeaſe, nor are neceſſary Concomitants of it; but do notwithſtanding ſignify ſomething peculiar, as the greatneſs, continuance, &c. of the Diſeaſe.

Synneuroſis, the joining of the Bones.

Synnymenſis, is a Connexion by the intervention of Membranes; as in New-born Babes the Bones of the forepart of the Head are join'd to the Forehead.

Synocha, a continu'd intermitting Fever, this laſts for many Days with a great Heat, ſometimes Putrefaction of the Blood. 'Tis either Quotidian, Tertian, or Quartan.

Synochos, a continu'd Fever without any intermiſſion or abatement of the Heat, which continues for many Days. This is either ſimple, or accompany'd with Putrefaction.

Synovia, the glutinous Matter betwixt the Joints. 'Tis alſo a Symptom in the Venereal Diſeaſe, when this Matter, being turn'd acrid, corrodes the Membranes and Bones.

Syntaſis, a preternatural Diſtention of the Parts.

Syntenoſis, the ſame with Synneuroſis.

Synteretica, that part of Phyſick which gives Rules for the Preſervation of Health.

Syntexis, vel Conſummatio, a Conſumption and Colliquation of the Body, wherein the Fleſh uſually is firſt waſted, and afterwards the Subſtance of the Parts that are more ſolid. See Maraſmus.

Syntheſis, either the Frame and Structure of the whole Body, or more ſtrictly the anatomical compoſure of the Bones.

Synulotica; ſee Cicatriſantia.

Syphilus, the ſame with Lues Venerea.

Syphon; ſee Syringa.

Syringa, a Syringe, an Inſtrument that is us'd for injecting Liquors into the Fundament, Ears, Womb, &c.

Syrin-

Syringomata, a ſort of Chirurgeons Knives, wherewith they open Fiſtula's.

Syringotomia, the Inciſion of the Fiſtula.

Syringotomus, the ſame.

Syrones; ſee Phthiriaſis.

Syrupus, ſive Serapium, Syrup.

Syrupus de Rhubarbaro, Syrup of Rhubarb; 'tis a very gentle Purge, and therefore proper for weakly People.

Syrupus è Cichoreo cum Rhubarbaro, Syrup of Rhubarb with Succory; 'tis a very cooling Purge, and conſequently uſeful for Children.

Syrupus de Epithymo, Syrup of Dodder; 'tis a proper Purge for melancholy People.

Syrupus de Pomis Magiſtralis, Syrup of Apples; 'tis a proper Purging Syrup alſo for melancholy People.

Syrupus de Artemiſia, Syrup of Mugwort; it opens Obſtructions, forces Childbed Purgations, and ſtrengthens the Nerves.

Syrupus Myrtilus, Syrup of Myrtles; this is an excellent aſtringent Syrup, and therefore good for ſpitting of Blood, and for all other Fluxes.

Syrupus de quinque Radicibus, Syrup of five opening Roots; it opens Obſtructions, and forceth Urine.

Syrupus Botryos, Syrup of the Oak of Jeruſalem; 'tis a good Pectoral Syrup, and cures Ulcers of the Lungs.

Syrupus Peoniæ Compoſitus, compound Syrup of Peony; 'tis excellent for all ſorts of Diſeaſes of the Nerves.

Syrupus Granatorum, Syrup of Pomegranates; it ſtrengthens the Stomach, is aſtringent, and alſo quenches Thirſt; 'tis very much us'd in ſordid Ulcers of the Mouth.

Syrupus de Papavere Erratico, Syrup of red Poppies; 'tis peculiarly proper for Pleuriſies, and likewiſe for Inflamations of the Lungs, and is ſomewhat aſtringent.

Syrupus Cydoniorum, Syrup of Quinces; 'tis an excellent Syrup for the Stomach, and likewiſe ſtops Vomiting, and Fluxes of the Belly.

Syrupus de Roſis ſiccis, Syrup of dry'd Roſes; 'tis aſtringent, and conſequently good in Fluxes; it ſtrengthens the Stomach, and ſtops Vomiting.

Syrupus de Rhamno Cathartico, Syrup of Buckthorn. This Syrup purges ſtrongly watery Humours, and therefore is good for Dropſies, &c.

Syrupus Florum Mali Perſici, Syrup of Peach-flowers. This is reckon'd a gentle Purge for Children.

Syrupus Roſarum Solutivus, Syrup of Roſes ſolutive; 'tis a gentle, cooling, purging Syrup, and is commonly us'd with purging Potions.

Syrup of Ammoniacum, it opens Obſtructions, and is reckon'd very good for Diſeaſes of the Skin.

Syrupus Balſamicus, Balſamick Syrup; 'tis good for Coughs, Hectick Fevers, and Conſumptions.

Syrupus Byzantinus ſimplex, ſimple Byzantine Syrup; it opens Ob-

Obſtructions, and is likewiſe reckon'd good for the Dropſy and Green-ſickneſs.

Syrupus è Succo Citri, Syrup of the Juice of Citrons; it expels Malignity, is very good in Fevers, and alſo ſtrengthens the Stomach.

Syrupus Corticum Citreorum, Syrup of the Peel of Citrons; it reſiſts Poiſon, is cordial, and conſequently good for the Head and Stomach.

Syrupus è Corallis ſimplex, ſimple Syrup of Coral; it cools and refreſhes the Spirits, and is good for Hectick Fevers, and all ſorts of Fluxes.

Syrupus Muſci Pyxidati, Syrup of Cupmoſs; 'tis reckon'd a Specifick for the Hooping or Chincough.

Syrupus de Meconio, Syrup of white Poppies: 'Tis reckon'd very good for eaſing Pain, to ſtop tickling Coughs, and is indeed a good Anodyne Medicine, now much in uſe.

Syrupus Sambucinus Compoſitus, Compound Syrup of Elder; 'tis alexipharmick and ſudorifick, is good in the Dropſy, Scurvy, and heat of Urine.

Syrupus Chamæpityos, Syrup of Ground-pine; 'tis us'd for the Gout, and alſo for Diſeaſes of the Nerves.

Syrupus de Praſio, Syrup of Horehound. This is counted a moſt excellent Medicine for Diſeaſes of the Lungs, and helps Expectoration.

Syrupus Glycyrrhizæ, Syrup of Liquorice; 'tis us'd for Diſeaſes of the Lungs, and helps Expectoration.

Syrupus Florum Tunices, Syrup of Gilliflowers; 'tis cephalick and cordial.

Syrupus Capillorum-Veneris, Syrup of Maidenhair; it opens Obſtructions of the Lungs, is good for Pains of the Side, Kidneys and Bladder, gently provokes Urine, and expels Gravel.

Syrupus Dialthææ, Syrup of Marſh-mallows; it eaſes Pains, and corrects ſharp Humours, but is chiefly us'd for Diſeaſes of the Bladder and Kidneys.

Syrupus Menthæ, Syrup of Mint. It ſtrengthens the Stomach, helps Concoction, and ſtops Vomiting.

Syrupus de Piloſella, Syrup of Mouſe-ear; 'tis reckon'd healing and aſtringent, conſequently good for ſpitting of Blood, &c.

Syrupus Scabioſæ Compoſitus, Compound Syrup of Scabious; it is good for the Lungs when they meet with any Obſtructions, and is reckon'd good for the Itch.

Syrupus de Stœchade, Syrup of Stœchas; 'tis good for the Head and Nerves.

Syrupus Rapi, Syrup of Turneps; 'tis counted good for Conſumptions, and by many eſteem'd as ſuch.

Syrupus Chalybis, Syrup of Steel. It opens Womens Obſtructions, is good for Hypochondriack Melancholy, the Scurvy, Dropſy, &c.

Syrupus Violarum, Syrup of Violets; 'tis cooling and pectoral, us'd in Fevers, and ſometimes mix'd with Clyſters.

Syrupus Abſinthii ſimplex, ſimple Syrup of Wormwood. This ſtrengthens the Stomach, ſtoppeth Vomiting, and is good for a Dropſy.

Syſ-

Syſirinchium; ſee Siſyrinchium.

Syſſarcoſis, the Connection of Bones by Fleſh; as you may ſee in the Bone Hyoides.

Syſtaſis, Conſiſtentia, Conſiſtence.

Syſtema, the ſame with Syntheſis.

Syſtole, the Contraction of the Ventricles of the Heart, whereby the Blood is forcibly drove into the great Artery.

Syſtrophe, Convolutio; it alſo denotes Tuberculum, a hardneſs, concretion of Humours, Tumors, &c.

Syzygia, Conjugatio, Conjunctio, Copulation.

T

T*Abacum*, Tobacco; it reſiſts Putrefaction, provokes Sneezing, and alſo cauſes Vomiting. 'Tis both anodyne and vulnerary. Being ſmoak'd, it ſtops Catarrhs, takes off Wearineſs, diſpoſes to Reſt, cures Mother-fits, and is a good Preſervative againſt the Plague. A Gargariſm made of it, cures the Tooth-ach, and likewiſe diſſolves Tumors of the Uvula. A Bath of the green Leaves being apply'd, cures a Leproſy, the Itch, and kills Lice; it likewiſe is very uſeful in the healing of Wounds, cleanſing old Ulcers, and curing Burns. The ſmoaking of it wonderfully ſtrengthens the Stomach, helps Digeſtion, and gently moveth the Belly; but indeed it is not good for thoſe that are of a hot Conſtitution. The Pain of the Teeth is eas'd (and very often cured) by ſtopping thoſe that are hollow with calcin'd Tobacco. For the Palſy, take the Leaves while they are green, infuſe 'em in Malaga Wine, and rub the Parts well with it after ſweating, you'll find it the beſt external Remedy for that Diſtemper in the World. Alſo a certain Nobleman, being extreamly fat, was reduced to an ordinary ſize by chewing Tobacco; beſides, it does good in an Aſthma. 'Tis likewiſe of very great ſervice in Camps eſpecially, where there is oftentimes ſcarcity of Proviſions, the Cholick, and other Diſeaſes. The Fume of Tobacco being blown up the Fundament into the Bowels, is a moſt effectual Clyſter in the Cholick. It likewiſe cures Mother-fits and Fainting, if dexterouſly blown upon the Matrix.

Tabella, a ſolid Medicine, taken inwardly, made of Powder, and three or four times as much Sugar diſſolv'd in a convenient Liquor, boil'd to the conſiſtence of a Syrup, and made into little round Cakes upon a Marble-ſtone. A Morſel.

Tabes; ſee Atrophia.

Tabes dorſalis, a Conſumption in the Spinal Marrow, moſt incident to Lechers and freſh Bridegrooms; they are without a Fever, eat well, and yet melt or conſume by a gentle Decay. If you ask one in this Diſeaſe an account of himſelf, he will tell you that it ſeems to him as if there were a numerous quantity of Ants or Piſmires falling down from his Head upon his Spinal Marrow. When he eaſes Nature, either by Urine

Urine or Stool, there flows from him liquid Seed in great plenty; nor can he generate but when he sleeps, whether it be with his Wife or no; and he likewise hath lascivious Dreams. When he goes or runs any where, (especially up a steep place) he grows weak and short-breath'd, his Head is heavy, and his Ears tingle; so, in process of time being taken with a violent Fever, he dies of that call'd Lipyria, wherein the external Parts are cold, the internal burning at the same time.

Tabula; see Tabella and Morsuli.

Tabum, a thin sort of Matter that proceeds from an inveterate Ulcer.

Tacamahaca, a Resine brought from New Spain.

Tachythanatos, one liable to a sudden Death.

Tactus, the Touch, a Sense by which the tactile Qualities of Bodies are offer'd to the common Sensory (and there perceiv'd) by the different motion of Nerves diffused thro' the whole Body, the Skin being intermediate. Or Touch is the Sense of a thing touch'd, offer'd to the common Sensory by the Nerves, the Skin being intermediate, and there perceiv'd.

Tænia, a sort of broad Worms. See Lumbrici.

Tagetes; see Tanacetum.

Talcum, Talk, is a pellucid, splendid, clear Matter, that is form'd in lays or leaves that will easily split or divide. There are four sorts of 'em, the white, the yellow, black, and red. 'Tis reckon'd among Stones, and shineth almost like Looking-glasses.

Talismanica, a sort of Diabolical Magick us'd among the Pagans.

Talpa, a Tumor, so call'd because that as a Mole (in Latin Talpa) creeps under ground, so this feeds upon the Scull under the Skin. It may be refer'd to the Species of Atheroma; which see.

Talparia, the same with Talpa.

Talus; see Astragalus.

Tamarindus, or Thamarindus, Tamarinds; a Fruit of Trees that grow in Arabia Felix, also in the East and West-Indies. They correct the Acrimony of the Humours, purge Choler, and restrain the heat of the Blood; they cure Fevers and Jaundice, take off the heat of the Stomach and Liver, and stop Vomiting. The Turks and Arabians, when they go long Journeys in the Summer-time, carry Tamarinds with 'em, to quench their Thirst. In pestilential and putrid Fevers, Water wherein Tamarinds have been infus'd, sweetned with Sugar, is a proper Liquor to drink, for it quenches Thirst, and cools much.

Tamarisca, Tamarice, Tamarix, and Amarix, Tamarisk; 'tis excellent for Diseases of the Spleen; a Decoction of the Bark stops the Courses and an immoderate Flux of the Hemorrhoids; it fixes the Teeth when they are loose, eases the Pain of 'em, and is good for Ulcers, for Melancholy, the black Jaundice, and a Dropsy, occasion'd by a hard and obstructed Spleen.

Tamus, or Tanus, a ſort of Briony.

Tanacetum, Tanſie; 'tis vulnerary, uterine, and nephritick; it is us'd for the Worms, the Gripes and the Stone in the Kidneys and Bladder, for Obſtructions of the Courſes, Wind, and Dropſy; the Juice of it being apply'd to the Hands and Feet, cures the Chaps of 'em, ſcabby Ulcers, and the Itch. A Conſerve of the Leaves and Tops reſiſts Putrefaction, purifies the Blood, and opens Obſtructions. A certain Perſon was cured of an obſtinate Dropſy by the Decoction of it. See Phlegmos.

Tarantiſmus, is the Name of a leaping Diſeaſe, which is procur'd by the venomous Bite of a Tarantula.

Tapſus barbatus, is Verbaſcum.

Taraxicum, is Dens Leonis, or wild Succory.

Taraxis, a Perturbation of the Humours of the Eye, Stomach, or Entrails.

Tarſus, a cartilagineous Extremity of the Eye-lids, from whence the Hairs ſpring, call'd Cilium; as alſo eight backward Bones of the Foot, order'd like Grates.

Tartarus, and Tartarum, Tartar, is a groſs or terreſtrious Matter that ſticks to the ſides of the Veſſel when it is ſeparated from its Liquor by means of Fermentation; but that ſort of Tartar which is us'd in Phyſick is what is produc'd from (and is found ſticking to the ſides of) Wine-casks, like a very hard Stone, ſometimes white, and at other times red; but that is according to the Colour of the Wine they contain'd laſt. That which comes from the white Cask is to be prefer'd before the red, becauſe 'tis purer, and contains leſs Earth. Both one and t'other are to be had in greater abundance in Languedoc and Provence than in many other Climates, but the beſt white Tartar of all is brought from Germany. It muſt be heavy, white, and cryſtaline. The Lees of Wine are alſo a liquified Tartar; they are generally burnt, and the Aſhes that they make are call'd Cineres Clavellati, in Engliſh Gravel'd Aſhes. The Cryſtal of Tartar is purgative and aperitive, and is good for Hydropical and Aſthmatical Perſons. Fixed Salt of Tartar is aperitive; 'tis chiefly us'd to draw forth the Tincture of Vegetables, and is given for Obſtructions. The Oil of Tartar per deliquium is us'd for Tettars, and to diſcuſs Tumors; beſides, the Ladies mix it with Lilly-water, and ſo uſe it to clear their Complexions and whiten their Hands. Tincture of Salt of Tartar is an excellent Aperitive; it purifies the Blood, and reſiſts malignant Humours; and it is likewiſe us'd for the Scurvy. Tartar vitriolated is an admirable Aperitive, and is alſo a little purgative; 'tis given in Hypochondriacal Caſes, for the King's Evil, and for all other Diſeaſes wherein 'tis neceſſary to open Obſtructions, and to work by Urine. Tartar is alſo taken for a groſs, ſabulous, or ſandy ſubſtance in Humane Bodies.

Tatura; ſee Datura.

Tauro-

Taurocolla, the beſt Glue that is made, from the Ears and Genitals of the Bull.

Taxis, or Reductio, is a Word us'd frequently by thoſe who reduce Ruptures into their natural places.

Taxus, Yew.

Tecmarſis, a Conjecture at Diſeaſes.

Telephium, the ſame with Chironia, which ſee; 'tis ſo call'd from Telephus, who was a long time troubled with this Diſeaſe.

Telephium, ſive Craſſula, vel Fabaria, Orpine; 'tis vulnerary and aſtringent, 'tis chiefly us'd for healing Ulcers of the Bowels, occaſion'd by the Bloody-flux, for Ruptures and Burns; 'tis excellent for eaſing of Pains, both in freſh Wounds and old Ulcers; the Herb waſh'd under Aſhes, and mix'd with Lard, cures Fellons.

Temperantia, thoſe things that attemperate an Acid in our Body; ſee Abſorbentia.

Temperata, thoſe things that are neither too hot, nor too cold.

Temperamentum, Temperament, a Quality that reſults from the Union and Mixture of Elements; ſee Craſis.

Temperies; ſee Craſis.

Temporalis Muſculus, the Muſcle of the Temples.

Tempus, the Temple, a lateral part of the Scull in the middle betwixt the Ears and Eyes, where Cephalick Plaiſters are apply'd for the Tooth-ach and Head-ach.

Tenaculum, the ſame with Forceps.

Tendo, a Tendon, a ſimilar nervous part annex'd to Muſcles and Bones, whereby the voluntary Motion of the Members is chiefly perform'd. The generality of Chirurgions ſcarce ever diſtinguiſh betwixt a Tendon and a Nerve.

Teneſmus, Tenaſmus, a continual deſire of going to Stool, yet attended with an Inability of doing any thing but bloody ſlimy Matter.

Tenontagra, a Species of the Gout, when the Tendons are chiefly affected.

Tenta, the ſame with Mela Turunda, or Penicillus.

Tentigo; ſee Priapiſmus.

Tentipellum, a Medicine that takes away Wrinkles, and makes the Skin ſmooth.

Tephrion, the Name of a Collyrium.

Terebellum, the ſame with Modiolus.

Terebinthina, Turpentine; 'tis twofold, Vulgar and Venetian; the Venetian is alſo call'd Chious or Cyprian; the beſt is clear, pellucid, white, and of a Glaſs-colour; it comes from Chyos, Cyprus, Libya, and many other Places. 'Tis uſed like a Balſam for Wounds, and taken inwardly it is Diuretick, and is therefore given for Gonorrhœa's in a Bolus, or elſe diſſolv'd in ſome Liquor by means of a little of the Yolk of an Egg; it gives the Urine a ſmell much like Violets; 'tis often boil'd in Water, and then becomes ſolid, and being ſo prepar'd, is made up into Pills; the Volatile Spirit is an excellent Aperitive; 'tis given from four to twelve Drops, in ſome appropriate Liquor, to expel Gravel out of the Reins or Ureters in the Nephritick Cholick, or to diſſolve Viſcoſity; 'tis likewiſe us'd for Gonorrhœa's: The Oil is us'd to conſolidate Wounds, to diſcuſs Tumors, and to fortify the Nerves.

Terebrum; ſee Modiolus.

Teredum, the ſame with Caries. 'Tis alſo call'd Teredo, Spina Ventoſa; ſee Caries Oſſis.

Tereniabin; ſee Manna.

Teres Radii Muſculus; ſee Pronator Rotundus.

Teretrum; ſee Modiolus.

Tergum; ſee Dorſum.

Terminthus, a Swelling in the Thighs, with a black Pimple at the top, as big as the Fruit of the Turpentine-tree.

Ternarius, a Number in Phyſick, myſtical even to Superſtition, that Hippocrates hath not only appointed three Subſtances of our Body, the Parts containing, the Parts contained, and thoſe that perform Motion; but the latter Phyſicians have conſtituted three things according to Nature, and againſt Nature; and the Chymiſts following Paracelſus have form'd three Principles, Sulphur, Mercury, and Salt.

Terra Damnata, the ſame with Terra Mortua & Caput Mortuum.

Terra Japonnica; ſee Catechu.

Terra Mortua, the earthy part that remains after Elixivation, deſtitute of all active efficacious Qualities.

Terræ Panis; ſee Cyclamen.

Terræ Tuber; ſee Cyclamen.

Tertiana Febris intermittens, a Tertian Ague, is an Effervescence of the Blood every third Day, which with its various Symptoms, comes exactly at a ſet time. The cauſe of it is Nitro-ſulphureous Blood; and 'tis either a true Tertian, or a ſpurious.

Tertium, a Third, is a medium betwixt two Extreams, as betwixt hard and ſoft. So Salt is deſervedly call'd the Medium betwixt Body and Spirit.

Teſſellæ, the ſame with Rotulæ, or Tabellæ.

Teſſeræ; ſee Cuboides.

Teſtes Muliebres, vel Ovaria; ſee Orchis.

Teſtes Viriles, Mens Teſticles, conſiſt of ſeveral ſmall Veſſels, wherein the Seed is generated. 'Tis cover'd on the outſide with ſeveral Tunicks, they are call'd by various Names.

Teſtes Cerebri, two backward Prominences of the Brain, call'd Teſtes from the likeneſs they have to Teſticles. They are bigger in Men than in Brutes.

Teſticulus; ſee Teſtis and Orchis.

Teſticulus Venereus, the ſwelling of the Stones after contagious Copulation.

Teſtudo Cerebri; ſee Fornix.

Teſtudo, a ſoft large Swelling, or not very hard, in the Head; broad, in form of an Arch or Tortoiſe, from which Reſemblance it takes its Name. At the beginning it grows like a Cheſt-Nut, afterwards like an Egg, wherein is contain'd a ſoft Matter cloath'd with a certain Tunick (whence ſome refer this ſort of Tumor to Meliceris, which ſee) which ſticks ſo cloſe to the Scull, that many times it infects and corrupts it.

Tetanus, a conſtant Contraction, whereby a Limb grows rigid and inflexible. The Cauſe of it is ſometimes a Relaxation or Palſy in ſome other Muſcles, which when they are relax'd, the oppoſite Muſcles act too ſtrongly, ſo that they draw the part wholly to themſelves, which ought to conſiſt as it were in an Æquilibrium betwixt both. Yet ſometimes ſuch a permanent Contraction may proceed from the Tendon's being loaded and obſtructed with ſerous Matter, which therefore grow rigid and ſtiff. This Diſtemper is frequent in the Scurvy, ſo that the Patient can extend neither Joint nor Limb. The Tendons in the Back are ſometimes contracted into a round and globular form, which, by reaſon of ſuch an Afflux of Humours upon them, draw the Bones out of their due place, and cauſe an hunch'd Back, or a ſtooping and bending of it. 'Tis uſually diſtinguiſh'd into Univerſal, of which there are three ſorts, Emproſthotonos, Opiſthotonos, and Tetanos, properly ſo call'd; and Particular, which reſpects a certain Member, or a particular Joint.

Tetratæus, the ſame with Quartana.

Tetradrachmon, four Ounces.

Tetrapharmacum, a Medicine conſiſting of four Ingredients, as Unguentum Baſilicum.

Tetrobolon, four Drams.

Teucrium, is Chamædrys.

Teutlon, is Beta.

Thaliſtrum, ſeu Thalietrum, Baſtard Rhubarb.

Thamar, the Fruit of the Palm-tree, whence the Confection Diathamaron, and corruptedly Diacamaron, has got its Name. 'Tis likewiſe call'd Dactylus by the Arabians.

Thamarindus; ſee Tamarindus.

Thapſia, a Plant like Ferula.

Thapſus; ſee Tapſus Barbatus.

Thee, Tea; it grows in China, Japan, and in ſeveral other Parts. The different Goodneſs of Tea is known by the fragrant ſmell of the Leaves, they having a ſcent ſomewhat reſembling Hay, mixed with a ſort of an aromatick one. 'Tis of a green colour, and taſtes ſomewhat ſweetiſh, having a little ſmatch of bitter. It purifies the Blood, prevents troubleſome Dreams, expels malignant Vapours from the Brain, taketh away Giddineſs and the Head-ach, eſpecially when it proceeds from over-much Eating: 'Tis good in a Dropſy, for it provokes Urine very much; it drys up Rheums or watery Humours in the Head, correcting their Acrimony: It likewiſe opens Obſtructions of the Bowels, and doth wonderfully ſtrengthen and clear the Sight. The People of Japan uſe it as the only Remedy for all ſorts of Diſeaſes of the Eyes, whereunto they are much ſubject: It corrects aduſt Humours, cools a hot Liver, and ſoftens a hard Spleen; it keeps People wakeful, eſpecially thoſe that are not us'd to drinking; it renders the Body brisk, cheers the Heart, drives away Fear, and takes off the Gripes, by ſuppreſſing Wind; it alſo ſtrengtheneth the Bowels, quickens the Memory, and ſharpens the Underſtanding. A certain Perſon travelling in Japan, made it his buſineſs to enquire about the Diſtemper call'd the Stone, but cou'd not hear of any that ever had the leaſt Symptom of it, either in the Bladder or Kidneys; it may therefore be reckon'd an excellent Fortification againſt that moſt inveterate and wracking Diſeaſe, conſidering at the ſame time what great Drinkers of it the Inhabitants of thoſe parts are. 'Tis moreover a Provocative to Venery; it ſtrengthens the Stomach, and is very good for thoſe that are afflicted with the Gout. The Price of it varies according to the largeneſs of the Leaves, and ſo great a difference there is in it, that one Pound of the beſt Tea is ſold for more than a Hundred weight of the ordinary ſort. It grows on a Shrub in Japan and China.

Thelygonos, ſo are call'd all Feminine Plants.

Thelypteris; ſee Filix.

Thenar, one of the Muſcles that draws away the Thumb; 'tis alſo taken for the Cavities within the Palm of the Hand or Sole of the Foot, or for the ſmall fleſhy Protuberances near the Fingers and Toes.

Theodoretos, an Antidote for the cold Diſeaſes of the Head.

Theophilion, a certain Collyrium.

Theophraſtici, the Followers of Paracelſus.

Theorema; ſee Theoria.

Theoretica; ſee ——

Theoria, the ſpeculative part of Phyſick; whence Theorema, a Speculation, and Theoretica, thoſe things which do actually belong to the Speculative Part of Phyſick.

Therapeutica, that part of Phyſick which delivers the method of Healing.

Thereniabin, or Tereniabin, Oriental Manna, call'd alſo Droſomeli and Aeromeli.

Theriaca, Triacle, a Medicine that expels Poiſon.

Therioma, a wild cruel Ulcer like Carcinoma; which ſee.

Thermæ, Baths. Watery and Vaporous Baths have been in uſe from all Antiquity, and held in great eſteem, both for Pleaſure and the preſervation of Health. There are no Baths in Europe of more univerſal eſteem for curing Diſeaſes, nor none more ancient, than our Engliſh Baths in Somerſetſhire. We have ancient Traditions, That King Bladud, who is reported to have liv'd in the time of Elias, firſt diſcover'd the Baths, and made tryal of 'em upon his own Son, and thereupon built the City of Bath. The Baths are principally us'd outwardly, becauſe they are moſt proper for ſuch Diſeaſes as are in the Habit of the Body, ſuch as Palſies, Contractions of the Nerves, Rheums, cold Tumors, Diſeaſes of the Skin, old Aches, and the like; and in theſe Diſtempers we uſe not only the Waters, but likewiſe the Mudd, and in ſome places the Vapour. The King's Bath is the hotteſt of all the Baths, and therefore fitteſt for all ſorts of cold Diſeaſes and phlegmatick Conſtitutions; beſides, we experience the wonderful Effects it daily works upon upon Palſies, old Aches, Sciatica's, cold Tumors, and the like, both by Evacuation by Sweat, and likewiſe by warming all the Parts affected, entirely attenuating, diſcuſſing, and reſolving the Humours; they are good alſo in Epilepſies, in Uterine Effects, in the Scurvy, and in that ſort of Dropſy which is call'd an Anaſarca. The Bath-waters are likewiſe us'd to particular parts by pumping, bucketing, or applying the Mudd. A Morning Hour is the fitteſt for bathing, after the Sun has been up an Hour or two. June, July, and Auguſt are reckon'd the moſt proper Months to bath in, as being warmeſt. The Waters being taken inwardly, do heat, dry, and mollifie; they eaſe the Cholick, comfort the Womb, cure Barrenneſs proceeding from cold Humours, and diſcharge the whole Body of all Impurities that are incorrigible, correcting ſuch as are capable of amendment; they alſo free the Body from innate Heat, or Ferments of any particular Parts, which may be oppreſs'd thro' a ſurcharge or peccancy of Humours, and reſtores or revives thoſe that otherwiſe languiſh, or ſeem ſomewhat decay'd. And all this is done, not by any one manner of Operation in them, but by their complicated working of ſundry Evacuations at one and the ſame time. 'Tis manifeſtly apparent they do operate by Stool, Urine, and inſenſible Tranſpiration, as well as by Sweat; the Effects they have in reference to inſenſible Tranſpiration are particularly evinc'd by this Obſervation of the Laundreſſes belonging to the Bath, viz. that thoſe who drink the ſaid Waters do foul their Linnen much more than other People do, or indeed than they themſelves do at other times, when yet it is equally wore. It behoveth thoſe Perſons that drink the Waters, eſpecially during the courſe of 'em, carefully to avoid all ſurcharge of Meat, and likewiſe all exceſs of Drink, and to take care that they neither indulge themſelves with too much Sleep, nor macerate or inflame their Bodies with exceſſive Watching; that they neither debilitate Nature by ſuch violent Exerciſe as may introduce a Laſſitude, nor retard the diſtribution, digeſtion, and evacuation of the Waters by Sloth and Inactivity; that ſuch Excrementitious Collections as Nature cuſtomarily produceth in human Bodies be duly evacuated, and neither too long retain'd, nor too haſtily diſcharg'd; and finally, that the Mind be compos'd into ſuch a Cheerfulneſs and good Temper, as may prevent all diſorderly Paſſions and Luſts.

Thermantica, heating Medicines.

Therminthus; ſee Terminthus.

Thermometron, natural Heat, which is perceiv'd by the Pulſe. 'Tis alſo a Pipe of Glaſs with a round Capital, whereby are diſcover'd the Degrees of Heat and Cold. A Thermometer.

Thermopilium, is call'd Taberna, in the nature of our Chocolate-Houſes, where ſweet Draughts, Juleps, and Jellies are us'd to be drank, as we do Thee and Coffee.

Thermopoſia, the drinking of hot Water, a Practice much commended formerly for curing the Scurvy.

Theſſalicus, a Methodiſt in the Practice of Phyſick.

Thlaſpi, ſive Capſella, & Scandulaceum, Naſturtium Tectorum, & Sinapi Ruſticum; by ſome it is call'd Burſa Paſtoris, from its reſemblance to that Plant; a Herb like Shepherd's Purſe.

Thlipſis, a Compreſſion of Veſſels.

Tholus Diocletis, a ſort of Bandage.

Thora, a ſort of Napellus. See Phthora.

Thoracica, Medicines for the Breaſt.

Thorax, or Medius Venter, the Cheſt; all that Cavity which is circumſcrib'd above by the Neck-bones, below by the Diaphragma, before by the Breaſt-bone, behind by the Back-bone, and on the ſides by the Ribs. 'Tis of an oval figure, it contains the Heart and Lungs, and is cover'd on the inſide with a Membrane that is call'd Pleura. Hippocrates and Ariſtotle took all that ſpace from the Neck-bone to the very Secrets, both the middlemoſt and lowermoſt Cavity, for the Thorax.

Thorexis, the drinking of a generous Wine, which warms the Breaſt.

Thoros, Semen Genitale, Sperm.

Thorybos, Tumultus, Perturbatio, ſpeaking of the Blood or Humours, a turbulent Commotion.

Thrombus, the coagulation of the Blood or Milk into Clods or Cluſters.

Thryallis, a ſort of Verbaſcum.

Thus; ſee Olibanum. 'Tis of two ſorts, the male and female; the firſt, which is the true Olibanum, is alſo call'd Melax, being pale, yellow, and of an oleaceous ſubſtance.

Thyon, Mortarium, a Mortar.

Thylacus, Sacculus, a little ſort of Bag.

Thymos, vel Thymus, a certain fleſhy and varicous Riſing upon the Skin, ſometimes white, ſometimes red, for the moſt part indolent like a Flower of Thyme; ſometimes growing upon the Glands, and ſometimes on the Prepuce, differing only in the ſize.

Thyma, the ſame with Ecthyma.

Thymbra, an aromatick Plant.

Thymelæa, is Chamælæa.

Thymiama; ſee Suffitus.

Thymion, a ſmall Wart.

Thymus, ſive Thymum, a Glandule in the Throat, which ſeparates the watery Humour call'd Lympha from the Blood, and empties it by the Lymphatick Veſſels. 'Tis alſo a fleſhy Tumor that hangs upon the Body like a Wart, in colour like the Flower of Thyme, whence it has its Name. 'Tis likewiſe the Herb call'd Thyme.

Thymus, Thyme.

Thyroarytænoides, a pair of Muſcles that proceed from the Cartilage call'd Scutiformis, and extending themſelves forward to the ſides of the Arytænoides, (the fourth and fifth part of the Larynx) rynx) ſerve to contract and cloſe the opening of the Larynx.

Thyroidææ Glandulæ, two Glandules that are of a viſcous, ſolid, and bloody ſubſtance, wonderfully adorn'd with Veſſels of all ſorts, and hard Membranes almoſt of the bigneſs and ſhape of a Hen's Egg, ſituate above the lower Teat of the Larynx, at the ſides of the Cartilages of the Thorax, Cricoides, and ſome firſt Rings of the Wind-pipe, upon which Parts they immediately lie, yet ſo as they may be eaſily ſeparated, unleſs where they ſtick ſomewhat cloſe, about the beginning and the end. Nature has plac'd 'em in thoſe Parts, that ſo they may warm 'em when cold, receive the ſuperfluous moiſture, and contribute to the Ornament of the Neck.

Thyroides, the Cartilage (call'd Scutiformis, or Clypeælis) of the Larynx; alſo the Hole of the Os Pubis.

Tibia, vel Tibiæ Os, the Leg, that part betwixt the Knee and the Ancle. It conſiſts of two Bones; one outward, call'd Focile minus; the other inward, and which has uſurp'd the Name of the whole, being call'd Tibia, or Focile majus; others call it Canna major. The upper end has a Proceſs which is receiv'd by a Cavity in the Thigh, and two oblong Cavities to admit the Heads of the Thigh-bone, the depth of which Cavities is encreas'd by a Cartilage that is annex'd thereunto by Ligaments. This Cartilage is movable, ſoft, ſlippery, moiſten'd with an unctuous Humour; 'tis thick in its circumference, but grows ſmall towards the centre, whence it is call'd Lunata, being made like a Half-Moon. There are rugged ſharp Ligaments before, which encreaſe the Lunary Cartilages; and the fore-part, which is acute and long, is call'd Spina. There is below a prominent and gibbous Proceſs in the inner ſide nigh the Foot, and is call'd Malleolus externus. One of the Ancle-bones.

Tibiæus Muſculus, the ſame with —

Tibialis Muſculus, which is two-fold, Anticus and Poſticus: The firſt bends the Foot forward, the other is reckon'd by ſome among the Adductores, by others among Extenſores.

Tigillum, the ſame as Crucibulum.

Tincones, or Buboes in the Groins.

Tinctura, a Tincture or Elixir, the extraction of the Colour, Quality, and Strength of any thing, by means of a convenient diſſolving Liquor.

Tinea, running Sores in the Head full of little holes, call'd Achores; if they continue long, or be too ſlowly or ill cured, they grow into Tinea's, cruſty ſtinking Ulcers of the Head, which gnaw and conſume its Skin: They are deſervedly reckon'd among the Diſeaſes of Children, but when they are a little grown 'tis otherwiſe with 'em; for tho' adult Perſons are ſometimes infected and troubled with this Diſeaſe, it may be reaſonably conjectur'd they indeed contracted the firſt Rudiments of it in their Infancy. 'Tis call'd Tinea

(which signifies a Moth) from those little Worms which eat and consume Cloaths, because those Ulcers prey upon the Skin of the Head, as those Animals do upon Cloaths. What the Greeks call'd this Distemper, is not very obvious.

Tinearia, is Ageratum.

Tinus, Tinnus, and Tynnus, wild Laurel.

Tinnitus Aurium, five Sibilus, a certain buzzing or tingling in the Ears, proceeding from Obstruction, or something that irritates the Ear, whereby the Air that is shut up therein is continually in motion, occasion'd by the beating of the Arteries, and the Drum of the Ear is lightly verberated.

Tintinnabulum Terræ, is Pyrola.

Tipha; see Typha.

Tithymalus, five Lactaria, and Lactuca Caprina, a sort of Spurge.

Tithymelæa, the same with Thymelæa.

Titillatio, a tickling.

Tometica, the same with Attenuantia.

Tomici Dentes; see Dentes.

Tomotocia, the same as Hysterotomia.

Tonica, those things which, being externally apply'd to and rubbed on the Limbs, strengthen the Nerves and Tendons.

Tonotica, the same with Tonica.

Tonicus, the same with Tetacus.

Tonsillæ; see Paristhmia.

Topasius, the same with Chrysolithus.

Tophus, a stony Concretion in any part.

Topiarium, an Arbour made of Shrubs or Trees.

Topica, Medicines apply'd outwardly, as a Plaister, Cataplasm, and the like.

Topinaria, the same with Talpa.

Torcular, vel Torculum, a Press to draw Oils or Juices. 'Tis also an Instrument to compress the sanguineal Vessels, when they are to take off a Limb.

Torcular Herophili, that place where the four Cavities of the thick Skin of the Brain are joined.

Tordylium, five Torgylium, Tordilium & Tordylon, Heart-wort.

Tormentilla, five Septifolium, Tormentil; it drys, and is very astringent; wherefore, there is no Remedy more proper for the Belly and Womb, than the Roots of Tormentil; besides, they are diaphoretick and alexipharmick, and therefore they are us'd in all Medicines for the Plague, and malignant Diseases, especially when Fluxes of the Belly accompany them. Moreover, they are mix'd with vulnerary Potions, Ointments, and Plaisters, for the cure of old and putrid Ulcers. Half a Dram, or a Dram of the Extract of Tormentil is much commended for the curing of an epidemick Dysentery, Rhubarb being us'd before, if there be occasion.

Tormina; see Dysenteria.

Tormina Alvi, the same with Collica Passio.

Tormina Hysterica, the Hysterick Cholick. Women of a lax and crude Habit of Body are chiefly afflicted with this Disease, and and such as have a long while before been seiz'd with some other Hysterick Disease, or which is most common, such as hardly escap'd difficult and hard Labour. A violent Pain seizes first the Region of the Ventricle, and sometimes a little betwixt it, which is follow'd by violent Vomiting of green, and sometimes yellow Matter; to which is added, as I have often observ'd, a greater Dejection of Mind and Dispair than in any Diseases whatever; after a Day or two the Pain ceases, but returns again a few Weeks after as fierce as before, and has sometimes the Jaundice accompanying it, which vanishes in a few Days, when the Symptoms are all quiet, and the Woman seems very well. Any small Commotion of the Mind, either by Anger or Grief, will recall the Pain, or Walking, or any other Exercise us'd too early.

Tormina Infantum, are Pains in the Belly of Children.

Tormina post Partum, are the Pains which Child-bed Women suffer after Delivery, when the Lochia do not flow well.

Torrefactio, a toasting, as when Rhubarb is torrify'd or dry'd by the Fire.

Toxica, is poisonous Medicaments, wherewith Barbarians use to anoint their Arrows.

Trachea, the same with Aspera Arteria.

Trachelagra, the Gout of the Neck.

Trachelium, Throat-wort; the whole Plant, especially the Root, is astringent and drying; and therefore the Decoction of it is us'd at the beginning of Ulcers, and Inflamations of the Mouth and Tonsils, and for other Diseases that require astringent Remedies.

Trachoma, a Scab, or Asperity of the inner part of the Eyelid.

Trachomaticum, a sort of Collyrium.

Tragacantha, or Tragacanthum, Gum Tragacanth, sweating out of a Root. 'Tis also call'd Spina Hirci.

Traganos, & Tragos, the same with Uva Marina.

Tragopogon, five Barba Hirci, Goats-beard; the Root boil'd is reckon'd delicate Food; 'tis also us'd raw in Sallads, it nourishes much, and therefore is good for consumptive People; 'tis us'd in Diseases of the Breast, and for a Cough, and difficulty of Breathing; 'tis suppos'd to expel the Stone, and to force Urine. The Juice of the Root and the distil'd Water do the same.

Tragea, differ not from Powders, but that the Ingredients whereof they are prepar'd, are not beat so small. And they are apply'd externally to the Body, either put to, or resolv'd into Smoak, or they are put into a Linnen Bag, and then into Wine, or other Liquor, that they may communicate their Strength and Qualities to it. Yet sometimes they are compounded of some sort of Antidotes, or Counterpoisons, and other odoriferous things, and of simple Medicines reduc'd into a Powder, with an addition of Sugar. In the making king of these, they commonly take an Ounce of Sugar to every Dram of Ingredient, especially those which are bitter and unpleasant.

Tragema, the same with Trageæ.

Tragi, Trasi, and Trassi, Dulcichinum & Ciperus, are the same thing.

Tragium, is Fraxinella.

Tragoceros, is Aloë.

Tragos, is Caprificus; see Caprificus.

Tragopyrum, is Fagopyrum; see Fagopyrum.

Tragorchis, is Satyrion Caprinum, vel Hircinum.

Tragoriganum, is Origanum Hircinum.

Tragus, the extream Brim of the Ear.

Transfusio, is taken for a singular way of transmitting the live Blood of one Animal thro' certain Ducts into the Body of another.

Transmissio, a transmission or sending any thing through.

Transmutatio, the changing of one Body into another.

Transparens, what may be seen through, the same with Diaphanous.

Transpiratio, the same as Diaphoresis.

Transversalis Musculi, the first pair shew themselves with a membranous beginning, at the transverse Processes of the Vertebra of the Loins, and at the Cartilaginous Bone of the Ilium; another pair is appointed to extend the Neck, or to bend it backward.

Transversus Musculus Humeri, the same as Rotundus Minor.

Trapezius Musculus, so call'd from its Geometrick Figure; see the Description of Cucullaris Musculus.

Traulus and Traulotes, a stammering, or fault in pronouncing the Letters L and R.

Trauma; see Troma.

Traumatica, those things that, being taken in Decoctions and Potions, fetch the serous and sharp Humours out of the Body, and so attenuate the Blood, that it may be conveniently driven to the wounded, broken, or bruis'd Parts. Vulnerary Medicines.

Trechyma, Exasperatio Intestini, a sharpness of the Guts.

Trema, Foramen, a Hole.

Tremor, a less violent convulsive Motion, call'd in English trembling or quaking.

Trepanatio, is an Operation when a living Man's Scull is perforated. A Trepanation.

Trepanum, the same with Modiolus.

Triangulare Osticulum, the triangular little Bone, is that which is plac'd betwixt the Suture called Lambdoides, and another called Sagittalis, which they say conduces to the Falling-sickness.

Triangulares Musculi; sometimes there is but one, but not always, it arises from the top of the Cubitus, and ends carnous and narrow about the middle of the same.

Tribulus, a Foot-hook or Angle.

Trica Incuborum, a Species of the Plica Polonica.

Trichiasis, the same with Phalangosis. Also hairy Urine, such as, by reason of pituitous Humours, mours, Hairs seem to swim in.

Trichismus, a very small Fracture, oftentimes no bigger than a Hair.

Trichomanes, Filicula, Capillaris, & Polytrichum, Maiden-hair.

Tricophyllon, Herbs like Fennel, or Coralline, whose Leaves are like Hairs.

Tricosis, the same with Trichiasis.

Tricoccos, the Fruit of the Medlar-tree.

Tricongius, a Measure that contains eighteen Sextaries, a Sextary being about a Pint and an half.

Tricuspides Valvulæ; see Valvulæ.

Triens, the third part of a physical Pound, containing four Ounces.

Trifolium, Trefoil.

Trifolium, Palustre; it grows commonly in marshy and watery places, and is much commended in the Scurvy, and for Pains in the Limbs; the Leaves are boil'd in Beer, and is taken twice or thrice a Day; but because it is very bitter, it is taken in a Syrup.

Trinitas, five Viola Tricolor, is Trifolium.

Triobolon, half a Dram.

Triorchis, a sort of Satyrion.

Triphyllon, is Trifolium.

Triploides, a Chirurgical Instrument with a threefold Basis, also call'd Trioides, us'd for a great Depression of the Scull.

Tripolium, Star-wort.

Tripsis, Contrition, or Contusion.

Trismus, the grinding of the Teeth, or a Convulsion of a Muscle of the Temples, whereby the Teeth gnash whether one will or no.

Trissago, & Trixago, is Scordium.

Tritæophyes, an Ague which comes every third Day.

Tritæus, the same with Febris Tertiana intermittens.

Triticum, Wheat.

Tritorium, the same with Infundibulum.

Trituratio, a pounding, whereby Medicines are reduced to Powder, that they may be the better mix'd.

Trochanter, the same with Rotator.

Trochisci, Troches, round marked Things made of Powders, mix'd with viscous Extracts, and made up into Paste, and then into round little bodies, which are to be dry'd up in the Shade. They are call'd also Pastilli.

Trochlea, the same with Bathmis; see ——

Trochlearis Musculus, the upper or greater oblique Muscle of the Eye.

Troglodytica Myrrha; see Myrrha.

Troma, a Wound from an external Cause.

Tromboſis, a Coagulation of Milk or Blood in Human Bodies. See Coagulatio.

Tromos, a Trembling, or Depravation of the voluntary Motion of the Members; the same with Tremor.

Truncus, in general is said to be that part of the great Artery and Vena Cava which descends from the Heart to the Iliac Vessels; it more especially signifies those those Branches which are sent from the great Trunk to the Viscera; as the Truncus Splenicus, Hepaticus, &c. Truncus is also call'd the Trunk of a human Body without its Head and Limbs; as also the Body of a Tree.

Trypanum, the same as Trepanum, or Modiolus.

Tryfmus; see Trismus.

Tubæ Fallopianæ, two slender Passages proceeding from the Womb; which, when they are a little remov'd from it, grow gradually wider: They have large Holes or Orifices, which almost lie shut, the extreme Edges falling flat; yet if they be diligently open'd and dilated, they represent the extreme Orifice of a brazen Pipe. Their Use is to receive the Eggs from the Testicles, and carry them into the Womb, according to the excellent R. de Graaf, the Truth of which is evident from the Inspection of Rabbets dissected.

Tuba Uteri, the same with Tubæ Fallopianæ, or the Fallopian Pipes.

Tubercula, the same with Phymata.

Tuberosa, is Indian Hyacinth. A Tuberose.

Tulipa, a Tulip.

Tulus, the same with Callus.

Tumor, a Swelling, is when the Parts of Humane Bodies are energ'd and extended beyond their Proportion, so that they cannot perform their Operations.

Tunbrigenses Aquæ, Tunbridge Waters. There are two small Springs, about four Miles Southward from the Town of Tunbridge in Kent, from which they have their Name. They are seated in a Valley, and are compass'd about with stony Hills, the which are so barren, that there grows nothing but Heath upon 'em. One may with less than half a Breath run from these Springs into Sussex. The Taste of this Water is not unpleasant to those who have any time been us'd to it, and no one is able to drink half so much of any other Liquor, tho' never so pleasant, as may be drank of this. This Water does effectually open all manner of Obstructions of the Mezeraick Veins, likewise of the Spleen and Liver, and is really better than any sort of Physick whatsoever in these cases; for these Obstructions being very stubborn, and requiring a great deal of Industry to remove 'em, the taking of Physick being irksome, People grow weary of it before a Physician can have run one fourth part of the Course that is necessary for the removal of these Obstructions, and that's the chief reason so many are troubled with tedious and lingering Chronical Diseases which in their own nature many times are not altogether incurable, but only remain uncured either because the Patient is not able, or else unwilling, to undergo the Fatigue of such a Course of Physick as is highly requisite for his Recovery. After the Patient has made use of these Waters a little while, the taking of 'em is not at all troublesome; but the longer any Person continues the use of 'em, the more he may; and and being taken in a large quantity, they must needs open the Body effectually, for which reason they are of excellent use in all Diseases that proceed from Obstructions: They infallibly cure the Dropsy, the black and yellow Jaundice, hard Swellings of the Spleen, which the common People frequently call an Ague-Cake, the Scurvy, Greensickness, the Whites, and the defect and excess of Womens monthly Purgations. This last Assertion seems to have some Repugnancy, in that we ascribe two contrary Effects to one and the same Agent; yet there is no such matter, for the one is done by opening Obstructions, and the other either by cooling the Blood when 'tis hot and sharp, and so provokes Nature to expulsion, or by corroborating and strengthening the Retentive Faculty; and besides, 'tis the Property of all equivocal Agents to vary their Operations according to the variety of their Object, or the Matter they work upon: So, for instance, the Sun melts Wax and hardens Clay. This Water cuts and attenuates tough clammy Phlegm, and upon this account is good for those Persons that are troubled with the Cholick, when such a Humour is contain'd in the Guts; it scowrs and cleanses all the Passages of the Urine, and therefore must needs be very good against the Gravel and Stone, provided the Stone be not too big to pass thro' the Ureters; for if so, 'tis safest to forbear the use of these Waters. They dissolve and wash away all phlegmatick and clammy Excrements bred in the Bladder, and which sometimes stop the passage of the Water, as if there were a Stone. 'Tis likewise good, in regard of the astringent and healing Faculty it hath, for all inward Ulcers, and especially for those of the Kidneys and Bladder; and many have been cured of a bloody Urine by the use of them. They are also good for the Bloody-flux, and for all other Fluxes of the Belly. They likewise extinguish all inward Inflamations and hot Diseases, and yet the Stomach is not hurt by the actual coldness of 'em, but rather considerably strengthen'd, and the Appetite render'd voracious at the same time. Likewise the Nerves and Original of them, the Brain, are mightily strengthen'd by the use of these Waters, and consequently they must needs be good against the Palsy, Apoplexy, Lethargy, and the like. Convulsions, Head-ach, and Giddiness are also driven away by the use of 'em, if the Patient drink 'em constantly. They are us'd with very good success for Vomiting and the Hickups. Hypochondriack Melancholy is remov'd by 'em; they likewise kill Worms, and are counted of great use in Barrenness. Summer is the fittest time for drinking these Waters; but in general whenever the Weather is clear and dry, you may be assur'd they are then best, as well in Winter as in Summer; for in hard frosty Weather they are commonly reckon'd strongest. As to the time of the Day, the Morning, when the

the Sun is an hour high, or thereabouts, is the fitteſt time to drink them. You are to drink them in as ſmall a ſpace of time as conveniently you can without oppreſſing your Stomach; and you muſt be ſure to take care not to ſweat when you begin to drink. After each Glaſs, or every two Glaſſes, according as you find your Conſtitution able to cope with it, 'twill be convenient for you to chew ſome Carraway-Comfits, Coriander-ſeeds, Galingal, Zedoary, Elecampane, Angelica Root, or the like, to help the digeſtion and permeation of the Waters; to forward which alſo 'tis requiſite you uſe Exerciſe, and endeavour to be as merry as you can. As to what quantity is neceſſary to be drank in one Morning, 'tis a matter which cannot juſtly be defin'd, in regard of the difference of Bodies, Age, Sex, Strength, and other circumſtances; but, generally ſpeaking, thoſe that are able to drink moſt, receive moſt Benefit thereby, eſpecially if the Waters permeate freely; but in this (as in all other caſes) People muſt obſerve what beſt agrees with 'em; however, 'tis beſt to riſe by degrees, encreaſing the quantity daily till you drink two or three Quarts in a Day; and ſo you muſt decreaſe by degrees, ending with the ſame quantity you began with. A ſet time for drinking (or continuing) theſe Waters can't be limited, becauſe in ſome Diſeaſes a few Weeks ſuffice, in others divers Months are required. As to Diet, let every one feed on that which he has been moſt accuſtom'd to, ſo it be good Meat, yields good Nouriſhment, and is eaſie of digeſtion; but Sauces made with Butter muſt be avoided. In a word, a ſober moderate Diet is always the beſt, but eſpecially during the Courſe of theſe Waters. The Directions which have been given for drinking theſe Tunbridge Waters may ſerve all other Chalybeate Waters, as Iſlington, Hampſtead, Wickham, Sunning-hill, and the like; but it is to be obſerv'd, that tho' theſe Waters are an Empirical Remedy, yet they muſt not be us'd altogether empirically, but with Reaſon, Diſcretion, and Circumſpection, otherwiſe Damage rather than Benefit may reaſonably be expected from the uſe of 'em.

Tunetanus Flos, is Flos Africanus.

Tunica, is Betonica.

Tunica, the ſame as Membrana, or a Rhind or Bark among Trees and Roots.

Tunica Cornea; ſee Cornea Tunica.

Tunica Retiformis; ſee Retina and Amphibleſtroides.

Turbith, or Turpetum, 'tis ſuppos'd to be a purging Root of ſome Indian Convolvulus.

Turbith Minerale, ſeu Turpethum Minerale, a yellow Powder prepar'd out of Mercury.

Turbo, among Vegetables, what is of a Conick Figure is ſo called.

Turgeſcentia Humorum, the ſame as Orgaſmus.

Turiones, the tender Tops of Trees that grow yearly.

Turritis, vel Turrita, a ſort of Naſturtium.

Turunda, the ſame with Turundula.

Turundula, a Tent put into Wounds or Ulcers.

Tus, the ſame with Thus.

Tuſſedo, the ſame with Tuſſis.

Tuſſilago, ſeu Farfara, Colts-foot. The freſh Leaves are apply'd outwardly to hot Ulcers and Inflamations, but they being dry'd, are pretty acrid and hot; the Fume of 'em receiv'd into the Mouth thro' a Tunnel, and ſwallow'd down the Throat, or elſe ſmoak'd in a Tobacco-pipe, is good for a Cough, difficulty of breathing, and an Ulcer of the Lungs. A Syrup prepar'd of the Leaves is good for the ſame uſe. Mr. Boyle ſays, That the Leaves powder'd with Saffron and Amber, and ſmoak'd in a Tobacco-pipe, has cured a Conſumption.

Tuſſis, a Cough; 'tis a vehement Efflation of the Breaſt, whereby that which is offenſive to the Organs of Breathing is expel'd, purely by the force of the Air.

Tutia, or Cadmia Factitia, is nothing elſe but the Soot of Braſs ſticking to the Furnace in the fuſion of Metal. It is chiefly uſed in Chirurgery, for old and ill-condition'd Ulcers; for, being ſprinkled upon them, it drys much, deſtroying the corrupt Ferment of 'em, and ſo incarns and cicatrizes. Cadmia being prepar'd by Fire, and then extinguiſh'd, is call'd Prepar'd Tutty, which is good for Diſeaſes of the Eyes, the Powder thereof being blown into 'em for Inflamations and Ulcers. An Ointment is commonly made of it, and us'd for the Eyes, but it is very proper to mix with it a Grain or two of Camphire, Saffron, or the like.

Tyloma, the ſame as Callus.

Tympanias, the ſame with Tympanites.

Tympanites, Tympanias, ſeu Aqua intercus Sicca, a Tympany, is a fix'd, conſtant, equal, hard, reſiſting Tumor of the Abdomen; which being beat, ſounds. It proceeds from a ſtretching Inflation of the Parts, and of the Membranaceous Bowels, whoſe Fibres are too much ſwoln with animal Spirits, and hinder'd from receding by the Nervous Juice which obſtructs the Paſſage; to which Diſtemper there is conſequently added, as the Compliment of all, an abundance of flatulent Matter in the places that are empty.

Tympanum, the Drum of the Ear, a ſmall, thin, orbicular, tranſparent Membrane, ſtretched over the Cavity of the inner part of the Ear, which contains the natural congenite Air: Its Uſe is Hearing. 'Tis alſo a Cavity in the Ear, call'd Concha.

Typha, ſeu Tipha, a Plant growing in Marſhes, Cats-Tail.

Typhodes, a ſymptomical, continued, burning Fever, as if it were from the Inflamation of the Bowels. The Patient ſweats much from the firſt beginning, but without much Relief.

Typhomania, a Delirium, with a Phrenzy, and a Lethargy; ſee Coma Vigil.

Ty-

Typhonia, the ſame.

Typus, or Periodus, and Circuitus, an Order of Fevers, conſiſting of Intenſion and Remiſſion, or encreaſing and decreaſing at certain times.

Tyria, the ſame with Ophiaſis.

Tyriaſis, the ſame with Elephantiaſis and Satyriaſis.

Tyroides; ſee Thyroides.

Tyro, or Tyrocinium, a Novice, lately admitted to the Study of Phyſick. Or a compendious Comprehenſion of the Art and its Precepts. An Introduction.

Tyroſis, Milk, which eaten curdles into a Subſtance like that of Cheeſe.

V

V*Acaria*, Thorow-wax, a Decoction of the Herb in Wine, or the Leaves powder'd, are given for Ruptures and Contuſions; 'tis alſo us'd for the King's-Evil, and for Fractures.

Vaccinia Nigra vulgaris, common Bilberries; the Berries are cooling and aſtringent, they are very agreeable to an hot Stomach, and quench Thirſt; they cure a Looſeneſs, and the Bloody-flux, occaſion'd by Choler, and are good in the Diſeaſe call'd Cholera Morbus; they ſtop Vomiting, and take off Feveriſh Heats. A Syrup made of the Juice of the Berries is moſt agreeable, viz. Take of the Juice ſtrained one Pint, of fine Sugar one Pound and an half, boil it to a Syrup over a gentle Fire, and keep it for uſe. You may take one ſpoonful at a time, either alone or mix'd with three Ounces of ſome proper Water.

Vacuatio; ſee Evacuatio.

Vacui dies, thoſe Days wherein an imperfect and ill Criſis frequently happens, and thoſe are 6, 8, 10, 12, 16, 18; to which ſome add, 22, 23, 25, 29, 30, 32, 33, 35, 38, 39. Theſe are alſo call'd Medicinal Days, becauſe Medicines may be given upon them.

Vaga Arthritis; ſee Arthritis Vaga.

Vagina Uteri, 'tis alſo call'd Matrix, Uteri Oſtium, Uteri Cervix; that Paſſage in which a Man's Yard is ſheath'd, as it were, in Coition; 'tis plac'd in the Hypogaſtrium, and is of an oblong Figure, and of different Magnitude, according to the Age of the Woman, and her Uſe of Men; its upper part is as thick as the breadth of a Straw, but the lower twice or thrice as thick again. 'Tis about as broad as the Gut Rectum, nervous and wrinkled within. 'Tis perforated with a great many little Pores, eſpecially in the lower part, about the end of the Urinary Paſſage.

Vagina Portæ, the ſame with Capſula Gliſſonii.

Vagina Hepatica, the ſame with Capſula Communis Gliſſonii.

Vaginalis Tunica; ſee Elythroides.

Valeriana Hortenſis, Garden Valerian; the Root and Herb are very diuretick; half a Spoonful of the Powder of the Root before the Stalk ſprings, taken once or twice in Wine, Water or Milk, relieves thoſe that are ſeiz'd with the Falling-ſickneſs; and Sylvius reckons reckons it more effectual in this caſe than the Roots of male Peony; the Leaves bruis'd are commonly apply'd to all ſlight Wounds, upon which account it is call'd Cut-finger; it purges upwards and downwards.

Valerianella, is a Diminutive of Valeriana.

Valetudinarius, Sickly.

Valetudo, either a good or ill Diſpoſition of the Parts of the Body.

Valgus, he whoſe Feet and Legs turn outwards.

Valvulæ, little thin Membranes in Veſſels or Fibres, like Folding-doors as it were; they have receiv'd different Names, according to the Diverſity of their Figuration; as Sigmoides, like an Half-moon, &c. They are found in Veins, Arteries, Lymphatick, and Lacteal Veſſels, and in muſculous Fibres, which were firſt diſcover'd by our Curioſity, and of which we have diſcours'd in a particular Tract. The Uſe of them is to hinder the Blood, and other Liquors, from returning the ſame way they came.

Valvulæ, Valves, alſo found in the Inteſtines, in the ſmall and great Guts, eſpecially in the Jejunum, and about the beginning of the Ileum, which are call'd Semicircular from their figure. Theſe Valves or Folds grow more and more oblique by little and little, the nearer you come to the Ileum, and at the beginning of the Ileum they are leſs oblique than farther on. In like manner, near the end of the Jejunum, they are gradually more and more diſtant from one another, and ſo in the Ileum too. At the beginning and in the middle of the Jejunum, they are ſcarce diſtant half a Thumb's breadth, in the Ileum a whole Thumb's breadth and more. They yield a little, if thruſt with your Finger, and move here and there. At the beginning of the Colon there is a fleſhy and circular Valve, beſides ſeveral others in that Gut. The Uſe of them is to ſtop the Meat a little, that it may be the better fermented, the Chyle diſtributed; the adjacent Parts be cheriſh'd with heat; and laſtly, that it aſcend not again.

Vapor, the Vapour is properly call'd an Humour diſſolv'd into Air, an extenuated or rarefy'd Humour, ſuch as is daily exhal'd naturally by the Spiracles of the Skin. A Vapour is thicker Air made directly from Water reſolv'd.

Vaporarium, ſive Æſtuarium, is when the Patient does not ſit in Liquor, but receives Vapours thro' an hole, under which there is plac'd a Pot full of appoſite and boiling hot Ingredients, unto which, as they become cool, freſh Matter is added.

Variciformes Paraſtatæ, ſo call'd becauſe they have many Turnings, that they may work the Seed the better.

Varicoſum Corpus, that Contexture of ſpermatick Veſſels which enters the Teſticles. 'Tis alſo call'd Corpus Pampiniforme, & Corpus Pyramidale.

Variolæ, the Small-pox, conſiſts in a contagious Diſorder of the Blood, contracted from the Air, or otherwiſe, accompany'd with a continued wandering Fever, which ſometimes encreaſes, and ſometimes decreaſes, with a Pain in the Head and Loins, Anxiety, and Inquietude, alſo a breaking forth of Pimples or Wheals, which ſwell and ſuppurate. The famous Willis attributes the Cauſe of this Diſtemper to ſome filthy and fermentative Matter, which is communicated to the Fœtus together with the Nouriſhment from the Womb; but how this can hold in adult Perſons, whoſe Blood has undergone ſo many Alterations, I could never yet underſtand from his Writings. It ſeems rather to conſiſt in a depravd Temperature of Air, with a peculiar Diſpoſition of the Blood and Nervous Juice, towards this Diſtemper. This poiſonous Quality of the Air firſt infects the nervous Juice (whence proceeds the Pain of the Head and Loins) wherewith the Blood boils and ferments, and parts into little Pieces or Clods, which in the courſe of Circulation ſtick to the outward Parts, and to the inner Viſcera too; and after a while they grow ripe and ſuppurate.

Varix; ſee Cirſos.

Varus; ſee Fonthus. Varus is likewiſe taken for the Rheumatiſm.

Vas Breve; ſee Breve vas.

Vaſa, the Veſſels; Cavities thro' which the Liquors of the Body paſs; as a Vein, an Artery, Lymphatick Veſſels, the Ductus that conveys the Chyle, and thoſe of the Spittle.

Vaſa Capillaria; ſee Capillaria Vaſa.

Vaſa Deferentia, thoſe Veſſels which carry the Seed from the Teſticles to the Seminal Bladders.

Vaſa Præparantia; ſee Præparantia Vaſa.

Vaſa Lactea, the Milky Veſſels in the Meſentery; they that reach from the Guts, eſpecially the ſmall Guts, to the Glandules in the Meſentery, are ſaid to be of the firſt ſort; and they that reach from thoſe Glandules to the Bag that carries the Chyle, are of the ſecond ſort. Their Uſe is to convey the Chyle from the Guts to the little Bag that holds the Chyle, and thence to the Ductus, which conveys it along the Thorax. Aſellius was the firſt who diſcover'd them, and the dexterous F. Ruiſchius afterwards diſcover'd Valves in them.

Vaſa Lymphatica; ſee Venæ Lymphaticæ.

Vaſa Seminalia, thoſe Veins and Arteries that paſs to the Teſticles, commonly call'd Præparantia, or preparing Veſſels.

Vaſa Spermatica, the ſame with Vaſa Seminalia.

Vaſti Muſculi, they extend the Tibia.

Vectis; ſee Modiolus.

Veel Gutta, is Oreoſelinum.

Vegetabile, a Plant, or Tree.

Vehiculum; ſee Ochema.

Velamentum Bombicinum, the Velvet Membrane of the Guts.

Vena, a Vein; the Species of them are the Vena Cava, the Vena Portæ, the Lymphatick and milky Veins. Arteries are ſometimes taken for Veins. They conſiſt of four Tunicks, a Nervous, a Glandulous, a Muſcular, and a Mem-

Membranaceous one. The Branches of the Vena Cava above the Heart, are call'd Jugular Veins, which go towards the Head; they which go towards the Arms, are call'd Axillary; that about the Heart, Coronary; in the Lungs, Pulmonary; in the Liver, Hepatick, or Liver-Vein; in the Diaphragme, Phrenica; in the Thighs, Crural; in the Reins, Emulgent; and so from its various Ramification, 'tis variously denominated. Venæ, or Veins, are also call'd the Fibres in the Leaves of Vegetables.

Vena Azygos, vel Sine Pari, vel Sugo; see Azygos.

Vena Portæ, is only in the Abdomen, and extends its Roots to the Liver, Spleen, Ventricle, Mesentery, Intestines, Pancreas, Caul, &c. The Office of the Vena Cava and Portæ, is to convey the Blood, that is, more than what serves for Nourishment, to the Liver, Heart, or Lungs.

Venæ Lymphaticæ, the Lymphatick Veins receive the Lympha from the conglobated Glandules, and discharge themselves either into the Sanguinary Veins, or into the Receptacle of the Chyle.

Venæ Lacteæ; see Vasa Lactea.

Venæ Sectio, the opening of a Vein, which is either for Evacuation, Revulsion, or to drive the Blood to another Part, &c. In Bleeding, respect must always be had to the Strength of the Person. There never ought to be taken away above a Pound; but the better way is, to take away first six or eight Ounces, and if occasion require, to repeat the Operation. A Vein is to be cut according to the length of the Fibres, and not across, or transverse.

Venenum, Venom.

Venerea Lues; see Lues Venerea.

Veneris æstrum, the same with Clitoris.

Venter is threefold, Uppermost, Middle, and Lowermost.

Venter Equinus, Horse-dung is so call'd by the Chymists, because they use it, by reason of its moderate Heat, in the Digestions and Extractions of their Tinctures.

Venter Infimus; see Hypogastrium.

Ventosa; see Cicurbitula.

Ventres; see Cavitates.

Ventriculus, the Stomach, is a Membranous Bowel in the Abdomen, under the Diaphragm, betwixt the Liver and Spleen, consisting of four Tunicks, a Nervous, Fibrous, Glandulous, and Membranous one. It has two Orifices, one on the Right-hand, call'd Pylorus, or Janitor, whereat the Meat is sent out into the Guts; another on the Left-hand, at which the Meat enters. Its Office is to concoct or ferment the Meat; 'tis also call'd Stomachus and Aqualiculus.

Ventriculi Cerebri, the Ventricles of the Brain are four; the Use of them is to receive the serous Humours, and to bring them by the Pelvis to the pituitary Glandule; or into the Processus Mamillares, by the Os Cribriforme, to the Nostrils. They are nothing but Complications of the Brain, which happen'd there as it were by accident.

Ventriculi Cordis, the Ventricles of the Heart are two; the firſt or right Ventricle receives the Blood from the Vena Cava, and ſends it to the Lungs; the left receives the Blood from the Lungs, and ſends it thro' the whole Body by the Arteria Aorta. In the Syſtole or Contraction of the Ventricles, the Blood is ſent out. In the Diaſtole or Dilatation, 'tis let into the Heart. Yet others explain it on the contrary, becauſe they do not underſtand Greek.

Veratrum, is the ſame with Helleboro; ſee Elleborus.

Verbaſcum Album vulgare, white Mullein; 'tis us'd for Diſeaſes of the Breaſt, for a Cough, and ſpitting of Blood, and for the Gripes. Outwardly the Leaves and Flowers are us'd for eaſing Pain, eſpecially of the Piles; the Leaves apply'd to the Soles of the Feet, a few Days before the uſual time of Purgation, gently provoke the Courſes. 'Tis alſo call'd Tapſus Barbatus, Candela Regis, Candelaria, Lanaria.

Verbena, Verbenaca, Columbaris, Columbina, Vervain; ſo many Vertues are attributed by Authors to this Plant, that it would tire one to reckon them up. It is Cephalick and Vulnerary; 'tis us'd for Obſtructions of the Liver and Spleen, for the Stone, for Diſeaſes of the Eyes and Breaſt, for the Gripes, the Bloody-flux, a Tertian Ague, to heal Wounds, and to haſten Delivery; 'tis us'd outwardly for the Headach, Pain of the Teeth, redneſs and weakneſs of the Eyes, for Quinzays and ſwellings of the Glandules of the Jaws, for the falling of the Fundament, for cleanſing of Ulcers, and for Pains of the Spleen; 'tis reckon'd a Specifick for Pains of the Head, from whatever Cauſe they proceed; the diſtill'd Water is apply'd outwardly to the Head, and four Ounces are taken inwardly with four Drops of Spirit of Salt. Toreſtus ſays, he knew two who were cur'd of the Headach, only by hanging of the green Herb about their Neck, when many other Medicines were us'd to no purpoſe; ſee Periſteon.

Vermes; ſee Lumbrici.

Veretrum, the ſame with Penis, ſeu Membrum virile.

Vermicularis Cruſta, the ſame as Velamentum Bombycinum.

Vermicularis, is the leſſer Houſleek.

Vermiculatum, ſpeaking of Plants, is a Colour reſembling a Blood-red Roſe.

Vermiformis Proceſſus, is the Prominence of the Cerebellum; ſo call'd from its figure or ſhape.

Vermifuga, the ſame with Anthelmintica.

Vermilion, that is, Cinabar, or red Lead.

Vermis Cerebri; ſee Febris Hungarica.

Vernaculus Morbus, the ſame as Endemius.

Vernix, Verniſium, & Sandaracha, ſive Gummi Juniperinum, is Varniſh.

Veronica, Mas Supina, is Male Speed-web; 'tis Vulnerary and Sudorifick; 'tis us'd in Obſtructions of the Lungs and Spleen, for the Cholick, Conſumption, Plague, Wounds, and the Itch; a large Doſe of the Decoction taken taken for ſome time, expell'd a Stone from the Kidney of a Woman, that had been there ſixteen Years. A Woman that had been barren ſeven Years, Conceiv'd, by taking the Powder of it in the diſtill'd Water of the Herb for many Days; the Syrup of it is of great Uſe in Diſeaſes of the Lungs. One that had an incurable Ulcer in his Leg, found preſent eaſe, by dipping Rags in the Water, and applying them to it; it took off the Inflamation and all the Symptoms that accompany it. One that had a Fiſtula in the Breaſt, and had us'd ſeveral Medicines in vain, was cur'd by the inward Uſe of this Water. Scabby Children have been cur'd by Rags dip'd in this Water and preſs'd out, and apply'd over the Scabs, when all other Medicines would do no good, but 'tis convenient for the Nurſe to take Fumatory in Whey at the ſame time.

Verricularis Tunica, the ſame as Amphibleſtroides Tunica.

Verrucæ, five Acrochordones, is Warts, a ſort of Tubercula; they are call'd alſo Porri, becauſe if you look into the tops of them, they ſeem to reſemble the Capillaments, or little Threads of Onions. They are an hard, high, callous, little Tuberculum, or Swelling, which breaks out of the Skin, and breeds in any part of the Body.

Verrucaria, Turnſole; becauſe it cures and clears Warts. One ſort of Lettice is ſo call'd, becauſe 'tis good for the ſame purpoſe.

Vertebra; ſee Spondylus.

Vertex, the Crown of the Head, the gibbous middle part betwixt the fore and back part of the Head.

Verticilli, the ſame with Cotyledones.

Verticillum, the outmoſt Extremity or Border in the Leaves of Plants and Flowers, which encompaſs their Stalks and Leaves.

Vertego; ſee Scotomia.

Veſania, Madneſs from Love.

Veſica, the Bladder; an hollow Membranaceous Part, whereby any Liquor that is to be excerned, is contain'd; as the Bladder, that contains the Urine; the Gall, the Seed.

Veſica biliaria, the ſame with Folliculus fellis.

Veſica diſtillatoria, a Brazen or Copper Veſſel, which contains any thing that is to be diſtilled.

Veſica Ænea, is the ſame.

Veſica Urinaria, the Bladder; in Men it is faſten'd to the latter Inteſtinum Rectum; but in Women it reaches the Womb: Being faſten'd to the Sheath, it receives the Urine from the Ureters, and immediately empties it through the Urinary Paſſage or Chanel.

Veſicaria, is Alkekengi, Winter-Cherry; the Berries are diuretick, nephritick, and lithontriptick. They are reckon'd of admirable uſe in the Jaundice, both black and yellow, and may be either infus'd in Wine, boil'd in Poſſet-drink, or powder'd and taken in any convenient Liquor. A certain Perſon happening to take eight of the Cherries every Change of the Moon, was cured of the Gout effectually, tho' before he was very miserably tormented with it. Take of Chyos Turpentine two drams, of the Balsam of Tolu half a dram, mix 'em with a sufficient quantity of the Troches of Alkekengi, and thereof make middling Pills: Doubtless you'll soon experience their admirable Vertues in the cure of the Stone in the Kidneys, by taking four of 'em upon going to Bed.

Vesicatoria, are a sort of actual Cauteries, or Medicines which act upon and rarifie the Spirits and serous Particles, and gather them between the Skin and Cuticula, (the thin fine Skin) and consequently doth separate them again, raising a parcel of little Bladders full of serous Matter. Vesicatories, or Blistering Plaisters.

Vesiculæ Adiposæ; see Sacculi Adiposi.

Vesicula Fellis; see Folliculus Fellis.

Vesiculæ Seminales, are found in Men only, and are placed betwixt the Bladder and the right Gut.

Vespertilionum alæ, Bats-wings, two broad membranous Ligaments, on each side one, wherewith the bottom of the Womb is loosely ty'd to the Bones of the Flank. Aretæus likens them to Wings of a sort of Bird call'd a Batt.

Veterinaria Medicina, commonly call'd Mulomedicina, Medicine for Cattle.

Veternus; see Lethargus.

Vetonica, Vettonica, Vettonicum, is Betonica.

Vibex; see Enchymoma.

Vibratio, an involuntary Agitation and Motion of the Body and its Members.

Vibrissæ, the Hairs in the Nostrils.

Viburnum, Wayfaring-Tree; The Leaves and Berries are drying and astringent; they are frequently us'd for Inflamations of the Throat, for raising the Almonds of the Ears, for relaxation of the Uvula, and likewise to settle the Teeth when they are loose; they are also good against Fluxes of the Belly: A Decoction of the Leaves makes the Hairs black, and prevents their falling. The Berries are first green, then red, and lastly black; some of the Country People presume to eat 'em.

Vicia, Vetches.

Victorialis, broad Garlick.

Victoriola; see Laurus Alexandrina.

Victus Ratio, a Method of Living whereby Health is preserv'd and Diseases repel'd by things convenient. It consists chiefly in the use of things call'd Non-Naturals, not Natural, (which see in their proper place) and is in Diseases threefold, viz. thick, moderate, thin; the thin is again either simply thin, more thin, or thinnest of all. Vide Diæta.

Vigilia, Watching, an agitation and expansion of the animal Spirits in the Pores of the Brain, whereby the Motion of Objects are easily represented to the common Sensory by the external Organs, which Spirits, if they are too much expanded and agitated

ted, cauſe a continued and long Watching.

Vigilia Nimia, the ſame with Agrypnia.

Vigor Morbi; ſee Acme.

Villi, the Word is reſtrain'd to thoſe little Fibres of the Muſcles that enter into and compoſe the Tendon.

Viltrum, the ſame with Filtrum.

Vinacei, Grape-kernels, which after preſſing are thrown away with the Husks.

Vinca Pervinca; ſee Pervinca.

Vincetoxicum, is Hirundinaria, ſeu Aſclepias. See Hirundinaria.

Vinum, Wine. There are very great quantities of excellent Wines in Spain, Italy, Sicily, and ſome parts of France, as Burgundy, Compeigne, &c. but the Wine call'd Setinum was moſt eſteem'd by the Ancients. The Wines that are now moſt valuable and in the greateſt eſteem with us, are theſe, viz. Claret, Burgundy Wine, Frontigniac, Hermitage, and Champain, all which come from France; but Canary Sack, Malaga Sack, Sherry, Alicant Wine, and O-porto, come from the Kingdom of Spain. From the Iſland of Crete is brought red Muſcadine; from Germany, Rheniſh. As Wine is far wholſomer than Beer, Mead, or Syder, and indeed than any other Engliſh Liquor now-a-days, ſo rough Wines, tho' they are not pleaſing to the Palate, are counted better for the Stomach, and alſo to help Concoction, ſuch as Claret and Florentine Wine. Omphacium is the unripe Juice of the Grape; 'tis generally ſtrein'd, and kept in a Veſſel cloſe ſtopt. It cools and drys, and is not only us'd in Phyſick, but likewiſe with Food in Sauces. It takes away Nauſeouſneſs, excites Appetite, ſtops the Flux of the Belly, and mightily mitigates the heat of the Stomach and Bowels, being taken inwardly. Outwardly apply'd, it clears the Sight. In ſhort, it is much better for all hot Diſeaſes than any ſort of Vinegar. Sapa is new Wine boil'd to the conſumption of a third part, and Defrutum is new Wine boil'd to the conſumption of half. Wine moderately drank, rejoices the Heart, encreaſes the Vigour of the Body, produces a certain Gaiety of Mind, and is undoubtedly very profitable for all the Functions of the Body; nevertheleſs, when 'tis us'd to exceſs, it cauſes many Miſchiefs, as Apoplexies, Palſies, Gout, Dropſy, and a long train of many other diſmal Diſtempers, which are the uſual Conſequents of Intemperance. Spirit of Wine frequently ſerves for a Menſtruum to a great many things in Chymiſtry. Half a ſpoonful of it is given to Apoplectical and Lethargical People, to bring them their Senſes; in like manner they have their Wriſts, Breaſt, and Face rubb'd therewith. 'Tis an excellent Remedy for Burns, if apply'd ſo ſoon as they happen; and 'tis likewiſe very good in all cold Pains, for the Palſy, Contuſion, and other Maladies wherein 'tis requiſite to diſcuſs and open the Pores. Vinegar is alſo made by ſetting Wine in the Sun, or ſome hot place, in any Wooden or Earthen Veſſel, or otherwiſe by keeping it a long time. Vinegar is frequently us'd both in Phyſick and Food; beſides, Pickles and Sauces are uſually made of it, to promote Concoction and excite an Appetite. 'Tis moſt commonly us'd in Phyſick to allay all Feveriſh Heats, and likewiſe to prevent Putriſaction, as alſo to cut the Phlegm and glutinous Humours, that they may thereby be render'd fitter to be expectorated. Being outwardly us'd, it cures the Itch, the Herpes, and the like; but 'tis at the ſame time very injurious to the Nerves and Nervous Parts; it alſo makes the Body lean.

Vinum Catharticum, Purging Wine. Take of Sena two ounces, white Tartar eight ſcruples, of White-wine a quart, Spirit of Wine four ounces; infuſe it cold for three days, and then extract the Tincture, of which take four ounces, either by it ſelf or with Oil of Aniſeed two drops, or Syrup of Roſes half an ounce.

Vinum Chalybeatum, or Steel-Wine. Take Filings of Steel or Iron two ounces, and the Juice of eight Oranges, infuſe them together twenty-four hours, then add two quarts of Whitewine, Cinamon two ounces, Cloves two drams, Mace four ſcruples; infuſe warm for four days. The Doſe is ſix ſpoonfuls twice a day.

Vinum Diureticum, a Diuretick Wine. This is made by an Infuſion of any Lixiviate Salt upon Whitewine, as Salt of Broom or Wormwood, two drams to one quart of Wine, which is good in Dropſies, Vomiting, intermitting Fevers, &c. 6 or 8 ſpoonfuls twice a day.

Vinum Cos, a Wine of good Colour, Smell, and Taſte.

Vinum Hydropicum, Wine againſt the Dropſy. Take Florentine Orrice Root two ounces, Enula Campana and Squills, of each two drams; Elder and Dwarf-Elder-Bark, of each one ounce; Winters Bark two drams, Sena two ounces; black Hellebore, Agarick, and Jalap, of each two drams; of Whitewine two quarts; infuſe cold. This is a moſt excellent Remedy in any Obſtruction and Stoppage of the regular Motion of the Blood, as alſo to procure plenty of Urine. The Doſe is eight ſpoonfuls in the Morning.

Vinum Hippocraticum, a Wine wherein Sugar and Spices have been infus'd, and is afterwards ſtrein'd thro' a Bag which they call Manica Hippocratis; which ſee.

Vinum Ictericum, Jaundice-Wine. Take Roots of Turmerick two ounces, of Saffron two ſcruples, Coccheneal four ſcruples, Millepedes n° 320, Canary one quart; infuſe cold, and take four ounces at a time twice a day.

Vinum Medicatum, a Wine wherein ſeveral Medicines have been infus'd for the uſe of ſick People; or when the Ingredients being put into new Wine, they are immediately fermented with it.

Vinum Pectorale, a Pectoral Wine; to prepare which, take of the the Juice of Spaniſh Liquorice one ounce, Saffron a ſcruple, of Coriander, Carui, Aniſeed, each two drams, Salt of Tartar two ounces, Peony-royal and Hyſſop Waters of each four ounces, Canary Wine one quart; digeſt cold, and take four ſpoonfuls at a time frequently in a day.

Vinum Scorbuticum, Scurvy-Wine. Take of Garden Scurvy-graſs one handful, Horſe-radiſh Roots half an ounce, Winters-Bark two drams, Whitewine and Water diſtil'd from Arum of each one pint; infuſe cold twenty-four hours. The Doſe is ſix ſpoonfuls twice a day, in a draught of Diet-drink.

Vinum Stomachicum, Stomach-Wine. Take Cloves, Galangal, Cubebs, Mace, Nutmegs, Saffron, of each one dram, Cochineal half a dram, Canary three pints; infuſe cold all Night, and take three or four ſpoonfuls at a time for Weakneſs, Ructations, Wind, Coldneſs, and other Complaints of the Stomach.

Vinum Viperinum, Viper-wine. Take female Vipers in Spring-time n° vj, the beſt Spaniſh-wine ſix pints; infuſe in a cloſe Veſſel well ſtopt without Fire for ſix months, and then ſtrain for uſe. This is a very good Medicine in the Leproſy, Elephantiaſis, Barrenneſs, Plague, or any contagious Diſeaſe. The Doſe is three or four ounces taken twice a day.

Viola, Violet; the Leaves are cooling, the Flowers moiſten, cool, and mollifie; they are reckon'd among the Cordial Flowers; they are chiefly us'd in Fevers, to abate the heat and to eaſe the pain of the Head occaſion'd by it. They are likewiſe reckon'd of excellent uſe for all Coughs, Pleuriſies, &c. The Seed is lithontriptick, but the Syrup is moſt in uſe.

Viola Matronalis, Dames Violet. See Matronalis Flos.

Viorna, ſeu Vitis alba, Travellers Joy.

Viperina; ſee Echium.

Virago, formerly call'd an Amazon, or a maſculine Woman as to Figure, Strength, or Inclinations.

Virga Paſtoris; ſee Dipſacus.

Virga; ſee Penis.

Virga, among Botanicks, is any out-jutting from the Roots or Stalks of Plants. Some call Virgæ Sprouts or Suckers.

Virginale Clauſtrum; ſee Hymen.

Virgineus Morbus; ſee Chloroſis.

Virgultum, is a ſmall Twig put into the Ground in order to grow.

Viride Æris; ſee Ærugo.

Viroſus, poiſonous.

Virus, a running Humour: Sometimes it imports as much as Semen; which ſee in its proper place. It alſo ſignifies any corrupt Matter iſſuing from ſtinking Wounds.

Viſcaria, is Muſcipula, ſo call'd becauſe its clammy Leaves catch Flies.

Viſcera, Organs contain'd in the three great Cavities of the Body; they are call'd alſo Exta and Interranea. The Bowels or Entrails.

Viſcum, or Viſcus, Miſſeltoe:

It grows on Apple-trees, Pear-trees and Crabb-trees, likewiſe Aſh-trees and Oak-trees, but that which grows on the Oak-trees is generally look upon to be the beſt; beſides, it grows alſo on the Barberry-tree and on the Haſel. The Wood is chiefly uſed for the Falling-ſickneſs, and is counted a Specifick for it; it is alſo us'd for Apoplexies and Giddineſs, either taken inwardly in powder, or hung about the Neck; in all which Diſeaſes it is reckon'd very prevalent by both ancient and modern Phyſicians. The Powder of it is likewiſe of great uſe in the Cure of a Pleuriſie, and provokes the Courſes. Some think that Miſſeltoe which grows on the Haſel-tree is much better than any other for the Falling-ſickneſs and Diſeaſes of the Head, eſpecially than that which grows on the Oak: For inſtance, A young Lady having been troubled ſome conſiderable time with a hereditary Falling-ſickneſs, and after having been wearied with the fatigue of ſeveral Courſes of Phyſick, preſcrib'd by the moſt eminent Phyſicians that could be procur'd, without mending at all, but rather growing worſe, inſomuch that ſometimes ſhe would have eight or ten diſmal Fits in one Day; ſhe was wonderfully cured by taking as much of the Powder of Miſſeltoe as would lie on a Six-pence, it being given early in the Morning for ſome Days, near the Full of the Moon, in Blackcherry-water, or in Beer.

Viſus, Sight, a Senſe whereby Light and Colours are perceiv'd, from the motion of ſubtile Matter upon the Tunica Retina of the Eye.

Vita, Life, or the Courſe of Life from our Birth to the time of Death.

Vitalia, the ſame with Cardiaca.

Vitalis Facultas, the Vital Faculty, an Action whereby a Man lives, and which is perform'd whether we deſign it or no; ſuch are the Motions of the Heart, Reſpiration, Nutrition, and the like. It depends chiefly upon the Cerebellum, and is the ſame with Natural Faculty, tho' the Ancients diſtinguiſh'd 'em, by placing the Natural in the Liver, and the Vital in the Heart.

Vitalis Indicatio, is the Way not only of preſerving, but reſtoring effectually from time to time our Strength.

Vitealis. See Helxine Ciſampelos.

Vitellina Bilis; ſee Bilis.

Vitex, is Agnus Caſtus. See Agnus Caſtus.

Viticella; ſee Bryonia.

Viticulæ, Tendrels, by the help of which Vines (or Creepers) do climb and aſcend upon any thing that is next and able to ſupport 'em.

Vitiligo, a ſort of Leproſie, of which there are three kinds, viz. Alphus, the Colour whereof is white, ſomething rough, and not continued, like ſo many Drops here and there, but does ſometimes ſpread it ſelf, with ſeveral intermiſſions. Melas differs in Colour, as being black, and like a Shade; in the reſt they agree,

Leuce

Leuce has something like Alphus, but is whiter, descends much deeper, and in it the Hairs are white, resembling Down. All these spread, but in some quick, in others slow.

Vitis, a Vine, deserves not the Name of a Tree, because it cannot stand by it self. There's as great variety of 'em as of Pears and Apples. Currants that are call'd Corinthian do not actually grow about Corinth; the Turks having shut up the Passage, will not suffer any great Ships to go that way, and so the Inhabitants are not encourag'd to plant 'em; they come now from Zant, and many other Places. The Raisins of the Sun are very large Grapes, and in form like the Spanish Olive. They dry them by cutting crossways to the middle the Branches they design for this Use, and so they intercept a good part of the Nutritious Juice, that should come to the Grapes; they let the Branches hang half cut upon the Vine, till they are dry'd by degrees, partly by the Heat of the Sun, and partly for want of Nourishment. Vines grows best in a hot Country, and the hotter the Country is, if it be not too hot, the sooner the Grapes are ripe: Vines usually climb upon Trees, as upon the Elm, and the Poplar. In Lombardy they plant them in the Corn-fields so near Trees, that they may climb upon them, and so they have Corn, Wine, and Wood in the same Fields; the Leaves and Tendrels of the Vine bruis'd and apply'd, ease the Pain of the Head, and take off Inflamations and Heat of the Stomach; the Tear of the Vine, which is like a Gum (but it does not grow on our Vines) taken in Wine, is good for the Stone; the Ashes of the Tendrels mix'd with Vinegar, cure a Condyloma, and is good for the biting of Vipers, and for Inflamations of the Spleen.

Vitis Alba, seu Vitalba. See Bryonia.

Vitis Nigra, Black Vine; so call'd from its resemblance of a Vine, and the colour of its Root, which is black.

Vitrea Tabula; see Diploe.

Vitreus Humor; see Humores Oculi.

Vitriolum, Vitriol, is a Mineral compounded of an acid Salt, and sulphureous Earth. There are four sorts of it; the Blue, the White, the Green, and the Red: The Blue is found near the Mines of Copper in Hungary, and the Isle of Cyprus, from whence it is brought to us in fair Crystals, which keep the Name of the Country, and is call'd Vitriol of Hungaria or Cyprus; it partakes very much of the Nature of Copper, which renders it a little caustick; 'tis never us'd but in outward Applications, such as Collyriums, or Waters for the Eyes, to consume proud Flesh. White Vitriol is found near Fountains, 'tis the most of all depurated from a Metallick Mixture; it may be taken inwardly to give a Vomit; 'tis likewise us'd for Collyriums. There are three sorts of Green Vitriol, the German, English, and Roman; that of Germany draws near unto the Blue, and contains a little Copper, 'tis better than the the reſt for the Preparations of Aqua fortis; that of England partakes of Iron, and is proper to make the Spirit of Vitriol; the Roman is much like the Engliſh Vitriol, excepting that it is not ſo eaſy to diſſolve. Red Vitriol was brought among us a few Years ago, out of Germany; 'tis call'd Natural Colcothar, and is eſteem'd to be a Green Vitriol, calcin'd by ſome Subterranean Heat; 'tis the leaſt common of them all; it ſtops Blood, being apply'd to Hemorrhages; the Gilla Vitrioli is a Vomit; the Spirit of Vitriol is good for an Aſthma, Palſy, and Diſeaſes of the Lungs; the Styptick Water is made of Vitriol; 'tis excellent for Hemorrhages, for ſpitting of Blood, the Bloody-flux, and the immoderate Flux of the Hemorrhoides; the Doſe is from half a Dram to two Drams, in Knotgraſs Water. The Lapis Medicamentoſus is made of Vitriol; 'tis a good Remedy for a Gonorrhœa, a Dram of it being diſſolved in eight Ounces of Plantain Water for an Injection; 'tis likewiſe good to cleanſe the Eyes in the Small-pox, ſeven or eight Grains of it being diſſolv'd in four Ounces of Eye-bright Water. Salt of Vitriol is us'd as the Gilla Vitrioli, to give a Vomit.

Vitriolum Camphoratum. Take calcin'd Vitriol ſix Ounces, Camphire diſſolv'd in Spirit of Wine, one Ounce; mix and draw off the Spirit by a gentle Fire.

Vitriolum Lunæ, is made of Silver diſſolv'd in Spirit of Nitre, by coagulating and cryſtallizing according to Art: 'tis call'd the Lunar Cryſtal, and Magiſtery of Silver. The Doſe is from two Grains to ſix, in the Dropſy, Diſeaſes of the Head, Epilepſy, Hemicrania's, &c. it purges gently, and never vomits. This made up with Crumbs of Bread is call'd the Lunar Pills.

Vitriolum Martis. Take Spirit of Wine four Ounces, Oil of Vitriol two Ounces; put them in an Iron Veſſel for fifteen Days till it is dry'd up, and give from two Grains to ſix, and upwards, in the Green-ſickneſs.

Vitta, that part of the Coat call'd Amnion, which ſticks to the Infant's Head when it is juſt born. If this happen in Male-Children, 'tis call'd Galea. See Galea.

Ulceratio; ſee Exulceratio.

Ulcus, an Ulcer; a Solution of the Continuity from a corroding Matter in the ſoft parts of the Body, and is attended with a diminution of Magnitude.

Ulmaria, vel Regina Prati, Meadow-ſweet; it grows in moiſt Meadows, and on the Banks of Brooks; 'tis ſudorifick and alexipharmick; 'tis good in Fluxes of all kinds, for a Looſeneſs, the Bloody-flux, the Flux of the Courſes, for ſpitting of Blood, and likewiſe for the Plague; the Leaves put into Wine or Beer impart a pleaſant Taſte to it; 'tis an Ingredient in the Aqua Lactis Alexiteria.

Ulmus, the Elm-Tree; the Leaves, the Branches, and the Bark, are aſtringent; the Leaves cure Wounds, and rubb'd with Vinegar, they are good for a Leproſy; prosy; the Bark boil'd in Fountain-water, almost to the consistence of a Syrup, and the third part of Aqua vitæ mix'd with it, is an excellent Remedy for the Hip-gout, the Part affected being fomented with it before the Fire; the Water in the Bladders upon the Leaves clears the Skin, it being wash'd with it, and it betters the Complexion; it helps Burstenness in Children, Cloths being wet in Water and apply'd; but a Truss must be kept on likewise.

Ulna, or Focile Majus, the greater Bone betwixt the Arm and the Wrist, which is jointed upward with the Shoulder by Ginglymus (which see) and therefore it has there both Processes and Cavities: Two oblong Processes as it were triangular and rugged, that the Ligaments may knit it strongly. The foremost and uppermost is less, and goes into the Cavity of the Shoulder: The backward Process is thicker and larger, ends in an obtuse Angle, and enters the hinder Cavity of the Shoulder; the Latins call it Gibberus: In the middle of these there is a great Cavity like a Semicircle. It has yet another external lateral Cavity for the Head of the Radius, or lesser Bone of the Cubit; 'tis jointed at the lower end with the Wrist, both by a Cartilage in the middle, and by an acute Process, and therefore call'd Styloides (or like a sharp-pointed Pen us'd in Writing-tables) whence there arises a Ligament which fastens the Cubit and the Joint of the Wrist together.

Ulomelia, a Soundness of the whole Member.

Ulva, a sort of Sea-grass.

Umbellæ, the Tops of Plants, they are like a Bird's Nest.

Umbilicus, the Navel; a Boss in the middle of the Abdomen, to which the Navel-string in a Fœtus is join'd, which is cut off after Delivery.

Umbilicus Marinus; see Navel-wort.

Umbilicus Terræ; see Cyclamen.

Umbilicus veneris, Navel-wort; it is cold and moist, and somewhat astringent; it is good for Inflamations, and St. Anthony's Fire. The Leaves and Roots, if eaten, are suppos'd to be good in the Stone, and to force Urine; 'tis also good for the King's-Evil, Kibes, and Chilblains, being us'd in an Ointment.

Uncia, an Ounce, the twelfth part of a Physician's Pound, containing eight Drams.

Uncus, the same with Hamus and Hamulus.

Undemia, the same with Oedema.

Unedo, 'tis suppos'd to be Mespilus.

Ungaricus Morbus, or Hungaricus Morbus, a sort of malignant, spotted, epidemick Fever.

Unguentum, an Ointment; a Medicine outwardly apply'd, of a consistence something thicker than a Linimentum. 'Tis call'd also Unguent.

Unguentum Album, the White Ointment; 'tis an excellent cooling and drying Ointment, and is good for Bruises and Inflamations, and dries Ulcers, cures

Gall's,

Galls, and takes off Itching.

Unguentum de Aurantiis, Ointment of Oranges. Take fresh Orange-apples, unripe and green, n° vj, beat 'em into a Pulp with the Rhind; Bay-leaves six handfuls; Sage, Sorrel, and Marigolds, of each two handfuls; Juice of Nasturtium one quart, fresh Butter two pounds; boil to the consumption of the Juice, and then strein it; to which add afterwards fresh Bay-leaves and Sage stampt with Cinamon one ounce, and of Nutmegs half an ounce. Boil again, then make an Expression, and you'll find it an excellent thing in the Scab, Itch, and other cutaneous Irruptions.

Unguentum Cephalalgicum, an Ointment for the Head-ach: Take the Alabastrine Ointment, and that of Roses, of each two ounces; of Opium one dram, Saffron half a dram, Oil of Nutmegs one dram; of these make an Ointment, and therewith anoint the Temples and Forehead.

Unguentum Crinificum; or an Ointment for the Hair. Take Gum Labdanum six drams, Bears-grease two ounces, dry'd Southernwood in powder the quantity of three drams, Ashes of the Root of the Reed one dram and a half, Oil of Nutmegs one dram, Balsam of Peru three drams; stir these well together, and anoint the Hair therewith.

Unguentum Depilatorium, an Ointment to make the Hair shed. Take of Quicklime four ounces, Auripigmentum one ounce and a half, Orrice-root powder'd one ounce; Nitre and Sulphur, of each half an ounce; a strong Lye one quart; boil 'em to a due consistence, and then add Oil of Cloves twenty drops, and make an Ointment.

Unguentum Ægyptiacum, 'tis an excellent Ointment to cleanse sordid Ulcers, and to eat down proud Flesh.

Unguentum Elemi, Ointment of Gum-Elemy; it eases Pain in Sores, it heals Ulcers in any part of the Body; but is chiefly us'd for Wounds and Ulcers in the Head.

Unguentum Basilicon, 'tis esteemed a good Digestive; it asswages all manner of Pains; it incarnates and heals; it also gives ease in the Gout.

Unguentum Dialthææ, Ointment of Marsh-mallows; it softens, discusses, digests, eases the Pains of the Breast and Sides, and of a Pleurisy, the Parts affected being anointed with it.

Unguentum Diapompholygos, it cools, drys, and gives ease, and is excellent for the curing of Ulcers.

Unguentum Enulatum, Ointment of Elecampane; it cures Scabs, the Itch, Tetters, and Ring-worms.

Unguentum Enulatum, cum Mercuratio, Ointment of Elecampane with Mercury; 'tis more powerful than the former; 'tis us'd for Pains and Nodes in the Skin, Pocky Scabs and Ulcers.

Unguentum ad Fissuras, an Ointment for Chaps. Take Myrrh, Litharge of Silver, of each one ounce, of Honey four ounces, of Wax two ounces, and of Oil of Roses Roſes four ounces; mix them. For the richer ſort of People you may venture to add twelve drops of Oil of Rhodium, and ten leaves of Leaf-gold. Otherwiſe, take Bole-Armoniack, Myrrh, white-Lead, of each two drams, make them into an Ointment with Gooſe-greaſe.

Unguentum ad Foveas, an Ointment for the Pittings of the Small-pox. Take Oil of Sweet-Almonds two ounces, Sperma Ceti three drams, diſtil'd Oil of Rhodium four drops; mix them, and make an Ointment. It is a moſt excellent Remedy to take away Pain, and allay the Acrimony.

Unguentum Hæmorrhoidale; or an Ointment for the Piles. Take freſh May-Butter three pound, Elder and Broom-flowers ſtampt, let them digeſt together for a month, then work 'em, and bury 'em till they putrifie, and afterwards boil and ſtrein 'em. Or, take of Powder of burnt Cork one dram, Camphire two ſcruples, Opium ſix grains, Ointment of Poplar one ounce and a half; mix 'em, and apply to the Part affected.

Unguentum Herpeticum, Ointment for the Shingles or Wild-fire. Take Quicklime and Auripigmentum of each one dram, Tartar, Nitre, and black Soap, of each two drams, Oil of Elder enough to make it into an Ointment; anoint the Part affected, and let it remain twenty-four hours thereon.

Unguentum Piperium, Ointment of Pepper. Take Powder of Enula Campana and Powder of Sulphur, of each two ounces; Black Pepper an ounce and a half; Ointment of Roſes ſixteen ounces, Oil of Rhodium two ſcruples. This is a delicate Ointment for Scabs, or the Itch.

Unguentum Sympatheticum; or the Sympathetick Ointment: Take Oil of Roſes, and Bole-Armoniack an ounce, Linſeed Oil two drams; Human Greaſe, and Moſs of Human Sculls, of each two ounces; Mummy and Man's Blood, of each half an ounce. All Wounds are cur'd by this, anointing the Weapon therewith by which the Wound was given: Sometimes it will cure if taken two or three Days after the Wound is given. The Weapon muſt be kept clean, wrapt up in a Linnen Cloth, and in a Place neither too dry nor too moiſt.

Unguentum Laurinum, Ointment of Bays; 'tis good for all cold Diſtempers which affect the Nerves and Joints, and given in Clyſters, it expels Wind.

Unguentum Nutritum, 'tis cooling and drying, it gives eaſe, and cures Diſeaſes of the Skin.

Unguentum è Nicotiana, Ointment of Tobacco; 'tis an excellent Ointment to eaſe Pain; 'tis good for Bruiſes and Wounds, and for the Bitings of Venomous Beaſts; for Scabs, the Itch, Tetters, and Ring-worms.

Unguentum ex Oxylapatho, 'tis chiefly us'd for the Itch, and other cutaneous Diſeaſes.

Unguentum Ophthalmicum, an Ointment for the Eyes; 'tis good for Inflamations of the Eyes, to eaſe Pain, and to dry up Rheums.

Unguentum Pomatum, 'tis cooling, and eases Pain; it takes off the Roughness of the Skin, and Pimples, and heals Chaps of the Hands and Lips.

Unguentum Rubrum Deficcativum, the red drying Ointment; it drys, heals, and skins Sores, and stops Fluxes of Humours.

Unguentum de Alabastro, Alabastrine Ointment; 'tis good for Head-achs, the Forehead and Temples being anointed with it.

Unguentum Apostolorum, the Apostles Ointment, it cleanses old sinuous Ulcers, and eats down proud Flesh.

Unguentum Arragon, 'tis good for all cold Diseases, or Palsies, Convulsions, Cramps, stiffness of the Joints; 'tis good for the Cholick, Pains of the Back and Reins.

Unguentum de Arthanita, Ointment of Sow-bread; it purges the Belly, being anointed with it below the Navel; but anointed above the Navel or the Stomach, it occasions Vomiting.

Unguentum Comitissæ, the Countesses Ointment; 'tis very astringent and strengthning, good for Laxations, Ruptures, and prevents the falling of the Fundadament, and Miscarriages, the Belly and Reins being anointed with it; it also stops all sorts of Fluxes.

Unguentum Hemorrhoidale, an Ointment for the Piles; 'tis peculiarly proper for the Piles, the Fundament being anointed with it.

Unguentum Martiatum, it discusses cold Swellings, strengthens the Nerves and Joints, taketh away Aches, and is good for the Head.

Unguentum Neapolitum, Naples Ointment; 'tis us'd for raising of Fluxes.

Unguentum Mastichinum, Ointment of Mastich; it strengthens the Head, Nerves, and Stomach.

Unguentum Nervinum, Nerve-Ointment; 'tis good for the Nerves, Palsy, Convulsions, Bruises, old Aches, and the Cholick.

Unguentum Pectorale, the pectoral Ointment; 'tis chiefly used for Obstructions of the Breast, for Pleurisies, and the like.

Unguentum Populeum, Ointment of Poplar-buds; 'tis very cooling, eases Pain, and is us'd in Fevers to give Rest, the Temples being anointed with it.

Unguentum Splanchnicum, it is good for Obstructions, and hardness of the Spleen and Liver, and for hard Tumours, and the Rickets in Children, the Parts being anointed with it.

Unguentum Sumach, Ointment of Sumach; it stops Fluxes, hinders Miscarriage, the Reins and Belly being anointed with it.

Unguiculi, the same with Alabastri.

Unguis, a Nail; a similar, flexible, white, and hard part, which defends the Fingers from external Injuries, and in some measure adorns them. The Root of it is join'd to a certain Ligament, and by reason of the neighbouring Tendons, it becomes sensible. They seem to be made of a Collection of very little Pipes, which adhere extremely thick to one another, and shoot out lengthways.

Where

Where they begin, there you find certain Nervous Fibres like so many small Nipples lengthen'd, the lengthen'd parts whereof are seen as far as the Nail. If they be forcibly torn off, they leave divers Holes; so that the horny substance of the Nail looks like a Net. Under the Nails there is a pappy sort of Body, which has its Vessels of Excretion. The Apices, or tops of the Nails, are they which grow beyond the Flesh; the Parts which are cut are call'd the Segmina, the Parings of the Nails; the Parts under the Nails is the hidden Parts; the white Semilunar Part next the Root is the Rise of the Nail; the very Beginnings, that grow into the Skin, are call'd the Roots of the Nails; the sides, the Clefts; the white Spots, Nubeculæ, little Clouds, &c. A certain defect of the Eye, known by the Name of Pterygium, is also call'd Unguis, or a Nail; see Pterygium.

Unguis Odoratus; see Blatta Byzantia.

Ungula, a sort of hooked Instrument, to draw a dead Fœtus out of the Womb.

Ungula Caballina, is Tussilago, seu Farfara; see Tussilago.

Ungula Oculi, the same with Pterygium.

Unicornus, a Unicorn; a thing long ago prescrib'd by Physicians, tho' to this Day they are in dispute what really it is; tho' the common Unicorn that now is, is the Tooth of a Fish in Greenland.

Unio, seu Margarita, seu Perla, a Pearl: see Margarita.

Vola, the Palm of the Hand; also the Cavity of the Foot.

Volatica, the same with Lichen.

Volsella, or Vulsella, & Acantabolus, an Instrument to pull up Hairs with by the Root; Tweezers, or a Surgeon's little Tongs, which are of different shape, according to the diversity of their Use.

Volva, a sort of Toad-stool, resembling the Yolk of an Egg.

Volatica, the same as Impetigo; also the Scurvy or Rheumatism is call'd so when attended with wandering Pains.

Volatilia, every thing that flys, as Birds, &c. 'tis also understood as a Chymical term in opposition to fixed: So Salts are call'd, either fixed or volatile, according as they rise or stand the force of the Fire.

Volubilis, a sort of Smilax.

Volvulus; see Iliaca Passio.

Vomica, a fault in the Lungs, from heterogeneous Blood, which being lodg'd, perhaps in one of the little Bladdery Cells there, occasions neither a Fever nor a Cough; but afterward, when 'tis encreas'd, it oppresses the neighbouring sanguiferous Vessels, and impregnates the Blood as it passes along with its Effluviums; whereupon there succeeds a small Fever, accompany'd with Inquietude and Leanness; and at last, when it is full grown and concocted into Matter, it makes a Nest as it were, and lodges there. An Abscess, or Imposthume of the Lungs.

Vomitorium, a Medicine taken inwardly, made of Emeticks, or Things that provoke Vomiting, infus'd, dissolv'd, or decocted. A vomitory Medicine, or a Vomit.

Vomitus, a Vomiting; a violent and inverſe Motion of the Ventricle, wherein its fleſhy Fibres, being irritated and contracted towards the left Orifice, ſend out at the Mouth whatever is contain'd in the Stomach. It proceeds chiefly from exceſſive hard Drinking, Poiſons, Emeticks, Vomitories, or purging Remedies; likewiſe from Wounds in the Head, Inflamations of the Bowels, and diverſe other Pains, as in the Cholick, the Stone, and Fevers; and alſo from Women being with Child, that Sex having it frequently when they are firſt married.

Vopiſcus, an Embryo after two Conceptions, brought to Perfection from one begetting.

Urachus, the Urinary Paſſage in Fœtus's, reaching from the Bladder to the Membrane call'd Allantoides; which, after the Fœtus is born, becomes like a Ligament, and is that which ſuſpends the Bladder. You will perceive it to be join'd with the Navel, and likewiſe with the bottom of the Bladder.

Urania; a Flower-de-Luce is ſometimes ſo call'd, from its likeneſs to, and reſemblance of, a Rain-bow.

Urceolaris Urceola, is Parietaria; ſee Helxine.

Uraniſmus, the ſame with Palatum.

Urentia; ſee Pyrotica.

Ureter, a Fiſtulous Membranaceous Veſſel, which proceeds from both Reins, and opens between the Membranes of the Bladder, by which the Urine paſſes from the Reins to the Bladder. Celſus often calls it the white Vein.

Urethra, or Fiſtula, the Urinary Paſſage, whereby the Urine is diſcharg'd at the Yard in Men, and in Women through the Pudenda; it ſerves alſo for the Ejection of the Seed. The Seminal little Bladders empty themſelves into it by two Holes at the beginning of it, when there is occaſion, which Bladders or Veſſels are furrounded with Glandulous Proſtates, perforated with ſeveral Holes; to which there is a certain little piece of Fleſh affix'd.

Uretica, the ſame with Diuretica.

Urina; ſee Uron.

Urina Pericardii; ſee Aqua Pericardii.

Urinalis Herba, the ſame with Linaria.

Urinaria Fiſtula, the ſame with Urethra.

Urina, Urine; the Inſpection of the Urine is beſt after Chylification is perfectly made; and therefore it is beſt to ſee it after Sleep in a Morning. You muſt put it into a clear and thin Glaſs that is round at the bottom; it muſt not be view'd after Watching, Purging, or after the Uſe of Medicines that affect the Urine, and it muſt be view'd as ſoon as it is cold, and has a Sediment; you ought to view it in a clear Air. If any one ſhall bring to a Phyſician, with a Deſign to deceive him, the Urine of a Brute, or any thing elſe, inſtead of Man's Water, the Cheat is beſt diſcover'd by the ſmell. Every Diſeaſe cannot be known by the Urine;

Urine; for the Giddineſs of the Head, a Wound of a certain part, a Palſy, Luxations, and many other Diſeaſes, cannot be known by that; but the Conſtitution, good or ill, of thoſe Parts wherein the Urine is perfected, generated, or ſomewhat alter'd, are chiefly known by the Urine, as that of the Viſcera ſerving for a Concoction of the Blood, Heart, Ureters, and Reins; and therefore I ſay, the Urine is a very general Diagnoſtick Sign, and and more general than the Pulſe, becauſe it often diſcovers the Diſeaſe, the cauſe of it, and the Part affected; but the Pulſe does not ſo, for by the Urine we know Diſeaſes; as Ulcers, Obſtructions, and the Intemperies of the inner Parts. By the Urine we know the Cauſes, as Viſcidity, Crudity, Choler, Stones, Sand, Clods of Blood, and the like; by the Urine we know the Part affected, as the Bladder affected, by Scales, or fætid Pus mixt with the Urine. We know the Reins are affected by Caruncles, Blood, and Pus, coming away with the Urine; and we alſo know that the Bladder of the Gall is affected by the Urine's being pale for a long while. Urine alſo oftentimes diſcovers the approach of Death, as an Iſchuria does by the defect of it; as doth likewiſe a Leucophlegmatia by the aquoſity of it; and an Ulcer of the Bladder, by having Pus mix'd with it. 'Tis alſo diſcoverable in the Plague by the blackneſs of it, and its various Colours, and the like. We ought not indeed to prognoſticate any thing raſhly from the bare Inſpection of the Urine, for ſometimes in the moſt dangerous Diſeaſes, and when the Pulſe is ill or out of its due motion, the Urine nevertheleſs appears clear and good, and yet for all that the Patient dies. We find therefore that this Notion is very uncertain, and conſequently not to be depended on.

Urina, is alſo a large kind of Meaſure us'd amongſt the Ancients, containing forty Pints of Wine, and but thirty-five of Oil.

Urinoſa, are ſuch Medicines as ſmell like Urine, ſuch as that which we call the Spirit of Sal Armoniack.

Urocriſis, the ſame with Urocritica.

Urocriterium, is what we call Judgment concerning Urine. Becauſe the ordinary or common ſort of People (and likewiſe ſome of the better or finer ſort) have been a long while, and ſtill remain very much abus'd by Quacks, Empiricks, and among them ſome Methodical Phyſicians, who pretend to a Knowledge in many Diſeaſes, which they gather chiefly from the Urine of any Perſon diſtemper'd; I muſt here aſſume the boldneſs to tell them, that there is no certain Rule for the finding out many Diſeaſes to be gather'd from the Obſervation of the Urine alone; and do poſitively affirm, that it is much better for them to ſee the Patient once, than to view his Urine twenty times; beſides, ſeveral Learned Phyſicians have likewiſe chimed in with my Sentiments, and have accordingly wrote several Tracts which plainly discover the Danger of taking Physick that is prescrib'd only upon the sight of Urine, to the end that they may dispossess Men of that fond Opinion, of a Physician's discerning Diseases purely by that way, and wherewith they have so long and oft been deluded. Besides, one of these bold Practitioners, in shewing the Falshood and uncertain Judgment of Diseases by the Urine, hath set down the ingenuous Confession a dying Physician made to him, being then present with him a little before his departure, who being requested to leave to Posterity that Skill whereby he had been so much celebrated for his great Judgment in Urine, presently made this Answer: "I have "(said he) with great applause "exercis'd it, and have found "by much Experience, that it "is indeed a great Cheat, and "therefore not worthy to be "mention'd as an Art, but altogether unfit to be communica-"ted to Posterity. And indeed, had not this base Custom (for I can term it no otherwise) of giving Judgment in Diseases by the sight of the Urine, been under-propt and supported chiefly by Jugglings and ill Shifts, it had long ago been abrogated, and let fall to the Ground; for there is no Knowledge of any Disease whatever to be gather'd by the Urine, which may be sufficient to guide the Physician in prescribing Medicines proper to cure the same.

Urocritica, diversity of Signs which are frequently observ'd from Urine.

Uromantia; see Urocriterium.

Uromantis, one who can divine something material from Urines.

Uron, Urina, Lotium, Urine: 'Tis a Serous Excrement convey'd from the Blood, and which passes the Reins by the Ureters to the Bladder, and so is excern'd as Occasion requires. It consists of much Salt, a little Sulphur, of Earth and also of Spirit.

Uroscopia, is an Inspection of the Urine.

Uroscopium, the same with Matracium, a Urinal.

Urtica, a Nettle; 'tis diuretick and lithontriptick; being eaten with Pot-herbs, it loosens the Belly, expels Gravel, and also promotes Expectoration. The Tops are us'd in Broths in the Spring-time, which are reckon'd good to purifie and cleanse the Blood. The Herb bruis'd, or the Juice put up the Nostrils, stops bleeding at the Nose; it likewise does good in putrid and malignant Ulcers, as also it discusses hard Swellings. The Seed is diuretick, provokes Venery, and is us'd in Diseases of the Lungs.

Urticatio, the pricking of the Members of the Body with Nettles, to remove any Benumb'dness.

Usnea, is a sort of Moss growing to Bones or Trees; but especially that which grows to Mens Sculls.

Uſtilago; ſee Rubigo.

Uſtio, when Things are reduced to Aſhes to produce a Salt by Lixiviation; or in Calcinations of Harts-horn, &c. 'Tis alſo among Chirurgeons an actual Cautery.

Uteri Aſcenſio, the ſame with Hyſterica Paſſio.

Uteri Ligamenta; ſee Ligamenta Uteri.

Uteri Oſculi; ſee Oſculum Uteri.

Uteri Procidentia; ſee Procidentia Uteri.

Uterus, Loci, Matrix, the Womb, an Organical Part placed in a Woman's Abdomen, and which is divided into three parts, viz. the Bottom, the Neck, and the Sheath. It has two broad Ligaments, and two round. It is of a Nervous and Fibrous Subſtance, and is alſo of different thickneſs, according to the difference of Age and Time of going with Child. At the bottom within there is a Cavity, whence the Courſes flow, wherein likewiſe Generation and Conception are made. Before it is the Bladder, behind it is the Gut call'd Rectum.

Uva, the ſame with Cion.

Uva Criſpa, a Gooſeberry.

Uvea Tunica, it is call'd alſo Uviformis. See Rhagoides.

Uvea Membrana, or Choroides, or Aciniformis Tunica; 'tis perforated before, and ſo leaves an open ſpace for the Pulp of the Eye.

Uvularia; ſee Laurus Alexandrina.

Vulneraria; ſee Traumatica.

Vulnus, a Wound, a Solution of the Continuum with ſome proper Inſtrument. 'Tis different, as well according to the Place or Part where 'tis inflicted, (as upon a Nerve, the Fleſh, &c.) as according to the Inſtrument which inflicts it; ſo that if it be perform'd with a very ſharp and keen Inſtrument, 'tis call'd Sectio or Inciſio; Cutting or Inciſion; and if it be done by pricking, it is call'd Punctura or Punctio.

Vulſella; ſee Volſella.

Vultus, the Face. See Facies.

Vulva, a Woman's ſecret Parts. See Cunnus.

Vulva Cerebri, an oblong Furrow betwixt the Eminences of the Brain.

Uvula; ſee Cion.

Uvulæ Caſus; ſee Cion.

X

X With ſome Medicinal Authors is reckon'd to ſignifie an Ounce.

Xanthium, is Lappa minor; ſee Barnana.

Xenexton, the ſame with Zenechdon.

Xeraphium, a Medicine proper againſt Breakings-out of the Head or Chin.

Xeraſia, a Vice of the Hairs, when they appear in a manner like Down, and as if they were ſprinkled with Duſt. It is a ſort of Alopecia.

Xerocollyrion, a ſort of dry Collyrium.

Xeromyrum, a drying Ointment, conſiſting of Aromaticks for Fumigation, and are good againſt the ſtrong Scent of the Armpits, and other diſagreeable Smells.

Xerophthalmia, a dry Bleardneſs of the Eye.

Xerotes, a thin dry Conſtitution of the Body.

Xiphium, and Xiphidium, the ſame as Gladiolus.

Xiphoides, the pointed Cartilage of the Breaſt.

Xylagium, the ſame as Lignum Sanctum.

Xyloaloes, Aloes-Tree.

Xylobalſamum: See Balſamum.

Xylocaſſia, or Caſſia Lignea; ſee Cinamomum.

Xylon, the Cotton-tree. Its Flax is call'd Colonium, its Down Colonum.

Xyloſteum, the Dog Cherry-Tree.

Xymphyſis, the ſame with Symphyſis.

Xyntaſis, the ſame with Syntaſis.

Xyphoides Cartilago, the ſame with Enſiformis Cartilago.

Xyris, the Leaves of Sword-graſs, ſo call'd becauſe they are in ſhape like one.

Xyſter, an Inſtrument to ſhave and ſcrape Bones with.

Z

Z Formerly ſignified the quantity of an Ounce and an half, but moſt commonly went for a Dram.

Zaphara, or Zaffera, a Mineral Matter from Biſmuth, which Potters uſe, for to make a Sky-colour.

Zarſaparilla, and Zalſaparilla, the ſame with Sarſaparilla.

Zea; ſee Spelta, which is a ſort of Bread-corn.

Zedoaria, is Zedoary: It is brought to us from China, and alſo from the Indies. There are two ſorts of it, viz. the long and the round. The Root of it is counted hot and dry; it diſcuſſeth Wind, is good againſt the bitings of any venomous Creatures, ſtops a Looſeneſs, and likewiſe ſuppreſſeth Vomiting. 'Tis alſo reckon'd of admirable uſe in the Wind-Cholick. It is now-a-days frequently made uſe of by Phyſicians againſt the Contagion of a peſtilential Air, for Hyſterick-fits, and for ſeveral other Diſtempers incident to human Bodies.

Zenechdon, vel Zenexton, an Amulet, a Compoſition of Arſenick.

Zenexton, the ſame with Zenechdon.

Zeopyron, a ſort of Bread-corn betwixt Zea and Wheat.

Zerna, the ſame with Lichen.

Zibethum,

Zibethum, Civet; 'tis a kind of fat Liquor, and is contain'd in glandulous Bladders in a certain Creature call'd a Civet-Cat, lying betwixt the Penis and the Teſtes.

Zingiber, Ginger. 'Tis an aromatick Root, and grows in all (or moſt of) the Provinces of India; 'tis candy'd when green in India, and is counted very good for aged People, who are too often infeſted with Cold and Phlegmatick Humours, as alſo for ſuch People whoſe Stomachs do not digeſt or concoct well, more eſpecially when it is freſh candy'd: 'Tis likewiſe good for tough and viſcid Phlegm of the Lungs. The native Indians uſe the Leaves of Ginger in Broths; and for the Kitchin they alſo uſe the Roots of it green, with other Herbs, whereto they put Oil and Vinegar, and ſo eat it as we do a Sallad. Freſh Ginger is reckon'd by them to be a moſt excellent Remedy for all Cholical Pains, as alſo for the Celiack and Lienterick Paſſions: 'Tis likewiſe counted of admirable uſe in tedious and troubleſome Diarrhœa's, which proceed for the moſt part from Cold, and likewiſe for all Windineſs, Griping of the Guts, and the like. But here eſpecially 'tis to be obſerv'd, that thoſe who are of a very hot Conſtitution ought not to make uſe of it, whether they are ſick or well, for it naturally very much inflames the Blood, and likewiſe opens the Orifices of the Veins. Indeed, Ginger and Pepper are more us'd in the Kitchin than in Phyſick, and are held in greater eſteem with the Cook than the Apothecary. But nevertheleſs Ginger is oftentimes mix'd with purging Medicines, eſpecially thoſe that are ſtrong, to correct 'em. In ſhort, Ginger cleanſes the Lungs and Stomach, ſtrengthens the Brain, and wonderfully clears the Eye-ſight when 'tis dull'd by too much moiſture. 'Tis alſo call'd Zinziber Gingiber.

Zirbus, with the Arabians, is the ſame as Omentum, which ſignifies the Cawl.

Zizania, five Lolium, Darnel; 'tis hot and dry, it attenuates, reſolves, and cleanſes. Being mingled with Malt, it makes the Beer heady; and if you mix it with Bread, it occaſions great dulneſs and ſtupidity; beſides, it offends the Eyes by ſending ill Vapours into the Head. The Flower of it being mix'd with other Medicines, is commended by the Ancients for putrid Ulcers, the Itch, Leproſy, Kings-Evil, Gangrenes, and the Hip-Gout.

Ziziphа, is Jujube. See Zizypha.

Zizypha, Zizyphus, and Ziziphus, the Tree that bears Jujubes, a ſort of Plumb tranſported from the Indies to Italy, and other Parts.

Zona, that part of the Body where People generally begirt themſelves, alſo a ſort of Herpes call'd Holy-fire.

Zoogonia, a Generation of perfect Animals born alive.

Zoologia, the Pharmaceutick part of Medicines taken from Animals.

Zoomi-

Zoomiceralia, Medicines taken from Pearl, Crabbs, and all the Teſtaceous Kind, becauſe they ſeem to partake of the Nature of both Animals and Minerals.

Zoophthalmos, whatever hath the Form or Figure of the Eye of a Brute.

Zoophthyton, a natural exangueous Body, the which is neither perfect Animal nor Vegetable, but partakes of a middle Nature betwixt both.

Zoon, Animal.

Zootomia, an artificial Diſſection of Animals.

Zopiſſa; ſee Pix.

Zotica, the Vital Faculty.

Zurumbeth, and Zernbeth, a ſort of Zedoary. See Zedoary.

Zygoma, the Jugal Bone about the Temples.

Zymoma, a Ferment; ſuch as are nitrous Air, the watery Juice in the Mouth, the acid Liquor in the Stomach, the Blood in the Spleen, &c.

Zymoſis; ſee Fermentatio.

Zythogala, Poſſet-drink.

FINIS.

BOOKS Printed for, and Sold by SAM. CROUCH, at the Corner of Pope's-Head-Alley in Cornhill.

THE Spaniſh Rule of Trade to the Weſt-Indies: Containing, An Account of the Caſa de Contratacion, or India-Houſe; its Government, Laws, Ordinances, Officers, and Juriſdiction; of its inferior Courts: Of the receiving and ſending out Armada's and Flota's: What theſe are; of the Duties paid to the King: Who may go over to the Indies, and who not: Of Slaves carried over: Of all the Sea-Officers: Of the Corporation of Sailors: Of Building, Gauging and Enſuring of Ships: Of the Ports in the Indies; and many other curious Obſervations of this Nature. Written in Spaniſh by D. Joſeph de Veitia Linage, Knight of the Order of Sant Jago, and Treaſurer and Commiſſioner of the India-Houſe: Made Engliſh by Capt. John Stevens. To which are added, Two compleat Liſts; one, of the Goods tranſported out of Europe to the Spaniſh Weſt-Indies; the other of Commodities brought from thoſe Parts into Europe.

The New A-la-mode Secretary; or, the Practical Pen-man: A New Copy-book: Wherein Baſtard Italians, commonly call'd the New A-la-mode, Round-hands, mixt Running-hands, and mixt Secretaries, are ſo modell'd and compos'd, as to diſpatch Buſineſs with Facility and Neatneſs. Written with much Variety, and perform'd according to the nature, freedom, and tendency of the Pen. By John Ayres, Maſter of the Writing-School, at the Hand and Pen near St. Paul's School, in St. Paul's Church-yard, London.

Youth's Introduction to Trade: An Exerciſe-Book, chiefly deſign'd for the Uſe of the Writing-School, to employ Youth at Night, and other vacant Times, while they learn to write; by which the Young Apprentice may be able to apply his Writing and Arithmetick to Buſineſs; as a Merchant, Shopkeeper, or other inferior Trades. Firſt methodiz'd for the Benefit of the Author's Scholars: And publiſh'd for the Uſe of ſuch as teach Writing and Arithmetick. By John Ayres. The Third Edition Corrected, and very much Enlarg'd.

to

Grammatica Anglo-Luſitanica; or, A ſhort and compendious Syſtem of an Engliſh and Portugueſe Grammar: Containing all the moſt uſeful and neceſſary Rules of the Syntax, and Conſtruction of the Portugueſe Tongue: Together with ſome uſeful Dialogues and Colloquies, agreeable to common Converſation. With a Vocabulary of uſeful Words in Engliſh and Portugueſe; deſign'd for, and fitted to all Capacities, and more eſpecially ſuch whoſe Chance or Buſineſs may lead them into any part of the World, where that Language is us'd or eſteem'd. By A. F.

BOOKS Printed for, and Sold by John and Benj. Sprint, at the Bell in Little-Britain.

THE Hiſtory of the Old and New Teſtament, with 240 Sculptures and five Maps. Price 3 l. 10 s. in Folio.

Index Villarius; or, An exact Regiſter of all the Cities, Market-Towns, Pariſhes, Villages, the Hundreds, Lathes, Rapes, or other Diviſions of each County; the Biſhopricks, Deanries, Churches, Chapels, Hoſpitals; with the Rectories and Vicarages in England and Wales, and their reſpective Valuations in the King's Books; the Seats of the Nobility and Gentry; the Number of Parliament-Men, &c. In Folio. Price 14 s.

The Hiſtory of the Old and New Teſtament, with 235 Cuts, and three Maps; in Quarto. Price 14 s.

Cam-

Cambridge Dictionary. Quarto. Price 15 s.

Mirror of Architecture; or, the Ground Rules of the Art of Building. By Vincent Schamozzi, Master-Builder at Venice; with the Description of a Joint-Rule, fitted with Lines for the ready finding out the Longitudes and Angles of Rafters and Hips, and Collar-Beams, &c. with 55 Cuts. To which is added, a Compendium of the Art of Building, Nature, and Rates; an Account of all the Names, Nature, and Rates of all the Materials belonging to an Edifice. By W. Leyburn.

All the Works of the Comical Scarron; containing his Romantick Novels, Letters, &c. Translated from the French, with Cuts; in Octavo. Price 6 s.

The Tradesman's Calling: Being a Discourse concerning the Nature, Necessity, Choice, &c. of a Calling in general; and Directions for the right managing of the Tradesman's Calling in particular. By Richard Steel. Octavo.

Chirurgick Memoirs: Being an Account of many extraordinary Cures, which occur'd in the Series of the Author's Practice; especially at Sea, when employ'd in the Government-Service; among which are some things of the greatest Importance, not before discover'd; very useful to be known in the Art of Surgery. By John Moyle, Senior.

The diverting Works of the Countess d'Anois, Author of the Lady's Travels into Spain: Containing, 1. Memoirs of her own Life. 2. All her Spanish Novels and Histories. 3. Her Letters. 4. Tales of the Fairies. In Three Parts compleat. Done out of French.